Stinson Pleads Guilty To Second Degree Murder

Juanita Irene Stinson, who killed her ex-husband, dismembered the body into six pieces, stuffed it into dark green plastic bags, and buried the bags near her home in May 1987, pleaded guilty to second degree murder.

Stinson, 57, Mountain Lake Park, reportedly shot her husband, Charles William Stinson three times with his rifle, then tied his 180-pound body to a pickup truck and dragged it behind a shed near the residence they shared in Oakland.

The trial, moved to Washington County Circuit Court due to pre-trial publicity, came to a conclusion Monday before Judge Fred C. Wright III.

Wright accepted the guilty plea along with a plea agreement that stipulates a 10-year sentencing limit on the charge, which carries a maximum sentence of 30 years.

Judge Wright then postponed sentencing, ordering a presentence investigation. He also continued her $210,000 bond, allowing her to remain free pending sentencing.

Following the trial, Stinson's lawyers told members of the press that Stinson had been battered by her husband for 35 years.

During the trial the state revealed evidence that the Stinsons were divorced in the late 1950s in New Mexico. They re-

Eighth, Ninth Rabies Cases Noted In County

The Garrett County Environmental Health Department announced this week the confirmation of two more rabies cases in the county, bring the total so far this year up to nine. Last year's total count amounted to seven.

According to Tina Buckel, Garrett County sanitarian, both cases involved raccoons, one at the Matthew Durst residence on Bear Hill Road, near Jennings, and the other at the Carla Buckel residence on Rt. 495, near Shade Hollow Road.

Both instances involved contact by the infected animals with unvaccinated pets. Two cats from the Buckel residence have not yet been located and traps have been set for their capture.

The unvaccinated dog at the Durst residence was destroyed.

Note: It was announced by the Garrett County Health Department this morning that the 10th case of rabies so far this year has been confirmed for the county. Linda Kasmire reported that her dog killed a raccoon along Lee Road, off State Rt. 135 near Bloomington, and dragged the carcass into her yard. It was determined that the raccoon had rabies. Kasmire's dog had been vaccinated against the disease.

Buckel stressed that if animals are shot by property owners, it should be done in the body of the animal and not in the head, since the brain is the part of the body where the rabies test is performed.

A rabies clinic is scheduled for May 7-12 at the Gorman Fire Hall, Friendsville Elementary School, Broad Ford Elementary School, Accident Elementary, Grantsville Elementary and the Bloomington Fire Hall. An exact schedule of times will be published when it becomes available.

Once again, health officials strongly urge the vaccination of all domestic animals.

Shallmar Residents Angered By State's Dismantling Of Water System

A controversy has arisen over the manner in which Shallmar's water system was abandoned by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission last week, having not only angered Shallmar's residents and prompted charges against the action, but also having generated a dispute between county government officials and the Sanitary Commission.

Early last week, orders were carried out by the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) and the Garrett County Sanitary Commission to dismantle an old water system, in use by the town of Shallmar for 70 years, because of the water's reported health hazard to residents there. The system's source of water was from Short Run Stream and was not treated.

According to Wendell Beitzel, Garrett County Sanitary District Administrator, the old water system had been condemned by MDE and the county was ordered a few years ago to extend the water supply from Kitzmiller to Shallmar. But, said Beitzel, even after the new system was in place, many residents remained connected to the old system.

The Sanitary Commission was then directed by MDE in late February to permanently abandon the old Shallmar water supply. Beitzel reported that the Sanitary Commission had previously resisted complying with the state's orders until assurances were made that no legal problems existed in the dismantling of the old system.

Betizel explained that residents claimed the Shallmar Water Corporation, established in 1925, gave them rights to the old water supply. However, he added, it was indicated by the state that the corporation was no longer a legal entity, that legal questions had been resolved and the county had the go-ahead to start the dismantling process.

A spokesperson for the Shallmar residents, Ronald Rowan, however, indicated that deeded rights to the water supply are still valid, stating, "The water supply belonged to the people, not the state, and they did not have the proper legal papers to destroy the system."

WEEK OF THE YOUNG CHILD APRIL 1-7, 1990

He also stated that Short Run Stream, which feeds the old system, has trout living there and so could not be contaminated.

Rowan continued that the residents felt it was acceptable to abandon the system but it was administered "surrep-

Garrett County Brothers Injured In Accident

Two Garrett County men were injured in a one-vehicle accident that occurred last Friday near Rowlesburg, W.Va.

The brothers, Russell Welch, 51, and Carl Welch, 43, were in a log truck headed east on U.S. Route 50 when the accident took place Friday afternoon, around 3 p.m.

Russell Welch, the truck's passenger, was flown to Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh, by HealthNet helicopter, where he was originally listed in critical condition. His condition has improved and he is currently listed in serious condition in the trauma unit of the hospital.

Carl Welch, the driver of the vehicle, was transported to Ruby Memorial Hospital by ambulance, in stable condition at the time. He was discharged Tuesday.

The truck sustained an estimated $2,500 in damages.

The accident is being investigated by the Preston County Sheriff's Department.

School Board, Teachers May Reach Impasse

Contract negotiations between the Garrett County Board of Education and the Garrett County Teachers' Association (GCTA) apparently met with several large stumbling blocks last week.

At that time the GCTA applied to the state superintendent for an impasse. If both sides cannot reach an agreement and an impasse occurs, the state superintendent will step in, giving both sides guildelines for arbitration and possibly bringing in a third party to help resolve differences.

The school board has responded to the state superintendent by offering one last counter proposal to break the deadlock. The offer has been made verbally at this point, and the school board is currently following it up with a written proposal.

According to John T. Morris, assistant superintendent of administration, if the teachers' union fails to accept this latest offer, the two parties will officially be at impasse.

Salary is reportedly the key area of disagreement between the two parties. When the union applied for an impasse last week, it stood by its request for a 12 percent salary increase, as opposed to the school board's offer of a five and one-half percent increase.

According to Morris, "Our counter offer is narrowing that gap somewhat."

Edwards Park, Ag Land Bills Pass; County's POS Funds Could Double

As a result of the formidable efforts of District I-A Delegate George C. Edwards, among others, the General Assembly has passed legislation regarding Program Open Space and Agricultural Land Preservation which will ultimately result in a dramatic increase in available funds for public land acquisition, as well as allow more funds for the development of open space land.

According to Delegate Edwards, the amount of money available to Garrett County would double over the next six years if the transfer tax revenues increase at a rate of five percent per year. The current amount is set at $89,000. An additional $159,000 would be added to that amount at the end of the five-year phase-out.

An interim study and review of three bills (House Bills 1280, 1296 and 1302) was conducted by Delegate Edwards and Senator Bernie Fowler, (D-Calvert) co-chairmen of the Joint Subcommittee on Program Open Space and Agricultural Land Preservation, who also worked with Governor William Donald Schaefer to revamp the existing program. The subcommittee, said Edwards, put "a lot of hard work and effort into restructuring the program."

Two of the most important changes that will occur are the lifting of a cap on the percentage of transfer taxes going into POS and the addition of more funds (25 percent more) for capital improvements.

The cap will be phased out over a five-year period, beginning in fiscal year 1992.

In 1984, the General Assembly, in order to balance the budget, allotted only part of the transfer tax money to be included in POS funds. Reportedly, last year, only $39 million was spent state-wide for the purchase of open space and parkland, with $43 million of the tax money going back into the general fund. With the passage of the bills, it is estimated that approximately $100 million will be spent on Maryland parklands by 1997.

The measure won support through the efforts of those who argued that rapid development is taking place throughout many areas of the state and not enough land is being set aside as forest and parkland.

Mailing Of Census Forms Still Underway

All persons who have not yet received a 1990 census form should wait until April 16 before making an inquiry, according to Tom Jones, executive director of the Garrett County Development Corporation.

After learning that a number of local residents did not receive a census form in the Census Bureau's mass mailing in March, Jones said he contacted the Hagerstown office of the Bureau and was informed that various re-checking of names and addresses is underway and that the mailing of the forms will continue until the middle of April.

"Those who have not yet received a census form should just sit tight until April 16," Jones said. "If by then they do not receive a form, they should call the toll-free number of the Census Bureau (800-999-1990).

According to John Nelson, director of planning and zoning for Garrett County, only about 25 percent of Garrett County's residents have responded to the census. However, it was noted that a significant portion of the 75 percent who have not responded have not yet received a form.

Nelson emphasized the importance of filling out and returning the census form since the allocation of various federal funds and grants is based upon population. He said that for every person missed in the count, there could be a loss of as much as $1,500 to the county.

Wetlands Regs "Ambiguous" Say Commissioners

The Garrett County Commissioners attended a Western Maryland Association of Counties seminar Friday in Frederick that focused on nontidal wetlands and how the program relates to the individual counties and property owners.

Commissioner Elwood L. Groves II explained that legislation was passed during last year's General Assembly that created a state program in addition to the already established federal program (administered through the Army Corps of Engineers). Groves noted that while there were some problems before with the federal administration of the program, such as the length of time it took to obtain a permit, now, he said, "Maryland, in its usual fashion, is developing a program that is significantly greater in scope that the original federal pro-

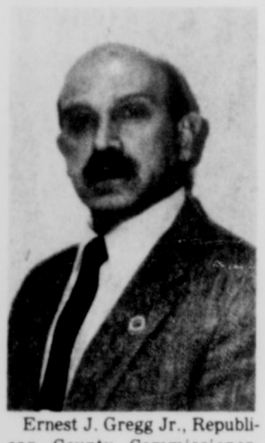
POLITICIANS TURN TO PROFESSIONAL WRESTLING? It would seem so, as three local elected officials will be among the participants in a Jello wrestling tournament at Northern High School on Wednesday, April 11, at 7:30 p.m. Above left, Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey, a Northern alumnus, is challenged by another Husky, Lynn Brenneman, while at right, Oakland Mayor Asa McCain prepares to do battle with Friendsville Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle, also an NHS grad. Brenneman, Northern's wrestling coach, is a 200-1 favorite to pin Braskey in the gooey gelatin, while McCain, a former Southern High School wrestling coach (bet you didn't know that, did you, Spencer) is picked to win the mayoral bout. There will also be about 10 other matches between teams of students and Northern faculty, both male and female. Sponsored by the Junior Class of Northern, the event is being staged through R.T.A., Inc., which provides a professional master of ceremonies and referee. Proceeds will be used to fund the annual prom. Tickets purchased are $4 for adults and $3 for students, while all tickets at the door will be $5. Tickets may be purchased at Old Mill Grill, Friendsville; Accident IGA Market; Marvin's Men's Wear, Oakland; at the Northern High School office; or by mail at NHS Jello Wrestling, Rt. 2, Box 4, Accident.

CRELLIN STUDENTS PREPARE TO TAKE TO THE HIGH SEAS — Shown above are students, teachers and parents from the Crellin Elementary School fifth-grade class, along with their principal Asa McCain, as they prepare to board the Lady Maryland in Baltimore's Inner Harbor last week. This was the first trip of the fifth season for Lady Maryland, built just for Maryland's school students. It is a replica of an 1800's pungy (the only one in the world). Cameramen and reporters from The Baltimore Sun, Maryland Public TV and the Associated Press were on hand to capture the moment as the students boarded the vessel and raised their own hand-made flag. The students, according to Becky Sanders, worked tirelessly to prepare for and fund the trip. Although Baltimore was experiencing a very wet and cold day, the students enjoyed a fun learning experience they will not soon forget. A feature story will appear next week.

Gregg Files For Re-Election As Commissioner



Ernest J. Gregg Jr., Republican County Commissioner, from District 3 has announced his filing for re-election to the office of Garrett County Commissioner.

Gregg stated, "When making the decision to seek re-election, it was personally important for me to determine if I have fairly represented the citizens of Garrett County in the execution of the duties of County Commissioner. I believe I have made myself available for the general benefit of the public and have tried to provide solid representation for the citizens of our county. I know that the Office of County Commissioner is one of great responsibility, since it impacts upon the lives of everyone in the county. Therefore, when I made the decision to seek re-election I renewed my personal commitment to continue to represent fairly and equitably, all the fine people of Garrett County."

Gregg added, "There have been many positive changes and improvements, not only in county government, but in the everyday lives of the people of Garrett County. Economically, the County is experiencing some of the lowest unemployment figures in over a decade. The county now has a good year-round base employment, supplemented by a controlled but expanding tourist industry which continues to provide year-round and seasonal employment.

"The financial position of the county is healthy, he said, "in that we have been able to meet major funding challenges without long term county debt. I have tried to insure a more efficient level of service to the taxpayer and, at the same time, lower their tax burden. Since taking office, Garrett County has had the largest decrease in property tax of any jurisdiction in the State of Maryland. I am proud of that accomplishment.

"For the future, I see the need to continue to strive for sustained economic growth. We must continue careful financial planning to be ready to meet the needs of our people without burdening them financially. The Garrett County tax rate has not increased in over ten years. It is my intent to maintain that record. Gregg concluded, "if re-elected, I will draw upon my experience and my commitment to the betterment of the citizens of Garrett County in carrying out the duties of this office. I have learned over the past few years in county government that it is no longer a small business. It has become a very technical, regulated, complex, and ever-changing big business. My experience, as well as the relationships I have bonded with other local, state, and federal officials, can make the difference for the betterment and respect that Garrett County so richly deserves."

Gregg owns and operates Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland and is a member of the following organizations: The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, The National Rifle Association, The Elks Club, and the Southern Garrett Athletic Association.

Gregg also serves on the following Boards or Councils: Yough. River Advisory Board, Chairman; Deep Creek Lake Advisory Board, Tri-County Council, Revolving Loan Fund, Chairman; Executive Committee, Western Maryland Health Planning Agency, Executive Committee; Garrett County Memorial Hospital Board of Governors, Executive Committee, Finance Committee, Long Range Planning Committee; Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce, Board of Directors; Garrett County Promotion Council, Board of Directors; World Championships, Inc., Board of Directors; and Western Maryland Consortium, Commissioner Representative.

L.A. Joe, Former Heck's Store, Opening Today

L.A. Joe Department Store, former Heck's department stores, are holding grand opening celebrations today, April 5, at 56 stores in seven states, including the Mid-Town Plaza location in Oakland.

According to John Isaac, president of the Nitro, W.Va.-based retail chain, the grand openings represent New York fashion giant Jordache Enterprise's retail entry into the seven states.

Isaac said L.A. Joe plans to capitalize on an extensive network of contemporary manufacturers in both the United States and overseas to introduce a new retailing concept to its stores.

"This is a completely new retail operation," said Isaac. "L.A. Joe is owned by an aggressive company that has earned respect in a highly competitive fashion industry. People who think that this will be another Heck's store with a different name are going to be pleasantly surprised and impressed with the tremendous values on famous brand labels."

Isaac noted that the focus of the new stores will be on fashion at low prices. Store floor plans have been re-laid and new fixtures have had to be set to reflect the new "fashion forward" theme, he said.

"L.A. Joe will utilize its buying staff in New York and Nitro to concentrate on locating brand name merchandise which can be sold at L.A. Joe's for discounted prices," said Isaac. "A variety of top quality and fashion labels will be offered in the new stores."

He said the new retail chain has been so aggressive in its search for quality merchandise at low prices that in the short period of four weeks, $25 million of off-price quality merchandise has been delivered to the 56 stores.

Company officials anticipate the aggressive approach to retailing will lead to additional acquistions and stores in the future.

Investigation Into Incident Proves Charges Unfounded

The investigation by Maryland State Police into an incident which occurred at the Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home has proved the charges to be unfounded.

Tfc. R.M. Hershberger, investigating officer, said the investigation into the alleged actions of Dawn Younkin, an employee of Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home, has proved that the case is unfounded.

She was accused of assault and battery against Massidrina Marie Squillain, a resident of the home, after an incident which allegedly occurred February 8.

No charges will be brought against Ms. Younkin.

Plans Finalized For Good Friday, Easter Services

Final plans have been made for two services that will mark the Easter Season for some of the Oakland area churches. On Good Friday, there will be a three-hour service to be held from noon to 3 p.m. at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland. A number of local clergymen will take part in the service, which will be based on the Seven Words from the Cross.

For those who wish to attend the service, but cannot stay for the full three hours, the service has been separated into segments having a definite beginning and ending time.

Time Change Announced For Sunrise Service

The new time for the Easter Sunrise Service at the Garrett Memorial Gardens, Oakland, will be at 6:30 a.m. This community service was originally planned for 6 a.m. and announcements have been made using that time. However, consideration for the darkness preceding the service time has been taken into account.

HERRINGTON MANOR SKI TRAIL WALK-THROUGH — Maryland Department of Natural Resource officials, along with members of the Herrington Manor State Park Advisory Board, conducted a walk-through of the ski and hiking trails to determine the trees to be harvested from that area. Members of the advisory board met Tuesday morning with DNR officials to voice their protest of that action and to obtain information regarding the state policy for cutting the trees. Group members requested the DNR give the 100-acre tract of land special consideration because of its aesthetic qualities. They reportedly feel it is not in the best interests of the park or of the local and visiting patrons of the park to perform any logging at that site. John Mash, DNR State Forest regional manager for Allegany and Garrett counties, reported to the group that the logging was being implemented for gypsy moth control reasons and that any tree exceeding 21 inches in diameter will be removed, as well as a thinning of other trees. This, he said, increases the stand's vigor, making it less susceptible to attack by the gypsy moth. According to advisory board member Bill Nemith, Oakland, the group is convinced that the logging of the trees is being done primarily for financial reasons. Group members "officially oppose," he said, but have been informed that the logging will take place regardless of the board's position. Members are currently circulating petitions to halt the state from going ahead with the logging plan and have scheduled another meeting, open to the public, to be held Tuesday, April 10, at 7 p.m. at the Herrington Manor State Park office. Pictured above, left to right, are John Mash; Mary Beth Pirolozzi (hidden), Bambacus' district administrator for the region; Bill Nemith, board member; Fran Pope, board member; Roger Riley, Herrington Manor State Park manager; and Ellen Zimmerman, concerned citizen. A more detailed story will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

Sheriff's Dept. Nabs Juvenile On Escape Charge

A Cumberland juvenile is currently incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail on an escape charge, and is being held in lieu of $5,000 bond, according to reports from the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

The 17-year-old male was arrested Friday on a warrant charging him with escaping from Meadow Mountain Youth Center on March 7. A separate warrant charged him with felony theft. The youth allegedly stole a 1985 Chevrolet pick-up truck during the incident.

Originally charged as a juvenile, he is now scheduled to be tried as an adult in Garrett County Circuit Court.

In an unrelated case, James Bernard Courtney, 49, Hagerstown, was arrested Friday on the strength of a bench warrant from Worcester County. He was charged with failure to appear in court on January 5 to answer charges of impersonation of a police officer. Courtney was also arrested on the strength of a bench warrant from Garrett County charging him with failure to appear in court on June 14, 1988 to answer theft charges.

He is being held at the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $1,500 bond. Courtney already paid an additional $1,000 bond to Garrett County, the bail amount set for his Garrett County charges.

Corporal L.E. Gnegy served the arrest warrants.

In a separate case, Kenny Ray Ahern, 19, Oakland, was arrested twice this past week, the first time on March 28, when Deputy C.P. Nolan served him a warrant charging him with making threatening telephone calls. Ahern was later released on his own recognizance.

Ahern was arrested again Tuesday. Deputy C.C. Feller served him a warrant charging him with harassment and disturbing the peace on the previous Friday morning in downtown Oakland. He was later released after posting $1,000 bond.

Kenneth Lee Stinson, 31, Oakland-Deer Park Road, was arrested last Thursday on the strength of a bench warrant charging him with failure to appear in the District Court of Maryland on March 20. Deputy R.L. Sines made the arrest. Stinson was later released after posting $1,000 bond.

Darrin Eugene Smith, 21, Deer Park, was arrested Friday and charged with driving while intoxicated. Deputy J.D. Murphy made the arrest along Route 39 at Rosedale. Smith was later released on his own recognizance.

Two Morgantown men were arrested March 27 on drug charges, after police stopped a vehicle in which they were traveling for alleged motor vehicle violations.

Kelly Jon Sorenson, 20, and Mark Alan Blake, 23, were both charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance and possession of drug paraphernalia. Deputy J.D. Murphy made the arrests along U.S. Route 219 North at Deep Creek Lake. Each was later released after posting a $250 bond.

Ronald Darvin Harrison, 28, Oakland, was arrested March 28 and charged with child abuse. Detective P.J. Kelly made the arrest. Harrison was later released on his own recognizance.

Tilden Myrl Wilt, 28, Friendsville, was arrested Friday on a warrant charging him with two counts of battery. Deputy Murphy made the arrest. Wilt was later released on his own recognizance.

David Brian Gates, 26, McHenry, was arrested March 30 on the strength of a bench warrant. He was charged with failure to appear in court in Montgomery County on October 26, 1989, to answer trespassing charges. Deputy Murphy made the arrest. Gates was later released on his own recognizance.

Timothy Norman Greene, 23, Friendsville, was arrested Friday and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol. Deputy Murphy made the arrest along Route 53, Friendsville. Greene was later released on his own recognizance.

John Wesley Michaels, 54, Accident, was arrested last Thursday and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol. Deputy Murphy made the arrest along Route 219 North. Michaels was not taken into police custody at the time of his arrest.

Local Woman Falls Victim To Unusual Theft

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department is investigating an apparent flim-flam operation that victimized an elderly woman in Mountain Lake Park.

According to police reports, the victim was on the porch of her Deer Park Avenue residence when a heavy-set female with straight long black hair approached her and asked for a glass of water. Before she could respond, the suspect pushed the victim aside and entered the kitchen. The victim followed her inside and gave her a glass of water.

The suspect then opened her change purse, saying she wanted to pay for the water, but spilled the contents of the purse on the floor. The victim stooped to assist in collecting the change.

After the suspect left the residence, the victim discovered that her bedroom dresser drawers had been ransacked and her purse had been disturbed. Cash had been removed from her purse. Another chest in the bedroom and box in a closet were also ransacked.

It is believed that a second intruder entered the residence undetected, while the victim assisted in picking up the spilled change.

The suspect was described as a heavy-set woman with long black hair, approximately 40 years of age. She spoke with an accent and is believed to be of Mexican descent.

The West Virginia State Police in Keyser, W.Va., are currently investigating crimes of a similar nature involving as many as two men and two women.

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department is urging all citizens to report similar incidents to their office at 334-1911.

Baltimore Man Gets One Year On Escape Charge

A Baltimore man was sentenced to one year in jail on an escape charge during a trial held last week in Garrett County Circuit Court.

Kenneth Ray Mabe II, 18, pled guilty to a charge of escaping from Meadow Mountain Youth Center on Feb. 4.

Chief Judge Thayer then sentenced him to three years in the Maryland Department of Corrections and suspended two years of the sentence. Thayer also placed Mabe on two years supervised probation under the following conditions: Mabe must attend an alcohol or addiction clinic, he must maintain regular employment, and he must reside with his grandfather during his term of probation.

Mabe was originally committed to the Department of Juvenile Services and placed in Meadow Mountain Youth Center following a November 7, 1989, court order finding him guilty of possession of a controlled dangerous substance.

Mabe was represented in court by John R. Toston.

Sheriff's Dept. Investigates Local Mishap

The Garrett County Sheriff's department investigated a mishap that occurred last Friday when a tire company delivery truck lost one of its wheels while traveling on Route 39.

A Metropolitan Tire Company truck was headed eastbound on Route 39 when its right front wheel and tire became detached from the vehicle.

The operator of the truck successfully stopped the truck on the shoulder of the road.

Ralph Pifer was in the house at the time of the accident.

No injuries were reported.

Census Shortfall . . .

We are not sure who's running the store at the Census Bureau, but it seems that there were some major gaps in the planning and groundwork for the 1990 census. With all of the pre-census publicity, we were under the impression that everything was in order when the mass mailing of census forms occurred in late March. However, we know that numerous local citizens did not receive, and have not yet received, their census forms. Most of them are taxpayers who own their own homes and have lived at the same address since well before the 1980 census. How were they missed?

What bothers us the most is that there has not been one word, either in the form of a news release or even a telephone call, to the media to admit that a significant number of residents did not receive a form. After some citizens voiced their concern to us, we had to make the calls to try to find out what was happening. We know that the Census Bureau has been aware of the problem because they have undoubtedly been swamped with calls from folks who have not received their forms. They would save themselves a lot of trouble if they would admit to the problem and inform the media.

We also recognize that taking a census is a monumental task and that there are bound to be problems. But it seems to us that their keeping quiet on this issue only complicates things further.

Upon contacting the Hagerstown office of the Bureau, we were told that the mailing of forms will continue until April 16 and persons who have not received their forms should wait until that date before they make inquiry. Again, census officials, why didn't you contact us with this information?

Finally, we strongly urge all persons to fill out their forms and return them as soon as possible. Each person who is missed in the census could represent the loss of $1,500 to the county in federal grants and various other types of tax revenue. We encourage those who do not receive a form by April 16 to please follow up with a telephone call to the Census Bureau. The number is (toll-free) 1-800-999-1990.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to the article on Linda Moon's situation. In fact, I have wanted to write this letter for some time and now Mrs. Moon's plight has moved me to do so.

While it can be said that some people abuse the welfare system, it is all too easy to tar everyone with the same brush. It is equally easy to say, "If they really want to work, they can get a job." What these people are saying is that if they personally can get a job, anybody should be able to get a job.

Those answers are the easy ones and they sure make us feel good when we dispense with a monumental problem in such a simplistic manner. The problem of poverty in this society is monumental and there is no simple answer. After having lived in Garrett County for ten months now and having experienced a crash course in the job market here, I feel qualified to make some observations.

The Garrett County economy reflects a wage conspiracy. One might say that the wage structure here can be justified by the convenience label, captalism. I call an economy based on minimum wage employment exploitation. It might also be said that it is a free market and I would say that this is a slave labor market. I justify the use of these terms because the wage structure here does not allow a worker the dignity of supporting a family without outside subsidy. Few employers here are willing to acknowledge that workers have rights or needs.

I have been in the shameful position of working a full 40 hour week in this county and still having to be on food stamps. When I say 40 hours, I mean 40 hours, no breaks, no health benefits, no sick leave and no paid vacation. Anybody working under such conditions is subsidizing the employer. Who owns the shame in this situation?

Having had that experience I now find myself in an equally challenging position. I teach a three-week course in Life Skills to welfare recipients. It is my job, in three weeks, to prepare my students for the job market in Garrett County.

Many of my students have a history of abuse in their backgrounds. All of them have had difficulties at school and enter a world for which they are ill-prepared. They suffer from the effects of low self-esteem, further intensified by the stigma attached to being on Welfare. This stigma is not only reserved for them, but it also affects their children.

At the beginning of each class, I always ask the same question of my students. "What do you want most in life?" The answer, without exception is always "To get off welfare and make a better life for my children." Yes, welfare recipients want the same things as the rest of us — a better future.

While my students must take responsibility for working towards a better future, doesn't society have the responsibility to provide them with the motivation?

Schools must realize that not all students learn in the same way. There is not a lack of ability here, so much as a lack of imagination and funding to accomodate the differing needs of our community. Professional counselling must be made available to victims of family abuse. And finally, there has to be a job market where the employer is willing to say "I can offer you a fair wage for a good days work," instead of "How low will you go?"

I have no immediate help to offer Linda Moon, because this is a problem which will not be solved by plugging holes in a structure built on a disintegrating foundation.

The system is not working; it must be rebuilt. I suggest we begin the next time one of us opens our mouths to offer judgment by considering. "There but for the grace of God, go I."

Sincerely,
Eileen Schlosnagle

To the Editor:

In the March 16, 1990 editorial of the Garrett County Weekender, the writer asked questions bringing the reader's attention to the continuing growth in the Deep Creek Lake watershed and its impact. These were the same questions that The League of Women Voters of Garrett County asked our present Garrett County Commissioners in May and July 1987, along with the request that they make some effort to slow things down until the questions were answered. At that same time the league asked the Commissioners to consider the 1974 Garrett County Development Plan for the rest of the county.

The Republican newspaper supported these positions with an editorial May 28, 1987. The Commissioners did not respond as a body when the presentation was made, but later responded to the league by letter that the Board did not believe there was a need to implement either suggestion and that they did not believe the people of Garrett County wanted them.

Many people contacted the league to support these positions which were the result of league study. This is an election year, and hopefully there will be many candidates for each elected position. It is suggested that each voter who has a position on these issues, or any other issue, ask the candidates to express their views. It is important that this also be done in group presentation so that the candidates can present their views to the citizens who will remember in the future.

Know the candidates and vote.

The health class at Northern Middle School needs everyone's help.

As a service project, we are trying to make the dream of a dying 7-year-old come true.

Craig Shergold is dying from a brain tumor. His wish is to break the world's record by receiving cards. He must receive 1,000,266 cards by April 14.

We are asking all The Republican readers to please send Craig a card and pass his address on to other family members, friends, churches, and other groups.

This is such a small task for us to accomplish for a precious little child.

Craig Shergold, c/o Children's Wish Foundation, 32 Perimeter Center, E. Atlanta, Georgia 30346.

Thank you for caring.

mained together, however, and raised five children.

Juanita Stinson was arrested April 21, 1989, almost two years after the murder took place.

Her arrest resulted from an undercover investigation conducted by a Maryland State Police trooper who posed as a former associate of Charles Stinson. He reportedly befriended Stinson and told her he could get the state's attorney's office to drop the case by blackmailing an investigator if he could be assured the body would not turn up later.

Stinson showed the officer where the remains were buried.

Water System

titiously," adding that the old lines were "destroyed, not abandoned," and that charges of destruction of personal property, breaking and entering and trespassing were being prepared by the residents against state officals responsible for the alleged actions.

Town residents, reportedly, had both systems connected to their residences, some using the old system for purposes other than drinking.

Rowan stated that the residents' water bills in Shallmar are "astronomical," noting that Shallmar has a 6000 gallon minimum per household per quarter billing period. "Shallmar is one of the poorest communities in the county. Kitzmiller has a 10,000 gallon minimum. This disparity is out of line," he said.

An argument exists between the town and the county sanitary district in accounting for some of the high water bills. While the Sanitary Commission contends a "cross-connection" exists in at least some of the residences (the two supplys flow back and forth between the other), Rowan states that the problem is with the way the meters are being read and the billing methods. He added that it would be unlikely for a cross-connection to occur because the two entrance pipes in the homes are valved — one has to be shut off before the other one can be turned on.

Rowan stated that he is "disgusted with the way the residents have been treated," and he intends to pursue the matter until it is resolved.

According to Beitzel, however, the state handled the situation "the right way," adding it is MDE's obligation to protect residents from contaminated water.

Another wrench in the matter concerns communications between the county commissioners and the sanitary district regarding the manner in which the operation took place.

Commissioner Elwood Groves II stated, "I feel there was a deliberate attempt to keep the commissioners in the dark on this matter. My problem is not so much with the MDE as it is with the way the issue was handled locally."

Groves continued, "It appears as though the Sanitary Commission was acting as an agent for the state, and the Sanitary Commission displayed last week "a reversal of their previously stated position" without first informing the board of commissioners about that reversal.

POS Funds

Reportedly, Governor Schaefer initially opposed the proposal but, according to state officals, Delegate Edwards and other bill supporters were effective in gaining the governor's support.

Edwards reported that he was very pleased with the efforts of all those who supported the bills, including the governor and the House Appropriations Committee Chairman Charles Ryan (D-Prince Georges), adding, "These measures will be very helpful to our counties, helping to build more parks, and to equip those parks with such features as playing fields, lights, fences and swimming pools."

The land preservation bills will now also allow for county planning agencies to submit a five-year — instead of the previous three-year — plan which, Edwards says, "will save money, time and effort." He explained that once counties reach their acquisition goals, that acreage amount would not change during the five-year period, thus helping with planning efforts.

Edwards stated that, if not for the open space program, Garrett County would not have been able to purchase land and build parks. Every town park except for Broadford, he said, has relied on those funds to be built, and even Broadford's additions were made possible by the program.

The package of bills, also addresses agricultural land preservation and, by changing the way agricultural property values are assessed, attempts to prevent the loss of more farmland to development. The bills also provide more funds to local farmland preservation programs.

The current system is reportedly failing because it doesn't offer enough money to farmers who agree not to sell their land to developers.

Another bill will provide counties with more flexibility and more money to locally fund their respective programs.

According to Edwards, a new formula will be used to calculate the difference between the fair market value of farmland and the agricultural land value, which is called an "easement." The new criteria and formula will be entered into a computer at the University of Maryland. This will, he said, hopefully bring the gap between those two values more in line with each other, thus making it more enticing for farmers to get into the program.

Friendsville Man Leads Sheriff's Deputy On Chase

A Friendsville man was arrested and charged with seven traffic violations after he reportedly led a Garrett County Sheriff's Deputy on a chase through Friendsville.

Keith Allen House, 23, was arrested Saturday after allegedly attempting to flee from Deputy J.D. Murphy shortly after 8 p.m. that evening.

Deputy Murphy reportedly pursued House down Main Street and River Road and apprehended him after he turned into a private drive off River Road.

House was charged with driving while under the influence of drugs/alcohol; driving an uninsured vehicle; driving an unregistered vehicle; attempting to elude a police officer; reckless driving; driving while suspended; and violating a license restriction.

House was later released from police custody after posting a $1,000 bond.

In a separate case, Joseph Albert Frasard, 41, Friendsville, was arrested shortly after 10 p.m. Sunday following another police chase through Friendsville.

Deputy Murphy pursued Frasard on Third Street, Park Street, north on Route 53, and finally on Cemetery Street before making the arrest.

According to police reports, the lights on Frasard's vehicle were turned off during the pursuit.

Frasard was charged with attempting to elude police in an official police vehicle; driving an uninsured vehicle; reckless driving; operating a vehicle with expired tags; and failing to stop at a stop sign.

He was later released on his own recognizance.

Wetlands Regs

gram was, so the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) has basically tried since July 1989 to set forth regulations that would preserve and protect wetlands of Maryland." He added, "That involves every activity you could conceive of, from farming to building on these areas."

Commissioner Ernest J. Gregg Jr., stated, "The program has some far-reaching potential on the entire state and a considerable effect in Garrett County as the regulations, at this point, are not very well defined."

He added, "The concept is not arguable. It is a well-intentioned program. However, sometimes well-intentioned programs are administered by over-zealous people who might implement constraints that were not intended by the legislation."

Groves added that after attending the seminar, he now has "greater concerns than before about the program." No one seems to be in a position to answer the questions about the details of the program's implementation.

Commissioner John G. Braskey stated that he had asked questions at the seminar in an attempt to gain a better understanding of the program's implementation. One of his questions concerned the need for the state to be more stringent in its regulations than the federal government.

He also noted that 92 sites have been identified in Garrett County as "special state concerns" which, he said, would be regulated differently — probably with even more rigid constraints.

Groves noted that the counties are in an "awkward situation," not being sure just what the impact on the rate of county development and private property will be. He also stated that a total of 21 pieces of legislation relating to the wetlands regulations have been introduced this year, noting that they fall into three major catagories.

The first catagory of bills, he said, are simply to fine-tune the regulations. The second is a broad attempt to clarify the rights of property owners and the third set is an attempt to halt implementations of the state program until the federal government reviews and evaluates its program.

Groves feels that the third catagory especially has merit and that a "wait a year and see what happens" attitude makes more sense, preventing Maryland from getting a "false start" on the program only to discover later that the federal regulations have changed.

One year ago, he said, 350,000 acres had been estimated in the state as possible wetlands. This year, the figure is 1.2 million. The acreage in Garrett County has been estimated at approximately 14,000 but Groves stated there's a "good chance" more acres will be identified as the state begins its implementation.

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (administrator of the state program) has published information concerning the wetlands regulations, including the goal of achieving "no net loss" of its nontidal wetland resources. This means, in essence, that any loss of nontidal wetlands after December 31 must be offset by mitigation — "the creation, restoration or enhancement of nontidal wetlands, that were or will be lost due to regulated or agricultural activities."

Commissioner Groves reported that land developers of wetlands areas would be required to create new wetlands anywhere from a 1:1 to a 1:3 ratio.

Because of the confusion surrounding the issue, the county commissioners have appointed a Garrett County Wetlands Advisory Committee which is scheduled to meet for the first time April 23 to review the legislation and to help develop policies. Members of the committee are as follows: Dave Thomas, chairman; Clark Kolb, farm community; James Torrington, county government; Shaun Sanders, soil conservation; and Rodney Glotfelty, private sector.

Western Maryland Science Exposition Slated For Friday At GCC Campus

The second annual Western Maryland Science Exposition will be held Friday, April 6, at Garrett Community College from 11:30 a.m.-9 p.m. This event is being sponsored by the Regional Education Service Agency, in cooperation with McDonald's and the First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland. The public is invited to view the projects in the gymnasium from 6:15-7 p.m. that evening.

Students eligible to enter the Regional Exposition are those whose science projects were judged as first, second and third place, or honorable mention at either the Allegany County Science Fair or the Garrett County Science Fair held recently. According to Mike Logsdon, GCC coordinator of the event, the number of entries expected in this year's exposition will be between 90-110, practically double the number of last year's projects.

During this time, three different workshops will be held for students participating in the exposition. The first of these will be presented by Dan Carter who will lead students through a biotechnology experiment dealing with the genetic material of an onion. He will demonstrate the process of electropheresis, showing how electrical current is used to separate segments of DNA by spooling extract from an onion. Carter has a master's degree from Frostburg State University and is an adjunct professor at Allegany Community College.

A second workshop by Mary Fuller will involve the students in model building and simulation experiments in space science. The third workshop will be conducted by Dr. Boyd Holton of West Virginia University who will assist students with construction of cardboard models of geometrical shapes called "Polyhedrons."

Following the workshops and the judging, a banquet for students and judges will be held in the cafeteria. At 7 p.m. participants and their families will attend a NASA program in the auditorium.

An awards presentation will follow at 8 p.m. when the winners will be named. The student designated as the grand prize winner will be sent, along with his/her teacher, to the 41st International Science and Engineering Fair in Tulsa, Okla., in May.

In addition to the exhibits of student projects, a number of corporations and agencies will also have displays in the gym.

The Mind Wanders

by Sherry Frantz

Last week The Republican published a feature article (penned by me) that focused on a 32-year-old divorced mother of four young children living in Oakland, and unable to pay a gas bill that had been accumulating for some time.

The response to her need was phenomenonal. Money was sent on her behalf to the gas company that virtually wiped out her debt. Needless to say, she and her children very much appreciated and were touched by the response.

However, as was anticipated, there were also a certain number of calls that indicated a negative response to the effort. This is understandable as there are other people out there who are also in need through no fault of their own.

First of all, let me point out that my intent was more in line with bringing about a heightened awareness of the problem in general by focusing on one individual than it was to wage a financial campaign in behalf of Linda Moon. Of course, readers were invited to respond with any help they felt they could provide for Linda and, in this ceaselessly giving, caring community, that is just what happened.

Now I am hoping that the spirit will extend to the problem as it exists in general — and that we can become aware of a community's responsiblity when government programs fall short.

There is another phenomenon that showed itself as an outcome of the article — one that I had to witness in others in order to recognize in myself. That phenomenon was one that I can only define as "conditional giving." When I became privy to some negative feedback involving this effort because of real or rumored shortcomings in Linda's character, I realized that I, too, was guilty of this trait. After all, I had written the article. I didn't want to think that I had "signatured" an effort for a woman who did not live up to my high expectations. As it turned out, I still believe that Linda is a sincere individual who just happens to be in an unfortunate situation. I believe she has tried to rise above that situation. I also concede that she has probably made some bad decisions, some desperate moves.

People whose lives are sometimes bad, are apt to make some bad decisions. People who find themselves in desperate situations are sometimes guilty of desperate actions — actions that are not always well thought out, actions that sometimes carry consequences that don't always speak to the immediate need.

While it is quite understandable that if we find someone's actions disgusting, we would be hard pressed to contribute to the person's financial well-being, much less conjure up sympathy. But it seems that a finer line has been drawn. I can't explain it — allow me to attempt an illustration instead.

A person, in whatever manner, has, thoughout his life, accumulated a certain amount of knowledge or wisdom or wealth or property. This, somehow, has set him apart from the person who has not accumulated or accumulated less of any or all these things.

For a time, there may be some overlapping — the person with $3 still associates with the person with only $1, but when the $3 person reaches, say, $8, he cuts himself off from the $1 person because, 1)he doesn't want to be reminded of what it felt like to have only $1, 2)he doesn't want the guilt or the responsiblity of living among those whom he has moved past, and 3)he has, after all, risen to the $8 level and so assumes that the $1 person should be able to do the same.

The trouble starts, of course, when we begin by judging those who have not achieved the same level of comfort, wealth, knowledge — or whatever. And if that weren't menacing enough, that judgment always seems to lead to guidelines for behavior set by the class above.

Unfortunately, we sometimes set conditions in a selfish, unhealthy, unproductive manner. Often, those conditions are merely that the recipient display at least some semblance of what the more fortunate has come to learn as normal behavior. The recipient must act in accordance with the giver's expectations. (Even if you only have $1, and that's all you've ever had, you must act as though you have at least, say, $5.)

At other times the giver may even demand that the recipient's life be an exemplary one, free of any evidence of poor judgment, free of any acts of desperations, free of...mistakes. In this way, the giver demands that the recipient behave in an even more perfect manner than the giver!

He seems to want the recipient to act as a cute puppy or an innocent, sweet, homeless child. And if he does, then he should, of course, send his donations to cute puppy or sweet, innocent child funds only.

In this particular case, four innocent children were spared the tragedy of living in an unheated home. Thank heavens there are those who want to pass along a little good fortune and a message of faith and hope.

Thank heavens there are those who, for humanity's sake alone, give of themselves unconditionally and who know that the act has made every human life a better one.

Her great grandparents, William and Christine Hayes moved into the house in 1847. The house is made of logs and has two rooms downstairs and three small bedrooms upstairs. Nancy's grandmother was five years old when her parents moved. Her grandfather was from a family of 16 children and was a minister and her father was from a family of nine children. The house has since been covered with siding and an addition put on the back of the house. Members sang "West Virginia Hills" at the close of the lesson.

Business was conducted by Beatrice Kelly, vice president, and minutes were read and approved.

Birthday cards will be purchased to send to Hopemont patients for their birthdays.

It was noted that May 6-12 is National Homemaker's Week. The theme is "Golden Jubilee." Nancy Sisler will make a poster to be put in the library window. It was discussed that the health fair will be held by Preston Memorial Hospital at the community building from 7 a.m. until noon on May 12.

The group voted to pay five dollars on rent for the community building use. Members will also help with the cancer drive in Terra Alta in April. Members will canvas the town and would appreciate all the help available for the Cancer Society.

Demonstration Day will be March 29 at the community building mill room. The arts and crafts contest will be held the same day.

Anyone interested in becoming a member should contact the Homemakers Club.

The hostess served refreshments in keeping with the St. Patrick's Day theme. One visitor was present, Bessie Goff.

Municipality Update

Oakland

The Oakland Mayor and Town Council met Monday evening for the swearing-in of new council members and the return of Asa McCain as Mayor.

Asa McCain was re-elected for a two-year term as Mayor at the Oakland Municipal Election held in March. Margaret "Peggy" Jamison, Mary Lou Stemple and Dr. Andrew Mance were elected to seats on the town council.

President of the town council was then chosen and persons were appointed to head different committees in the town.

Mary Lou Stemple was chosen as president of the council. Peggy Jamison was chosen as head of the water department; Jay Moyer, head of the roads department; Art Naylor, head of the sewer department; Clint Englander, head of the parks and recreation department; Andrew Mance, head of building and grounds; and Asa McCain, head of the police department.

Any citizen having questions or problems in any of the above areas should contact the council member in charge of that department

Nancy Railey and Fred Stemple attended the meeting to request permission to have part of the bicycle route for the Best of the West triathlon to go through Oakland. No decision was made.

A meeting was held Wednesday evening for discussion on obtaining financing for the Oakland Sewer Project. Any person unable to attend the meeting and needing help in paying for the capital costs of the sewer project should contact the Oakland City Hall or Community Action.

"The next meeting of the Mayor and Town Council is scheduled for May 7. The meeting is always scheduled for the first Monday of the month, unless that day is a holiday. I would like to stress that people are always welcome to attend the meetings of the Mayor and Town Council," Mayor McCain said.

Accident

The Mayor and Town Council of Accident met Monday evening for the swearing-in of re-elected councilmen and the appointments of committee heads.

Richard Carlson and Fred Kahl were sworn in as re-elected council members. They were elected to office at the municipal election held in March.

Richard Carlson was elected president of the council; Hobert Bowser was chosen as head of the streets committee; Fred Kahl as water and sewage committee; and Thomas Georg as parks and recreation committee.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

The Garrett County Commissioners attended the meeting as part of their annual visit to Garrett County towns.

Marjorie Fratz, town clerk, explained that it is part of the by-laws of the town that the commissioners attend one meeting each year to discuss the tax referendum. The Mayor and Town Council feel that they continue to have an excellent working relationship with the commissioners.

Because of the numerous services provided by the commissioners and the mutual arrangement which serves the best interests of the town, the mayor and town council feel that there is no basis for requesting a tax differential for the coming year.

The mayor and town council thanked the county for upgrading the road into the Drane House and the parking lot at the Drane House. "They did a superb job," said Mrs. Fratz.

The mayor and town council also thanked the commissioners for enlarging the library parking lot by assisting with paving the lot and for helping to haul fill dirt for the little league playing at the Accident Park East. The council also discussed the future expansion of the Ruth Enlow Library, Accident branch, with the commissioners.

SEWAGE TREATMENT

Accident was notified last month that it will receive a $725,000 grant from the State Department of the Environment to upgrade the sewage treatment plant.

The upgrading of the plant will include conversion to ultraviolet disinfection.

The town is now looking for additional funds to correct infiltration in the sewage collection lines.

DRANE HOUSE

The council heard a report that town representatives met with the consultant, Douglass Reed of Hagerstown, to review his report on the construction history of the Drane House and preliminary plans and specifications for restoration work of the building on Monday.

TAX RATE

The Mayor and Town Council have set the tax rate for fiscal year 1991. The rate will be the same at the constant yield of 53 cents per $100 assessed value. The town will grant a tax credit of 50 percent for personal property inventory.

CHARTER CABLE

Representatives from the Confluence and Huntington offices of Charter Cable Television will be at the Accident Town Hall on Friday, April 6, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Saturday, April 7, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Cable television subscribers in the Accident area who are experiencing problems with service, billing or marketing may use this opportunity to individually discuss their concerns.

SPRING CLEAN—UP

A Spring Clean-Up day has been scheduled for Friday, May 4.

Residents are being asked to gather debris and trash and place it along the street for pick-up no later than 2 p.m. on that day.

Usual household garbage will not be collected on this day.

RENOVATIONS

Renovations to the Accident Town Hall are underway. The town hall room is being enlarged to accomodate the Accident Concert Band.

When the renovations are completed, the town hall will occupy half of the municipal building.

The next meeting of the Mayor and Town Council is scheduled for Monday, May 7.

THE MOUNTAINAIRE BARBERSHOP CHORUS, based in Fairmont, W.Va., and with a membership that includes several Garrett County residents, will present its annual Chapter Show at West Fairmont Senior High School on Saturday, April 14, at 8 p.m. The theme of the program will be "College Days" and the guest performers will be "Yesteryear," a comedy quartet from Elyzia, Ohio. Among its members are Garrett County residents Carl Fike and Dave Callis, pictured third and second from the right, front row, and Jeff Fike, pictured far right, back row. Not present for the photo was Fred Learey, also of Garrett County. For ticket information, persons may call 334-3229.

Green Named CAC Employee Of The Week

The Garrett Transportation Program of Community Action has named Linda Green as Employee of the Week. Mrs. Green began her association with Community Action in 1976. Upon her arrival with the agency, she was positioned as Community Food and Nutrition coordinator. In 1979 she moved up in rank to Community Food and Nutrition assistant director. She was then advanced to Medical Transportation coordinator, and in 1984, she was promoted to her current status as Transportation director.

Mrs. Green maintains the necessary credentials for her position including Basic Supervisors Training, the successful completion of the Rural Specialized Transit Management Workshop, CPR Certification, Basic First Aid Certification, and Passenger Assistance Training. In addition, she is a member of the Transportation Association of Maryland.

Upon notification of her selection as Employee of the Week, Mrs. Green commented, "The transportation department has made an impact on the existing travel needs of our county's residents. Over the years we have expanded our program and incorporated more advanced measures for effective planning. As a result, we have experienced the typical growing pains that are associated with expansion, and we have been able to reach more clients, and provide safe transportation throughout our vicinity. It has been well worth the effort. I am certainly proud of the accomplishment, and I appreciate my staff, including those who have worked with me in the past, and those that are currently on board in the department."

Pam Nelson, operations director for the agency offered her endorsement of Mrs. Green's effort's by stating, "Linda has been largely responsible for the growth of the Community Action Transportation Programs. She has seen the program grow from a one vehicle service to its current status of a 19 vehicle operation. Linda believes, first and foremost, that we must deliver a quality service to our customers. She is dedicated to providing safe, courteous and efficient transportation in Garrett County."

Mrs. Green is a member of the Bethesda Church of the Brethren where she is active as youth leader. Under her direction, the youth group has participated in fund-raisers to benefit such charities as the Heart Fund, the Cancer Society, and Hospice. She also enjoys membership with the Women's Fellowship and is currently serving as secretary of the group. Linda is an avid reader and thrives on activities revolving around her family. Her civic affiliations include membership with the Maryland Jersey Cattle Club. Interest in this particular organization was sparked by the hours spent working with her husband on their family's farm. She resides in Grantsville with her husband, son and daughter.

Correction Noted

In a story in last week's issue of The Republican concerning music to be presented by the adult choir of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, it stated that "The Crucifixion" would be presented at 8 p.m. this Sunday (Palm Sunday), April 8. It should have stated that the program will get underway at 5 p.m. All are welcome to attend.

TO PRESENT PROGRAM — Ellen Grolman Schlegel, a cellist and a member of the Music Department of Frostburg State University, with Susan Allen will present the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival program on "Creative Women in Music and Literature" this Friday, April 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Friendsville Elementary School. The program is the fifth in the Arts and Humanities series "America — Cultural Roots and Off-Shoots" funded by the Maryland Humanities Council. AAA To Provide Legal Help To Senior Citizens

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging (AAA) has recently implemented a legal services program for local senior citizens. The program will consist of educational programs on legal issues such as wills, estates, income maintenance, Social Security/Medicare updates, etc. Additionally, a local attorney is available to provide direct service (advice/representation) when necessary, and AAA staff will provide assistance with administrative hearing at Social Service and Social Security departments, under the supervision of the attorney.

In its endeavor to put the program in place, the AAA has been surveying participants at senior citizen centers and nutrition sites to determine the legal needs of the senior citizen community. "Unfortunately, we are unable to reach only a small segment of the elderly population (10%) using this method. We are therefore requesting senior citizens contact our office with comments, suggestions, or to receive this very brief survey," stated an agency spokesman, asking seniors to contact one of the following locations: Oakland Office (AAA), 334-9431; Senior Information & Assistance Offices: Donna Knox, 895-3447 or 826-8824, for the northern section of the county; and Marie Skipper, 334-1330, for the southern section of the county.

Phi Delta Kappa Plans Forum On Drug Awareness

Addressing the drug crisis in America and developing an effective policy aimed at stopping the spread of drugs will be the subject of discussion at a National Issues Forum sponsored by the Tri-State Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa. Carol Bittner, principal of Wiley Ford Elementary School, will coordinate the forum, entitled "The Drug Crisis: Public Strategies for Breaking the Habit" to be held at Penn Alps in Grantsville this Saturday, April 7, beginning at 10 a.m.

Participants will examine and discuss four choices in dealing with the drug issue. They are: stepping up the international drug war — destroying crops at their source or before they get to the United States distribution network; cracking down on dealers — intensifying the identification, prosecution, and imprisonment of drug dealers; saying no — persuading users to stop and potential users not to start; and legalizing drugs — controlling their distribution and discouraging their use.

Ms. Bittner will also give an overview of the National Issues Forum (NIF) which is sponsored by the Kettering Foundation. NIF is a national, nonpartisan program of discussion established eight years ago to help citizens develop informed opinions on serious issues, based on information and understanding of the choices they face.

The forum will be followed by a silent auction and luncheon.

Governing Body, Health Planning Agency Convenes

The Governing Body of the Western Maryland Health Planning Agency met recently at the Washington County Hospital in Hagerstown. Lawrence Beck of Garrett Coduntv, chairman, presided.

Ms. Noelle Floreen (Carroll County), president of the Governing Board of the Western Maryland Health Planning Agency, spoke on her perspective of local health planning in Maryland. She said, speaking of the WMHPA, "I view it as the strongest, most cooperative organization in the state of Maryland, dedicated to insuring proper health care for a half million people." It has evolved from an organization representing the three westernmost Appalachian counties back in the early 1970's to the present, representing the five western counties, Garrett through Carroll. These counties have seven acute care hospitals, 31 nursing homes, five health departments, two state psychiatric facilities, one chronic care facility, three state facilities for the developmentally disabled, and innumerable health-related programs.

Ms. Floreen stated that health care for the 90's has never been more critical. "Not only are we faced with all the previous health care problems and issues, but we have a variety of different issues that have made our job more complex," she said.

Ms. Floreen said the Agency's goal is to continue to provide direction and input on decisions about how health care is distributed and functioning in the five-county region. As president, she said her goal is to represent the Agency to the public, increase awareness among the public and government agencies of the functions of the Western Maryland Health Planning Agency, and to provide the Agency with all the resources necessary to do the job.

Following various committee reports, Ms. Kathryn Cannan, executive director, discussed a report entitled "Report on Deinstitutionalization of Developmentally Disabled or Seriously Mentally Ill Adults, Part I of II. February, 1990." Staff was requested to perform this study by the County Commissioners of the five counties to help understand the issues surrounding deinstitutionalization. Ms. Cannan noted that Part II of this report which focuses on developmentally disabled adults, will be completed by the staff in May.

The next meeting of the Governing Body is scheduled for May 16, 1:30 p.m., at the Washington County Hospital in Hagerstown.

Garrett County Board members present were Lawrence Beck, Norma Bolding Carolyn Ganoe, and Virginia Rosenbaum.

GARRETT COUNSELING OFFERS EATING DISORDERS GROUP

Eating disorders disrupt millions of lives. They are progressive and potentially fatal causing major health problems which affect a person — physically, emotionally, and spiritually. Many who have a problem are of normal weight and may go undetected for years as they are very clever at concealing their abnormal eating patterns.

Contrary to popular belief, will power alone cannot control this unhealthy obsession with food. The first step is to seek help before it is entirely out of control and results in physical problems requiring hospitalization and long-term therapy.

An 8-session Eating Disorders Therapy Group will begin on April 20, 1990 at Garrett Counseling, Inc. If interested please call 334-2281.

GCC COMPUTER CLASS — Employees from Mettiki Coal Corporation are pictured as they learn more about computers at Garrett Community College. A new mini-class with a computer fair format will provide yet another opportunity for local businesses to focus on enhancing productivity by using computers.

Selecting Computer Software Focus Of New Mini-Class At Garrett CC

A unique mini-class with a computer fair format will be held at Garrett Community College on Thursday, April 26. Those considering selecting a new computer or software programs will have a special opportunity to explore a wide selection of computer software, according to a GCC spokesman. This will provide a chance for them to examine the many ways of using a computer to make their businesses more efficient and effective. Participants will be able to learn how a computer can improve productivity and profit, the spokesman said.

"How to Select a Computer and Software Programs for Your Small Business" will be held from 8:45 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. Three computer learning stations will be set up for most of the day. Two of stations will have IBM compatible computers and programs. The third will have a MacIntosh computer and programs.

Instructors will be demonstrating computer sytems and software programs in a computer fair environment. Programs will be projected onto screens so that they can be easily viewed and understood. Instructors will be able to answer questions about how these programs can be used, as well as about other software that might be useful for each unique situation, according to the spokesman. The final part of the day will consist of round-table discussions addressing the computer needs of specific industries. These discussions will be led by representatives who are computer mavericks in their fields. One session will focus on databases for accessing government contracts and other databases available through the Tri-County Council.

Computer programs will be demonstrated which perform the following functions: Improving Client Relations; Marketing and Advertising; Billing Procedures; Financial Statements and Accounting; Managing Employee Records; Payroll; Desk Top Publishing; Correspondence and Reports; and Tax Preparation. "We will also examine how computers are used in the following specific interest areas: Manufacturing; Contracting; Medical Practice; Real Estate; and Retailing," the spokesman said.

This program is being coordinated by Marthe McClive, who is an assistant professor in the MBA Program at Frostburg State University. She has had extensive training and teaching and consulting experience in the computer field. Other instructors will include the following from Frostburg State: Mark Malek, director of Institute for Small Business; Jeff Russell, computer lab coordinator; Connie Groer, assistant professor, Department of Accounting. Other instructors are: Dave Moe, Frank Ross, and Paul Browning, of TCI Computer Systems; and Mark Middleton and Paul Riley of the Tri-County Council. Round Table leaders will include: Kathy Johnson for the medical field, Carolyn Metheny for the manufacturing field, Ruth Heubner for the real estate field, and Norma Schrock for the retailing field.

This class is part of a series of classes planned to enable Garrett County manufacturers and constructors and small businesses the opportunity to utilize technology to enhance their productivity. Other classes in this series will address: computer applications, communications, and planning. These programs are being offered in conjunction with the Western Maryland Technology Transfer Program and are being funded by a grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission. Garrett Community College is one of five local colleges participating in this program.

Garrett Forestry Board Convenes At Mt. Nebo

The Garrett County Forestry Board met Tuesday at the Department of Natural Resources' Forest, Park and Wildlife Service office at Mt. Nebo. The Board members discussed the arrangements for the 1990 Forestry Conservation and Natural Resources Week, which is sponsored each year by the Maryland Association of Forestry Boards. This program is designed to provide high school students, grades 9-12, with some insights into the careers available in conservation related fields. Applications for the program have been given to the guidance counselors at Northern and Southern high schools. Students interested in attending should contact their guidance counselors.

The Forestry, Conservation and Natural Resources week costs the students nothing to attend. Funding for the program is solicited by the local forestry board from local businesses. Only two students from each county will be selected to attend the program. This year's program will be held at Camp Hickory, the Garrett County Outdoor Education Center, near Accident, August 12-18.

The school reforestation project, sponsored jointly by the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service and the Association of Forestry Boards, is already underway at some of the seven participating schools. Each of the schools participating in the project will hold a ceremonial planting on April 20, as a part of Governor William Donald Schaefer's "Give A Day To The Bay Program."

New Drug Enforcement Coordinating System Implemented Statewide

Governor William Donald Schaefer and Maryland State Police Superintendent Colonel Elmer H. Tippett have announced creation of a statewide computerized system of information on drug investigations to be used by state, local, and federal law enforcement agencies. The system, referred to as the Drug Enforcement Coordinating System (DECS), will greatly faciliate the exchange of drug enforcement information statewide.

"The Drug Enforcement Coordinating System will provide law enforcement agencies with instant access to critical information on drug suspects anywhere in the state," said Governor Schaefer.

Maryland State Police are coordinating the program with the United States Drug Enforcement Administration, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and local law enforcement authorities. The program is being funded with $50,000 in drug forfeiture money, assets being seized from drug dealers and drug traffickers.

"The drug forfeiture law enables us to take money from the illegal drug pipeline and return it to our communities to help fund the war on drugs," said Colonel Tippett.

The computerized system has been developed, in part, to address a need expressed by local police chiefs for better coordination among law enforcement agencies throughout Maryland and the Washington metropolitan area.

Additional funding to expand the system in the Washington metropolitan area was provided from the Washington Area Task Force formed under the auspices of the Director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy, William Bennett.

This expansion is viewed as crucial to tracking drug suspects who move daily between the jurisdictions in the rural, urban and metropolitan areas of Maryland, Washington, D.C., and Northern Virginia.

Governor Schaefer and the governors of several mid-Atlantic and southern states have signed an agreement which led to the full development of this concept. The agreement calls for creation of a criminal justice intelligence information sharing network to serve as a national model for regional cooperation and assistance among law enforcement agencies. The system is credited with linking more than 400 computer entries with various drug enforcement investigations in Maryland.

Lakers Split With Marietta Jayvees Before Embarrassing Baltimore

The Garrett Community College Lakers topped the .500 mark this past week after splitting a doubleheader with the Marietta College junior varsity on Friday in Ohio and then embarrassing the Community College of Baltimore on Sunday on Allegany Community College's field in Cumberland.

The Lakers dropped the opening game to Marietta, 8-6, and won the nightcap, 12-6, before ripping Baltimore on Sunday, 24-0, with a 21-hit effort that involved every player on the Laker bench.

The Lakers opened the scoring in the first game against Marietta when Eric Chapman singled home Mick Bayle in the top of the second.

But Marietta took the lead for good in the bottom of the second with a pair of runs and added two more in the third frame, as George Barber, Aaron Crabtree, and Jim Krzywicki each recorded run-producing hits.

Garrett made it 4-2 in the top of the fourth when Chapman drove home Mike Harbaugh with a two-out single, but Marietta responded with a run in the bottom of the inning when Nate Counts's RBI single scored Dave Leone.

The Pioneers added three runs in the sixth when Scott Lohr began to tire on the mound for the Lakers. After a lead-off single, Leone recorded his third walk of the game and Counts drove both runners home with a single. Dave Buchannon then singled home Counts to make it 8-3.

The Lakers rallied for three runs in the seventh, as Joe Zosky scored on a single by Tony Warner, Buddy Leichliter followed with a triple to score Warner, and Bayle rapped a sacrifice fly to plate Leichliter.

Lohr took the loss on the mound, as his record evened at 1-1.

Trailing 3-2 in the second contest, the Lakers scored four runs in the fourth inning and six in the fifth to pick up their tenth win of the campaign.

Dwayne Woodring led off the fourth frame with a single, Chapman and Chris Miller followed with hits to load the bases, and Warner smacked a two-run single. Later scoring in the inning were Lohr, a courtesy runner for Miller, and Bayles, who reached on an error.

The Pioneers scored on runs in the bottom of the fourth, but the Lakers answered with six runs in the sixth to put the game away. That inning featured singles by Miller, Steve Ujcic, Warner, and Leichliter, plus a two-run double by Bayle.

In the laugher against Baltimore on Sunday, the Lakers scored in every inning, leading off with a 2-0 start in the first frame one a two-run homer by Bayle.

Former Hampshire High and Garrett County Legion standout D.G. Largent led the Lakers' hitting, going four for five, driving home six runs and scoring five times. He smacked a solo homer and three singles.

Ujcic finished with two doubles, Bayle added a homer and a single, Woodring hit a double and a single, Scooter Browning, Zosky, and Leichliter each recorded two singles, Cajetan Stepanic added a home run, the first of his college career, and Warner contributed a two-run single.

Chapman, a freshman at Garrett, allowed only five hits, struck out 10, and yielded no walks in recording his third win in four starts.

The Lakers, who have recorded 49 hits in their last 18 innings of ball, have won eight of their last 11 games, improving from a 3-7 mark to 11-10. They are scheduled to host Essex CC this Saturday in their home opener.

Huskies Fall To 0-2 With 6-1 Loss To Wildcats

The Northern Huskies saw their record fall to 0-2 Monday afternoon when they dropped a 6-1 decision to Westmar in Lonaconing. The win was the second in as many starts for the Wildcats, who nipped Southern on Friday, 1-0 (see separate story).

Westmar never trailed in the contest, taking a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Pat Dick walked, stole second, came home on a single by Casey Shoemaker, and Buck Lough later singled to send Shoemaker home.

The Wildcats made it 5-0 in the fifth frame when Dick singled and stole two bases, Shoemaker walked, Lough singled home Dick and Shoemaker, and Fred Pritts followed with a triple to score Lough.

Westmar's final run came in the sixth when Sean Wiltison walked, stole second, and scored when the catcher's throw to second went into centerfield.

Northern avoided a shutout by scoring in the top of the sixth when Dennis Deigert tripled and came home on a single by Rich Schofield. Deigert paced the Huskies' hitting effort with a triple and a single.

Rich Goldsworthy gained the win on the mound over Northern starter, Jon Houser. Goldworthy struck out nine batters and walked just one before being relieved by Dick in the seventh.

Lough finished with a pair of singles for the Wildcats, while Shoemaker excelled at second base with eight put-outs.

Coach Phil Carr's Huskies are slated to host Berlin on Monday.

APRIL IS CHILD ABUSE PREVENTION MONTH

12 alternatives to lashing out at your kid.

The next time everyday pressures build up to the point where you feel like lashing out—STOP! And try any of these simple alternatives.

You'll feel better . . . and so will your child.

1. Take a deep breath. And another. Then remember you are the adult . . .
2. Close your eyes and imagine you're hearing what your child is about to hear.
3. Press your lips together and count to 10. Or better yet, to 20.
4. Put your child in a time-out chair. (Remember the rule: one time-out minute for each year of age.)
5. Put yourself in a time-out chair. Think about why you are angry: Is it your child, or is your child simply a convenient target for your anger?
6. Phone a friend.
7. If someone can watch the children, go outside and take a walk.
8. Take a hot bath or splash cold water on your face.
9. Hug a pillow.
10. Turn on some music. Maybe even sing along.
11. Pick up a pencil and write down as many helpful words as you can think of. Save the list.
12. Write for prevention information: National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse, Box 2866L, Chicago, IL 60690.

Stop using words that hurt. Start using words that help.

Rams Nipped In Pitching Duel With Westmar

After opening with an impressive win over Hampshire last week, the Southern High Rams were nipped, 1-0, in a pitching duel Friday afternoon by Westmar in Lonaconing.

Southern's Brett Rice battled against Westmar's Buck Lough on the mound, as both went the distance and Lough ultimately won the game for his team by connecting for a two-out RBI single in the sixth inning.

Lough held the Rams to just two singles, struck out nine, and walked no one, while Rice gave up five hits, fanned 11, and issued only one walk.

Lough's sixth inning hit, that went through the centerfielder's legs, scored Dave Nash all the way from first base. Nash had reached base on Rice's only walk.

Pat Dick had a double and a single, while Jeff Wilson finished with a pair of singles to account for the other four Wildcat hits.

Southern's John Stem Selected To Play In Annual Big 33 Classic

John Stem, a two-time All-Area offensive lineman from Southern High School who has received a full football scholarship to William and Mary College, received still another honor in being notified recently that he is one of 34 high school players in the state of Maryland selected to play in the 33rd Annual Big 33 Football Classic, slated for July 28 at Hershey Park Stadium.

The Big 33 contest features the best of Maryland's players against those from Pennsylvania. The honorary chairman this year is Tony Dorsett, who played in the 1973 Big 33 game before starring for the University of Pittsburgh and the Dallas Cowboys. Every NFL Super Bowl game has had a player who participated in a Big 33 game.

Stem, a 6-3, 260-pound guard who has been timed between 4.9 and 5.1 seconds in the 40-yard dash, is the only player from the area to be named to the team. He was recently signed by William and Mary as that university's top offensive line recruit.

Ironically, Stem had never played organized football before his sophomore year in high school. During his tenure as a starter on Tom Woods' teams, the Rams won 18 games and lost only four. He also plays basketball and baseball for the Rams.

He is also a solid student in the classroom, where he holds a 3.3 grade point average and scored well above the national average on his SAT exams.

Stem is the second Garrett County gridder to be selected for the Big 33 contest, as Scott Colaw was named to the team in 1985. Colaw went on to play for the University of Pennsylvania.

Stem's coach, Tom Woods, served as an assistant coach for the Maryland team in the 1985 game.

Other noted NFL players who participated in a Big 33 game were Joe Montana, Joe Namath, Dan Marino, Herb Adderly, John Cappeletti, and Matt Mullen, while in recent years, collegiate standouts Major Harris of West Virginia University, Blair Thomas of Penn State, and Notre Dame's Rocket Ismail were Big 33 players.

Tickets to the 1990 Big 33 game can be obtained by calling the Hershey Park ticket office at (717) 534-3911.

Maryland Trophy Deer Contest Slated At FSU

This year's Maryland Trophy Deer Contest, sponsored by the Department of Natural Resources and the Maryland Taxidermist Association, will be held June 3 at the Frostburg State University Lane Center, Frostburg.

Trophy does will be recognized this year for the second time in Maryland as well as trophy bucks. Trophy does are judged on dressed weight, with the two heaviest does in each county receiving awards. The three heaviest does in the state will also receive special recognition. Only does taken during the 1989-90 deer season will be eligible. All does entered in the contest must have weight certified at an officially recognized trophy DOE contest checking station.

Trophy bucks will be judged on antler size and shape using the Boone and Crockett scoring system. Only bucks with intact skull plates will be eligible. Bucks will be scored as typical or non-typical according to which classification gives them the highest relative score. The two highest scoring bucks in typical and non-typical classes in each county for each of the three seasons: bow, gun, and muzzleloader will receive awards. Also, special recognition will be received by the three highest scoring bucks in the state for each season.

Sika bucks will again be recognized, with the three highest scoring bucks in each season receiving awards.

Only bucks legally taken during the 1988-89 hunting season will be eligible for county competition. However, bucks taken in previous years can be entered in the Historic Category if they meet minimun scores.

Deer taken on crop damage permits, road-kill permits, or with cross bows are ineligible. The contest is open to all deer legally taken during Maryland's hunting seasons. All entries must have a legal possession tag or a photo of the tag attached. All bucks must be present at the contest on June 3 to be eligible for competition.

All deer must be measured and scored by an official MTA scorer prior to the actual contest date. No deer will be accepted "at the door" for scoring. All scores must be completed by the cut-off date: April 30, 1990. A $20 fee is charged for scoring and registration for the contest. All registrants will receive a participation certificate and a free pass to the Maryland Trophy Deer Contest Display at FSU Lane Center.

For more information, persons may contact: Allen Stanton, 689-1688; William Warnick, 895-5073; or Walter Johnson, 349-2413.

Northern Girls Open Campaign With 16-11 Loss

The Northern High School girls' softball team opened its 1990, 16-game season with a 16-11 loss to visiting Meyersdale last Thursday afternoon.

A combination of timely hitting by the Red Raiders and untimely fielding mistakes led to the defeat of Coach Bob Yunker's squad, which will attempt to rebound this Friday at home against Salisbury.

Meyersdale rapped 16 hits, including four doubles, against the Husky pitchers, with Beth White leading the winners with a four-for-five showing that included two doubles. The Raiders scored in every inning.

A single, a fielder's choice, and two Northern errors gave the visitors two unearned runs in the first inning. Two doubles, two singles, and two more Husky miscues made it 6-0 in the second frame.

After adding two more runs in the third and a single run in the fourth 9-0, the Huskies jumped back into the contest with six runs in the bottom of the fourth.

Michele Beeman and Tracy Teats led off with walks, Traci Beitzel reached on an error, Audra Speicher followed with an RBI single, and Becky Leight smacked a three-run tripie to draw the Huskies to within three runs, 9-6.

After another Meyersdale run in the fifth, the Huskies added one in the same frame on a single by Teats, a walk to Beitzel, and another RBI single by Speicher.

The Raiders responded with four runs in the top of the sixth without a single hit, as the Huskies committed four more errors.

Northern scored one run in the bottom of the sixth when Brandi Bender led off with a single and came home on Leight's second triple of the contest.

Singles by Lori Miller, Michele Grew, and Kelly Dunmeyer, coupled with another Northern error, resulted in two more Raider runs in the top of the seventh.

The Huskies rallied for three runs in the final frame, as Traci Beitzel opened with a triple, Roxie DeWitt walked, Diane Fike rapped a two-run triple, and Leight sent Fike home with a single.

Northern finished with a dozen hits, as Leight and Speicher each went three-for-four and recorded five and three RBI, respectively.

The win was costly for the Raiders, as starting pitcher Becky Stutzman, who struck out eight of the 10 Husky batters she faced, had to leave the game with an ankle injury.

Friday's game against Salisbury at the Husky diamond is slated to begin at 3 p.m.

SEASON OUTLOOK

The primary goal of Coach Yunker and the Huskies this year is to improve on their 6-8 finish last season; however, it will be a challenge for the Huskies to do so since ten of the 16 players on the squad are sophomores or freshmen, and half of the team is composed of first-year players.

"That really doesn't bother me, though," Yunker said. "They are all eager to learn and eager to play, and their enthusiasm will carry them a long way."

Senior Michele Beeman, a four-year starter, is the team captain and starting catcher. She returns with a .386 batting

Stewart's Moves Into Classic's Winners Bracket

Kenny Niner pumped in 21 points and Dennis Gibson contributed 18 as Stewart's Funeral Home defeated Morgan All-State of Morgantown, 86-77, to advance to the winners' bracket of The Silver Hoop Classic Oldtimers Division in Cumberland.

Stewart's, which shot 27 of 36 from the foul line, led the physical battle from start to finish, including a 46-36 lead at halftime, Morgan was able to cut the lead to three points at the end of the third quarter, but Stewart's came out running to start the fourth quarter and opened up a lead by as many as 14 points to put the game away.

Stewart's played Shorty's Tires of Petersburg, W.Va., last night (Wednesday) for the chance of moving into the championship round of the double elimination tourney.

STEWART'S FUNERAL HOME 86
Danny Bosley 2-0-4, Dennis Gibson 8 2 18, Kenny Niner 7 7 21, Steve Liller 5 2 12, Kevin Liller 3 7 14, Jerry Myers 2 4 8, Oren Yoder 2 5 9, Jerry Herpel 0-0-0. Total 29 27-36 86.

MORGAN ALL-STATE 77
Carter 12 4 29, Wilson 4 2 11, Colds 6 2 14, Bidovich 0 1 1, Jones 5 0 11, McGee 2 0 4, McDonald 3 0 6. Totals 32 9-15 77.

Three-point goals: Stewart's 1 (Kevin Liller); Morgan 3 (Carter, Wilson Jones).

Stewart's won the winners' bracket last night by defeating Shorty's Tires of Petersburg, 84-75. The local team will move into the championship round this Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Washington Middle School, Cumberland, against the winner of tonight's game between Vic's Blue Room of Johnstown, Pa., and Shorty's Tires. The tournament is double-elimination, so if Stewart's wins Friday night, they will claim the championship. If they lose, they will play the same opponent Saturday night to determine the champion.

average and 11 RBI last year, when she played in every game.

The only other senior is Diane Fike, who is expected to see a lot of time in leftfield.

The four juniors on the team include Laurie Stanton, the team's co-captain, who alternated with Cara Wachter at second base last year, but will start at shortstop this year.

Karen Wilhelm, who led the Huskies' hitting last year with a .465 average and finished with 16 RBI, has secured the starting spot at third base.

Tracy Teats has the fastest delivery of any pitcher on the team and also returns with a .368 batting average.

The fourth junior is Angie Friend, a first-year player, who will see some time on the mound and in the outfield. Yunker says she has a powerful swing and should be an offensive threat, as well.

Leading the large group of sophomores is Audra Speicher, who will continue to play at centerfield, but will also pitch this year. Yunker said that she is the "best control pitcher" on the team and her knack to get on base will again make her the lead-off hitter.

Cara Wachter returns to second base and Yunker believes she will be one of the top infielders in the area.

Becky Leight, who batted .340 last year with 10 RBI and opened strong against Meyersdale last week, returns to first base.

Rebecca Fratz will again assume a utility role, splitting time between the outfield and behind the plate. She batted .500 in limited action last season.

First-year sophomores include April Slagle, Stephanie Thomas, Brandi Bender, and Geni Uphold. Slagle is trying to break into the starting line-up at shortstop and has also become one of the Huskies' most consistant pitchers. Bender is vying for the third base spot, Thomas will see action in the outfield and probably on the mound, and Uphold, one of the fastest players on the team, will play in the outfield and pinch hit since she bats left-handed.

One of the two freshmen on the squad are Traci Beitzel, who has the strongest arm on the team, according to Yunker, and is a solid hitter. The other freshman is Roxie DeWitt, who is eyeing a spot at shortstop and as a pitcher.

"This will be a season of 'ifs' for us," Yunker said. "If our pitching comes through, our defense holds up, and our hitting is strong, we will have a good season. But whatever the season holds, we will do our best, have fun, and keep in mind that softball is only a game."

Yunker is assisted by Vonda Yunker and the team statistician is Vicki Yoder.

Bear Creek Station Provides Beautiful Setting For Rearing Of Rainbow And Brown Trout

by Sandra Cusack

Hemlock trees and rhododendron bushes provide a naturally beautiful setting for mink, raccoon, squirrels and other wildlife, as well as kingfishers, ospreys, blue herons and the occassional water snake.

Birds and wildlife are attracted to this area for one simple reason: it is an area abounding with trout.

The Bear Creek Rearing Station is located off Rt. 219, north of Accident, near Bear Creek. Situated on 12 acres of forested land, the station raises about 75,000 rainbow and brown trout every year to stock streams, rivers and ponds in Garrett and Allegany counties.

Three men, Paul Harman, Chester Otto and Ed Livengood, work at the station, feeding the fish, cleaning the ponds and stocking streams in the spring. Otto also lives at the station year-round, in a house provided by the Department of Natural Resources.

Otto has been with the department for 23 years, Harman for 33 years and Livengood, the youngest member of the team, for just two years.

Land for the Bear Creek Station was purchased in 1928. The area was cleaned and a dam was constructed across Bear Creek to divert water from the creek into the fish ponds.

Two small ponds were constructed and brook and rainbow trount fingerlings were transported to the new station. The trout did very well and plans were made for the construction of three ponds, 25 feet by 150 feet, and a large lake of one acre.

During 1929 and 1930, the ponds were constructed and a cottage was built for a caretaker.

During the 1930's, the federal government provided $12,000 for improvements to the hatchery through the Work Projects Administration. Five bass ponds were built, but the rearing of bass proved unsuccessful.

From 1940 to 1944, all of the ponds were improved with concrete walls and bottoms and electricity was installed in 1946, making caring for the fish much easier.

Hatching of fish eggs was done at the station from 1934 to 1944. Hatching was discontinued in 1944 and fingerlings are now transported to the station and reared in the ponds until they are a good size for stocking. Currently, fingerlings come from the Albert Powell State Trout Hatchery (or A.P. Hatchery) in Hagerstown. The A.P. Hatchery obtains eggs for hatching from a hatchery in the state of Washington.

Fingerlings are between two and four inches long when they are taken to Bear Creek. The fingerlings stay in the ponds for one year and are then stocked in the streams when they are 16 to 17 months old.

A creel census was taken years ago when the station was first set up and Otto explained that the station is now in the process of updating the census now. Based on the previous census, fish are stocked in streams, lakes and rivers based on size of the body of water and use of the water.

For example, the Savage River will be stocked with 10,000 fish, Bear Creek with 7,500, Accident Pond with 1,000 and Deep Creek Lake with 3,000. The Accident Pond and Deep Creek Lake are part of a new program. This is the first year for those two areas to be stocked with fish.

"It's a put and take program," Otto explained. "Up to 80 to 90 percent of the fish get caught."

One pond of larger trout is kept at the hatchery. The bigger trout are two to three years old and approximately 30 of these larger fish are mixed into each truckload of fish for stocking.

When stocking fish, the men count out 300 fish, weigh that amount for the approximate weight per 100 fish and then weigh the remainder rather than counting all the fish. Weighing the fish makes the process of stocking go faster and smoother, as it would take a while to count out 2,000 fish for a stream, or more.

Otto, Harman and Livengood work year-round, caring for the fish, stocking fish in the spring, and doing maintenance work at the station.

Water for the fish is directed into the ponds from Bear Creek. The water moves through each pond on a continous basis, providing a continous source for the fish.

There are some advantages and disadvantages to this procedure, according to Otto. The water temperature changes with each season, from 32 degrees in winter, up to 72 degrees in summer. One of the worst times for the station is in the summer, when the water gets warm, providing a breeding ground for disease. Also, warm water loses oxygen and an aerator has to be used to put oxygen back in the water.

Another bad time for the station is in the winter, when the men will work 24 hours a day, keeping the ponds clear of ice. The men won't keep the ponds completely clear, just the passages from pond to pond.

The fish are fed four to five times a day. As they get bigger, they are only fed twice a day. They are fed trout food in pellet form. The food is 50 percent protein when the fish are young, and only 34 to 36 percent protein as the fish become larger. The food is a combination of fish meal, soybeans, corn and other products.

The busiest time of the year for the station is the stocking season. Stocking of fish begins in the middle of March and continues until the beginning of June. A five-day a week schedule is followed and lists the number of fish to be stocked in each river, stream or pond in Garrett and Allegany counties.

Fish are counted out and loaded into aquarium-type tanks on the back of a truck. The tanks are equipped with aerators so the fish get plenty of air during the trip.

Once at the stream or river that will become the new home of the fish, the three men from the station often have help from fishermen, stocking the streams.

"The fishermen often seem to like stocking better than they like fishing. It's great to have their help, though, as once you've carried a few hundred fish, it's nice to have someone help you carry the rest," Otto said.

The Department of Natural Resources also offers a farm pond program. By filling out an

WEIGHING THE FISH — Rather than count all the fish that are being transferred, 300 fish are counted and then weighed. Once the approximate weight per 100 fish is known, the men just weigh out that amount of fish. This procedure saves a lot of time, as counting out between 1,000 to 10,000 fish would take quite a bit of time. Above, Ed Livengood, left, puts some fish in the bucket on the scale, while Chester Otto looks on. In the photo below, Paul Harman puts a fish into the aquarium-like tanks on the back of the truck which is used for transporting fish to the stream or lake to be stocked. Photos by Craig Phillips

Recognized For $1,000,000 Sales

Debra Friend

Goldie Shugars

At a recent Deep Creek Realty sales meeting, Robert W. Huebner, broker, recognized two Deep Creek Realty sales agents, Debra Friend and Goldie Shugars, for selling over $1,000,000 in real estate in 1989.

Mrs. Friend is a native of Garrett County and has been affiliated with Deep Creek Realty since July 1988. Huebner said she has consistently been productive in listing and selling property. She has completed Course I of the Graduate Realtor's Institute and plans to receive the G.R.I. designation in 1990.

Mrs. Friend has been an active member of the Strategic Planning Committee, the Program Committee, and the Community Service Committee of the Garrett County Board of Realtors. She is also a partner in Mountain Top Associates, a land development company.

She and her husband, Steve, reside along Sand Flat Road and are the parents of three daughters: Emily, Larah, and Audrey.

Mrs. Shugars has been a sales agent with Deep Creek Realty since September of 1985, joining the staff shortly after becoming a year-round resident of Garrett County. She has been a million dollar salesperson for the past three years and has been consistently active in the local real estate community since she began her involvement with Deep Creek Realty and the local Board of Realtors. She is the current president of the Garrett County Board of Realtors, and serves on many committees for this organization, both at the local and at the statewide level. She is also active in many community groups and events.

Mrs. Shugars and her husband, Sam, reside at Ski Harbor.

Bear Creek

application at either the Soil Conservation Office or the Bear Creek Station, a person with a pond on his land can have up to 1,500 fish stocked in his pond. Depending on the size of the pond, the station will put in 300 fish for one acre, up to five acres, for a maximum of 1,500 fish.

The station also supplies trout for rodeos and other special events. They also offer tours for students, from very young children to college students, and other special groups, including senior citizens. The visit can range from a superficial tour of the premises, to an indepth tour that includes a slide show for the advanced student.

The station does have some problems with predators. Given the natural setting for wildlife, many animals and birds visit the ponds for meals. Unfortunately, in addition to the animals, people also visit and take fish.

"The Natural Resources Police take care of people who are poaching, but people have to realize, when they steal from here, they aren't stealing from the DNR — they're stealing from friends or neighbors. The fish belong to the public," Otto explained.

Good Food and how to prepare it!

APRIL IS CANCER CONTROL MONTH

THE GREAT AMERICAN FOOD FIGHT AGAINST CANCER.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY®

FIRST IN A SERIES

The following recipes are from the American Cancer Society Cookbook.

BREAKFASTS

THE BREAKFAST DEBATE TO EAT OR NOT TO EAT

FOOD experts have long been telling us about the importance of starting the day with a good breakfast. In the seventies we were bombarded with the evils of a high-chloesterol, high-fat breakfast of sausages and eggs. Now some researchers claim the studies on the merits of eating breakfast are not conclusive and adults who don't want to eat breakfast shouldn't worry about it.

Here are some reasons why we should eat breakfast. Research has shown that the lack of morning fuel for children can affect their mental ability; those who don't eat breakfast concentrate less than those who do. Children learn from example, so if you want them to eat breakfast, you should eat one yourself. Dieters often skip breakfast, yet studies show that it is easier to lose weight if you consume some of your daily calories in the morning. You will be more likely to burn off these calories, and you will be less likely to eat fattening, empty-calorie snacks between meals. The American Cancer Society recommends weight control as one way to reduce cancer risk. It also wants us to eat more fiber-containing foods.

BLENDER BREAKFAST

1 banana, peach, or nectarine, peeled and cut in chunks
½ cup low-fat milk or low-fat yogurt
1 teaspoon honey, sugar, or maple syrup
1 tablespoon natural bran
1 egg (optional)

In blender or food processor, combine banana, milk, honey, bran, and egg (if using), process until smooth. Pour into tall glass. Makes 1 serving.

BREAKFAST BRAN-AND-FRUIT MIX

2 cups bran flakes
1 cup high-fiber cereal
½ cup sliced or chopped nuts (almonds, walnuts, or pecans) (optional)
½ cup chopped dried apricots
½ cup chopped prunes
½ cup raisins

Combine bran flakes, cereal, nuts, apricots, prunes, and raisins; mix well. Store, covered, in an airtight container. Serve with sliced fresh fruit and either low-fat milk or yogurt. Makes 10 servings (½ cup each).

GRANOLA

4 cups quick-cooking rolled oats
1½ cups whole wheat flour
1 cup bran
¼ cup toasted wheat germ
¼ cup sesame seeds
¼ cup sunflower seeds
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup hot water
½ cup honey
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup raisins

In large bowl, combine oatmeal, flour, bran, wheat germ, nuts, sesame seeds, sunflower seeds, and salt; mix well. In small bowl, mix together water, honey, and vanilla, pour into dry ingredients and stir to mix. Spread on 2 lightly oiled baking sheets and squeeze mixture together to form small clumps. Bake in 325°F oven for 30 minutes or until golden brown, stirring occasionally so granola will brown evenly. Stir in raisins and bake for 5 minutes longer. Let cool completely. Store in airtight containers. Makes 8 cups granola.

WHOLE WHEAT PANCAKES WITH BLUEBERRIES AND YOGURT

¾ cup whole wheat flour
½ cup all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg, beaten
1¼ cups skim milk
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
TOPPING:
½ cup low-fat yogurt
2 tablespoons maple syrup
2 cups blueberries

In mixing bowl, combine flours, baking powder, sugar, and salt, stir to mix. Pour in egg, milk and oil, stir until dry ingredients are wet. (Don't worry about a few lumps). Heat nonstick skillet over medium heat until hot (a drop of water will sizzle or dance). Lightly grease pan if desired. Using a large spoon, drop batter into skillet to form rounds. Cook until surface is full of bubbles that start to pop and underside is golden brown, turn and brown other side.

Topping: Combine yogurt and maple syrup, mix well. Spoon yogurt mixture over each pancake and top with blueberries. Makes about twelve 4-inch pancakes (2 pancakes per serving).

MUFFINS, BREADS, AND COOKIES

NOTHING smells better than freshly baked breads, muffins, and cookies. And nothing tastes better either. Low in fat (if you don't spread on extra butter) and a good source of fiber and carbohydrates, the following make excellent snacks and are an important part of every balanced meal. They also give you a chance to have sweet treats without all the fats, sugars, and refined flours that lurk in most store-bought baked goods.

Moderation is the key to all good eating habits, and this applies to sweets as well. Enjoy them, but eat them in reasonable amounts.

PUMPKIN MUFFINS

¾ cup bran
¾ cup whole wheat flour
¾ cup granulated sugar
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup raisins
1 cup mashed or canned cooked pumpkin
2 eggs (unbeaten)
¼ cup vegetable oil
⅔ cup low-fat yogurt or buttermilk

In bowl, combine bran, flour, sugar, cinnamon, baking powder, baking soda, salt and raisins, toss to mix. Add pumpkin, eggs, oil, and yogurt, stir just until combined. Spoon batter into paper-lined or nonstick muffin tins. Bake at 400°F oven for 25 minutes or until firm to the touch. Makes 12 muffins.

COCONUT-OATMEAL COOKIES

¾ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup granulated sugar
½ cup lightly packed brown sugar
1 egg
1 cup whole wheat flour
1 cup rolled oats
¾ cup coconut
¼ cup wheat germ
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1½ cups raisins

Cream butter, sugars, and egg together thoroughly. Add flour, oats, coconut, wheat germ, baking powder, and baking soda, mix well. Stir in raisins. Drop by spoonfuls onto a lightly greased baking sheets. Flatten slightly with floured fork. Bake in 350° oven for 12 to 15 minutes until light golden. Makes about 36 cookies.

WHEAT GERM CRISPY COOKIES

1¼ cups whole wheat flour
1 cup wheat germ
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup packed brown sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons granulated sugar

In bowl, combine flour, wheat germ, cinnamon, cloves, and salt, mix well. In another large bowl, cream butter and brown sugar thoroughly, beat in egg and vanilla. Add mixed dry ingredients to creamed mixture and mix well. Divide dough in half. On lightly floured counter, roll each half 1/8 inch thick. Cut with 2½ inch-round cutter. Place on ungreased baking sheets. Sprinkle with granulated sugar. Bake in 350°F oven for 8 to 10 minutes or until lightly browned. Let cool until firm, then remove from baking sheets. Makes 36 cookies.

ALMOND-APRICOT SQUARES

¾ cup packed dried apricots
½ cup butter
1¼ cups whole wheat flour
¾ cup chopped almonds
¾ cup granulated sugar
¼ cup bran or wheat germ
½ teaspoon cinnamon
2 eggs
½ teaspoon almond extract
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt

In small saucepan, combine apricots with enough water to cover. Cover and bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer for 20 minutes. Drain, let cool. Chop apricots finely, set aside. In mixing bowl, cut butter into 1 cup flour. Mix in ¼ cup of the almonds, ¼ cup of the sugar, bran, and cinnamon. Press half of this mixture into greased 8-inch-square baking pan. In another mixing bowl, beat remaining ½ cup sugar with eggs and almond extract. Beat in baking powder, salt, apricots, remaining ¼ cup flour, and remaining ½ cup almonds. Pour over layer in pan. Sprinkle with remaining flour-bran mixture. Bake in 350°F oven for 40 minutes. Let cool, then cut into squares. Makes about 18 squares.

OLD-FASHIONED MOLASSES BREAD

1 cup all-purpose flour
1 cup whole wheat flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
⅔ cup skim milk powder
⅓ cup wheat germ
½ cup packed brown sugar
¼ cup chopped nuts
½ cup raisins
⅓ cup finely chopped dried apricots
3 eggs
¾ cup orange juice
½ cup vegetable oil
½ cup molasses
2 bananas

In a large bowl, combine flours, salt, baking soda, baking powder, skim milk powder, wheat germ, brown sugar, nuts, raisins, and apricots. In food processor with metal blade, in blender, or using electric mixer, whirl eggs until foamy. Add orange juice, oil, molasses, and bananas, process until mixed. Pour into dry ingredients and stir just until moistened. Pour into two 8x4-inch greased pans. Bake at 325°F oven for 1 hour or until firm. Let cool on wire rack, then take from pan to cool completely. Makes 2 loaves (18 slices).

ON DEATH AND DANDELIONS

On one bright and sunny day,
I passed a field of dandelions on my way.
Nodding their golden heads at me,
They suckled a hungry honeybee,
And reflected the light of the heavens.

A short time passed, then came a day,
When in walking along that very same way,
I saw petals no longer perky and golden,
Stems becoming limp and old, and
It seemed their lives were at an end.

Their golden heads were cottony white.
It appeared to be a saddening sight
Until I stood and thought some more,
Understanding what I had not before;
Even in nature, God has a plan.

Those fragile seedlings floating from withered old stems
Would again transform into golden gems
In another place, in another spring;
And as God's children we shall, too, take wing
To that golden field where death shall be no more.

This Easter, visit God's house. Discover the Creator's plan for the resurrection of your spirit and the immortality of your soul.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

LEARNING TO DIE

April 8, 1990

Background Scripture: John 19: 17-42
Devotional Reading: Isaiah 52:13 through 53:12.

Leonardo da Vinci is reported to have said shortly before his death, "All these years I thought I was learning to live, but instead I have been learning to die." Actually, a Christian must learn to do both. That may seem somewhat ironic, because it is obvious that we die, ready or not. But the question has never been if we die, but how.

That is what makes the death of Jesus so different and instructive for us. Here was a man who knew both how to live in a way that was different and to die in a manner that was unique. As Jesus refused to play by the world's rules in his life, so he also refused to play by the world's rules in death. Although he was condemned to die, he died, not as a victim, but as a victor.

STILL IN CHARGE

Look at his last moments on earth. Although he hangs nailed to a cross, it seems to me that he is still in charge - if not of others, at least himself and the situation. Crucifixion was an extremely painful way to die. Nevertheless, in the midst of the pain, Jesus was enough in control of himself to take care of his mother and the beloved disciple: "Woman, behold your son!" Then he said to the disciple, "Behold your mother!" (John 19: 26,27). Jesus had every reason to focus solely on his own needs in this terrible experience, but his love was greater than his pain and his concern for others overcame everything else.

His last two statements from the cross, according to the fourth gospel, are simple and to the point: "I thrist," and "When Jesus had received the vinegar, he said, 'It is finished;' and he bowed his head and gave up his spirit." His tormentors probably felt cheated. Jesus had not railed or cursed against his enemies, he had not made ominous prophecies against them, or whined about the unfairness and injustice of it all. Jesus was a victor even, perhaps especially, in his death.

L.P. Jacks, the British theologian, once wrote: "Most of us die of something; of disease, accident, old age. But occasionally there appears in our midst a man who resolves to die for something..." That is a good description of the death of Jesus: he died, not of something, but for something,. And more than something, he died for someone - you and me and all humankind.

A DEATH- CONQUEROR

That is something to which we too are called. That is why we must, as a part of our Christian living, learn to die. We need to learn to die for something and be a death-conqueror as Jesus was. Jacks says: "Christianity ... came into the world as a death-conquering religion. It centered in the figure of a death-conqueror..." We will all die; the only question is how? Will we be the conquered or the conquerors?

Jacks also said: "No religion is worth its name unless it can prove itself more than a match for death." That is why Christians make so much of the death of Jesus. As I see it, by the time Jesus was resurrected from the tomb, he had already conquered death - for him and for us.

Peter O'Toole role based on 'Pied Piper'

Actor's stories set mood of filming

By Mary Ann Townsend

One golden rule in Hollywood has been to never work with animals or children because you'll more than likely be upstaged. But working with children appears to be inspiring for Peter O'Toole, according to Mare Winningham, his co-star in Crossing To Freedom, airing Sunday, April 8, on CBS.

O'Toole stars as a 60-year-old Englishman who at first reluctantly takes on the task of moving two children to safety when the Germans cross the French border in World War II. But along the way the embittered Englishman softens and brings five other children under his wing on his journey.

O'Toole, himself took little time in warming up to his children co-stars, said Winningham, who plays a young, strong French woman who helps the older Englishman overcome cultural and linguistic barriers in his travels in this TV film based on The Pied Piper.

"None of the kids had ever been in a film before and Peter was like this almost mini-director of them," Winningham explained. "The director and he worked tandemly with them, but very often the director would say, 'Peter has something to say,' and then Peter would set the scene for the kids in very wonderful ways, you know with stories."

Winningham pointed out that O'Toole was growing up in England during World War II, and he would relay his own childhood memories of the war to set the mood of each take of the film.

"He would get very serious and speak to them very earnestly about what he remembered from the war," she said. In one particular scene the refugees were being bombed by German planes, and the actors were supposed to only imagine the sound of the bombs for the rehearsal. O'Toole did not believe pretending would be sufficient to get the correct reactions.

"He told a story about the first time that he heard the bombs, and where he was and how it made him feel and how old he was, then he insisted on having an explosion go off, even though they were trying to save them, they'd only intended on doing the explosions for the on-camera stuff," Winningham explained. "So after having prefaced this and gotten them all sort of reverend, listening to him, he got them to let one of the bombs go off so we could experience that. Then the kids would get so inspired by him and they'd love to recreate whatever he had told them."

She said his enthusiasm for working with the children was intensified by seeing how they handled their parts as young actors.

"He was so excited by this notion, apparently children are very primary in his life—I'm assuming that by the way he treated mine and by the way he treated the kids in the film—that he obviously draws a lot out of his association with children," she said. "He always saw it as an opportunity to be rich and as full of wonder as they are." © TV Listing Inc

Greed, intrigue wake up sleepy town of 'Twin Peaks'

Sultry drama boasts stellar cast

By Anne Wheeler

A sleepy little logging town in the Pacific Northwest is abruptly awakened to its own greed, jealousy and intrigue by the murder of the homecoming queen in ABC's Twin Peaks, premiering as a two-hour movie Sunday, then airing at its regular time Thursday.

David Lynch directs.

The story builds when another girl is found brutally beaten but still alive and FBI agent Dale Cooper arrives to investigate. His quirky, yet methodical approach blends quickly with Sheriff Harry S. Truman, who has a deep understanding of the people in the town.

The unusual drama series boasts a stellar cast, with Kyle MacLachlan as agent Cooper, and Michael Ontkean as Sheriff Truman. Actress Piper Laurie plays the deceitful manager of the sawmill.

MacLachlan has a long-standing relationship with director Lynch. The two first worked together on 1983's Dune, then again on Blue Velvet.

After three movies, a half dozen television shows and two seasons on ABC's The Rookies, Canadian born Ontkean retreated to a small town in Maine, making a living repairing motorcycles. An ice skater since age 4, Ontkean had nearly given up on acting until he heard about and won a role in the movie Slap Shot and his career was rejuvenated.

Emmy winner and three-time Oscar nominee Piper Laurie comes to series television after touring with The Last Flapper. Among her latest feature film credits are Appointment With Death, Tiger Warsaw and Dream A Little Dream.

Clint Black, the Country Music Association's most promising newcomer last year, joins the fun for The Bob Hope Special from Mexico on Monday.

Bob Hope shows known for accenting new talent

Clint Black to appear on special

By Shelia Odak

One of the pleasures of watching a Bob Hope special is to see the new talent he showcases. The Bob Hope Special from Mexico, which airs Monday, April 9, on NBC, will be no exception. One of Hope's featured guests will be country music's Clint Black.

After paying his dues with six years of performing the Houston, Texas club circuits, Black has risen to the top of the charts just one year after his first single was released.

A mixture of influences, "from Willie Nelson to David Bowie and Billy Joel," as well as a strong backbone in traditional country music, gives Black's music a fresh sound that appeals to many aspects of the country audience.

Black, who manages to always keep an "aw shucks" grin on his face, admits that all this sudden fame is a bit much to comprehend. "Yeh, I dreamed it, but you just, you can never imagine something like this happening so quick." He adds though that the rewards and rigors of success are something he has been preparing for for a long time. "In my heart, my bags were packed, so when the time came to hit the road and be gone all time, I was ready for that."

In a year that has been filled with dreams realized, still the best thing for Black is the thrill of a live audience. "There's so many great things, but the best, the most enjoyable thing is being able to go out on stage with a great crew, great gear, great sound equipment and a great audience and be able to get up there and perform."

HOROSCOPE

April 8 through April 14

By A. Murphy

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Don't allow rumors to ruffle you; learn all the facts. Be cautious where strays and lost loves are concerned. Wear bright colors; it's the season.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
You will find that exercise relieves tensions caused from betrayals, marital problems and money conflicts. Look to the future. After you see the worst, it is over.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
Beware of a financially unstable person around you. Don't be brought down also. Look toward educational opportunities. A family reunion can be very healing.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
Don't let impatience turn you into a type-A personality. Exercise and enjoyment of the outdoors are good for your health and your personal discipline.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
Visit someone you know who is ailing. For effective communication, use persistence, clarity and patience. Put yourself on the receiving end for better understanding.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
Tensions and bad feelings can be relieved with frank, honest conversation. Perfection does not exist in our lives, so aim for what is reality, not that which is impossible.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
Remember the great healing power of laughter. Don't go where you are uncomfortable, either financially or physically. Try new things, but avoid danger.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
Allow yourself to examine another point of view, no matter how foreign it may seem. Instead of feeling self-pity, learn how to budget and organize your finances and time.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
Re-examine your own spirituality. Are you doing enough to satisfy your own needs? The more you reveal about yourself to those you care about, the stronger the bond.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
Prophets of doom often just like to hear themselves talk. Think carefully about their words, and try not to become unneccessarily frightened.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
Think about your dreams, and even write them down. Beware, however, of making complicated plans based on them. There are often advantages to unexpected delays.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
Great personal warmth comes from volunteer work. Support your beliefs with your time and your talents. Don't spread yourself too thin or neglect your own family, however.

Bo, Hope briefly return to 'Days'

One of the most popular couples in the history of daytime television, Peter Reckell and Kristian Alfonso as Bo and Hope Brady, are returning to NBC's Days Of Our Lives. Reckell has signed a two-year agreement with the show; his first appearance will be April 18. Kristian Alfonso, who stars as Pilar Ortega on Falcon Crest, will return, for a limited run on May 1.

This is no joke! Jack Nicholson, who starred as the Joker, has, to date, pulled in some $23 million from his Batman fee and percentages. Smiling comes much easier for him these days.

Match Game, ranked as the most popular network daytime game show in the past 20 years, will join the ABC daytime schedule Monday, July 16. Hosted by Bert Convy, it replaces repeats of Perfect Strangers.

MONDAY: The Bob Hope Special, airing on NBC, originates from Acapulco, Mexico.

WEDNESDAY: Fox Night at the Movies premieres Earth Girls Are Easy, starring Geena Davis and Jeff Goldblum.

Richard Beymer is Benjamin Horne on the new drama Twin Peaks, Thursdays on ABC.

Burt Reynolds plays a private eye in the ABC Mystery Movie B.L. Stryker, on Saturday.

Lorrie Morgan performs some of her hits on Austin City Limits Saturday on PBS.

Loretta Devine (top) and Vickilyn Reynolds star in Sugar & Spice, Fridays on CBS.

Faith Ford's television roots are in daytime programs

By Shelia Odak

Soap opera addicts probably recognize Faith Ford. The young actress who stars as Corky Sherwood in the hit CBS series Murphy Brown got her start acting in the daytime serials.

Ford first came to national attention when she was in high school and her mother entered her in Teen Magazine's annual model search. Becoming a finalist led to landing a job in modeling and in commercials.

After a series of screen tests, Ford made her small screen acting debut in the recurring role of Muffy Critchlowe in the high-rated daytime drama One Life To Live. From there she went on to a regular role as Julie Scheerer on Another World.

Her other television credits include guest spots on Hardcastle & McCormick, Almost Home and thirtysomething. She has also appeared in the network series The Popcorn Kid and the motion-picture You Talkin' to Me?

Off camera, Ford enjoys fashion design and cooking. She is especially fond of Italian dishes and Creole, from her native home of Louisiana. She and her older sister Suzonne, who now works as a writer in Nashville, at one time billed themselves as the "Creole Gold Singers," and Ford looks forward to someday performing with her again.

Geena Davis finds aliens in her pool in Earth Girls Are Easy, Wednesday on FOX.

Julia Duffy stars as Stephanie Vanderkellen-Harris in Newhart, airing Mondays on CBS.

'The Fugitive' finale was most watched series episode

By Polly Vonetes

David Janssen

Q: I've been watching The Fugitive on A&E with David Janssen. I'm curious if he ever found the one-armed man and proved his innocence and what Janssen is doing now? —Dave Martin, Middle River, Wis.

A: In a climactic chase scene, Kimble (Janssen) and the one-armed man cornered each other atop a water tower. Lt. Gerard (Barry Morse), in hot pursuit on the ground, realized he had been wrong about Kimble and shot the one-armed man to save the doctor's life. The one-armed man (Bill Raisch) plunged to his death before he could be captured. This final episode, which aired on Aug. 29, 1967, was seen by more people than any single episode of a regular series in the history of television. David Janssen died of a heart attack on Feb. 13, 1980. He was 49.

Q: Recently several of us were discussing a series that aired about 20 years ago. It was a half-hour show, about a mother-less family who lived in a high rise apartment. A blonde pigtailed daughter, named Biffy, freckled face boy, a butler (named Mr. French) and the father played by Brian Keith, were in the cast. Could you help us out by telling us the name of this show? —Thanks, Janet Himelspach, Broadus, Mont.

A: You could have guessed it was Family Affair. Brian Keith starred as "Uncle Bill." (Their parents had been killed in an accident. The closest relative was their Dad's brother, Uncle Bill.) Jody, played by Johnnie Whitaker, was the freckled face twin brother of Buffy, played by the late Anissa Jones. And how could you forget Cissy, the 15-year-old sister, played by Kathy Garver? The very English gentleman's gentleman, Mr. French, was played by the late Sebastian Cabot. The series aired on CBS from Sept. 1966 to '71.

Q: Here in Canada I am a very big fan of Miami Vice. A few weeks ago on the show Sonny and Rico tossed their badges. But all the shows since feature them on the job as usual. Did I miss an episode? Or is the series ended and I'm getting reruns? —Carol Twardzik, Saskatchewan, Canada.

A: Miami Vice ended a five-year run on NBC with a two-hour movie on May 21, 1989. The episodes you are currently viewing are reruns being shown in syndication.

Q: In the 1974 television show Lassie, I would like to know whatever happened to Robert Bray, who played the forest ranger on the show. —Lester Nelson, Big Bear Lake, Calif.

A: Robert Bray retired from acting in the early '70s and lived with his family at Lake Arrowhead in California. He died March 7, 1983.

With lockout ended, CBS turns to Major League Baseball

By Jeff Thompson

Team owners sweat it out and the players held out. It was a rugged 32 days, but the baseball players lockout finally ended, and the boys of summer have been squeezing spring training into the past three weeks. Now, finally, the beginning of the 1990 regular baseball season begins one week late Monday, April 9.

Although disappointed by the outcome, players nonetheless won some of battles, if not the war. I know I, personally, wouldn't sneeze at a $32,000 increase in my salary, or an additional 20 or so million set aside in behalf of my retirement.

The only thing left to do now, boys, is play ball. Unfortunately, at press time the schedule was still all jumbled up and undecided, however for your Major League Baseball viewing pleasure, CBS is the network to look toward this year.

That network was obviously elated about the end of the baseball dispute. In what it is calling its Dream Season because of all of the sports events it is covering, CBS was especially proud of acquiring Major League Baseball. The network wasn't planning to begin its coverage until April 14, anyway, so the season opened in the nick of time. However, the schedule may still drastically change.

Helping the network cover the baseball action will be Jack Buck, Jim Kaat, Greg Gumbel, Brent Musburger and Tim McCarver.

Film shows how suicide alters lives of surviving loved ones

By Shelia Odak

Keanu Reeves

For the victim, suicide is a final act. It is an ending to everything. However, for the friends, family and loved ones the person leaves behind, suicide is very much a beginning. It is the beginning of having to live with the knowledge that a person they cared about was desperate enough to want to die. It is the beginning of anger at the person for that act. In a way, it is also the beginning of a new life, because anyone who has ever been left behind after a loved one commits suicide finds life is irreversibly changed. That is the subject of the film Permanent Record, which premieres on HBO Tuesday, April 10.

Permanent Record tells the story of a group of high school friends. One of the group is David (played by Alan Boyce). David is a talented musician. He is leader of a rock band, gives music lessons to his friends and is arranging the school musical.

He does not come from a bad home. He is not on drugs. He has a bright future on the horizon and has been accepted to a prestigious music college. On the surface he is not at all the type that one would suspect is on the brink of self destruction. The only visible sign of trouble is that he does not seem happy. There is a sense that no matter how much he seems to shine in the eyes of others, in his own eyes he will never be good enough.

His friends all think of him as being the most together and trouble-free of the bunch, so when he commits suicide they feel shocked. They also feel betrayed.

Permanent Record is more their story than David's. It is the story of how life goes on, even in the midst of incredible grief and feelings of confusion. It is about how David's best friend Chris (Keanu Reeves) deals with the inevitable, but useless, feeling that somehow he should have known about his friend's grief and somehow been able to stop his final act. It is also about the terrible impotent rage that is left in the gulf of his absence.

Permanent Record does not explore the reasons behind David's suicide. It simply shows the things that happen because of it. It tries to explain that as impossible as it seems, even when something of tremendously devastating proportions happens, life goes on, and those left behind go on with it. It shows that suicide is not a solitary action because people act differently, think differently and even grow up differently when they must live with the knowledge that someone they cared about died by his own hand.

In a way this is a hard film to watch because you, too, start to feel needlessly abandoned by David. However, that empathy is also what makes it worth seeing.

Kite Flying Can Be Dangerous

Now that the days are longer and warmer, children have more time for flying kites and playing outdoors.

It is important, however, for children to heed some safety tips when kite flying. Robin Malott, safety coordinator for the Potomac Edison Company, says that young people should fly kites in wide, open fields, away from overhead power lines. She warns that if kites accidently get tangled in the lines, children should leave them alone and not try to pull them down.

When making kites, it is important for children to remember to use paper and string, not metallic materials that could serve as conductors for electricity. Kites should be flown on sunny days, not in rainy weather, because a wet kite becomes a conductor for electricity during a thunderstorm, adds Ms. Malott.

Children might also encounter some potentially dangerous situations while exploring their neighborhoods during the warmer days ahead.

Summer storms can knock down three limbs onto power lines, causing them to fall to the ground. Ms. Malott says that children should stay away from fallen power lines and never, ever touch them, even if they seem harmless. In a situation such as this, she advises that a child notify an adult, who can call Potomac Edison. Children should also stay far away from electric power line structures, substations and transformers for underground service; use care when handling ladders or pool-cleaning equipment near overhead lines; and be extra careful not to mix water and electricity.

Clickit, Ticket Results In 200 Drug Arrests

Maryland State Police have made more than 200 drug related arrests on the highway since the beginning of Clickit and Ticket. The intensified speed enforcement effort includes the Maryland State Police K-9 Unit which has deployed specially trained drug dogs on statewide highway patrols.

"These specially trained drug dogs offer an extremely sensitive capability of conducting scans or searches of vehicles where drug use, possession or trafficking is suspected," said Sergeant Donald H. Murphy, Commander, Maryland State Police K-9 Unit. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, Sergeant Murphy said members of the K-9 Unit are quite effective in alerting the trooper to the presence of drugs during traffic stops.

"We have found drugs in deflated spare tires, under dashboards, inside teddy bears and in various secret compartments including gas tanks," stated Sergeant Murphy. "I recall one traffic stop where the dog alerted to cocaine wrapped inside a 100 dollar bill."

The strict enforcement of motor vehicle laws is credited with an increase in the number of drug related arrests which have resulted in the seizure of significant quantities of cocaine, marijuana, PCP, and LSD. Maryland State Police made 2,386 drug related arrests on the highway during 1989, an 11 percent increase over the 2,154 arrests during 1988.

During 1989, troopers seized 41 pounds cocaine, over 1,200 pounds of marijuana, over seven pounds of PCP, and approximately seven ounces of heroin. State Police also seized $242,440 dollars during drug interdiction arrests. Additionally, State Police seized 177 weapons and confiscated 93 vehicles during vehicular arrests in 1989.

The Maryland State Police Radio Program is a weekly public service radio broadcast carried on approximately 50 radio stations in Maryland and the District of Columbia. The program is supported by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and the Maryland Department of Transportation.

Westvaco Hands Out Seedlings For Earth Day

Employees of Westvaco's Luke mill helped celebrate Arbor Day 1990 and the 20th anniversary of Earth Day on Wednesday, April 4, as two Norway spruce seedlings in a specially-designed Westvaco container box were distributed to each employee as they left work after each shift on that day.

The distribution was also in recognition of the fact that Westvaco plants over 45 million seedlings each year.

As a reminder of the company's long established planting program, Westvaco representatives distributed pine seedlings to every member of Congress recently, and to every member of the state legislature in which the company has operations based.

In addition, the Luke mill has committed 7,000 Liberty Elm tree to 10 communities and four colleges in the area. Each community and college will receive 100 Liberty Elm saplings each year for five years. The trees arrive as two-foot saplings and double their growth each year for the first three years. They were developed as a special strain of disease-resistant, pollution-resistant trees to replace the Dutch Elm that has been wiped out through much of the country by disease.

Goldstein Says Over 22,000 Tax Returns Are Filed Unnecessarily

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says about 1.1 million Maryland income tax returns have been filed by taxpayers, but notes that more than 22,000 of them were filed unnecessarily. He said taxpayers have contributed more than $350,000 to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Fund and reported that more than three-quarters of a million refund checks have been sent to taxpayers.

"This has been a relatively smooth filing season," Goldstein said. "However, the largest persistent error we are seeing is taxpayers sending in a Maryland return and showing a tax obligation when their income is actually below the amount requiring them to file at all."

The filing requirements are listed on the first page of instructions in the state tax packet. Taxpayers whose incomes do not meet the requirement for their age and filing status do not need to file unless they are seeking a refund of tax withheld from their pay or pension.

Goldstein said taxpayers have donated $350,141 to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Fund on their tax returns, nearly 50 percent more than at this same time last year. Among the subdivisions, the largest amount of money has come from Montgomery County taxpayers, who have donated $72,405. The largest average contribution is $14.24, coming from Talbot County taxpayers. The statewide average is $10.08.

The largest number of taxpayers contributing are in Baltimore County, where 6,325 taxpayers have "checked-off for the Chesapeake Bay." Howard County has the largest percentage of its taxpayers contributing to the fund (4.8 percent).

A contribution to the fund is subtracted from the taxpayer's refund or added to any additional tax due with the return. The contribution is deductible on the next year's return as an itemized deduction.

Goldstein said his office has mailed 757,647 refund checks to taxpayers, totaling $219.7 million. The average state refund check is now $290.

The comptroller said all 15 state income tax offices will offer extra hours of help the first two Saturdays in April (April 7 and 14), from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. The offices will offer telephone assistance on Monday evening, April 2 from 5 to 7 p.m. The offices will offer both telephone and walk-in assistance on Friday, April 13, from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m., while most state offices will be closed for the Good Friday holiday.

All offices will remain open from 8:30 a.m. until 7 p.m., on the filing deadline, Monday, April 16.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most telephone directories. The statewide toll-free number is 1-800-MD TAXES.

Aurora Man Gets Four Years For Assault, DWI

An Aurora, W.Va., man was sentenced to four years imprisonment in the Maryland Department of Corrections during a trial held last Wednesday in Garrett County Circuit Court.

Larry Gay Wilson, 27, pled guilty to two counts of assault and an additional charge of driving while intoxicated at an earlier hearing held February 1. Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer ordered a pre-sentence investigation and revoked Wilson's bail at that time. Last week Thayer sentenced Wilson to two three-year sentences to be served concurrently for two counts of assault, and an additional year to be served consecutively for Wilson's drunk driving conviction.

Two counts of assault with intent to murder, two counts of wearing and carrying a deadly weapon and a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol were not prosecuted.

Charges stemmed from a July 7, 1989 incident in Mountain Lake Park in which Wilson reportedly pointed a gun at Mary Jane Paugh and Frederick L. Paugh, while they were seated in a moving car, and threatened to shoot them. According to police reports, another man allegedly pulled Wilson's arm into the air and the sawed-off shotgun went off above Wilson.

Wilson was apprehended a short time later by Deputy R.P. Shaffer, Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Wilson was represented in court by James P. Donahue, Jr.

In a separate case, a Kitzmiller man was sentenced Thursday to a two-year suspended sentence in the Department of Corrections following his conviction on breaking, entering and theft charges last Thursday in Circuit Court.

Michael L. Paugh, 18, pled guilty to charges of storehouse breaking and entering and theft during the trial. Thayer then sentenced Paugh to 18 months in prison for the theft conviction and handed Paugh an additional 6-month sentence for breaking and entering. Thayer also imposed a $500 fine in relation to the one count of theft. Thayer then suspended Paugh's two-year prison commitment and placed him on two years supervised probation with the following conditions: Paugh must pay fines and court costs on schedule, he must absolutely abstain from alcohol, and he must abide by all rules set by the Maryland Department of Parole and Probation.

Additional charges of breaking and stealing and breaking with intent to steal were not prosecuted.

Charges stemmed from a June 22, 1989, burglary that occurred at Bob's Texaco Station, Kitzmiller.

Paugh was represented in court by Robert C. Hesson.

In an unrelated case, Jason Andrew Sisler, 23, Accident, was sentenced to 60 days in the Garrett County Jail following Sisler's March 8 conviction of driving under the influence of alcohol. Chief Judge Thayer then suspended all but 30 days of the sentence and imposed a $500 fine on Sisler.

Thayer also put Sisler on two years supervised probation with the following conditions: Sisler must attend DWI school and alcohol rehabilitation, he must abide by an alcohol restriction on his license for two years, he must totally abstain from the use of alcohol and controlled dangerous substances for two years, and he must pay his fines on schedule.

Sisler's conviction stemmed from his September 30, 1989, arrest by TFC D.W. Broadwater, Maryland State Police.

He was represented by Thomas B. Dabney, Jr.

Michael Alan Harsh, 23, Aurora, W.Va., was found guilty of possession of marijuana and driving while under the influence of alcohol and sentenced to 65 days in the Garrett County Jail, with 60 days suspended.

Harsh pled guilty to the charges at a trial held last Thursday in Circuit Court.

Chief Judge Thayer also placed Harsh on one year supervised probation for his driving violation, and imposed a $300 fine. Conditions of his probation include total abstinence from the use of alcohol and the placement of an alcohol restriction on his license for one year.

Additional charges of possession of drug paraphernalia, driving while intoxicated and driving under the influence of drugs were not prosecuted.

Charges stemmed from Harsh's September 10, 1989, arrest along Underwood Rd. by Tpr. R.T. Wilson.

Harsh was represented in court by Robert C. Hesson.

Robert Alan Hadden, 48, Oakland, was given a six-month suspended sentence following his March 8 conviction of driving while intoxicated.

After accepting Hadden's guilty plea at the earlier hearing, Thayer continued Hadden's sentencing to last Thursday. In addition to the suspended sentence, Thayer imposed a $500 fine and placed Hadden on two years supervised probation. Conditions of Hadden's probation include: payment of fines and court costs on schedule, adherence to an alcohol restriction placed on his license to two years, and absolute abstinence from alcohol for the term of probation.

The charge stemmed from Hadden's July 7, 1989, arrest by Deputy J.D. Murphy, Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Hadden was represented in court by R. Steven Friend.

Barry John Shola, 27, Greensburg, Pa., was convicted of driving while intoxicated and failing to drive right of center at a hearing held last Thursday in Circuit Court.

Shola pled guilty to the charges. Thayer ordered his sentencing to be continued and continued Shola's bail.

Charges stemmed from Shola's December 31, 1989 arrest by Tpr. S.W. Vincent, Maryland State Police.

Shola was represented by Hesson.

David Edwin Liller, 28, Oakland, was found guilty of violation of probation at a Circuit Court hearing held last Thursday.

Chief Judge Thayer then reimposed Liller's five-year prison sentence.

According to court documents, Liller was arrested in January by the Sheriff's Department and charged with trespassing and disorderly conduct, while he was still on probation. Liller also reportedly did not comply with a stipulation of his probation concerning his participation in an addiction program.

Liller was originally found guilty in May 1988 of breaking and entering a shop. At that time he received a six-year sentence; five years and one day of the sentence were suspended.

Liller was represented in court by John R. Toston.

Nancy Carol Paugh, 44, Mountain Lake Park, was found guilty of violation of probation at a trial held last Thursday in Circuit Court.

Following the verdict, Judge Thayer reimposed a one-year jail sentence, then suspended the sentence. He placed Paugh on one year supervised probation based on the following conditions: Paugh must pay $161 of the remaining court costs within 30 days, she must enlist in a drug rehabilitation program, and she must report to her probation agent when scheduled.

According to court documents, Paugh was charged with a probation violation after she was allegedly unwilling to engage in an addiction treatment program, she failed to report to her probation officer, and she failed to pay court-imposed fines on schedule.

Paugh was originally found guilty of cocaine possession in June 1989 and received a one-year suspended sentence at that time.

Paugh was represented in court by Robert C. Hesson.

Mitchell Brian Viragh, 29, Friendsville, was found guilty of violation of probation at a trial held last Thursday in Circuit Court.

After finding him guilty, Thayer reimposed a prior six-month jail sentence; he then suspended the sentence and placed Viragh on an additional year of probation and added $255 to the original $300 fines owed to the court.

According to court documents Viragh was charged with a probation violation after he failed to pay fines to the court.

Viragh was originally found guilty of traffic violations at a hearing held last April.

Viragh was represented in court by Hesson.

KITZMILLER

EGG HUNT

The Kitzmiller Civic Association will be having an Easter egg hunt this Saturday, April 7. The hunt will be held at the Park Pavilion and will begin at noon. Participants should bring a basket or bag to hold their eggs. Prizes will be awarded. There will be three age groups: group one, up to four years old; group two, from five to eight years old; and group three, from nine to 12 years old. In the event of rain or snow, it will be held Saturday, April 14.

Kitzmiller Town Council Honors Barrick, Iman

Retiring Kitzmiller Mayor E. James Barrick and Councilman Gerald R. Iman were honored recently with a small reception and gifts of appreciation. Among these attending were: Mayor-elect William J. White, Councilmen Daniel R. Paugh, Frank Reel and W. James White; Councilwoman-elect Crystal Shaffer; Kitzmiller Lion's Club Secretary Wilbur Myers; and Lawrence C. Elliott, branch manager, Garrett National Bank.

Mayor Barrick began his service to the community as a member of Council in 1980, a position he held for four years. In 1984 he was elected mayor and during his term of office the Town obtained both water and sewage, a Program Open Space grant for the development of the local park, and a HUD Re-hab program.

Councilman Iman served the community from 1986 until 1990. He held various positions on the Council, such as president and liaison officer for both the Maryland Municipal League and Law Enforcement Agencies. He represented the Town at the recent State M.M.L. Convention held in Frostburg.

New Kitzmiller Town Officials Are Sworn In

Newly elected Kitzmiller Mayor William J. White swore in the recently elected members of Council at the February 26 Town Meeting.

Taking the oath of office for the first time was Crystal A. Shaffer. Ms. Shaffer resides on East Main Street with her husband, Jack, and four children: Brianna, Faryn, Keenan, and Caidan. Active in the community she serves as president of the Kitzmiller P.T.A. and secretary of the Kitzmiller Civic Association. She and her family attend the Kitzmiller Assembly of God Church where she serves as youth director and a member of the Board. She is the daughter of William and Kathy Paugh, also Kitzmiller residents.

Frank Reel is beginning his 16th year of service on the Council. He has been actively involved in obtaining water and sewage for the Town, a Program Open Space Grant for the local park, and a HUD Re-hab project. He resides on Church Street.

Mayor White was sworn in February 16 by Garrett County Clerk of Court Clifford DeWitt. He and his wife, Carma, reside along State Street. They are the parents of three children: Jim, Jeff, and Ruth. Mayor White previously served on the Council and says he returns with many ideas and plans for Town growth.

SHS Housing Project Progresses

by Shelly Cassidy
SHS Marketing Education Student

Southern High School Vocational students are working harder than ever to ensure that the house they are building is a quality, well-crafted home. As mentioned in an earlier article, students at Southern have pulled together the vocational areas of Building Trades, Drafting, Marketing, and Home Economics to complete this annual project. The home built by these students will be sold in late May by sealed bid.

The house being built by Jim Koon's students is a 24x48, 1,156 square foot home that includes three bedrooms, a living room, a dining room, a kitchen and a utility room. Andersen windows, steel insulated doors, and a sliding glass door leading from the dining room are just a few of the features this house has to offer.

The house, which meets Potomac Edison's energy-efficient housing standards, has Andersen windows throughout, including a 6' sliding door in the dining room. The ceiling boasts an insulating value of R-38 and R-19 in the 6" side walls.

The kitchen has plenty of cabinet space with a bar for convenient meals and clean-up. A window over the kitchen provides ample light and a view of the outside. Attached to the kitchen is a laundry and mud room.

The master bedroom is spacious and complete with a private bathroom. The living room, which has the dining room attached, provides for a warm and open atmosphere. The walls are finished with oak wainscoating and oak trim.

Along with oak paneling, the living room has been wallpapered by the Home Economics class, adding one more class to the groups involved in the construction project.

The floors are covered with no-wax linoleum in the kitchen, mud room, and bathrooms, and wall-to-wall carpeting throughout the remainder of the house.

The exterior provides for a maintenance-free house with vinyl siding and aluminum soffit and facia. The house also has a ridge vent system to provide ventilation for the attic. The house has all gutters and downspouts already installed.

At the time of the sale, the house will be 95 percent complete and ready to set on a foundation. Our next article will feature the impact of VICA students and the quality of their work.

State Census Ambassadors Offer Help

With more than 5,000 "Census Ambassadors" scattered around the state, local residents having questions regarding the on-going census, need look no farther than their local social services, health department or job service offices to get the assistance they need.

Census Ambassadors are readily identifiable by a large orange sticker on their lapel stating, "ASK ME ABOUT CENSUS '90." All ambassadors were appointed by their supervisors based on their public contact and communications abilities.

"The 'Census Ambassadors' have been given special training over the past several weeks to enable them to handle many of the more common questions arising from the census," Maryland Office of Planning Director Ronald M. Kreitner said.

Ambassadors can be found in state and local government buildings, non-profit agencies and many private businesses. They are approachable at any time during normal working hours and will be able to answer most questions regarding the census. In specialized instances, they will refer the individual to the local census district office.

If Maryland residents are unable to locate a Census Ambassador, they can reach the U.S. Bureau of the Census by calling a toll-free hotline. The hotline number is 1-800-999-1990. Other hotline numbers are available for residents who do not speak English. Those numbers are: Cambodian, 1-800-289-1960; Chinese, 1-800-365-2101; Korean, 1-800-444-6205; Laotian, 1-800-888-3208; Thai, 1-800-288-1984; Spanish, 1-800-283-6826; and Vietnamese, 1-800-937-1953.

All hotlines are staffed from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and will operate until April 15.

Census outreach and promotional activities for the State of Maryland are coordinated through the Maryland Office of Planning.

Lorie Damon To Present Honors Paper At Hood

Ten Hood College seniors, including one from Garrett County, will present their honors project research papers on April 9 beginning at 5:30 p.m. in the Avalon Speech Studio of the Tatem Arts Center, discussing such issues as the trials of Nazi war criminals, Faulkner's women, child life programs for hospitalized children, and Rockwell Kent.

Lorie Damon, an English major from Oakland, will speak on "Recovering the 'Lost': Dorothy Canfield's Fiction." Her advisor is Dr. Carol Kolmerten, associate professor of English.

Lorie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Damon and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Glotfelty Sr., all of Oakland.

Present to greet the students and guests will be Dr. Martha E. Church, president of the college, and Dr. Barbara Hetrick, vice president and dean of academic affairs.

The papers, a requirement of Hood's departmental honors program, cover time periods from the early 19th century to the present. They will be entered into the permanent collection at the college's Joseph Henry Apple Library.

The departmental honors program is designed for seniors with an interest in doing extensive research. Participants are selected by Hood's Honors Committee and students work with faculty advisers to develop a research topic. The papers must be completed in time for the annual presentation ceremony in order for the student to be recognized with departmental honors at commencement.

DAR Chapter Meets, Hears Capt. Reckner

Members of the Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met for their regular meeting March 19 at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland.

Mrs. John Reckner presided and, after the opening ritual, Mrs. Richard Sherwood read the President General's message. Mrs. Gerald Sanders presented an article, Women in Combat, from the National Defense newspaper in which the author said that women in combat should not be used as an experiment for equal opportunity action and that the stories of women's participation in the military in Granada and Panama were grossly exaggerated. The NSDAR are on record as opposing a military draft for women.

Mrs. Lewis Jones reported that nearly all permission forms have been received from families of deceased DAR members whose graves will be marked by the local chapter in a dedication ceremony on April 28 at the Oakland Cemetery. The committee has the ritual and all in readiness for the ceremony.

Mrs. Reckner and Mrs. Sherwood attended the 85th DAR Maryland Conference held at the Baltimore Hilton Inn, Pikesville, on March 15-17. The highlights of the conference were the reception for State Regent, Mrs. Roger Wren Carroll, and the annual banquet, at which time the Rev. Gary Cantrell gave an account of his activities as administrative assistant at the DAR-supported school, Tamassee. The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter was honored with awards as follows: first place for unique program titles, third place for publicity, and honorable mention for program supplements.

A nominating committee, consisting of Mrs. Richard Sherwood and Mrs. Luther Parrack was appointed.

Captain Charee Reckner gave an account of her work as a flight nurse and officer affiliated with the 60th Air Evacuation Squadron of Andrews Air Force Base. She goes to the base at least once a month, separate from her nursing duties as director of nursing for the Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home in Oakland, prepared to fly anywhere in the world to transport needy personnel from one spot to another, trans-continental or inter-continental. She, for a given tour, is one of two nurses and three technicians that complete the team. They fly C-141 military planes and planes such as Hercules C-130 and C-9 are utilized by other Air-Vac Units. They can evacuate up to 200 personnel who may be active military personnel, designated VIP's, retirees or dependents.

Aside from her degree in nursing, Captain Reckner is pursuing an MBA degree at Frostburg State University. She is an expert in both 38-M and M-16 firearms. She has been selected for the rank of major, effective September 13, 1990.

Those present for the March meeting were Mrs. Robert DeWitt, Mrs. Richard Sherwood, Mrs. Willard Hayden, Mrs. Luther Parrack, Mrs. Lewis Jones, Mrs. Hugh Echard, Mrs. John Reckner, Mrs. Thomas Browning, Mrs. Randall Kahl, Mrs. William Stemple, Mrs. Gerald Sanders, Mrs. Harold Trickett, and Mrs. James Hutchinson.

Grace Period For Student Loan Pay-Back Noted

A special six-month grace period that will allow borrowers of student loans currently in default to pay off their federally-guaranteed student loans without penalty has been announced by U.S. Secretary of Education Lauro F. Cavazos.

Under the student loan payoff program, which began on March 1, borrowers who have defaulted on these loans may contact the guarantee agency holding the loan and arrange to repay the loan in full before August 31, 1990. Payment in full of principal and interest due on defaulted loans will save these borrowers the cost of penalties, administrative charges, and collection fees — costs that can total up to 35 percent of the debt. Consumer credit reporting agencies will then receive notice that a loan has been paid in full.

This is a one-time opportunity for borrowers to satisfy the legal obligation of their defaulted student loans. Approximately 2.5 million borrowers are currently in default on $6.8 billion in student loans.

Northern High Students Present Variety Of Talent

Northern High School students recently presented and displayed a variety of talents to their parents and other members of the public by holding a talent show, fashion show, and art exhibit at the school. Over 100 students participated.

The talent show, directed by Betty Wellborn, consisted of a variety of acts, including vocal solos and duets, tap and modern dance, pianists, flutists, a gymnist, a comedy team, and a rock band. The winners of the show are pictured on this page.

Coordinating the talent show were Anna Mae Norris and Sonya Golden.

The students from the art department, under the direction of art teacher, Teresa Roberts, exhibited art work in many media, including paintings, drawings, and three-dimensional work.

The fashion show was staged by home economics students and directed by Barbara Law, home economics teacher. The students modeled the outfits they had made. Kim Green and Olila McElroy were the commentators, while Dana Friend and Robin Bender assisted the models with hair styles and make-up.

GRANTSVILLE NEWS

HEART CAMPAIGN

The Grantsville area completed its 1990 Heart Campaign, collecting $2,590 for local community programs and heart research. Through canvassing $942 was raised. Those volunteering were as follows: Mary Catherine Wiley, Louise McKenzie, Mary Kamp, Goldie Beachy, Annetta Yoder, Elizabeth Fullerton, Sharon Weimer, Sherry Carey, Tom Bender, assisted by Amie Jo McKenzie and Kay Yoder, May Shumaker, Elonda Bittinger, Rose Lee Folk, Genevieve Swauger, Orpha Wisseman, Ruth Harning, Mary Mills, Phyllis Bender, and Alice Younkin. All businesses in the area were visited by Phyllis Bender and Walter and Alice Younkin and $865 was collected.

Judy Sebold chaired all the parties and raised $783 at the three card parties at the American Legion. Different persons in the community donated items to be raffled off, while many others donated numerous gifts as prizes for the games.

Mrs. Alice Younkin and Phyllis Bender have chaired this program for many years for the American Heart Association. They attended as many meetings as possible to be aware of the different programs. They noted their appreciation to all who helped in any way to make this program a success and say they hope to do a better job next year "if health permits."

W.O.W. NEWS

The Woodmen of the World Lodge No. 41 began its meeting on March 26 with a covered dish meal. President Janis Pope welcomed the group and Walter Younkin gave the Invocation. Thirty-six persons shared a chicken dinner.

The fraternal project will be to help the Eastern Garrett Fire Department purchase a "Jaws of Life" tool.

Eight members are planning to attend the workshop at Hagerstown this Saturday, April 7 at 10 a.m.

The next meeting will be held on April 23 at 8 p.m. at the Woodmen Hall. Plans will be made for the Woodmen get-together on April at 3 p.m. A film will be shown afterwards on "Adopt a Highway" for the State Department.

PIKE FESTIVAL COMMITTEE ADVISED

William C. Jewell of the Maryland Department of Transportation, LaVale, attended the March 26 meeting of the National Pike Festival Committee in Garrett County. The purpose of his visit was to advise the committee on state regulations regarding the movement of a wagon train.

Wagon trains must seek and receive a permit before traveling on Maryland roads. Besides providing a permit, the Department of Transportation will send an advance vehicle and a rear arrow vehicle to accompany the wagon train. The itinerary and the times the wagon train will be traveling must be detailed and approved by the Department. All wagon train members operating under one permit will be required to stay together.

In Garrett County, the National Pike Festival will center around a wagon train and accompanying events. The dates, May 19 and 20, were chosen by towns and villages along the nation's first national road, U.S. Route 40. Now reaching from Frederick to somewhere in Ohio, the festival is expected to become a national event, perhaps as far as St. Louis. Last year's wagon train was Garrett County's first effort to join the celebration.

Other towns and communities along the National Pike, where the festival has been celebrated more than 15 years, report that the festival weekend is a major tourism event, bringing business to their communities.

Local Student On Winning ACC Forestry Team

A team of Allegany Community College forestry students, including one from Garrett County, beat out teams from larger schools in the region to take first place in a college bowl-style academic quiz held during a recent meeting of professional foresters.

The contest, held in conjunction with the Allegany Society of American Foresters' 68th annual winter meeting in Atlantic City, N.J., pitted ACC against three other schools in the region — West Virginia University, Rutgers University, and Pennsylvania Technical College in Williamsport.

ACC defeated Penn Tech in a preliminary match, then Rutgers, the host school, in the final round.

"We defeated well-respected forestry schools," said Steve Resh, assistant professor of forestry at ACC.

Resh described the quiz as comprehensive, covering "anything in forestry," with questions on topics from equipment to ecology.

Of the result, Resh said, "The guys were really excited about it. We're really proud of them."

ACC FORESTRY STUDENTS WIN QUIZ — Three Allegany Community College forestry students, including one from Garrett County, hold the plaque they won for their first-place finish in a recent academic quiz among ACC and other colleges and universities in the region. The three, from left, are Darwin Bergdoll, Petersburg, W.Va., Scott Burroughs, LaPlata, and Rodney Lipscomb, Grantsville.

The three members of the ACC team were Darwin Bergdoll, Petersburg, W.Va., Scott Burroughs, LaPlata, and Rodney Lipscomb, Grantsville.

This is the third year there has been a contest among schools attending the foresters' meeting, and ACC has won twice.

Eight ACC students, along with about 40 from the other schools, went to the convention. It was attended by approximately 250 professional foresters, many representing paper and timber companies and state agencies.

Aside from the learning opportunities at such conventions, Resh said, there is "a lot of sharing" between the two groups, which leads to "real good exposure for students. The students must learn that forestry is a profession and not just a job."

Severe Storm Awareness Week Is Proclaimed

Governor William Donald Schaefer has designated April 22-28 as Maryland Severe Storm Awareness Week. David McMillion, director of the Maryland Emergency Management Agency, said, "We've been fortunate in Maryland in that we haven't suffered the recent large scale devastation which plagued many parts of the United States during 1989. However, that doesn't mean that Marylanders shouldn't plan for severe storms."

Maryland Emergency Management Agency officials recommend that all citizens maintain a fresh supply of batteries for portable radios, flashlights, etc., should a severe storm strike, these items would prove essential for coping with ensuing events, McMillion said.

During emergencies, Marylanders are advised to tune to their local radio or television station for safety and other official information. It is hoped that during this week, Marylanders will plan how they and their families will deal with a severe storm regardless of the type or magnitude of the storm.

For further information on what to do to prepare for a severe storm's wrath, persons may contact their local emergency management agency or visit the public library.

Aurora Man Donates Over 1,500 Volunteer Hours To Local Hospital

In the past five years one man has logged in over 1,500 hours of volunteer service time at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Willard "Mike" Harsh, a native of Aurora W.Va., has donated much of his spare time to brightening the hospital stays of countless people. Every holiday each hospital patient and Meals-on-Wheels recipient receives a special favor handmade by Harsh.

Each of 11 holidays per year, Harsh makes favors for 60 to 70 hospital patients and 24 Meals-on-Wheels recipients.

He handcrafts the items, often they are refrigerator magnets, using holiday motifs.

Harsh estimates that he spends 20 to 30 hours per holiday working on the favors, however, the time spent varies, depending on the project. This past Christmas Harsh worked with the dedication of Saint Nicholas himself, as he spent roughly 50 hours constructing Christmas magnets, using real holly leaves and pine cones.

Harsh finds ideas for patterns and materials in craft shops and magazines. He then places orders for craft supplies from a supply house located in Florida. According to Harsh, personnel at the supply house tell him he is the only man to call regularly to place orders for craft supplies. Garrett County Memorial Hospital reimburses Harsh for the cost of his supplies.

This past Valentine's Day, Harsh sewed and stuffed hearts for the patients. The hearts were decorated with flowers and bows.

For a recent St. Patrick's Day project, Harsh ordered 54 yards of chenille (similar to a "pipe cleaner") for refrigerator magnets. With the left-over materials, he crafted decorations for the hospital dining room.

Harsh has been crafting favors for patients since Christmas 1988. Prior to that time, he worked in the hospital's Cardio-Pulmonary department, equipment maintenance, and volunteered in the hospital kitchen.

He began crafting favors for hospital patient trays at the suggestion of his mother. Having worked in the hospital's Dietary department for 17 years, she felt the patients food trays needed a festive touch for the holiday season.

Two of Harsh's sisters, Connie and Naomi Harsh, also volunteer at the hospital. Connie makes decorations for the cafeteria and Naomi volunteers in the laundry and kitchen.

It is impossible to know how many persons are touched by Mike Harsh's labor of love, but occasionally he does hear from grateful patients.

One lady who received her favor on a Meals-on-Wheels tray sent Harsh a thank you note.

Last Fourth-of-July, a hospital patient wrote him a note on her silverware paper. A 70-year-old woman, she stated that this was the first Fourth-of-July she ever spent away from home and that his gift meant a great deal to her.

Considering the amount of time spent each year on handcrafting patients' favors one is moved to question whether Harsh will continue donating time to such a large task.

Harsh, smiling, takes no time to consider the answer, "Oh yeah. I think it's fun."

Gospel Group To Give Concert In Loch Lynn

The Brothers in Faith, a gospel music group, will be appearing at the Loch Lynn Church of God April 8 at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

The group, consisting of Todd Marple, Buck Dayton and Mark Reeder, have been taking their ministry of word and song throughout Maryland and West Virginia for the past three years. According to a church press release, "The main emphasis has been in presenting the truth of the Gospel and standing on the promise that God will raise up a people that will answer his call in these last days."

The church is located on First Avenue in Loch Lynn. The Rev. Robert Fletcher, pastor, extends an invitation to the public.

Westvaco Gives Trees To GCC

Garrett Community College will be the recipient of 500 disease-resistant Liberty Elm trees presented by Westvaco Corp. As part of that company's response to Governor William Donald Schaefer "Treemendous Maryland" program. The college will receive 100 trees each year for a five-year period, through the Elm Research Institute of New Hampshire.

The trees will be approximately two feet in size when they are received, but will double their height each year for the first three years. They will be planted together until they reach a height of 5-7 feet, at which time they will be replanted at desired locations.

The Liberty Elm was selected for this donation because it is fast growing, hardy, and resistant to extremes in temperature. Garrett Community College is one of four colleges in this area to whom Westvaco has committed to underwrite the planting of these disease resistant trees. Ten communities will also receive trees, with a total of 7,000 being donated. The donation of these trees is also being done in recognition of Earth Day April 22.

Eastern Garrett VFD To Host Dinner

The Eastern Garrett County Volunteer Fire Department will be serving a spaghetti dinner on Saturday, April 14, from 4 to 8 p.m.

The $3.50 ticket for adult includes: salad, beverage, bread, and "all-you-can-eat" spaghetti and meat sauce.

The Ladies Auxiliary will be holding a bake sale at the same time.

Mikulski Notes Appointment Of EPA Liaisons

Senator Barbara Mikulski has announced the dual appointment of LaJuana S. Wilcher, assistant administrator for water at Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) headquarters, and Edwin B. Erickson, Regional Administration for Region 3, to work with Governor Schaefer and other Maryland officials in resolving Maryland's wetland issues.

"This is great news for Maryland," Mikulski said. "These are our 'ambassadors' to help us cut through the bureaucracy. We must formulate a common sense program that will effectively protect our wetlands — and is in the best interest of Maryland's residents. These appointments are evidence of our commitment to solving the outstanding issues surrounding federal wetlands policy with a joint effort between local, state, and federal officials."

Last month, Mikulski wrote to EPA Administrator William Reilly requesting the appointment of a high level "Ambassador" to work with Maryland. Mikulski, chair, VA, HUD, and Independent Agencies Appropriations Subcommittee, also raised the issue of an EPA designee during her recent Subcommittee hearing on the EPA budget.

Tent Caterpillars And Gypsy Moths Are Different

Spring in Maryland usually is announced by the appearance of Eastern tent caterpillar nests in trees across the state. Whether in trees along roadsides or in residential areas, the tent caterpillar, a native of Maryland, is everywhere, according to the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

Wild cherry trees are the favorite host, along with apple, crabapple, plum, peach, pear, rose, hawthorn and certain shade trees.

Eastern tent caterpillar infestations are often mistakenly confused with gypsy moth infestation. However, gypsy moth caterpillars hatch two to three weeks laters, do not produce silken tents in trees, and are more commonly found on oak trees than are Eastern tent caterpillars, according to the Department.

Full-grown caterpillars of the two species appear different. Tent caterpillars are 2½-inches long, with a solid white stripe along the back, and a row of pale blue oval spots on each side. The body is covered by long, fine, light brown hairs.

Gypsy moth caterpillars are about the same size, but are distinguished by five pairs of blue spots followed by six pairs of red spots on their back. No other caterpillar has these distinct markings.

Eastern tent caterpillars eggs usually start to hatch in early to mid-April. This year, because of the unusually warm weather, the eggs are hatching now and young caterpillars are building silk tents where tree branches join together. Caterpillars leave the tent only to feed, and continue to enlarge the tent as they grow. When fully grown, they leave the trees in search of hiding places to spin cocoons. After two weeks, adult moths emerge to mate and the females lay eggs. There is only one generation each year.

If caterpillars are abundant, they may eat all the leaves on a tree. While this may weaken the tree, it seldom kills it. Defoliated trees should be watered and fertilized, if possible. On small ornamental trees, physical removal of tents is a good control practice.

High value ornamental plants, or trees have been defoliated two or three years, can be sprayed with an insecticide from now until late April. Once caterpillars leave the trees, control is much more difficult.

Because the tent caterpillar is a native North American insect, outbreaks are usually controlled by naturally occurring parasites or predators. In contrast, the gypsy moth is an introduced insect with few natural parasites or predators. Under a federal quarantine to limit its artificial movement, gypsy moth defoliates and may kill oaks and other hardwood trees in urban residential or rural areas. To reduce widespread tree mortality, the Maryland Department of Agriculture conducts a statewide gypsy moth suppression program. Each home owner should take steps to limit damage done by the gypsy moth to landscape trees or shrubs.

For information on ways to control Eastern tent caterpillars or gypsy moth, persons may call the County Cooperative Extension Office

Day-Use Areas Now Open At Randolph Lake

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Jennings Randolph Lake has announced the opening of the day-use areas for the 1990 recreation season. The Maryland overlook is now open for day use activities. The overlook, which is said to have one of the most scenic views in Maryland, also has a half-mile long bird attractor trail complete with waterfall and pond. This overlook is accessible from Maryland Route 135 by either Walnut Bottom Road or Chestnut Grove Road.

Also opening this past Sunday was the West Virginia overlook, home of the "Waffle Rock," a rare geological formation. The picnic area, which sports a volleyball court, children's playground, barbeque pit, and two covered picnic pavilions also opened on April 1 along with the Howell Run boat launch. All are accessible from West Virginia Route 46, five miles north of Elk Garden, W.Va.

The campground will be opening Friday, May 4.

Work Underway On Deep Creek Medical Center

Renovations are currently underway at the Deep Creek Medical Center, a convenience medical facility sponsored by Garrett County Memorial Hospital, in preparation for the grand opening slated for early summer of 1990.

This medical facility, located along U.S. Rt. 219 across from the Point View Inn, will be staffed to treat immediate healthcare needs.

"We're very excited about getting started at the lake. The hospital has been considering this for years and it's great to see the renovations and hiring of staff in progress," commented Jim Harvey, director of program development at Garrett Memorial.

The Deep Creek Medical Center will be open 365 days a year from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. It will be equipped with X-ray, EKG, and limited lab capabilities. Although appointments may be arranged, walk-ins will be welcome.

For more information, persons may call 334-2155, ext. 324.

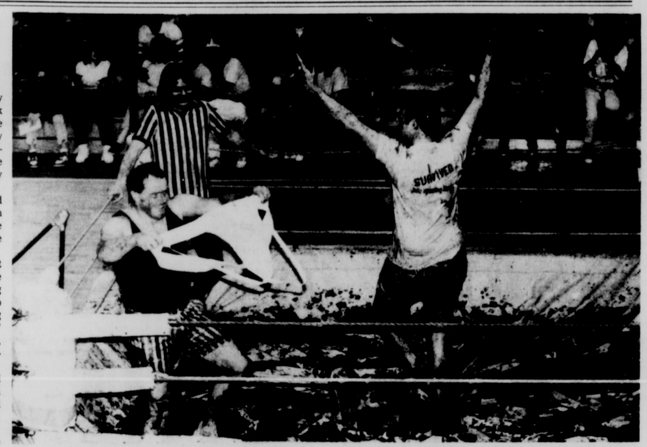
Crellin Man Held On $20,000 Bond

A Crellin man is being held in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $20,000 bond for charges of child abuse and battery.

Larry Gaile Streets, 22, was charged after an investigation by the Maryland State Police and the Garrett County Department of Social Services.

Streets was apparently taking care of a nine-month-old girl on March 21 at an Oakland residence. The infant was injured and was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital and later transported to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., where she was hospitalized for ten days, part of the time in the intensive care unit.

Tfc. R.J. Resh arrested Streets for child abuse and battery last Thursday.



BRASKEY CLAIMS VICTORY — This newspaper carries numerous photos of the Garrett County Commissioners, but rarely do any of the three county leaders appear as Commissioner Braskey does in the above photo, a shot taken immediately following a Jello wrestling match with Northern High School wrestling coach, Lynn Brenneman. Although Braskey claimed victory over Brenneman, the Northern coach took away some crucial "support" from Braskey during the match. The tournament, which was sponsored by the junior class of Northern, featured numerous bouts between students, school staff, and local "celebrities," who thrashed each other about in some 1,400 pounds of lime Jello. Fires Damage Grantsville House, B&L; Destroy Deer Park Trailer

A Grantsville house was extensively damaged, a small trailer in Deer Park was destroyed, and a local industrial plant sustained an estiamted $3,500 in damage this past week as a result of fires.

Grantsville and Accident volunteer fire fighters were summoned to the two-story home of the Wayne Resh family, located along U.S. Route 40 at the west end of Grantsville, just after 1 p.m. Upon their arrival they found the kitchen ablaze, with flames spreading into the adjoining dining room and living room.

According to Grantsville Fire Chief Herman Yoder, the fire damage was primarily contained in the kitchen, however there was a lot of heat and smoke damage throughout the house. Mrs. Resh told Yoder that she was upstairs when she heard a popping noise coming from the kitchen. Upon discovering the fire, she grabbed her infant and ran to a neighbor's house to call for assistance.

Yoder said that the fire probably originated from food being left on the stove. Because the nearest fire investigator was in Washington County at the time, the request for an investigator was cancelled.

Also responding to the scene were the county air cascade truck, presently being housed at Bloomington VFD, and the Northern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

The cause of a Monday evening blaze that destroyed a 15-foot travel trailer in Deer Park is still under investigation, according to James Martin, deputy state fire marshall.

Deer Park and Oakland fire fighters were called to the trailer, owned by Robert Rhodes and located just off Boiling Springs Road, at 7:56 p.m. Upon their arrival they found the trailer fully involved in flames.

Martin estimated the loss to be $2,500.

Nathaniel R. Emory Receives The Dr. Glotfelty Humanitarian Award

Ruth DiPaolo and Nate Emory

A new award presented for the first time this year at the Garrett County Annual 4-H Achievement Dinner and Program last Saturday night, was the Dr. Scott A. Glotfelty 4-H Humanitarian Award.

The award is given in memory of the late Dr. Scott A. Glotfelty by his mother, Ruth DiPaolo, and the Glotfelty family. It is designed to recognize a 4-H member for his or her humanitarian efforts, not only skills but the use of those skills as they relate to helping others in their club and community.

The award was presented by Mrs. DiPaolo to Nathaniel R. Emory of the Bittinger 4-H Club. "Scott would be proud," Mrs. DiPaolo said, and congratulated Emory on reaching out to his community when and where he observed a need, be it in assisting in youth activities as a leader or spear-heading assistance for families in crisis in his community.

"His actions not only helped these families, but taught others, especially the 4-H'ers who worked with him, the need for compassion and involvement where need is seen, and the warm glow that accompanies such actions," Mrs. DiPaolo said.

The late Dr. Glotfelty was a 4-H member in Garrett County for 12 years, a graduate of the University of Maryland, and the Maryland/Virginia Veterinary School. Upon graduation from veterinary school, Dr. Glotfelty received the David M. Bogash Memorial Award for humanatarian services. At the time of his death, he was serving as a member of the Peace Corp in Togo, Africa.

When introducing the award, Mrs. DiPaolo said, "We chose as a fitting epitath for Scott the following quote: 'I expect to pass through this world but

Logging At Garrett Forest Trails To Take Place Despite Protest

The cool basement of the Herrington Manor State Park office building heated up Tuesday evening approximately 50 local residents gathered to hear an awaited decision as to whether or not a small tract of land used for skiing and hiking trails would be logged for timber. That question was answered quickly as John Mash, Department of Natural Resources regional forest manager, stood before the group and emphatically stated, "We will have a timber sale in this area."

Recently, when the Herrington Manor State Park Advisory Board learned of DNR's plans to selectively cut trees in an area of land known as Garrett State Forest, opposition from the group was voiced, stemming from their contention that trails and the surrounding areas would lose their aesthetic appeal as a prime recreational area.

The area in question is bordered by Sanders Lane and Herrington Manor State Park. The advisory board members have offically voted 4-1 in opposition of the plan.

A meeting was held early last week where these concerns produced questions fielded by Mash regarding the reasons for this cut. Responding to the group's opposition, DNR's Forest, Park and Wildlife Service reportedly promised to take those concerns under advisement.

This week's public meeting, which consisted not only of members of the advisory board, numerous other concerned residents and foresters and loggers as well, was opened with these remarks by Mash, "We promised we would end all rumors tonight. So, here it is: We will have a timber sale in the area."

He added, however, that amendments to the proposed cut had been made as a result of the group's concerns, including expanding the buffer area on either side of the trails by an additional fifty feet. This would bring the total buffer area on either side of the trail to 100 feet and that area would not be cut, he said.

Also, as part of the compromise, Mash stated that the area intended for cutting was reduced form 125 acres to 92 acres.

Mash continued, "We had a final look at the area this afternoon and it was agreed that we

Frostburg Man Gets Three Years For Sex Offense

A Frostburg man was sentenced to three years in prison on charges of third degree sexual offense and assault and battery during a trial held last Thursday in Garrett County Circuit Court.

David Wayne Sines, 24, was found guilty of both charges at a January 11 jury trial. During the trial an additional count of child abuse was entered nolle prosequi in open court by order of the State's attorney. A charge of fourth degree sexual offense was dismissed by agreement of counsel.

Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer presided over the trial and ordered a pre-sentence investigation after the verdict came in.

Thayer merged the charge of assault and battery with that of the third degree sexual offense when handing down the sentence.

According to court documents, charges stemmed from various incidents involving a young female child. The incidents allegedly occurred over a two-year period.

Sines was represented in court by Thomas N. Berry and Earl E. Manges, co-counsel.

BRASKEY FILES FOR RE-ELECTION — Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey, in a rather unusual manner, announced this week his filing for re-election for a third term as county commissioner. Braskey is pictured here at a special campaign rally held for him last night in the Courthouse rotunda, which was attended by prominent Democrat leaders from around the county. In reality, this shot of Braskey (or Dog Face) was taken last night at a Jello wrestling tournament at Northern High School, an event in which Braskey met his match against Northern High Coach Lynn Brenneman. (Sorry, John. We know that April Fool's Day was over a week ago, but with this photo, we just couldn't resist. You may want to talk to us about our being your campaign manager.) The Garrett County Sheriff's Department is currently investigating a hit-and-run accident involving two vehicles traveling on Route 135.

Jason Ernest Martin, Loch Lynn, reported that a vehicle struck his vehicle from behind while both were traveling westbound on Route 135.

Several attempts to communicate with the driver following the mishap were fruitless and the police are now looking for the hit-and-run driver involved in the accident.

There was a passenger in the Martin vehicle at the time of the accident. No injuries were reported.

Damages to the Martin vehicle have been estimated at $226.60. According to Deputy D.L. Crossland, the investigation is continuing.

Commission On Higher Education Approves Progress Report On GCC

Garrett Community College was informed this week that the Commission on Higher Education of the Middle States Association approved its progress report and the report of the Small Team that had visited the college in October 1989. The Commission noted GCC's progress in addressing concerns it had previously raised.

The Commission had reaffirmed GCC's accrediation November 16-17, 1988. Its new acknowledgment of GCC's progress keeps that reaffirmation in force.

As part of its action, the Commission is requiring GCC to make another progress report by October 1, 1991, this time detailing its success in integrating its strategic and financial planning with its Management Information System.

The college is preparing to purchase the computer hardware and software necessary to integrate its institutional research and planning.

On June 1, 1993, GCC will make a Periodic Review Report to the Commission. This report is an extensive five-year review and is required of all regionally accredited institutions of higher education. The 1993 date restores GCC to the normal accreditation cycle. This cycle had been interrupted five years ago when the college experienced difficulties. The Commission's decision reflects GCC's progress since that time.

Commenting on the Commission's action. Dr. Steve Herman, GCC president, said, "I couldn't be happier. The faculty and staff at GCC really pulled together. They turned GCC around. I'm proud of what they accomplished, and I'm proud that an enternal agency recognizes our progress."

Kitzmiller Man Gets Five Years For B&E, Assault

A Kitzmiller man was sentenced to five years in prison on charges of assault and breaking and entering a dwelling house during a trial held last Thursday in Garrett County Circuit Court.

Paladin Shane (Skippy) Roy, 27, pleaded guilty to both charges at a February 8 trial and Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer accepted the plea. During a January 4 hearing Thayer had rejected an earlier plea of guilty to a lesser charge of reckless endangerment in place of the assault charge.

Last Thursday Thayer sentenced Roy to four years in prison on the assault charge and one additional year in prison to be served consecutively with his four-year sentence for the charge of breaking and entering a dwelling house.

Charges stemmed from a September 24, 1989, incident at the residence of Golda Diane Paugh. According to court records Ruth Marie Roy, wife of the defendent, fled to her neighbor's home to escape the violent behavior of her husband. Roy allegedly followed his wife to their neighbor's house, armed with a nine to ten inch knife and broke into the dwelling. He reportedly lunged at his wife with the knife and later struck her head with his hand. According to reports Ruth was able to take the knife from her husband during the altercation.

Additional charges of burglary, assault with intent to murder, two counts of reckless endangerment, an additional count of assault, destruction of property and trespass were not prosecuted.

Roy was represented in court by John R. Toston.

In a separate sentencing hearing held last Thursday, Shawn A. Vance, 18, Deer Park, was sentenced to two years in jail, with all but 30 days suspended, on drug charges.

Vance pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of LSD and driving under the influence of drugs at a March 8 Circuit Court trial. Chief Judge Thayer ordered a pre-sentence investigation and continued Vance's bail at that time.

In addition to a 30-day jail sentence, Vance was fined $300 and placed on two years supervised probation. The conditions of his probation include alcohol and/or drug rehabilitation as required by the Division of Parole and Probation, and payment on schedule of a $300 fine and court costs.

Additional charges of possession with intent to distribute LSD, possession of marijuana, possession of drug paraphernalia and driving while intoxicated were not prosecuted.

Charges stemmed from Vance's November 11, 1989, arrest along Broadford Road. TFC R.T. Wilson, Maryland State Police, made the arrest.

Vance was represented in court by Deborah A. Lawson.

In an unrelated case, Barry John Shola, 27, Greensburg, Pa., was given a one-year suspended sentence for a charge of driving while intoxicated during a hearing held last Thursday in Circuit Court.

Shola pleaded guilty to the charge as well as to a charge of failure to drive right of center, for which no sentence was imposed. Chief Judge Thayer accepted both pleas at a March 22 trial.

In addition to handing Shola a suspended sentence, Thayer placed him on one year supervised probation. The conditions of Shola's probation are that he attend DWI school and alcohol rehabilitation and that he pay a $300 fine and court costs on schedule.

An additional charge of driving with a suspended license was not prosecuted.

Charges stemmed from Shola's December 31, 1989, arrest by Tpr. S.W. Vincent, Maryland State Police. He was arrested while driving southbound on Route 219 near Lake Shore Drive.

Shola was represented in court by Robert C. Hesson.

Ellis Nazelrod Struck By Auto. Still Hospitalized

Ellis William Nazelrod, 61, Foster Road, was struck by a car Friday afternoon along Route 219 North, just inside the city limits, according to Chief John Sines, Oakland City Police Department.

Nazelrod was attempting to enter a vehicle stopped along the right shoulder of the northbound lane of traffic when a 1984 Chevrolet driven by Kim Meade, 34, Oakland, approached the vehicle from behind and struck him.

According to police, the vehicle that pulled to the shoulder of the road to pick up Nazelrod was driven by Harold Wildesen. A second vehicle, driven by Veva Railey, stopped behind the Wildesen vehicle. The driver of the third vehicle, Meade, was unable to stop in time to avoid a collision so she swerved to miss the two vehicles ahead of her, went onto the shoulder, and struck Nazelrod.

According to police, Nazelrod flew over the top of the vehicle's hood and landed on the ground.

He was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad then transported to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., where he underwent various tests. He was later transferred back to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where he is listed in satisfactory condition.

Sgt. Roger L. Lewis, Oakland City Police Department, charged Meade with failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

impact the Soviet people directly. For decades Soviet planners have been assigning economic tasks to the various regions and republics in accordance with their natural resources, climatic endowments, etc. Uzbekistan for instance was and is assigned the task of growing cotton; Western Siberia, producing crude; Karaganda, mining coal; Lithuania, developing seaports and putting out meat, grain; and so on. A disruption of economic activities in the sucession — minded republic would cause further hardships in providing food the hard-pressed Soviet population, a situation rectifiable by importing food and spending hard currencies not readily available because of declining reserves, budgetary deficits, and the usual problems of a mismanaged economy. Nor can one overlook the fact that a pipeline carrying oil to Eastern Europe from the USSR runs through Lithuania. Armed clashes between republic and Soviet units could disrupt the smooth flow of this vital resource, and given the world's, including our, growing oil needs and the likely ensuing increased demands on Middle East producers, fuel prices would increase, conceivably even affecting pump prices in remote Garrett County.

Politically Soviet policy aims at preventing bloodshed over the currently seeming impasse as regards Lithuania. Soviet guards are deployed at Lithuanian borders, as well as at other strategic and important locations and installations in the Lithuanian area. Armed Lithuanians, even lightly so, could have an unsettling effect on these Soviet guards and result in an incident or incidents whose repercussions might transcent Lithuanian-Soviet relations and undermine Gorbachev's astutely crafted policy of improving relations with the external world. Hence a Lithuania without guns would tend to negate such repercussions and mitigate the fear and "trigger happiness" of Soviet guards serving in what must be considered an uncongenial and hostile environment.

In short, Soviet policy towards Lithuania is grounded on factors transcending the confiscation of firearms so as to impose a tyrannical goverment.

Earth Week Events Slated At GCC: Recycling Expert To Speak

Several activities have been planned in conjunction with the observance of Earth Week at Garrett Community College, according to Ed Norman, the college's representative to the Earth Week Committee.

On Wednesday, April 18, at 7:30 p.m. in the college auditorium, Jack Martin, technical director of the Rock Forge Regeneration Project and a nationally-known expert on recycling, will give a presentation on recycling. Sometimes referred to as the "guru of garbage" or the "tycoon of trash," Martin says, "What we're trying to do is change the way we look at waste from stuff that you throw away to stuff that can be used." This presentation is open to the public, free of charge.

An Earth Fair has been scheduled for Sunday, April 22, at 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Student Center. This event will include a number of displays, as well as speakers from various county agencies and businesses.

As an on-going project the GCC Cabinet recently approved a recycling effort at the college. Receptacles for aluminium cans are already in place, with pians for recycling cardboard and computer paper to be implemented in the near future. A recycling committee consisting of Ed Norman, Joan Sussman, Beth Hurley, Jim Allen, and Phil Ouillette has been formed.

Sheriff's Dept. Investigates Local Thefts

Several incidents involving theft and property destruction are currently under investigation by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

John Steven VerKouteron, Swanton, reported the theft of a canoe and paddles from the lawn of his Yacht Club Road residence. According to the investigating officer, Deputy R.L. Sines, the theft occurred between March 30 and April 1. The canoe, a 16-foot Oldtown ABS plastic brown canoe, and two aluminum four-foot paddles were valued at $740.

In a separate case, Kenny Lee Fike, Mountain Lake Park, reported the theft of a three-wheeler from his residence along Crellin Mine Road. The theft occurred Friday or Saturday. The vehicle is described as a 1984 Honda 250-R three-wheeler, red and blue in color. The value of the vehicle has been estimated at $500. According to Deputy D.C. Welch, the investigation is continuing.

Lucy Marie Broadwater, Grantsville, reported a breaking, entering and theft that occurred Monday at her residence along Bear Hill Road. According to Corporal L.E. Gnegy the missing items, a 22 caliber revolver and a bb gun were valued at $150.

Braskey Seeks Re-Election As Commissioner

John G. Braskey, Garrett County Commissioner, representing District No. 2, has announced his bid for re-election to the office of Garrett County Commissioner.

Braskey stated, "It has certainly been an honor for me to be able to serve the people of Garrett County, and I have a strong desire to continue to serve and represent the fine people of this county."

He indicated that he felt the County is continuing to move in the right direction in all areas with an improved local economy, more jobs in the local market and a decreasing tax rate. He further stated. "The county's strong financial position has allowed for monies to be dedicated for funding future capital projects but at the same time allowing for continued delivery of good county services at a reduced tax rate. I believe, through our efforts in the area of economic development, we have assisted in the retention and expansion of existing business as well as a major effort in attracting new business. These efforts rewarded back to the county, a healthy economy and certainly a reduced unemployment rate.

"One of my goals when I first decided to seek the office of county commissioner, was to bring favorable recognition of Garrett County by state and federal governments," he stated. "I believe I have assisted, with favorable results, in developing the respect and recognition that Garrett County rightfully deserves. I believe through my efforts in the Maryland Association of Counties, of which I am the past president, I have assisted in developing a closer and more harmonious relationship with state and federal officials," he continued.

"Subsequently, the County has received above average treatment in grant funding and technical assistance. If re-elected, I will continue to develop this relationship for the benefit of the residents and taxpayers of Garrett County," he concluded.

Commissioner Braskey, a life-long resident of the county, will be running on the Democratic ticket. He resides in Grantsville with his wife Pamela and their two daughters, Tara and Dana.

He is an active member in the following organizations: The Grantsville Lions Club, St. Ann's Catholic Church, The National Association of Counties, The Agriculture and Rural Affairs committee, and he serves on the board of directors at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and is a member of the Governor's committee on Volunteerism and the Governor's committee on Tree and Forests.

Tom Gearhart will serve as Braskey's treasurer, during the election campaign.

Axle Load Bills Pass Assembly Near Closing

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards has announced that a five percent axle load tolerance for trucks carrying freshly cut forest products was approved by the General Assembly right before the offical close of the 1990 session which occurred Monday evening.

Edwards was the lead sponsor, along with the Garrett and Allegany County delegation, of House Bill 318, which was originally fashioned to allow a ten percent variance for truck drivers who load their products in the woods. This, Edwards has stated, makes it difficult for the trucker to have an accurate account of the weight over the axle.

Although Edwards was reportedly pleased that the legislation passed, noting that a five percent variance was better than nothing, he had hoped to get the ten percent variance.

Garrett and Allegany Counties are both heavily involved in the forest and timber industry, so this issue is an important one for this area.

Edwards explained that most of the opposition of the bill came from the Maryland State Police and and the Maryland Department of Transportation. He stated that the truckers were not asking for more gross weight, just an opportunity to shift the weight over the axles if they were found to be overweight in those areas.

Annual Oakland Easter Sunrise Service Slated

The annual Easter Sunrise worship service conducted by the Mountaintop Ministerial Association, in cooperation with Garrett County Memorial Gardens, will be held this Sunday, April 15, at 6:30 a.m.

The sermon will be delivered by Father Martin Feild, of St. Peter's Catholic Church. Other pastors participating will be Rev. Richard Tepper and Rev. John Grant.

The public is invited to attend. Memorial Gardens is located along Memorial Drive, just east of Oakland.

ATV Theft Under Investigation By Md. State Police

Maryland State Police are investigating several thefts, including that of a 1986 Honda all-terrain vehicle.

Keith Fisher, Friendsville, reported that between April 5 and 7, someone removed a 1986 Honda TRX-250 all-terrain vehicle from the yard at his home on the White Rock Road.

Tfc. G.R. Chaney is continuing the investigation.

Between the dates of April 1 and 9, someone entered the storage shed located at the Diesel Institute driving course at Keyser's Ridge. The suspect or suspects then removed a ten-ton jack and a battery charger from the building.

Tfc. R.T. Wilson is continuing the investigation.

Ernest Ray Porter Jr., Deer Park, reported the theft of an AM/FM cassette radio and several auto parts from a 1989 Ford truck, which was stored at the Hilltop Exxon in Grantsville. The items are apparently valued at more than $300.

Tpr. J.T. Bentlejewski is continuing the investigation into the incident, which apparently occurred sometime in March, but wasn't reported until this week.

Sheriff Reports Man Jailed On $60,000 Bond

A Foster Road resident is being held in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $60,000 bond, according to reports from the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Alvin Timothy Schrock, 35, was arrested last Thursday on a warrant charging him with felony theft. He was also charged with escape, resisting arrest and battery.

The latter charges stemmed from an attempted arrest that took place March 31. Corporal Gnegy served Schrock with the felony theft warrant and Schrock escaped while being frisked by the police officer. Schrock fled to a wooded area.

He was then arrested last Thursday by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department after he waived extradition from West Virginia. Schrock was charged with felony theft after he allegedly stole a chain saw from an Aurora, W.Va., resident and later sold the item to a Garrett County resident.

Schrock was arrested again Monday on the strength of a bench warrant charging him with failure to pay deferred payments to the court.

Marvin Eugene Guthrie, 20, Oakland, was arrested April 3 on the strength of a bench warrant issued by the District Court of Maryland. According to the arresting officer, Deputy D.M. Stoner, Guthrie was charged with failure to pay deferred payments to the court. He was later released after paying $160 to the court.

James Leon Sidebottom, 30, Aurora, W.Va., was arrested last Thurdsay and charged with driving while intoxicated. Deputy J.D. Murphy made the arrest along Route 219 South at Monta Vista Road. Sidebottom was released later that day after posting $300 bond.

Scott Schoeller Gonder, 20, Oakland, was arrested Friday and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and fleeing and eluding a police officer. Deputy Murphy attempted to stop Gonder and a chase ensued on Jasper Riley Road, Pleasant Valley Road, Lyndale Road, and ended on Smouse Road. Murphy allowed Gonder to sign the citations and then took him home.

Robert Walter Stemple, 52, Star Route 2, Oakland, was arrested April 3 and charged with driving while intoxicated. Deputy Murphy made the arrest along Route 219 South and released Stemple into his wife's custody.

David Francis Kennedy, 47, Farmington, Pa., was arrested April 4 on the strength of a bench warrant issued by the District Court of Maryland. Kennedy is charged with failure to appear in court on February 16, 1989, to answer charges of driving while intoxicated and driving while in possession of a revoked license.

Men Arrested By Sheriff's Dept. For Child Abuse

Two area men were recently arrested on child abuse charges, according to reports from the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Charles Eugene Frye, Jr., 27, Friendsville, was arrested last Thursday and charged with child abuse and battery. The charges stemmed from an alleged March 29 incident in which Frye repeatedly beat a young child on the back, according to reports. He also allegedly struck the child in the head, and threw him against a wall.

An additional charge of battery stemmed from an April 4 incident in which his wife, Cathy Jo Frye, was allegedly battered.

Deputy C.C. Feller made the arrest.

Frye was released from police custody after posting $100 bond.

Ray Everett Shillingburg, 31, Deer Park, was arrested last Thursday on a warrant charging him with child abuse, reckless endangerment, and assault and battery. Detective P.J. Kelly made the arrest. Shillingburg was later released on $5,000 unsecured bond.

Missing Census Forms To Be Hand-Delivered

Maryland residents who have not yet received a census form in the mail should continue to check their mailboxes, because the U.S. Bureau of the Census will be hand-delivering missing forms in the coming days.

Approximately 50,000 census forms in Maryland did not arrive at their intended destinations last week because of clerical and machine addressing errors, census officials said. The undelivered forms have been collecting in local post offices.

The Bureau of the Census has retrieved the forms and expects to finish hand-delivering them by April 11.

Anyone who has still not received a census questionnaire should call the census hotline, and give the operator his or her name and address. A form will be mailed to each caller, or a census taker will visit their home to ensure they are counted. The census hotline number is 1-800-999-1990, and is in operation from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily at least through April 15.

If the hotline is busy or unavailable, local persons should call the district census office in Hagerstown at 739-8520 (collect calls will be accepted).

The Easter Event . . .

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

The above quote is, or should be, quite familiar to those of the Christian faith, for whom the greatest of religious holidays is this coming Sunday. The event celebrated on Easter Sunday — the resurrection of Jesus Christ — is without question the single most significant occurrence in history for the Christian, for it is the death and resurrection of this man Jesus upon which the very foundation of Christianity is laid.

In the rapid-paced world of the 1990s, with all of our modern conveniences, computer technology, incredible strides in medical research, space travel, rapid transportation systems, it is easy for the Christian of today to forget about his faith and place activities such as worship well down on the personal priority list. We don't take time for such things as meditation, prayer, confession, and self-reflection. We stop just long enough to grab a dose of worship on the key religious holidays, or just often enough to assure those around us that we still want to be recognized as Christians. Because life is often so easy, there is a tendency to forget our Creator, to forget about our call to be disciples of Christ and all of the responsibilities that come with that call.

In the days when Christ walked upon the earth, the masses of humanity were an oppressed, captive, desperate people, with no hope of release from Roman control. They also lacked the many conveniences and technological advances that we enjoy today. One may claim that the people of that time truly needed someone like Christ, but that conditions today are much different and thus the importance of his presence and mission is far less.

Yet, while technology, conditions, and governance is indeed quite different today, one need only to consider the daily events of hostility, warfare, and tragedy to realize that the need for a Messiah is just as great today as it ever was, perhaps more so.

The main purpose of this column today is not to promote one particular faith, nor to criticize another. But even those who are of another faith, or have no faith whatsoever, cannot dispute that the way of life demonstrated by this man Jesus presents the best conceivable means for peace and harmony among human beings. There simply is no better way.

"Love God, and love your neighbor as yourself." The message is so simple, but the application is so difficult for us. For the Christian there is help, there is a way, there is truth, and there is life, all because of the Easter event.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Our class would like to thank the many people in the community who helped make our recent trip to Baltimore to sail on the Lady Maryland possible. We appreciate all the people who bought pizza rolls from us. We are very grateful for the donations made to our group by local organizations and individuals. Our thanks also to Mr. McCain, our teachers, and our parents for organizing this learning experience.

We sailed aboard the Lady Maryland on the Chesapeake Bay for five hours. Our lessons were on marine life, knot tying, wildlife of the bay, transportation on the water, sailing, navigation, and pollution of the Chesapeake Bay area. Our lessons made us aware of how much pollution can damage the environment.

Without the support of a caring school staff and a generous community, we would not have had this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to sail on the Lady Maryland.

Sincerely,
Crellin School

To the Editor:

As a septuagenarian and resident of Shallmar for over fifty years, and one of the many people, over time, who have given of their time, sweat and money for the maintenance and continuous operation of the old Shallmar water system, no bureaucrat will ever convince me that the water we take from Short Run is not good water. It's better and more healthful than most of the water being drunk in many large metropolitan areas. And you can throw in Kitzmiller water. The Wolf Den Run, from which their water is taken, is a dead stream and has been for decades.

Where native trout thrive, as they surely do in Short Run, people have little to fear. Does it contain some bacteria? Of course, it does! that's what nature is all about. A glass of treated water, exposed to the air for a matter of minutes, suffers the same fate. Depending on where you are, it may be worse than anything you can find in a selfpurifying, tumbling mountain stream like Short Run, where sensitive native trout abound.

In my considered opinion, the time honored adage that "figures don't lie, but liars can figure," applies here to a large degree. The Maryland Department of the Environment, and others, have their own "agendas" in this matter . . . and they have very little to do with the safety or welfare of the residents of the impoverished town of Shallmar. The record of bureaucratic abuse speaks for itself.

Respectfully,
Kenneth Bray
Shallmar

To the Editor:

After having been told on many occasions by personnel working at the Garrett County Courthouse that, "The Tax Maps, which are recorded there really do not mean anything," I am absolutely appalled. Why are my tax dollars being wasted? Garrett County has one of the highest tax rates in all of Maryland, and one of the poorest record recording systems that anyone would ever care to witness. My tax dollars, along with everybody else's, pay Courthouse officials to record and keep as a matter of public record certain records, and trust that they do this, correctly! Therefore, keeping this in mind, I have a few points to ponder with anyone who is taking for granted they are getting their money's worth. I have tracked down certain people, along with their family trees, and find that throughout the years, things just have not been quite as kosher as they would appear to be in our court records. I say "our" meaning the public in general.

I am sick and tired of hearing such trash as, "these records really don't mean anything," or "this is just used for tax purposes and nothing else." I mean, come on people, do you really believe everybody is that stupid.

The purpose of this letter is not to get on somebody's case as much as it is to just let the public know exactly what is going on. That is, the ones who care, anyway! There are a lot of people who would just as soon not have things of this nature get out. But after all, it is all a matter of public record. That is, if, you can find it, and, if, it hasn't been revised, or, if, it would mean anything anyway?

My conclusion is, that if all of these public records which are recorded really do not mean anything, then why take our tax dollars to pay someone to record them? Why would we, (the taxpayers) even need anyone to bother? It is in my opinion, that our tax dollars are being wasted some kind of bad, and somebody needs a way to cover up what they are doing.

The newspapers may choose not to print my letter. They have done it before. But one thing is for certain, it will all come out in the wash. You, the editors of the newspaper, have every right to choose what you print in your paper, and just one plain (one ol' every-day taxpayers) views may not be suitable to your standards. But, just remember, you are taxpayers too.

Thank you for your time and consideration on this matter. I am quite sure you will be hearing more from me in the near future.

Respectfully,
Don Duckworth

To the Editor:

I have read the letter to the editor in the March 29 edition by members of the Herrington Manor State Advisory Committee, regarding DNRs plan to log the area next to the State Park. Their concern is well placed. DNR seems to have significantly increased its logging of Garrett County lands. It seems last year that every time I picked up an issue of The Republican, the DNR was advertising for bids to cut somewhere in Garrett County.

This seems to have occurred since we elected Mr. Schaefer as governor. I know that there are many things to spend state money on and that increased funds are needed for worthwhile DNR projects but I think the planned logging in Savage River and elsewhere has gone too far. I have been told by DNR employees that workers from all over the state have been brought to Garrett County to survey the state's forests.

Where is the money going and why so much logging recently?

The state lands in Garrett County are a big asset. I suggest some investigative reporting be done to determine what logging is contracted for, what is planned, how that compares to the past 20 years, and where is the money going? Garrett County citizens have the right to see these facts in their newspaper.

People don't come to Garrett County to see tree tops on the ground and tree stumps — they come to see trees.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Bruce D. Cable

To the Editor:

I'd like to thank both of Maryland's Senators Paul Sarbanes and Barbara Mikulski for cosponsoring the Tongass Timber Reform Act currently before Congress. This bill will help save a unique and special place, the Tongass National Forest in Southeast Alaska.

As a professional fishing guide, I've had the opportunity to help many people enjoy the wild country of the Tongass. Unfortunately, I've also seen firsthand the relentless destruction of the irreplaceable old-growth forests that make up the biological heart of this great country.

The U.S. Forest Service's operation in Southeast Alaska is widely recognized as the worst of any federal land management program. An incredibly destructive boondoggle, the Tongass timber program looses money hand over fist subsidizing two giant corporations which purchase public timber at a fraction of its true value. The companies' unprecedented 50-year timber contracts drive some of the most destructive forest management on record, and guarantee these corporations, one wholly foreign owned, a monopolistic hold on Alaska's timber resources.

It's a sad state of affairs to see a federal program that has gone amuck in an area that supports our countries highest population of bald eagles and brown bear!

I feel that true Tongass timber reform must include terminating the 50-year contracts, and protecting, as wilderness, 23 acres which are identified as vital fish and wildlife habitat.

John Muir once described Southeast Alaska as "a land of endless rhythm and beauty." People from Maryland who have visited this special place will understand when I say that we owe Senators Sarbanes and Mikulski a letter of thanks for their efforts in the fight to preserve our nation's largest and wildest national forest. Their address is U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510.

Sincerely,
Greg Petrich

To the Editor:

I could only laugh in amazement over a recent unsigned letter to the Editor which The Republican published concerning the Northern High School basektball team and coach Dave Bender.

But, indeed, it is no laughing matter.

It is no laughing matter when any newspaper publishes an unsigned letter, which cannot truly be verified. One of the easiest ways a newspaper can be slapped with a libel suit is by publishing unsigned, attacking letters to the Editor. Newspapers are liable for all that is printed, not just the words written by its staff or reporters.

It is no laughing matter when some of Northern's so-called athletic supporters verbally attack the character, integrity, and professionalism of one of their school's coaches, then find they do not have the decency or courage to sign their petition of grievance.

It is no laughing matter when the letter's authors, who reportedly had sons who played for Northern this year (we don't know if that is factual because the letter was unsigned, thus we must also question the truth of all statements in the rest of the letter), did not take the time to really get to know the person who coaches their sons and their team.

I can say with complete confidence that the authors of the letter do not truly know Dave Bender. I know Dave Bender, on a professional basis and on a personal basis. Those of us who know him, his love for basketball, sportsmanship, and teaching, on the court and in the classroom, know that the letter was packed with falsehoods and ignorance — ignorance of the quality of a person Dave Bender is, and ignorance of the game of basektball itself.

It is these types of things that do nothing but help bring down any athletic program. The authors of the letter proved they have little intentions of being positive supporters of Northern High School.

Dave has worked countless (and now we find, thankless) hours teaching and promoting basketball, from youth leagues to college in Garrett County and specifically to help upgrade the level of basketball at Northern High School.

A coach and school needs the support of everyone involved with the athletic program. Players, parents, alumni, and supporters of a team should first air any type of complaint to the coach and/or school, in private. Coaches yearn for support, and feedback (positive or critical) from supporters; not to be stabbed in the back at season's end.

To those who penned the letter, I have only one piece of advice: get to know the people who are responsible for your children's education and development (i.e., by attending Athletic Booster meetings, Meet and Squad nights, PTA meetings) before attacking someone publicly and not having the decency to reveal your identity.

Bender has played, coached, and been a clinician at many summer basketball camps, including ones at Duke University (you know, the team that has played in four of the last five NCAA Final Fours) and for unnamed persons to question and criticize his knowledge of basketball, and among the milder accusation claim that Northern "passed the ball too much . . ." and yet, "players were not taught even the basic of fundamentals" (of which passing is), indeed shows the basketball knowledge of the letter writer.

In closing, I can only hope Dave will not allow this wrongful verbal attack to bring him down. He deserves apologies from the letter writers and The Republican, which chose to print the unsigned letters, against policy, because it "appeared" students had been harassed. "Appeared" is a very weak verb, Mr. Editor. You, like the letter writers, should report facts — not what appears to have happened. Perhaps some of Northern's boosters have now shown they do not deserve to have a person of the quality of Bender, who ironically is a graduate and former player of the school. It is difficult to imagine what Northern could accomplish academically and athletically, if all of its graduates did only a tenth of what Bender has done.

We who truly know Dave know that his hard-work, ethic, preparation, knowledge and care for athletics, athletes, and academics would be greatly welcomed by all other schools and teams in the area.

Respectfully submitted and Signed,

Dear Mr. Mathews,

First of all, we are well aware of the libel laws concerning newspapers. Secondly, we did not publish a letter written by persons unknown to us. We never print anonymous letters. We must know who the writer(s) is before we even consider publishing them. The letter to which you refer was verified.

Thirdly, we never stated that Northern students had been harassed or that it "appeared" students had been harassed. In fact, we know of no incidence of harassment of any students concerning this issue. We merely explained that our policy occasionally permits the publishing of a letter without the name of the writer if, by exercising his/her right of free speech, the writer or members of his/her family may encounter some form of retaliation, such as the loss of a job, harassment at school, etc.

Probably the best example I can give you is a letter by the mother of a victim of sexual misconduct by a physician that was received by us several months ago. We chose to publish it without the name of the writer, as requested. If we had printed her name, the identity of her daughter would have been made public. She obviously did not want this to happen, yet she wanted desperately to express her thoughts and concerns. Should we have refused to publish her letter without her name? Some would say yes; some of us would say no. A strong case can be made on both sides.

It's a difficult decision. But we have learned that one should "never say never" when it comes to certain policies and procedures.

As for Dave Bender, he has come through this whole incident with flying colors, as we knew he would. Although there were two letters criticizing him, we have published numerous lengthy letters, such as yours, that affirm his character, both as a man and as a coach. Few people ever receive such extensive public recognition for their accomplishments.

LWV THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

LEAGUE BEGINS SERIES

On March 27 of this year the League had a local program planned as one of a series on the finances of county government. In the first program, Patty Glover, the Garrett County treasurer, gave us insight from that perspective. Future plans call for presentations from the commissioners' office and other bodies involved in the finances of Garrett County.

The objective of these programs is to educate League members, guests, voters and citizens on where the County funds come from and where they go. It is hoped this will put the electorate in a better position to intelligently review the county budget and make suggestions to county officials.

The Mind Wanders

Hug Your Dryer
by Pam Ashby

"Oh, please do your job," I sweetly beg. "Get those dishes clean. Come on. You can do it — and don't forget to rinse and dry them."

No I'm not requesting that one of my children wash the dishes. Rather, I'm talking to yet another major appliance — those wonderful machines that enhance our quality of life but enslave us to them at the same time.

More and more each day, I find myself at the mercy of tempermental, aging electronic devices.

A bit of advice: never, under any circumstances, lose your temper with an appliance. The consequences are unpleasant. I screamed at my dryer one day for taking too long to dry a load of jeans and it promptly rebelled. It quit doing anything. Then I noticed it would start running again if I put my full body weight against it and lay my arms across the top of it.

When I recounted this phenomenon to my husband, he laughed at me.

"Pam," he snickered, "your weight simply forced the latch on the door to make contact. The dryer doesn't really need a hug to function."

So he taped a penny to the inside of the dryer to make it work. I still give it a hug daily. You just never know.

I've also learned not to offend my oven by cramming a 30-pound turkey into it. I did just that last Thandsgiving and the oven repaid me by dropping the weighted-down rack onto the heating element below causing an impressive display of fireworks. Heating elements do not like obese turkeys. They don't like 30-pound fowl shoved into them either.

It's important to vacuum under the refrigerator regularly because if you don't it will be insulted and cough out dust bunnies when your mother-in-law comes to visit. This is humiliating.

Yes, I will continue to pat, hug, cajole and otherwise pamper my major appliances so they will work for me. At least they don't pass me by or roll their eyes when I ask them to do their chores.

To the Editor:

A couple of weeks ago I read a letter to the editor about the law in Garrett County. Although what I am writing about is on a different subject, I decided after reading it to tell my own story.

My son was sentenced by a local judge to three years in the Department of Corrections for an incident on a 4-Wheeler which took place on private property. The incident in question involved a sheriff's deputy who was at the property on a different matter. He saw my son on the 4-wheeler and apparently tried to stop him by stepping in front of it while it was moving. My son swerved to miss him and the deput lost his footing and fell in the mud.

The family who lived at the property saw the whole incident and assured us there was no way there would be charges filed because it was an accident and my son had done nothing wrong. Our family didn't think too much of it because we figured with three or more witnesses we had enough proof that, in fact, my son had done nothing wrong. Boy, were we surprised. My son had been living with a relative not far from this property. My daughter and I went to talk to him and found he wasn't home, but there were police cars there. One of the officers was the one who had the incident with my son. He came to the door and asked my daughter if he was at home. When she said no, he said, "Well, he'll be calling you from the jail because I will find him and this time I've got him."

When we found there were charges filed we contacted our so-called witnesses and found their memories about that night did not match what they had told us before. (In between times my son had broken off a relationship with the daughter of this family and I suppose when she decided not to come forward as a witness she also convinced her parents to do the same). Sound farfetched? Believe me if you know her you can believe it.

I know there are people reading this and saying that since he has been in trouble before, he deserves this stiff sentence. Well, they can talk all they want, but the charges my son has against him were not for drugs or some of the other crimes I've been reading about in the past few months, but usually for riding a 4-wheeler, as in this case, or a motorcycle (dirt-bike) without a license. I know my son has done things which are against the law and I'm not saying he should not be punished. But when the charge is one such as this, then I feel I have a right to speak out. As for the other crimes, my son did pay his debt to society by way of a fine or by spending time in jail.

Yes, I do feel the laws in Garrett County should be looked into because there are serious crimes which are taking place around here which can injure other people or in some cases take their lives (I'm speaking of the young drivers who are drinking and driving and being given a slap on the wrist, and are still doing the same thing).

I realize there are people who will take offense to this letter and the only thing I can say to them is, "If it was your son, you would be the one writing this and I would be the one reading it."

An Upset Mother,
Bessie Bowers
Oakland

P.S. I want to mention that my son was also given a $500 fine which, with being incarcerated in the Garrett County jail and being denied work release (even though he had a job to go to), he has been unable to pay. We have been told if the fine is not paid and he comes up for parole, it will be denied as long as the fine is not paid. Is this justice?

To the Editor:

I have lived in a HUD apartment for almost two years and I just recently was asked to move because I was cursing. It's not right. What happened to our beloved Constitution and the Freedom of Speech? I pay my monthly rent and I should have the right to say what I want in my own apartment! The next thing you know, a person will be asked to move because they have foot odor or something.

HUD is a government-funded program which provides a home or apartment for people who are disabled or living on a fixed income. The only problem is that the landlord at this place shows favoritism towards one particular person and discriminates against those like myself. I get a dog and have to get rid of it; another guy gets a dog and it gets to stay. I get yelled at for one thing that the other guy gets credit for. It's not right, what happened to the Equal Housing Opportunity Act?

In fact, what happened to all the rights our ancestors started and lived for? Why is it that the big people get by with what we little people get in trouble? It is no use to have a freedom of speech or whatever, because the way things are now, it was a waste of time for George Washington and Thomas Jefferson and all those good gentlemen who signed it. Besides, the only man who is perfect and He doesn't live around Friendsville. He's everywhere.

Sincerely yours,
Tilden Wilt

To the Editor:

Mr. D.W. Tucker's letter to the editor equating potential restrictive gun control laws in the United States with Soviet President Gorbachev's request to Lithuania for the turnover of hunting firearms (the only ones allowed the rank-and-file Soviet citizens) represents an oversight of factors involved in a very complex situation. In the U.S., gun control or not is a decision that Americans will make on merits having a minimal relationship to the Lithuanian situation. (The following should not be construed as defense of the Soviet President's policy, only an explanation thereof).

The Soviet position is premised on at least three considerations — military, economics, and political. The Baltic Republic is located in a strategic area that is headquarters for naval, air, and army installations and units. Therefore any loss or threat of loss of control over communication lines to the Baltic Sea, many of which run from the Soviet hinterland through Lithuania, poses what the Soviets consider threats to national security. Moreover Lithuania is located between the russian Federation and its Kaliningrad Province (old East Prussia), another important military area on the Baltic. Thus when Lithuanian authorities began to establish their own border posts and to talk about the formation of national defense units, alarm bells began to ring in Moscow. It is no coincidence that Soviet military have been very visible participants in discussions with Lithuanian leaders on Republic Independence.

Economically the Lithuanian situation and its ramifications

Logging

did the best we could. We think we have mitigated most of the concerns. We are not going to please everybody. We do feel the department has made a decision that took everybody's concerns into consideration."

When asked about the purpose of the sale from the timber, which reportedly will net approximately $100,000 (Garrett County will receive $25,000 of that revenue), Mash explained that one of the prime considerations was for the control of gypsy moth infestation. This could be accomplished, he said, by cutting out the older, more vulnerable trees (such as Oak) to increase the vigor of the stand. He added that a program of insecticide spraying would also be implemented in the area.

One of the main concerns expressed by those in attendance was the condition in which some previously timbered areas had been left after logging had taken place. Cited examples included an area in New Germany State Park at Monroe Run Vista where a clear cut had been made. One person in attendance stated, "When the clear cut was made at Monroe Run, we weren't supposed to see it. We look at that scar everyday we drive by."

Those opposed to logging in the Garrett State Forest area around the trails, generally indicated they were not opposed to all logging practices and some stated they were also not categorically opposed to the application of insecticide to suppress gypsy moth infestation. It was indicated by many, however, that they would prefer a "wait and see" program for that particular area, noting that it is designated as a multi-use area and that recreational and aesthetic concerns should take precedence over prospective revenues.

One member of the group inquired, "Wouldn't it be the better part of valor to leave this stand alone and make up the timber revenue elsewhere? Why can't you let this parcel of land alone? Why is it so important?"

To this, Mash responded, "It's important because we want to increase the vigor of the stand."

Another question concerned the department's fear of setting a precedent if concession of the group's requests was made in this case. Mash responded that some concern had been given to that issue but asked if the group might not be afflicted with the "NIMBY (Not in My Backyard) Syndrome."

Local forest managers and loggers were also on hand to present their opinions concerning timbering of that area. Most agreed that the cut, in the long run, alleviates the stress to a stand and that it promotes optimum growing conditions. As one stated, "This stand is being harvested with the idea to protect it. The stand is overstocked now — that causes more stress than a selective cut."

Several foresters also urged better communications between local citizens and foresters, stating that many of the group's concerns were shared by the foresters.

When one professional forester was asked if it was too late now for citizen imput, he stated, "I don't think it's ever too late. Any forest management plan has to have flexibility.

Mash assured the group that this timber cut would be monitored very closely. When asked how closely, he said, "We're gonna be on this guy (the logger who is awarded the contract) like fleas on a dog."

He stated that the logger is required by the contract to have a $10 to 15,000 bond, that the job would be completed by Labor Day and that the trails would be limed, fertilized, seeded and mulched after the completion of the job.

"We will try to leave it the way it was," he said.

Garrett Counseling To Provide Battered Spouse, Rape Services

The Garrett County Commissioners this week supported a proposal presented to them by representatives of the Garrett County Health Department, Garrett County Memorial Hospital and Garrett Counseling, Incorporated (GCI) to implement Battered Spouse and Rape Crisis service programs in the county.

Jay Cross, deputy health officer of the Garrett County Health Department, Jim Harvey, director of program developemnt at GCMH, and Jean James, president, and Jeri Rodeheaver, vice president, both of GCI Crisis Intervention Services, Inc., met with the commissioners to submit a proposal to apply for state funds to implement these services in the county.

Jean James stated that the battered spouse program will provide 24-hour hotline and shelter services for battered spouses and their minor children. It will also provide counseling, advocacy and accompaniment services. In addition, counseling, information and referral services will be available to the batterers.

The Rape Crisis program is designed to provide help to alleged victims of sexual assault. A 24-hour crisis hotline will be established which will provide counseling to adult and child victims. James also stated that ongoing counseling, as well as specialized therapy groups, will serve to help the victim overcome the emotional trauma affiliated with sexual abuse.

The staff will include trained professionals, paraprofessionals and volunteers. The program will be evaluated and monitored by the Com-

State Police Investigate Accident Involving Two Elderly Women

Maryland State Police are investigating several accidents which occurred over the past week, including one involving two elderly Oakland women.

Anna Mummert, 79, Oakland, was traveling southbound on Rt. 219 in Accident on Tuesday around 2:45 p.m., when her car struck the rear of a car which was legally parked along the curbside.

Both Mummert and a passenger, Bertha Power, 81, Oakland, were taken to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, where they were treated and released.

The parked car belonged to Rhoda Buckle, Accident.

Tfc. L.R. Rosage investigated the incident and charges are pending.

Roger Lee Pierce, 41, Lonaconing, was northbound in a Chevy Silverado on Friday around 10:45 p.m., when he was involved in a one-vehicle accident.

Cpl. R.V. Reid investigated the incident. Pierce was charged with reckless driving, willfully removing a vehicle safety device, failure to remain at the scene of an accident and driving an uninsured vehicle.

The drivers of two separate vehicles were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital after their cars collided.

Angela Kay Upole, 26, Swanton, was eastbound on Rt. 135, with one passenger, Malia Lynn Upole, 17-weeks-old. Upole was following a delivery truck. The truck apparently turned right onto Boiling Springs Road, obstructing the view of Robin Lynn Bittinger, 29, McHenry, who was attempting to pull into the intersection of the two roads from Boiling Springs Road.

Bittinger apparently pulled into the path of Upole's vehicle and Upole then struck the left rear of Bittinger's car.

Southern Garrett Rescue Squad responded and both Bittinger and Upole were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released. Malia Upole was not injured.

Tfc. R.T. Wilson investigated and Bittinger was charged with failure to stop at highway entrance and yield the right-of-way.

Crellin Students Sail The Bay On Baltimore's "Floating Classroom"

by Sherry Frantz

It was 4 o'clock on a foggy Garrett County morning when a busload of over 20 fifth-grade Crellin Elementary students, along with a few teachers, parents and their principal Asa McCain, embarked on the first leg of an adventure that would find them aboard the only pungy-style sail boat in the world, known as Lady Maryland.

The experience that took place on the 96-foot vessel that began its excursion from Baltimore's Inner Harbor, however, was not the beginning of the learning experience that occurred among the students. They had been studying the ship, the Chesapeake Bay and environmental concerns to save the bay for some time before the actual journey on March 30.

The whole learning process began back in early February when the students raised part of the funds they needed by selling pizza rolls. They also wrote letters to some area civic organizations, explaining that they still needed funds to make the trip a reality.

As Becky Sanders, their fifth-grade teacher explained, "Normally, we wouldn't have gone to such lengths to obtain money from outside sources for our projects, but this trip was a 'once in a lifetime' opportunity for the kids." She said that most of her students would never have that kind of opportunity except through the school system.

The students also handmade their very own Crellin Elementary School flag to fly alongside Maryland's flag during the trip. As soon as the students boarded the boat, they were instructed in the fine art of flag-raising by the ship's crew who talked them through the task.

Pride at the accomplishment of that task was evident from the look on their faces as the fragile flag held its own as mascot of sorts over the group's journey.

As the trip was about to begin, journalists and photographers from Maryland Public Television, The Sun and The Associated Press were on hand to capture the event and to interview some of the students and their principal as this was also a noteworthy event for the Baltimore area as well: It was the first trip of the year for Lady Maryland's fifth season. The Crellin students won acclaim for having travelled the longest distance of any students before them to make this bay journey.

The students, however, seemed to take their apparent notoriety in stride as they scrambled about to explore all the nooks and crannies of the large vessel.

As they hoisted the 80-foot high sails, they all worked seriously and cooperatively at the task before them, waiting for the next command from their captain.

"Up from behind!" shouted the captain, and they all dropped their lines and stepped back in unison.

Their minds as well as their bodies were challenged as they also broke into groups and studied every aspect of the bay, its wildlife, bird life and marine life. They also talked about the industry in and around the bay, the types of vessels travelling through it and some of the more commons cargos carried upon it.

Executive director of the Lady Maryland Foundation, James Bond (that's right), conducted a question and answer period. Garrett County should be proud of these students who answered question after question directed at them

They were truly well-prepared and, as Becky Sanders noted, "This is the kind of educational experience that will stick with them all their lives. When you add hands-on experience to the traditional classroom study, that's what happens." She said that she was very pleased at how well the children retained all the information they had studied.

Environmental aspects were very much stressed during the sailing experience as Bond spoke of the effort to save the bay (April 21 has been designated as Give A Day for the Bay) from pollution, both air and water, and questioned the students about ways in which they could be accomplished. Again, their grasp of the concept came shining through as they hurled correct (not to mention, astute) answers right back at him.

In keeping with the environmental theme, the students were even aware enough to pack their lunches in as much re-cyclable and biodegradable packaging as was available to them (which was difficult, according to Ms. Sanders, who along with her teaching assistant, Becky Beahm, scoured the local grocery shelves and were not met with an abundance of such packaging material.)

The experience, it seems, encompassed such a wide scope of learning experiences, it was indeed worth the long hours on the bus and the cold and rainy (almost debilitating) weather on the bay that day.

Principal Asa McCain is to be commended for providing such a once in a lifetime experience for these Garrett County kids, the teachers and assistants are to be appreciated for implementing such a high quality level of teaching methods, the parent volunteers for their involvement and caring about their children's education, and the students, most of all, for their eagerness to learn and their ability to help fashion a new generation of informed, aware citizens.

Those who attended are: Chris Guthrie, John Mayne, Justin DeWitt, Kevin Shaffer, Brandy Freeland, Sharon Ringer, Chris Channel, Kristie Sausman, Adam Park, Scot Schroyer, Deni Lynn, Joanna Koton, Erica Upole, Amanda Corby, Matthew Zimmerman, Clyde Holland, and Nancy Bittinger, pupils.

Becky Sanders, teacher; Becky Beahm, assistant teacher; Ellen Zimmerman, assistant; Nancy DeWitt, Janet Freeland, Dora Ringer, Tim Sausman, Robin Schroyer, Cheryl Shaffer, Debbie Upole, and Debbie Zimmerman, parents; Asa McCain, principal; Sherry Frantz, The Republican reporter; and Ralph Miller, bus driver.

SAVE THE BAY — Not only was this the name taken by this particular study group during the excursion on the Chesapeake Bay, it was also a main theme throughout the experience, as students are guided through their individual assignments by executive director, James Bond. Pictured above, left to right, are Debbie Zimmerman, parent; Nancy Bittinger and Adam Park, students; Tim Sausman, parent, and Bond.

munity Services Administration of the Department of Human Resources.

The location of these programs will not be publicized because of the potentially volatile situations for residents and clients. The Garrett County Sheriff's Department has approved the installation of an instant alert system directly to their office for crisis. In addition, a security system will be installed. On-site staff coverage will be available 24 hours a day for both programs.

It is estimated that the Battered Spouse Program will cost $237,064 in FY1991 to become fully operational. This figure includes a one time only start up cost for furniture, office equipment and audio visual instructional materials. The planned budget for FY1992 is $206,919 and for FY1993, $218,582.

The Rape Crisis program is projected to cost $117,896 in FY1991. Again, this figure includes start-up costs. The budget for FY1992 is $115,739 and for FY1993, $120,637.

The commissioners have signed a letter in support of this effort and have agreed to provide financial support by turning over monies collected from the issuance of marriage licenses to the group for help with operating costs.

The deadline for completed applications is October 31, 1990. Interested young people should obtain application information from Senator Sarbanes' office, 1518 Federal Office Building, Baltimore, Maryland 21201, or call Sharon Faraone of Senator Sarbanes' staff, (301) 962-4436.

Erwin Jack Porter, 43, Adah, Pa., was arrested for driving while intoxicated on April 3 by Tfc. L.N. Smith.

Soviet Journalist Will Speak At FSU Banquet

Vitaly Gan, a Soviet journalist who has interpreted American politics and social issues for the people of the USSR for more than ten years, will be the featured speaker at the Ramsay International Relations Banquet on Sunday, April 22, at 6:30 p.m. at the Cumberland Holiday Inn.

The banquet honors the late Dr. Hazel G. Ramsay, who taught history at the University over three decades and who was instrumental in founding the FSU International Relations Club (IRC). A portion of the proceeds from the banquet, sponsored by the IRC, FSU History Department and International Studies Program, will benefit the Ramsay Scholarship Fund.

Gan is the Washington Bureau Chief for PRAVDA, the largest paper in the Soviet Union with a daily circulation of 11 million. In addition to covering politics, he writes feature stories on "Life-Style in America." He has visited most of the 50 states, covering both news events that pertain to Soviet-American relations and human interest stories that have universal appeal.

Graduating from Moscow State University with a degree in journalism, Gan joined TASS (wire service) in 1970 and was sent to the U.S. where he spent a year and a half in New York and Washington. He returned to Moscow in August, 1972 and was the senior editor on the American Desk for two years. From 1974 to 1980, Gan was the White House correspondent for TASS. Returning to Moscow in 1980, he was the chief editor for TASS Foreign Service until October 1985 when he moved to PRAVDA and assumed his present position.

Gan has covered the Washington summit between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikal Gorbachev, American elections, Supreme Court decisions and most topics that a typical Soviet citizen is interested in reading about American life.

"As a Soviet journalist who has lived in the States for several years, Gan is uniquely qualified to discuss the effects of 'Glasnost' in terms of the broad topic of Soviet-American relations and also the effect it has had on his professional life," stated an FSU spokesman.

Reservations are needed for the event and should be made as soon as possible by contacting the FSU History Department at 689-4215.

Hood Students Initiated Into Honor Society

Fifteen Hood College students, including one from Garrett County, were tapped and initiated into Hood College's Keystone Chapter of Mortar Board recently. Mortar Board is a national honor society of college seniors, which recognizes in its membership the qualities of superior scholastic ability, outstanding and continual leadership, and dedicated service to the college community.

Leigh Knotts, daughter of Charles and Dorothy Knotts, Kitzmiller, and graduate of Southern High School was among the initiates, as was Misti Ridenhour, daughter of Allen and Rita Ridenhour, South Charleston, W.Va., formerly of Oakland. Ms. Ridenhour is also a graduate of Southern High School.

Contribution To Bay And Species Fund Climbing

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says 42,583 taxpayers have contributed $442,864 to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Fund on their state income tax returns. "More than 600 taxpayers donated $50 or more, including five returns which included donations over $300 each," Goldstein said. The average contribution continues to climb and is now $10.40.

Baltimore County leads the way with the largest number of taxpayers contributing (7,556), while Montgomery County taxpayers have donated the most ($98,150), with the second largest number of contributions (7,511). Fifty-nine Garrett County residents have contributed a total of $479.64.

Howard County had the highest percentage of participation, with 4.6 percent of its taxpayers who have already filed contributing to the fund.

The highest average contributions are coming from Talbot County, where 173 taxpayers have donated an average of $13.45. Montgomery countians donated the second highest average ($13.07).

"About three percent of the tax returns we've processed so far have contained contributions to the fund," the comptroller said, noting that the contribution activitiy continues to run ahead of last year's pace.

Goldstein reminded taxpayers that, while the contribution will be subtracted from their refunds or added to any additional tax they owe, it will be deductible on federal and state returns filed next year if they itemize deductions. "At the same time, taxpayers who donated to the fund on last year's Maryland return should be sure to include that donation amount in the charitable contributions category of their 1989 federal and state returns, if they are itemizing deductions," he said.

Comptroller Goldstein noted that all 15 Maryland income tax offices will offer these extra hours of assistance in addition to their normal weekday hour of 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.: Good Friday, April 13, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday, April 14, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., and Monday, April 16, 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m.

"If you want your Maryland return completed free of charge, please bring a completed copy of your federal return and all W-2 statements," he said.

The addresses and phone numbers of all 15 Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories. The statewide toll-free number for free state tax assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

James McRobie CAC Employee Of The Week

James McRrobie has been named as Employee of the Week by the Garrett Transportation Program of Community Action. McRobie joined the agency 10 years ago, working with the Weatherization Program as an installer. He has also served as an estimator. By way of promotion, he is currently positioned as production coordinator for weatherization.

In addition, McRobie served the Transportation Department as computer specialist. He is available for such functions as programming and operational aspects of the department's computer needs. In relation to his specialist position, he holds the necessary credentials, including data base management, training in Condor, Data Base III, Word Star Word Processing, Lotus 1, 2, and 3 spreadsheet and DOS. He is also specialized in basic programming and for two years he taught computer literacy basic programming at Garrett Community College's Oakland Center.

Linda Green, program director, stated, "There is just no way to measure the importance of Jim McRobie's work for our department. He is an invaluable resource. We depend on him for general computer knowledge, and in a crisis, his precise capability rings true. In addition, he is personable and is able to put the computer operator at ease, even in adverse conditions. I admire him in his capacity to evaluate a situation and execute a quick remedy. We are pleased to have Jim working with us."

Aside from his computer knowledge, McRobie has a keen interest in amateur (HAM) radio. When informed of his selection as Employee of the Week, McRobie commented, "I find that it is rewarding to help individuals who have difficulty helping themselves. Also, I like to work with the elderly. They need to know that someone does indeed care about them, and it gives me pleasure to provide a necessary service that may otherwise elude them."

McRobie is a U.S. veteran, having served as a first lieutenant in the Maryland National Guard. He is an avid fisherman and also enjoys spending time with his four children and nine grandchildren.

McRobie's church affiliation is with the Bethel United Methodist Church. He resides in Mt. Lake Park with his wife.

Wisp Golf Club Slates Tourney For Habitat

The Golf Club at Wisp will host the 1st annual "Golfer's Scramble for Habitat" on Friday, June 1. The golfing event is intended as a fundraiser for the Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, and is expected to attract the support of local businesses and golfing enthusiasts.

"We are pleased to announce the offering of a super sporting event," said a spokesman for the Habitat for Humanity golf tournament organizing committee. "The purpose of this tournament is to attract area golfers or businesses who would appreciate an opportunity to have a great day of fun golf, who value the service that the local Habitat for Humanity provides our community, and who like the idea of using their time and money in the support of a worth while cause."

The Garrett County Habitat for Humanity is a not-for-profit corporation that seeks to assist local families who want to purchase or renovate a home and who do not qualify for conventional financing. Selected families purchase their own home with no interest loans secured by Habitat for Humanity. The organization has assisted in the building of 18 homes and the improvement of 40 others since 1983, with the support of local churches, businesses, and individuals in Garrett County.

Accidental Discovery May End Obesity

Suppresses calorie absorption

SWEDEN—Medical researchers at the University of Kuopio, in Finland, have discovered (accidentally) a new weight-loss formula. The new discovery appears to enable an overweight individual to lose pounds and fatty tissue without conventional dieting or exercise.

Scientists made the discovery while searching for a formula to lower cholesterol. In a controlled study of a test group of people, cholesterol levels remained unchanged but the doctors were astounded to find that every patient who used the formula lost weight. The published report of this study stated, "A highly significant decrease in body weight was seen" in patients who received the formula.

The formula was then tested at another prestigious European university hospital. Again, all patients lost weight even though they did not change their eating habits. The report detailing this study, published in the British Journal of Nutrition, stated: "Body weight was significantly reduced even though the patients were specifically asked not to alter their dietary habits". One patient in this study lost more than 30 pounds.

According to one informed source, the active ingredient comes from a 100% natural botanical source and contains no drugs or stimulants. When taken before mealtime it bonds with the food you eat and "ties up" calories, especially those from fats, suppressing their absorption.

A significant portion of the calories ingested therefore pass through the digestive system unabsorbed. The body has to get energy to replace the lost calories, so it starts to burn stored fat, which can result in rapid body weight loss. Clinical testing has verified the safety of this formula for long-term use.

The formula is marketed in capsule form in the United States under the trade name Cal-Ban 3000. A firm located in Tampa, Florida, has exclusive North American distribution rights. A review of the customer files of this company revealed the names of hundreds of people who have lost as much as 20, 40 or 80 or more pounds overall with Cal-Ban 3000. This appears to be a golden opportunity for people who are plagued by fat and cellulite that they can't seem to lose by conventional methods.

Lakers Split With Rockville, Then Upset Nationally-Ranked Trojans

The Garrett Community College Lakers played only .500 baseball this past week, but one of their two victories was a 2-1 edging of nationally-ranked, previously unbeaten (23-0), and arch rivel, Allegany Community College, Tuesday afternoon in Cumberland.

Coach Lawrence Nesselrodt's team, which has been hampered by foul weather conditions, split a doubleheader with Montgomery-Rockville Sunday afternoon and also lost the first game of the doubleheader with ACC, 9-2. Rockville won the first contest on Sunday, 5-3, and the Lakers took the nightcap, 6-4.

The results left the Lakers with a 13-12 record, which they will take to CCAC-Boyce for a doubleheader this Friday. They are slated to play their home opener on Monday against Montgomery-Germantown.

Brian Milter paced Rockville to its win over the Lakers in Sunday's first game, as he stroked a two-run homer in the second inning and added an RBI double in the sixth.

With the Knights leading 2-0 on Milter's home run, the Lakers came back in the fifth to knot the score when Buddy Leichliter and Mick Bayle each smacked RBI singles.

But Rockville went on top for good with two runs in the bottom of the fifth, as an error and a misplayed line drive to left field for a triple was followed by a single by Thomas made it 4-2.

Eric Chapman, despite allowing only three earned runs, striking out six, and yielding no walks, took the loss on the mound for the Lakers, while Tony Long, who scattered nine hits and recorded 10 strike-outs, went the distance for the win.

Leichliter and Bayle doubled and singled to pace the Lakers, while Cajetan Stepanic and Tony Warner each hit a pair of singles.

It appeared in the sixth inning of the second game that it would be a double-loss for the Lakers, as the Knights were on top 4-1, but GCC came back with three runs in the top of the seventh to send the game into extra innings and Chapman was the hero when he smacked a game-winning two-run double in the top of the eighth.

The score was tied at 1-1 until Rockville scored three runs in the bottom of the sixth. Gene Thomas, who homered in the first inning before GCC pitcher Carmen Moon retired the next 15 Rockville batters, drew a walk and stole second to start the inning. After an intentional walk, Rod Weber tagged Moon with a three-run homer to give the Knights their 4-1 advantage just three outs away from victory.

But Stepanic led off GCC's seventh with a walk when he was hit by a pitch, and then scored on a double by Steve Ujcic. D.G. Largent followed with a two-run shot over the leftfield fence to tie the score.

Mike Harbaugh singled in the Laker eighth and Stepanic followed with a double to put runners at second and third, setting up Chapman's two-run double.

Moon retired the final six Rockville batters to finish with a four-hitter. He struck out 11 batters and yielded only two walks, one of which was intentional.

Warner, who led the Lakers' hitting with three singles, accounted for the first Laker run with a two-out single in the third that scored Ujcic. Stepanic and Dwayne Woodring each rapped a double and a single, as Garrett out-hit the Knights 12-4.

The split left Rockville with a 12-7 season mark.

It was a strong pitching performance by GCC's Mike Berlin and a bases-loaded walk with two outs in the bottom of the seventh inning that gave the Lakers their big win over Allegany on Monday. The Trojans were ranked eighth in the nation in last week's NJCAA poll.

ACC took a 1-0 lead in the top of the third when Jeremy Long singled, stole second, and came home on a groundout by Jim Polo.

The Lakers came back to tie the score in the bottom of the same inning when Woodring led off with a walk, stole second, and scored on a single by Bayle.

After three scoreless innings, Woodring led off GCC's seventh with a check-swing infield hit. After an infield pop-up, Woodring went to third on a single by Buddy Leichliter, and Bayle, who presently has a .481 batting average for the Lakers, was intentionally walked to load the bases. Harbaugh was then walked on a 3-1 pitch by ACC reliever Jim Beck to force home Woodring with the winning run.

Beck had taken the mound in the fourth when he got the Trojans out of a bases-loaded jam. He retired the Lakers in order until Woodring's infield hit in the seventh.

GCC pitcher Mike Berlin recorded his second win of the season in five starts by going the distance and allowing only three hits. He struck out six and walked five.

Andy Heckman produced a similar effort in the first game, as he gave up only four Laker hits in going all the way, while the Trojans ripped GCC pitchers with 13 hits. Six Laker errors also aided the ACC cause.

The Lakers scored first when Woodring led off the bottom of the first with a solo homer over the leftfield fence.

THE BATTLE OF THE MAYORS — It was the North against the South in one bout last night in a Jello wrestling tournament at Northern High School when Friendsville Mayor Spencer "The Spider" Schlossnagle took on Oakland Mayor Asa "The Bear" McCain. In the photo above, Mayor Spencer approaches the ring with an air of confidence, but suddenly finds himself against an experienced opponent who was at one time the wrestling coach of the Southern High School Rams. Although it was anybody's guess as to who won the match, Mayor McCain raised his arm in victory when the final bell sounded. The tournament, which featured 12 matches, was staged by RTA, Inc., owned by Rita Rosenbaum, of Catawissa, Pa. RTA's performances have been featured in People and Life magazines, the New York Times, Philadelphia Inquirer and Globe newspapers, and ABC World News with Peter Jennings. Besides Jello, customers of RTA may also select chocolate pudding or applesauce as the "main ingredient." The Northern tourney also featured door prizes, including gift certificates from Marvin's Men's Wear and Pizzeria Uno. Photos by Craig Speicher.

However, ACC responded with eight runs over the next five innings to put the game away. Tom Estep paced the Trojans' hitting with three singles and three RBI, while Dana Rice added a double and a single and Long and Mike Bond each finished with two singles.

The Lakers second run was recorded in the fifth when Harbaugh and Stepanic singled, and Harbaugh coming home on a fielder's choice by Ujcic.

Huskies Hand Coach Carr First Win With 9-6 Victory Over Berlin

First-year Coach Phil Carr enjoyed his first win ever as a head coach this week, as the Northern Huskies defeated Berlin, 9-6, Monday afternoon on the Huskies' diamond.

After three scoreless innings, Berlin took a 3-0 lead in the top of the fourth with one run being scored on a solo homer by Brad Deeter.

But the Huskies came back in the bottom of the inning with six runs, as Mark Beals, who was three-for-four on the day, and Dave Yoder each drove in a pair of runs.

Wes Loar led off Northern's fourth with a double, stole third, and came home on a single by Eric Umbel. After an error and a walk, Chad Sines smacked a double to score Umbel, Beals followed with a two-run double, and Yoder concluded the inning's scoring with a two-run single.

Berlin narrowed the Huskies' lead by one in the top of the fifth and then tied it at 6-6 with two runs in the sixth, before the Huskies put the game away in the bottom of the sixth with three runs.

Beals opened the sixth with a single, moved to second on an infield error, and scored when Berlin's third baseman overthrew third base after fielding a bunt. Lorar drove in the next run with a fielder's choice and Harrison Foy drew a bases-loaded walk for the final run.

Jerry Uphold, who started on the mound for the Huskies, struck out seven before being relieved by Dennis Deigert, who worked out of a jam in the fifth. Yoder then took the mound in the seventh with the bases loaded and nobody out to retire the side. He struck out two of the three batters he faced.

Beals led Northern's eight-hit effort with a double and two singles.

Carr was also pleased with the Northern defensive effort, which committed only one insignificant error.

Also rapping a solo home run for Berlin was Doug Paul, while Tom Dercon added a double and a single.

The 1-2 Huskies were to have played Meyersdale yesterday; however, bad weather may have postponed it because there was no report.

Rams Nipped By Tornado, 4-3, Before Blanking Petersburg, 5-0

The Southern High Varsity Rams kept their record even this week (2-2) in a pair of Potomac Valley Conference clashes, as they were nipped by host Keyser last Thursday, 4-3, and then came back Monday afternoon to whitewash Petersburg, 5-0, on the Vikings' diamond.

Coach Jim Bosley's team is slated to play three games this Saturday, including a 10 a.m. match-up at Tucker County and a 2 p.m. doubleheader at Central Preston.

The Rams led Keyser's Golden Tornado, 3-2, going into the final out in the bottom of the seventh inning, but Southern pitcher Brett Rice was tagged for three singles and a walk that gave Keyser the win.

Neither team scored until Keyser's Mike Kesecker rapped an RBI single in the fourth inning to make it 1-0 and Danny Foster followed with a run-producing single in the fifth to give Keyser a 2-0 advantage.

Southern came back with three runs in the top of the sixth when Kevin Green led off with a single, Britton Martin singled, Charlie Plauger walked to load the bases, and John Stem smacked a two-run single to tie the score. Garth Glotfelty followed with a sacrifice fly to give the Rams their only lead of the afternoon.

After recording two outs in the bottom of the seventh, the Tornado came alive when Darin Matlick singled. He was replaced with pinch runner Ryan Thorne, who moved to second on a walk by Jason Shears. Danny Foster tied the score when his single brought home Thorne and Bryan McIntyre ended the game with a sharp grounder that could not be handled by the Rams' third baseman.

Rice went the distance and took the loss, giving up eight hits, while Rodney Mangold recorded the win. Mangold pitched into the sixth inning, giving up just three hits and fanning six batters.

The win improved Keyser's record to 2-3.

The contest against Petersburg was another pitching dual, this time between Rice and Ryan Harman, as each yielded just five and six hits, respectively. However, costly errors by the Vikings led to the Southern win.

The Rams took a 2-0 lead on a Viking miscue in the top of the first inning when Shawn Ryan was at third after reaching on an error, Charlie Plauger was at second after a single, and both scored when the first baseman committed an error.

The score remained that way until the top of the seventh, as Rice allowed only three hits, struck out five, and walked just two.

Harman, who had allowed only four singles through six innings, gave up a lead-off single to Garth Glotfelty. Dave Kurtz then reached when the third baseman failed to handle a bunt and Brynt Sines followed with a single to score Glotfelty. Kurtz later scored on an attempted pick-off that resulted in an error and the final run was recorded when, after walks to Rice and Green, Harman hit Dave Upole with a pitch.

Only one of the five Southern runs was earned.

The loss was the Vikings' second in five games.

Local Gymnists Fare Well In W.Va. State Meet

Two local gymnists, representing the Aerodynes of the Garrett Gymnastics Club, Loch Lynn, recently participated in the West Virginia State Meet, level 6 competition, held in Morgantown, W.Va.

Aaron Buser, 13-year-old daughter of B.J. and Brenda Buser, Swanton, captured fourth place overall in the 12-14 age division, which included 18 girls from around the state of West Virginia who qualified for the state event. Aaron finished fourth in the vault with a score of 8.3, third on uneven bars with a 7.4, sixth in floor exercise with a 7.95, and scored a 6.8 on the balance beam for a total score of 30.45.

Also performing well in the 9-11 age division was Andrea Bender, daughter of Dave and Lisa Bender, Mtn. Lake Park. She was one of 21 gymnists in her age division to qualify for the state meet for level 6. She scored a 7.1 on the vault, a 5.65 on bars, 7.8 in floor exercise, and 7.05 on the balance beam, for a total of 27.60.

The state meet was hosted by the G-Force, Morgantown, and the theme was "Rising Stars of the 90's."

According to Tammy Tressler and Nan Gangler, coaches of the Aerodynes, Aaron and Andrea will now work with their teammates toward the Maryland State Games, which are held in July.

Three other members of the Aerodynes — Amanda Mountain, Sara Sincell, and Betsy Spiker — will compete in the West Virginia State Meet, level 5 division, in Parkersburg May 5.

Local Christian Women's Club To Meet Wednesday

The Garrett County Christian Women's Club will hold a luncheon meeting Wednesday, April 18, at Will O'the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake, and the guest speakers will be a husband and wife team, Jack and Mary Jane Hoag, of Pittsburgh.

He has served on the boards of 26 civic, business, and Christian organizations and is currently active in eight such organizations, including the Brothers' Brother Foundation, Pioneers Missions, Michael Baker Corp., and Passavant Hospital.

Mrs. Hoag is the former chairman of the North Hills (Pittsburgh) Christian Women's Club. She is the mother of six and grandmother of eight. For four years she taught "Marriage and Child Rearing" to a young mothers' class.

The special feature will be presented by Debbie Friend, owner of Merry Maids. She will discuss spring cleaning tips for the home, as well as demonstrate efficient and safe use of household cleaning products.

The March meeting of the Club was attended by approximately 100 women. Reservations for the April 18 luncheon and program may be made by calling 334-8550. All Christian women are invited to attend. Free baby sitting is available.

Fires

The glass preparation room of the Bausch & Lomb plant in Mtn. Lake Park sustained an estimated $3,500 damage as a result of a Tuesday morning fire.

Deer Park and Oakland firemen were called to the facility at 6:45 a.m. after an alarm and sprinkler system activated in the room. The blaze reportedly started on a table top when alcohol vapors were ignited by coils on a hot plate, according to Martin.

The fire was extinguished by the sprinkler system and most of the damage was caused by smoke and water, Martin said.

Firemen remained on the scene for about an hour. There were no injuries.

Teachers Hail Passage Of New Standards Board

Passage of legislation converting the advisory board on teacher certification into a co-equal partner of the State Board of Education was welcomed this week by the Maryland State Teachers Association.

The legislation, now on the Governor's desk, creates a Professional Standards Board, with a majority of teachers and teacher educators, to control the licensing of teachers in Maryland. Its regulations are subject to approval, but not amendment, by the State Board of Education.

"This is the most significant piece of legislation affecting the professional autonomy of teachers in 22 years," said MSTA President Jane Stern.

"The new legislation recognizes teachers as partners in providing quality education and gives substance to the Sondheim Commission's call for accountabilitiy," she said. "The reforms needed in the public schools can only be accomplished with the full partnership of those who teach our children."

Legislation to remove restrictions on education issues which teachers want to address in contract talks with school boards passed both houses, but failed in conference committee.

"We are encouraged that both houses recognized the problem. Next year we will pass the legislation," Stern declared.

Other successful legislation from the 1990 session, according to MSTA, included:

*$65 million to fund the third installment of the APEX school finance formula

*Targeted funds for low-wealth subdivisions

*Liberalization of disability retirement for teachers

*Agency shop authorization for classifed school staff in Anne Arundel County

*Empowerment of school systems to recover losses from asbestos abatement

*An additional $25 million for school construction beyond the state guarantee.

NORTHERN STUDENTS COMPETE IN REGIONAL CITIZEN BEE — Northern High School sent a three-member team to participate in the regional Citizen Bee competition at the University of Maryland at Baltimore. Team members included Mike Hetrick, Tarin Towers and Andrei Yelovich. Mrs. Vonda Yunker is faculty advisor. The Citizen Bee is an educational competition sponsored by the Close-Up Foundation. It encourages high school students to increase their understanding of U.S. government, history, geography, culture, economics and current events. It is designed to stimulate greater understanding of the heritage of America and issues facing America. It is also an opportunity to recognize academic achievement of young people. The Citizen Bee experience involves students, educators, families and the community in the acquisition of knowledge and skills essential for effective citizenship. Fourteen schools from Baltimore City west entered teams in the regional competition. Tarin Towers and Andrei Yelovich finished among the top ten who will now advance to the state final. The state competition will be held at the state capital in Annapolis. Andrei Yelovich placed first in the regional competition and was awarded a $300 savings bond. Pictured above, left to right, are: Yelovich, Towers, Yunker and Hetrick.

St. Matthew's Notes Schedule Of Services

St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, located at Second and Liberty streets in Oakland, will offer several opportunities for worship this Holy Week and Easter.

This evening at 7:30, Maundy Thursday will be observed with The Holy Eucharist which will focus on the institution of the Lord's Supper and Jesus' new commandment of love. At the end of the service will be the dramatic stripping of the Altar, followed by a prayer watch until midnight.

On April 13, St. Matthew's Church will host the Community Good Friday Liturgy from noon until 3 p.m.

The first celebration of the Resurrection at St. Matthew's will take place on Easter Eve, Saturday, April 14, at 7:30 p.m. This service, The Great Vigil of Easter, begins with the kindling of new fire and the lighting of the Paschal Candle, and includes Holy Baptism and Eucharist.

On the morning of Easter Day, The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 8 and 10:30 a.m.

The public is, as always, invited and encouraged to come to St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, "Church of Presidents," and share in worship and fellowship, according to the Rev. Michael Pumphrey, rector.

Assault Charge Lodged Against Morgantown Man

A Morgantown, W.Va., man was charged with assault and battery of a police officer following an incident which occurred Monday morning in front of the Garrett County District Court offices.

Kenneth H. Thompson, Morgantown, W.Va., apparently assaulted Tfc. P.R. Brown in front of the Garrett County District Court offices around 9:30 a.m.

Thompson was charged with assault and battery of a police officer and taken to Garrett County Jail, from where he has since been released on $500 bond.

Over 30% Must File Tax Form By Next Monday

About 65% of the expected 2.1 million Maryland income tax returns had been filed with one week left before the April 16th filing deadline, according to Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein. "About 75,000 tax returns are now arriving in Annapolis each day, and the pace will continue to increase," he said.

The comptroller said taxpayers who have not yet filed can take advantage of numerous opportunities for free help and should also understand the implications of filing an extension request.

"We are cooperating with the IRS so that taxpayers can get one-stop help with both their federal and state returns at either the Baltimore offices of the IRS or the Maryland Income Tax Division between now and April 16th," Mr. Goldstein said.

The comptroller said that all 15 Maryland income tax offices and the 1-800-MD TAXES hotline will remain open to help last-minute filers on Saturday, April 14, from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. Extended assistance will also be available on the filing deadline, Monday, April 16, from 8:30 a.m. until 7 p.m.

"If you bring a completed copy of your federal return and all W-2 statements, we'll be happy to complete your Maryland return for you free of charge," Mr. Goldstein added. "We'll even be on duty at the main post office in Baltimore from 6 p.m. until midnight on April 16, to help people rushing to meet the deadline."

The comptroller reminded taxpayers that their returns must be postmarked by midnight, April 16. "Check with your local postal officials to find out when you must mail your return to be sure it receives the necessary postmark," he said.

The comptroller offered these final reminders to last-minute filers:

-complete your federal return first, then your Maryland return;

-set your returns aside for awhile, then go back and double-check all your figures;

-attach W-2 statements and payment for any state tax due;

-sign the return;

-use the pre-printed address label (if it is correct);

-itemizers should remember to include a copy of their federal Schedule A with their Maryland return.

"If you do not have all the materials you need to file, you can request an extension of time to file by sending in a completed copy of Form 502E by the April 16th deadline — along with a check for the estimated amount of state tax due. Remember, this is an extension of time to file the tax return, not an extension of time to pay," Goldstein said.

Form 502E is included in the state tax packet. Taxpayers must file Form 4868 with the Internal Revenue Service to request an extension of time to file their federal return.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all 15 Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories. The statewide toll-free number for state income tax assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

Lions, Lionesses To Have Program At Deer Park

Members of Lions and Lioness clubs from across Western Maryland will congregate at the Deer Park Fire Hall Monday, April 16, when the Oakland-Mountain Lake Park Lions Club hosts District 22-W's Region One Leader Dog program.

All clubs with representatives at Monday's program will present contributions to keep the Leader Dog program operating in the coming year.

The Oakland/Mountain Lake Park Lions Club will sponsor its annual "White Cane Day" on Saturday, May 5. Collections during White Cane Day support Lions' efforts to help those who have lost their sight.

Municipality Update

Mtn. Lake Park

The Mayor and Town Council of Mt. Lake Park met Tuesday evening with the Garrett County Commissioners. The commissioners are attending town council meetings as part of the annual visitation to Garrett County towns.

One concern of the Mayor and Town Council which was discussed with the commissioners was the increased flow of traffic on Broadford Road.

The commissioners will check into the situation.

Andrew Fike submitted a petition to the town to have his property, which is currently located outside the town limits, annexed by Mt. Lake Park.

The council accepted the petition and annexation proceedings will begin.

Letters have been sent to all property owners in Mt. Lake Park, concerning the spraying of the area for gypsy moths. The town has decided to spray the area for the moths, at a cost of $3,870. The letter concerns possible donations to help defer some of the costs of spraying.

An annexation hearing was held concerning the Southern Pines addition.

The council approved annexation and the procedure will now go into referendum for 45 days, after which time the Southern Pines area will be annexed.

Good Food and how to prepare it!

SECOND IN A SERIES

The following recipes are from the American Cancer Society Cookbook

POULTRY

FROM coq au vin to tandoori, chicken is a mainstay of cuisines around the world. Its flavor appeals to children as well as to adults and it lends itself to a wide range of seasonings and sauces.

For the health-conscious cook, chicken has the added benefit of being a low-fat source of animal protein. To keep the fat at a minimum, remove the skin and any visible fat from chicken pieces before cooking; from whole chickens cut the skin away before eating (whole chickens take longer to cook and would dry out if the skin were removed before cooking). Roast chicken with skin has 53 percent fat calories, while roast chicken without skin has 31 percent fat calories.

Obviously, frying chicken adds to the fat intake, baking and broiling are far better cooking methods. Dark meat has considerably more fat than white meat. Small broilers or fryers have the least amount of fat, stewing hens the most. The larger and older the bird, the higher the fat content. When baking chicken, place pieces or whole bird on a rack so the fat drips off and the chicken doesn't roast in it. Though turkey and chicken are both low in fat, duck and goose have a much higher fat content.

CRISPY HERBED CHICKEN

6 chicken pieces (about 2 pounds, bone in)
2 tablespoons Herb-Seasoned Flour
⅓ cup (approximate) warm water

Remove skin from chicken, rinse chicken under cold running water and pat dry with paper towels. Place chicken in single layer in lightly greased shallow roasting pan or baking dish. Use small sieve or spoon to sprinkle Herb-Seasoned Flour over chicken. Pour warm water down side of pan, not directly over chicken. Bake, uncovered, in 375°F oven for 40 to 50 minutes or until chicken is no longer pink inside, basting occasionally with liquid in pan to brown top of chicken. Add more water if there's not enough liquid in pan for basting. Makes 6 servings.

Herb-Seasoned Flour:

In small jar with lid, combine:
½ cup all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons basil
2 teaspoons thyme
1 teaspoon dried oregano
1 teaspoon tarragon
1 teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon pepper

Cover and shake to mix, store at room temperature. Makes about ⅔ cup.

SAUTEED CHICKEN WITH YOGURT AND MUSHROOMS

6 chicken pieces (about 2 pounds, bone in)
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
4 teaspoons butter
2 onions, thinly sliced
¼ pound mushrooms, sliced
½ cup water (or half water and half white wine)
½ cup low-fat yogurt
Salt and freshly ground pepper

Remove skin from chicken. Sprinkle chicken lightly with flour. In large nonstick skillet, melt butter over medium high heat, cook chicken until browned all over, about 5 minutes on each side. Reduce heat to medium or medium-low and cook for 10 minutes longer on each side or until meat is no longer pink inside. Remove from pan and keep warm. Add onions and mushrooms to pan and cook, stirring often, until tender, 5 to 10 minutes. Stir in water and bring to a full boil, loosening any brown bits on bottom of pan to flavor sauce. Remove from heat and stir in yogurt, salt and pepper to taste. Return chicken to pan and spoon sauce over it. Makes 6 servings.

CHICKEN DIJON

6 chicken breasts
Salt and freshly ground pepper
¼ cup Dijon mustard
⅓ cup low-fat yogurt
½ cup fine fresh bread crumbs
1 teaspoon thyme

Remove skin from chicken. Sprinkle chicken lightly with salt and pepper. Mix mustard into yogurt. In another bowl mix bread crumbs, thyme, ½ teaspoon salt, and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Spread each piece of chicken with mustard mixture, then roll in bread-crumb mixture. Place chicken in single layer on lightly greased baking sheet. Bake in 350°F oven for 45 to 50 minutes for bone-in chicken, 30 to 35 minutes for boneless, or until golden brown and meat is no longer pink inside. Makes 6 servings.

ALMOND CHICKEN

4 teaspoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 pound boneless skinless chicken breasts, cut into strips
½ cup chicken stock
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 cups thinly sliced celery
2 cups diagonally cut green beans or snow peas
1 cup thinly sliced carrots
1 large onion, halved and thinly sliced
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
2 tablespoons water
Salt and freshly ground pepper
2 tablespoons toasted sliced almonds

In medium bowl, combine 3 teaspoons of cornstarch and soy sauce, mix well. Add chicken and toss to coat, set aside. Stir remaining 1 teaspoon cornstarch into chicken stock, set aside. Heat wok or heavy skillet over medium-high heat. When hot, add oil, then chicken, and stir-fry for 4 minutes or until chicken is opaque. Remove chicken and set aside. To wok, add celery, beans, carrots, onion, and garlic, stir-fry for 1 minute. Add water, cover, and cook for 2 minutes. Stir chicken stock mixture into pan. Return chicken to pan, cook, stirring, for another minute or until mixture boils and vegetables are tender-crisp. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Sprinkle with toasted almonds. Make 4 servings.

MEAT

MEAT can be a high source of fat in our diet. Two ways of reducing our intake of fat are to eat lean cuts of meat and to cut down on the amount of meat we eat. Remember: Cut down, don't cut out. Meat is an important source of complete protein, this means it has all the essential amino acids, the building blocks of protein. It is also an important source of iron in a form the body can easily use, as well as a good source of B vitamins and minerals. Just 3½ ounces of cooked lean beef (such as flank steak or lean hamburger) provides 30 grams of protein and nearly 4 milligrams of iron. This constitutes more than half of an adult's average daily requirement for protein and half of a male adult's average daily requirement for iron (teenagers, and women age 16 to 49, require up to 14 milligrams of iron a day).

The problem is that we don't often limit our meat portions to 3 to 4 ounces. We eat fatty marbled as well as lean meat. To help us eat more healthily, the meat industry is producing leaner beef and pork.

To keep the size of portions down, yet still make them appear satisfying, use meat in mixed dishes such as stir-fries, stews, and soups, or in sauces such as spaghetti sauce. Americans still aren't used to eating only 4-ounce portions of steak, but if you slice the steak in thin slices before serving, a 4-ounce portion will look like much more.

MARINATED FLANK STEAK

1 pound flank steak
¼ cup soy sauce
¼ cup vegetable oil
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar or honey
1 tablespoon peeled and grated fresh ginger root or 1 teaspoon ground ginger

Score one side of the steak by making shallow cuts in a crisscross pattern. Place meat in a shallow dish or plastic bag. Combine soy sauce, oil, vinegar, sugar, and ginger, pour over meat. Cover, and refrigerate for 1 to 3 days, or at room temperature for up to 3 hours. Remove meat from marinade and broil for 4 to 5 minutes on each side. Slice thinly on an angle across the grain. Serve hot or cold. Makes 4 servings.

OLD-FASHIONED MEAT LOAF

1 pound lean ground beef
1 large onion, finely chopped
¼ cup natural bran
1 slice whole wheat bread, crumbled
½ teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon salt and freshly ground pepper
Dash Worcestershire sauce
1 cup tomato juice or tomato sauce
1 egg, lightly beaten
1 tablespoon chopped fresh herbs — thyme, rosemary, savory, sage (optional)

In mixing bowl, combine beef, onion, bran, bread crumbs, thyme, salt, Worcestershire, and pepper to taste. Stir in tomato juice, egg, and herbs (if using), mix lightly. Turn into 9x5-inch loaf pan or baking dish. Bake in 350°F oven for 45 minutes, or until brown and firm to the touch. Remove from oven, pour off fat. Make 5 servings.

CHINESE PORK AND VEGETABLES

1 tablespoon cooking oil
1 pound lean boneless pork, cut in thin strips
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
1 onion, sliced
5 stalks celery, diagonally sliced
4 carrots, diagonally sliced
1 tablespoon peeled and grated fresh ginger root
1 cup hot chicken stock
2 tablespoons low-sodium soy sauce
¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
1 small head cabbage
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons cold water
Lemon juice
Salt and freshly ground pepper

In wok or large, heavy skillet, heat oil over high heat. Add pork and stir-fry until pork is no longer pink. Add garlic, onion, celery, carrots and ginger, stir-fry until onion is tender. Add stock, soy sauce, and pepper. Cover, and simmer for 5 minutes. Shred cabbage (you should have about 4 cups packed shredded cabbage). Stir into skillet and cook for 3 to 4 minutes longer or until vegetables are tender-crisp. Blend cornstarch with cold water, gradually add to skillet, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens. Add lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste. Make 5 servings.

A FINAL WORD ON POISON PREVENTION

Preventing accidental poisoning has been our goal this March as it has been designated Poison Prevention Month. Here is our final list of suggestions of things you can do at home.

- Do not take medicine from an unlabeled bottle; transparent tape protects the label.
- Date all drug supplies when you buy them.
- Use a prescription drug only for the patient for whom the physician ordered it.
- Weed out the left-overs regularly from your medicine chest — especially any prescription drug that your physician ordered for a particular illness.

Jesus Christ hung crucified on the cross, mocked by a bloody crown of thorns, flanked on each side by a crucified thief.

Haughtily, the first thief jeered, "If you are the Christ, save yourself." No reply came.

In contrast, the second thief said to the first, "This man has done nothing wrong."

Jesus replied, "Today you shall be with Me in Paradise."

We may not all be criminals, but we are all sinners. Yet, God sent Jesus Christ, His son, to be crucified for our sins, so that we might have eternal life, asking for forgiveness through Jesus' name.

Good deeds alone are not enough. Believe in the crucifixion and the resurrection of Jesus Christ through faith in God's word.

This Easter lift your voices in praise to God for the gift of His Son. Do not seek proof as did the first thief, but like the second thief have faith and BELIEVE.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE RESURRECTED LIFE

Background Scripture: John 20.
Devotional Reading: 1 Corinthians 15:12-26.

I've looked in vain for the source of this story, but I'll share it with you anyway. A man approached a learned professor and asked him what he would have to do to start another major religion. The professor paused and answered, "Well, for starters, I suggest you get yourself crucified and then resurrected on the third day."

Actually, that is how Christianity began, didn't it? Without Jesus' resurrection, there would be no Christianity. No matter how profound Jesus' teachings, no matter how inspiring his miracles nor how moving his sermons, that which gave birth to Christianity was the resurrected Jesus. At least, that was the start of it. It was the resurrection that pronounced God's final "Yes" in the face of humanity's terrible "No" on Calvary. Good Friday had convinced the disciples that it was all over, but Easter Sunday assured them that it was really just the beginning.

WHOM DO YOU SEEK?

It is interesting, is it not, that, according to John, the first person to see Jesus' open tomb was not only a woman, but a woman with a rather shady reputation. Wouldn't you think Jesus would have picked a less controversial woman than Mary Magdalene? Furthermore, it was this same woman, not one of the twelve apostles, who was the first to encounter the risen Lord: "Woman, why are you weeping? Whom do you seek?" Thinking he is the gardener, Mary asks: "Sir, if you have carried him away, tell me where you have laid him, and I will take him away." Then Jesus says to her, "Mary!" Not Simon Peter, not John, the beloved disciple, nor any other man of Jesus' band of disciples, but Mary Magdalene, the woman some people believe was a harlot before she began to follow Jesus.

It is what happened next that is at the heart of the Easter story. "Mary Magdalene went and said to the disciples: 'I have seen the Lord'" (20:18). That's how it all began - one person experiences the resurrected Christ and passes it on, changing the history of the world forever. When Jesus subsequently appeared to a group of disciples on the evening of the first day of the week, they experienced what Mary had experienced at the garden tomb. So when the absent Thomas returns, they tell him as Mary had told them: "We have seen the Lord" (20:25). Isn't that what Easter is all about? People who have experienced the resurrected Lord sharing the good news with others!

MORE THAN ESCAPE

But note that the resurrection was not just about Jesus' rescue from the tomb or the conviction that he had survived the experience of death. The resurrection goes considerably beyond the grave and essentially is about life, not death. It is both the power that breaks the bonds of death and the power that enervates us for the living of life here and on the other side of death. That's why the resurrection is the beginning, not the end of the story.

The glory of Easter is not just that one man conquered death, but that all of us are called to be conquerors of death as well. Of the events he has written in the fourth gospel, the writer of John says: "these are written that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing you may have life" -resurrected life - "in his name.

Christopher Reeve and Madolyn Smith Osborne star in The Rose And The Jackal, about a Civil War conflict between love and honor, Monday on TNT.

Romance hinders duty of Civil War characters

Christopher Reeve stars in TNT film

By Anne Wheeler

Love and honor become the greatest conflict of the Civil War for the head of the Secret Service and a Southern aristocratic woman who wants to preserve her heritage in the Turner Network Television original production of The Rose And the Jackal, premiering Monday, April 16.

Christopher Reeve plays Allan Pinkerton in this fictionalized account of the life of the founder of the Secret Service. Pinkerton is obsessed with his duty to stop the flow of secret information to the South, no matter what the risks. The trail leads to beautiful southern aristocrat Rose O'Neal Greenhow, played by Madolyn Smith Osborne. But his moral duties are soon overshadowed by his growing love for her.

"Pinkerton's moral righteousness and his self-discipline in tracking down this woman is charged by his great passion for her—probably the only great passion of his life," said Reeve of his character. "His life profoundly changes after he meets Rose."

The film is based on two actual people, although it is completely fictional. Writer Eric Edson's inspiration for the screenplay came from material in a history book. Edson discovered some sketches and a footnote concerning the Secret Service that mention the names of the characters in The Rose And The Jackal, and quickly proceeded to pen his ideas for a romance between the two Civil War figures. "I felt affection toward the characters, and that naturally came out in the script," said Edson.

The newest stars in the Disney family, Ariel, Sebastian and Flounder from The Little Mermaid will splash onto the Easter scene with their first appearance in the nationally telecast Walt Disney World Happy Easter Parade to air Easter Sunday on ABC.

Broadcasting live from the Walt Disney World Resort in Florida, Joan Lunden of Good Morning America and Alan Thicke of Growing Pains will take viewers on a magical holiday journey down Main Street, U.S.A. to meet with the stars of the The Little Mermaid, as well as with Mr. and Mrs. Easter Bunny. Providing reports of the excitement happening at curbside will be talk show favorite Regis Philbin.

Roger Rabbit, who made his Disney World Happy Easter Parade debut last year, will provide his own creative chaos to this year's parade, too.

Featuring all new music and costumes, the colorful parade through the Magic Kingdom will include Mickey and Minnie Mouse decked out in their Easter finery, along with Chip and Dale of Chip 'n Dale's Rescue Rangers and Scrooge McDuck from Ducktales.

Butterflies, flowers and fancy Easter bonnets teamed with gowns of ruffles and bows adorn the participants as the parade winds its way across the park. Hundreds of singers riding aboard numerous floats will perform to the tune of special holiday music. One special float boasts an Easter egg of magical proportions (12-1/2 feet tall and weighing in at 2,000 pounds).

From the white beaches of Typhoon Lagoon, Disney World's newest water thrill park, the New Mickey Mouse Club mousketeers ride the wave of popularity that has made their television show the Disney Channel hit of the '90s. They will also sing and dance their way along the parade route, with 14-year-old Chase Hampton leading them in their springtime "zip-a-dee-doo-dah."

Joan Lunden and Alan Thicke, broadcasting live from Disney World in Florida, host the Walt Disney World Happy Easter Parade on ABC Sunday, April 15. The 90-minute special features Mickey Mouse and dozens of Disney's popular characters.

Of course, the parade zooms in on tradition. And what Easter celebration would be complete without an Easter egg hunt? Lovable Winnie the Pooh will temporarily give up his search for honey to lead his friends in a search, instead, for colorful Easter eggs.

Out on the West Coast, Disneyland is celebrating its 35th anniversary with a parade. A special guest to appear on the broadcast will be wacky rock star Buster Poindexter. In the special segment, Poindexter will be "Hot, Hot, Hot" in a performance with the singers and dancers from the "Party Gras" parade. As he journeys through the park, he meets up with Brer Rabbit and others at the popular Splash Mountain attraction.

The third Disney theme park, back in Florida, is the Disney-MGM Studios Theme Park. Comedian Howie Mandel will make an appearance in honor of this park's first anniversary. Surprise guest stars will also pay a visit to Epcot Center and Pleasure Island.

Mel Gibson, Glenn Close in production on 'Hamlet'

By Steven Alan McGaw

It's official! Production has started on Franco Zeffirelli's new film version of Hamlet, starring Mel Gibson as the tortured, indecisive prince. Glenn Close will co-star as Gertrude, the Prince of Denmark's mother, and Alan Bates will play King Claudius, Hamlet's much-resented stepfather. Also featured in the cast will be the great Paul Scofield (so terrific in Henry V) as the ghost of Hamlet's father, and Ian Holm, another Henry V alumnus, as Polonius. No actress is yet cast as Ophelia. Sounds good to me...

Congratulations to all of last month's Oscar winners, especially the great Denzel Washington for his work in Glory. And, yeah, I know that a few weeks ago I said I wanted Marlon Brando to win, but Washington's work is tremendous and I'm happy for him...

Lou Gossett Jr. wants to play Nelson Mandela and is trying to put together a project through his own production company. Good luck, it would be nice to see Gossett in a film worthy of his talents...

One of my favorite actors, Malcolm McDowell, is set to star in a film titled Snake Eyes. I'm hoping the project is worthy of the actor's enormous talents...

If you missed it in the theater (and most people did), check out Apartment Zero at the local video vendor. It's terrific, a real chiller!

Scott Baio guest stars as an old friend of Jesse's in Full House, Friday on ABC.

McMurphy (Dana Delany) looks back to her first days at China Beach, Monday on ABC.

Alec Baldwin is guest host on Saturday Night Live, this week on NBC.

P.D. James plays Detective Adam Dalgliesh on PBS' Mystery! which airs Thursdays.

Psychiatric patients Christopher Lloyd, Peter Boyle, Stephen Furst and Michael Keaton hit the streets of New York City in The Dream Team, Saturday on Showtime.

Miss Universe Pageant captures flavor of L.A.

Leeza Gibbons joins Dick Clark

By Justin Marshall

Dick Clark and Leeza Gibbons, who teamed up just six weeks ago to host this year's Miss USA Pageant, combine their talents again for The 1990 Miss Universe Pageant, to air live from the Schubert Theater in Los Angeles on Sunday, April 15, on CBS.

More than 65 young women from around the world, including Miss USA 1990, Carol Gist of Michigan, will be vying for the honor of being the first Miss Universe of the '90s.

This year's show is the 39th edition of the prestigious annual event and the 31st consecutive telecast on CBS. It will feature new on-screen technology which provides home viewers throughout the broadcast with up-to-the-minute scores on contestants, a system first unveiled at the Miss USA pageant.

A new competitive structure will also be utilized which reduces the full field of contestants to 10 semi-finalists, then just six semi-finalists and finally only three entrants before the new Miss Universe is selected.

Angela Visser of Holland, who was named Miss Universe 1989 last May in ceremonies from Cancun, Mexico, will be on hand to crown this year's winner.

The 1990 Miss Universe Pageant marks the first time the pageant has ever been held in the ethnically diverse city of Los Angeles, which has captured the world's affection through the century with the glamour and magic of Hollywood movies. It again was in the limelight in 1984 when it was host for the Olympic Games that year.

HOROSCOPE

By A. Murphy

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Look after your responsibilities, especially those people who are younger and look to you for guidance. Don't be so business-minded this week.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
Enjoy water-related vacations and music for relaxation. Don't let the wall of work beat you down. There is more in life. Take on new tasks one at a time.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
Are you exercising your talents enough? Work overtime for a promotion, but pay close attention to your emotional stress level as well. You have inner strength.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
Start this week with a positive attitude. Keep your negativism in check, and think before criticizing. Buy some flowers for somebody who needs a day brightener.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
Don't hold in things that frighten you. Be prepared to discuss your qualifications. Take up a hobby that includes another person like walking, jogging or tennis.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
Remember that inaction can be as selfish as wrong actions. Decide what stand to take. Take advantage of your chance to learn from someone older and wiser.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
You have a gift for speaking precisely what is on your mind, but remember to be flexible. You don't have to always stand firm. Others may also have workable ideas.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
It's normal to feel under the weather and blah sometimes. Be a volunteer for causes you believe in. Also, look into adult education to spark new interest.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
Let your loved ones know they are loved and appreciated. Spend time together with a home-cooked meal or a simple celebration. Read to children.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
Seek an impartial opinion before making big decisions. This is especially important as you contemplate a move. Speak up about what bothers you to avoid being walked on.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
Tell others when you need their support or feedback on a decision or idea. If needed, ask for help concerning finances. Remember that others are in the same boat, too.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
Everybody makes mistakes. Keep your head on straight regardless that things don't go as planned. It is a good time to become involved and make new friends.

A 90-minute "video memoir" with former President Richard M. Nixon will air May 4, as a special edition of the PBS foreign affairs series American Interests. The special "Richard Nixon Refects," will feature Nixon's candid thoughts on the Communist world past, present, and future; domestic U.S. politics from Eisenhower to Bush; the media; and Watergate. Film footage from the Nixon archive and private residence will complement the extensive interviews by host Morton Kondracke.

Julie Andrews stars in the musical fantasy Mary Poppins, airing Sunday on NBC.

Innovative original shows found on cable this week

By Shelia Odak

One of the best things about cable television is that it provides the perfect forum for original programming. The freedom of cable allows producers, directors and writers to be more innovative and creative than they are normally allowed to be within the confines of the networks. HBO and TNT were the forerunners of this trend, and have turned out original movies that rival even those seen on the big screen. Now, other services are catching on and have started to produce more programs of their own. This week cable offers a rich variety of original programming.

HBO starts out the week with a special on a versatile and enduring entertainer. Carly In Concert: My Romance features singer Carly Simon in a rare performance. The show presents selections from her latest album My Romance, which pays tribute to the classic torch songs and standards of the '40s and '50s. This is Simon's second special for HBO, and airs Sunday, April 15.

Also on April 15, the USA Network will present an encore performance of its original film The Kissing Place. Meredith Baxter-Birney and David Ogden Stiers star in this film which tells the story of a young boy who is kidnapped at age 3. It is only after seven years that he realizes his plight and then must begin a dangerous, cross-country trek in order to find his real home.

April 16 showcases the premiere of the latest TNT original program The Rose And The Jackal. Allan Pinkerton (Christopher Reeve), the head and founder of the Secret Service, knows there is a leak in information. Union secrets are being passed to the Confederate army, and he is determined to find the culprit. The trail leads to the beautiful and aristocratic Rose O'Neal Greenhow (Madolyn Smith Osborne) who has been using her influence and social standing to try to protect the heritage she loves. As Pinkerton closes in on the case, he also becomes closer to her and ultimately must choose between the woman he loves and his duty.

Rounding out the week is an offering by the Family Channel, which has just recently started producing its own original films. Across Five Aprils is a drama based on the Newberry Honors book by Irene Hunt. It deals with a young boy, Jethro Creighton, who is haunted by the specter of a masked man who is held responsible for killing the boy's sister in a wagon accident. The man has disappeared, but as the Civil War begins, and Jethro begins to grow up, he finds that he will once again be faced with his greatest fear as the masked rider returns. Miriam Byrd-Nethery, Hollis McCarthy, John Touchstone and Todd Duffey star in this family program which premieres on Saturday, April 21.

Eddie Cantor included family in successful comedy career

By Polly Vonetes

Eddie Cantor

Q: I would like information on comedian Eddie Cantor, who made movies in the 1930s. I enjoyed his movies very much and recently heard he was dead. When and how did he die? Who did he marry and did he have any children? How many movies did he make? —Curious in Tennessee

A: Eddie Cantor was a comic, an actor and a singer. He was a star in vaudeville and Broadway before becoming nationally famous with his own radio show in the '30s and in films. Millions of laughs were garnered with his jokes about his wife, Ida, and their five daughters. He starred in 17 films and wrote four autobiographical volumes. He died in 1964 of a heart attack at the age of 72.

Q: I was talking to some friends of mine about growing up and watching the show called Family Affair. And one said that the girl who played Buffy on the show was dead. I can't remember her real name. Is this true? I would like more information about her. —Lisa Bailey, Murphy, N.C.

A: I am sorry to say your friend is right. Anissa Jones, who played Buffy, died of a drug overdose on Aug. 29, 1976, shortly after her 18th birthday.

Q: As a reader of your column I have written to you about some actors of my time hoping to see an answer in your column. My question is: Could I have an address or fan club address of Jimmy Wakely, Eddie Dean and Rex Allen. I'm a shut-in and enjoy writing to my favorite stars. Help us old guys out too. —Thank you. Chuck Micazzo, Montclair, Calif.

A: I am sorry I missed your previous letters, Chuck. I must tell you, though, I don't know who or where the letters come from. Whether you are young or old has nothing to do with what gets answered. One of your favorites, Jimmy Wakely, died in 1982. Write to: National Association of Fan Clubs, 2730 Baltimore Ave., Pueblo, Colo. 81003, for information concerning Eddie Dean and Rex Allen.

Q: I am 65 years old and I only look at NBC at 12 o'clock in the daytime. Just tell me why did you scramble it so no one can see it? I sure would like to know. I could turn my satellite back in because that's my reason for buying it. But if that's the case thanks for nothing. —Semoriah Hackett, Crockett, Texas

A: Simmer down, Semoriah. I am not the one responsible for your scrambled satellite. I was told that NBC scrambles their signal, but you will have to ask them why. Write to: NBC-TV Audience Relations, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10112. Tell them exactly how you feel.

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Pipeline, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748. Because of the volume of mail, only questions of general interest will be answered.

Shelley Fabares' career a hit in music as well as film

By Shelia Odak

Shelley Fabares, who stars as Christine Armstrong on the ABC series Coach, literally grew up on screen. She got her start performing when she was only 3.

Fabares began her career as a child model and from there moved on to appearances in such early series as Annie Oakley and Captain Midnight. By the age of 9, she had appeared on a special with Frank Sinatra. She also made her mark in live television with appearances in Matinee Theatre and Playhouse 90.

Her biggest break came when she was cast in The Donna Reed Show. As her acting career began to rise, she also developed a singing career, releasing a million-selling record "Johnny Angel."

This lead to film appearances opposite some of the top musical performers of the time, including Fabian in Ride The Wild Surf, Herman's Hermits in Hold On, and three films with the king himself, Elvis Presley.

Fabares' career slumped in the late '60s, but an appearance in 1971 in the television film Brian's Song gave her recognition as an adult actress.

The next two decades saw Fabares appearing as a regular in several series including The Practice opposite Danny Thomas, The Little People opposite Brian Keith, and a role in One Day At A Time. Coach is her sixth series.

SOAP TALK

Adultery on soap operas condemned

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I am really tired of seeing everyone having sex with everyone else, no matter who it is, on these soaps. I always thought love came before convenience. I thought Beth on Guiding Light was a good girl and would never have sex before marriage, but I guess not. Now they have Sam moving in with someone and she is only 17. How dare they even think of writing a storyline like that?

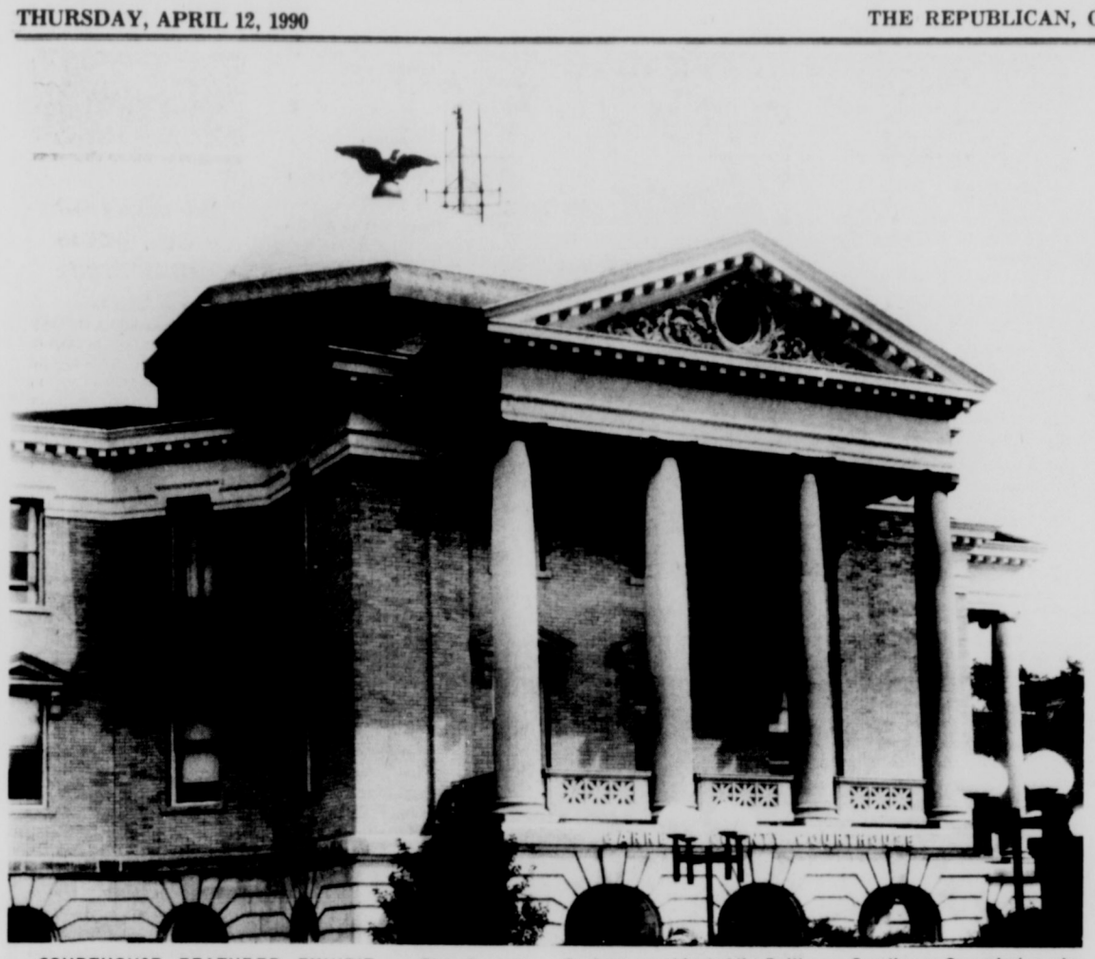
I am very disappointed in the soaps now. I used to watch them because they made me feel good. I don't watch them anymore because they make me feel so bad. —Linda Waterman, Dickeyville, Wis.

Dear Candace: Years ago I watched the soaps a little bit, but it was the same thing over and over. The writers just invent different ways to give the characters a reason to commit adultery. It is ugly, obnoxious, dangerous and ruins the marriages and lives of many well-brought-up young ladies who are influenced by them.

I do not remember a class in elementary school that did not have a big long sign above the blackboard. The sign said, "Do unto others as you want them to do unto you."

The cleverness of these writers could find just as many excuses to push this beautiful thought. —Sincerely, Virginia McCollum, Omaha, Texas

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748. © TV Listing Inc.



COURTHOUSE FEATURED EXHIBIT — The Garrett County courthouse is being featured in a photographic exhibit depicting the unique and diverse architectural history of Maryland's courthouses. The exhibit has just been installed for permanent public exhibit in the newly restored grand entrance of the Baltimore City Courthouse East. A limited edition of the 26-print series depicting all of the State's County courthouses as well as the Federal Courthouse and Courts of Appeal Building, was presented to the Baltimore Courthouse and Law Foundation, Inc., by the law firm of Smith, Somerville & Case, which commissioned the works. Smith, Somerville & Case partner Theodore Cornblatt presented the photographs to Andrew Graham, president of the Baltimore Courthouse Commission, at a recent ceremony in the firm's offices in Baltimore. Professional Maryland photographer Linda Johnson spent six months photographing the courthouses including the Garrett County courthouse shown here. It, along with the Maryland's 22 other county courthouses, are featured in the display. The series is a study in contrast and reveals the architechural diversity of the state from the Allegany County gothic and stained glass, to Montgomery County's sleek concrete and reflective glass. The collection is believed to be the only complete series of prints in existence which depicts all of Maryland's halls of justice.

UMS To Hold Town Meeting On Education Needs

The University of Maryland System (UMS) will hold a public "Town Meeting" on the higher education needs of Western Maryland. The meeting will be from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday, April 18, at the Cumberland Holiday Inn, South George Street, Cumberland.

As the state's leading provider of public post-secondary education, UMS is currently assessing higher education needs throughout the state. The "Town Meeting" is part of that effort and is the fourth in a series of public forums to gather citizen input.

The three previous forums were held in Baltimore County, Montgomery County, and Prince George's County.

"The Town Meeting on April 18 will focus on the services we provide in Western Maryland," said Dr. James A. (Dolph) Norton, interim chancellor of the University System. "We encourage citizens to bring to this forum their concerns and their questions regarding higher education needs in the region. Public input will help ensure that we respond thoughtfully and vigorously to meeting those needs."

At the public forum, there will be a panel of speakers that includes Dr. Norton and leaders of institutions within the System that provides services in Western Maryland. Members of the audience will be encouraged to ask the panelists questions and to voice their opinions.

There are 11 campuses in the University of Maryland System, including Frostburg State University. Other universities of the System offer courses and services in the area.

In addition, the following components of the University of Maryland System are in Western Maryland: the Appalachian Environmental Laboratory (Frostburg), one of the facilities of the Center for Environmental and Estuarine Studies; offices of the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service (Cumberland, Oakland, Hagerstown); and a center of the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station (Keedysville).

Maryland Only State To Receive Straight A's In Development Report

Governor William Donald Schaefer last week hailed the results of the Corporation for Enterprise Development's (CfED) 1990 Development Report Card for the States, in which Maryland earned straight A's, the only state to earn such high marks.

In its report card, CfED cited Maryland's emergence as a leader in "homegrown economic strategies," and noted that the state's economic health remains among the strongest in the nation.

"I am delighted to show this report card, with straight A's, to the people of Maryland. We're number one, and I'm proud of it," said Governor Schaefer. "This shows that Maryland is being recognized as the national leader for our economic vitality, our innovative programs, and our solid economic development policies."

The state earned A's on a scale of A through F in the four major categories — economic performance, business vitality, development capacity, and state policy. The overall grades in the four subject indexes are based on grades earned in 17 economic and policy subindices, as determined by CfED, a Washington-based nonprofit economic and business development consulting organization.

According to CfED, "Maryland's economy is a top performer," and the state earned an A in economic performance for its "high earnings, good job quality, and relatively good equity between its very rich and very poor families and rural and urban areas."

CfED said that "Maryland's high level of entrepreneurial activity earns it a leading grade" of A in business vitality, which measures the level of entrepreneurship, the diversity of business, and the competitiveness of existing businesses, particularly in the export market.

The various state offices involved in the export of goods and the attraction of tourism and international business to Maryland were consolidated in 1988 in the Maryland International Division, which has since conducted several successful trade missions to the Middle East, Western Europe, and the Far East. Governor Schaefer, state economic development officials and business leaders will depart May 4 on a mission to Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

CfED noted that "Maryland's historic investments in the skills of its people and other resources — financial, technology and infrastructure — maintain its strong capacity for long-term growth."

The state's newly created Office of Technology Development is working to commercialize technological research. Innovative training programs, such as the Partnership for Workforce Quality and Project Independence, aim to improve the skills of the state's existing workforce and to assist welfare recipients in making the transition from welfare to work.

In awarding Maryland an A for state policy, CfED said that "Maryland is a leading innovator in human resource development, international trade and local development assistance."

"Although Maryland is called an innovator in international trade, our lesser rating in business competitiveness shows that we need to do more and become more effective in our international business dealings," said Secretary of Economic and Employment Development J. Randall Evans. "We have made great strides in recent years, but we still have a long way to go in this important area."

According to CfED, the state needs to improve its tax and regulatory environment, including such areas as fiscal stability, balanced revenue sources and state policies to promote fiscal equality among subdivisions.

"Last year, the full Cabinet met to assess the state's problems and to recommend changes in this important area," said Secretary Evans. "I expect that the current study of the state's tax structure by the Linowes Commission should yield improvements in this category in the future."

The grades of surrounding other states as to performance, vitality, capacity, and policy were as follows: West Virginia, F, D, F, and C; Pennsylvania, B, B, A, and A; Virginia, B, A, B, and B; New Jersey, A, A, A, and B; Delaware, A, C, A, and C; and Ohio, B, D, C, and A.

SHA ENGINEER VISITS STUDENTS — K.C. Keith, district traffic engineer with the Maryland State Highway Administration, recently visited the fourth and fifth grade classrooms of Rosanne Sherwood at Accident Elementary School. The visit was arranged following a class activity with each student writing a letter to the Maryland State Highway concerning signs in Accident to indicate the location of the Accident Volunteer Fire Department and the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The MSHA responded with a letter mailed to each student who had written and a MSHA representative to meet with the pupils to address their concerns. Keith's program included showing slides of various signs found in Maryland, a display of traffic signs, and a traffic light for student inspection. Keith presented each pupil with a current map of Maryland. Pictured above with Keith are students, left to right, Leslie Buckel, Valerie Bender, Laura Schlosnagle, and Lea Stanton.

News From Accident School

VISIT NEWSPAPER OFFICE

Students from Mrs. Maxine Miller's fifth grade at Accident Elementary School visited the offices of The Republican Newspaper in Oakland on Friday, March 30. Mrs. Joyce Bowser, Mrs. Jamie Goehringer, and Mrs. Vicki Teets, parents of students in Mrs. Maxine Miller's class, also participated in the field trip, as did Miss Holly Kimmel, student assistant from Frostburg State University. Don Sincell, editor, gave the group a tour, during which he and staff members explained and demonstrated the various processes involved in the publication of a newspaper.

While at The Republican office, students saw computers in use by writers, development of articles, editing, column layout procedures, advertising graphics, and negatives which were used in the creation of the March 30th issue of the paper. They also saw a linotype, a machine used prior to the computer age for printing with letters created from molten metal. In addition, they saw lettering once used for typesetting.

Students also saw huge rolls of paper used in printing the newspaper. The process of using ink to print the paper was explained, and students were shown machines which "stuff" the sections of the paper together. Additionally, the class saw the mailing labels which are attached to each subscription paper being printed by computer.

Mr. Sincell and his staff answered a variety of questions for the class. They also provided their teacher and Miss Kimmel with negatives used in the production of The Republican that week.

Upon returning to the school, the students and Mrs. Miller wrote thank you notes to Mr. Sincell to express their appreciation for the "interesting and informative" tour.

Area Agency On Aging Schedules Public Hearings

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging (AAA), under the auspices of the Community Action Committee, Inc., has scheduled two public hearings to address activities and services to be provided to the senior citizen population in 1990.

The AAA encourages senior citizens, members of the community, and organizations to attend one of the hearings and offer suggestions and comments regarding needed services.

The hearings will be held April 16, 1 p.m., at the Oakland Senior Citizens' Center, Mt. Lake Holiness Campground, Mt. Lake Park; and April 17, 1 p.m., at the Flowery Vale Senior Citizens' Center, Accident.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting the AAA at 334-9431.

Garrett County was represented by a total of 11 students from Northern and Southern High Schools and Northern Middle School.

Tickets To Be Needed For FSU Commencement

Frostburg State University's increasing enrollment and a capacity attendance at commencement ceremonies last December have prompted University officials to require tickets for admission to the upcoming May 12 commencement ceremony in the Physical Education Center.

"For the first time in our history, admission to commencement — except for the graduating students — will be by ticket," noted FSU President Herb. F. Reinhard, citing "enrollment growth, increased retention of students and a commencement format focusing more on the graduates" as reasons for issuing tickets as a way of handling adequate seating for families and guests of graduates.

Commencement coordinator Dr. David Gillespie, reporting that this spring's commencement will be the largest ever with over 500 graduates, said each graduate will receive six guest tickets, issued when caps and gowns are picked up May 7 at the University bookstore. He said students not needing the allotted six tickets will be asked to return any extras to be distributed on a first-come basis at the door, commencement day.

FSU faculty and staff, excluding those involved in the ceremony itself, will each be provided one ticket by request to Dr. Gillespie's office at 689-4396. They will be mailed to staff by May 7.

The University's 96th commencement will be held at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, May 12, in the main arena of the Physical Education Center, the traditional site for recent past ceremonies.

IRS Offering Extended Service For Late Filers

The Internal Revenue Service will again provide expanded telephone tax assistance for Maryland and District of Columbia taxpayers this Saturday, April 14, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

On deadline day, Monday, April 16th, all 11 IRS tax offices throughout Maryland and Washington, D.C., will remain open for an additional hour until 5:15 p.m. Tax assistance phone lines will remain open until 6:15 p.m.

"We're here for anyone who needs help, said Phil Brand, IRS district director for Maryland and the District of Columbia.

In addition, on April 16th, IRS personnel will be stationed at the three largest Post Offices from 6 p.m. until midnight. These employees will help fill out federal returns for taxpayers to ensure they meet the filing deadline.

"We do this every year," explained Brand. "Just bring along your W-2 statements and any other pertinent information, and we will help you complete the forms."

As always, taxpayers can call the IRS weekdays during normal business hours with their tax questions. The toll-free number is 1-800-424-1040.

EASTER SEALS HOP-A-THON — The Crellin Head Start program held a hop-a-thon for Easter Seals recently. The children hopped for a three minute time period. Each parent collected pledges or donations for his or her child and money was then collected on the amount of hops a child hopped. Before the hop-a-thon the children learned what the term "disability" means. Many were surprised to learn that they knew people with a disability. The highest number of hops by one child was 120 and the total amount of donations raised for Easter Seals was $211.51. The hop-a-thon was supported by the teaching staff of the Crellin Head Start program. Debbi McCarthy is teacher and Terri Shaffer is assistant teacher.

Local Tree Farm Will Give Tours On Earth Day

"Every Day is Earth Day" is the American forest products industry's theme for Earth Day 1990, and Brittany's 'N' Birds, a Garrett County tree farm, is joining Maryland and the rest of the country on April 22 in calling attention to the nation's most abundant natural resource: its forest. "Thanks to outstanding stewardship efforts on the part of the forest products industry and private forest land owners, America's forests are actually growing in size," stated C.W. "Sonny" Newhall, owner of Brittany's 'N' Birds.

"Earth Day 1990 is a time for all Americans to recall the importance of the environment to everyday life. For that reason, Earth Day is an important time to celebrate America's positive replanting record and the importance of productive and healthy forests to meet the nation's increasing demand for wood products, clean water, wildlife habitat, and recreation," Newhall said.

"The forest produces enormous environmental benefits such as watershed and wildlife protection, and recreational opportunities for Americans of all ages who love the outdoors. "When properly managed, America's forest is a renewable resource that has no equal," he added.

In celebration of the 20th anniversary of Earth Day, Brittany's 'N' Birds, which is Maryland Tree Farm No. 335 and 1987 Outstanding Mid-Atlantic States Tree Farm, will conduct tours for individuals, organizations, and school groups. The tour will show how the forest can be used for multiple use, both consumptive and non-consumptive. Tours can be arranged any time of the year by contacting Newhall at 334-2686.

Brittany's 'N' Birds is a part of the top 10 industries in 40 of the 50 United States. America's forest products industry employs 1.2 million people nationwide with another 400,000 involved in other forestry-related activities, such as independent loggers, foresters, and private landowners — called tree farmers — who grow trees as crops. The industry annually ships products valued at over $150 billion, both here in the U.S. and abroad.

Newhall said that roughly one-third of the nation's forests — 245 million acres — is set aside in permanent national parks and wilderness areas, and in other "non-commercial" areas. Those lands will never be managed to produce timber or other resources. This third of the U.S. forests is bigger than Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Holland, Israel, Norway, Sweden, and Switzerland combined.

Of the nation's 483 million acres of commercial forest land, 136 million acres, or 29 percent, are owned by federal, state and local governments. Fifty-seven percent of the remaining commercial woodlands — some 276 million acres — are held in relatively small tracts by individual private owners. About 70 million acres, or 14 percent of the total commercial forest land, are owned by the forest products industry.

The forest products industry also sponsors the American Tree Farm System, which encourages private landowners to manage their woodlands for harvest. More than 70,000 individual landowners with about 93 million acres of forest land currently participate in the program, which is administered by the American Forest Council in Washington, D.C. In Maryland, there are 1,300 Tree Farms practicing sound forest management on over 260,000 acres.

Registration Still Open For Career Planning Class

Registration is still open for the Career Planning class scheduled to begin Wednesday, April 18, at the McHenry Campus of Garrett Community College. The class is offered through the Continuing Education Division of the college and is designed for persons interested in learning more about themselves, their career interests, training for employment and job skills awareness.

The Career Planning class will assist persons undecided about a career field, by means of interest testing instruments such as the Holland Code Self-Directed Search, GATB (General Aptitude Test Battery), and the Career Assessment Inventory Test, to discover career fields compatible with their own interests. Based on this information, decisions can then be made regarding training programs and employment.

The class will meet for five weeks, meeting each Wednesday and Friday, beginning April 18, from 9 a.m. to noon.

Syphilis Cases Show Dramatic Increase In Md.

Officials with the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) report a dramatic increase in the number of babies born with syphilis last year. For 1989, the number of congenital syphilis cases increased 314 percent compared to 1988 figures.

During 1989 more than 65 pregnant women in Maryland were reported with syphilis and 29 of them delivered babies infected with congenital syphilis. Seven babies with congenital syphilis were born in 1988. In 1987, two congenital syphilis babies were reported, and from 1980 to 1986, only one for each of those years.

Last year, five of the babies born with congenital syphilis were stillborn. Four out of five of these mothers received no prenatal care, and the one who did waited for more than six months into her pregnancy to seek care and subsequently delivered a stillborn infant.

The mothers were infected with all stages of early syphilis and one had late latent syphilis. Twenty-seven of the pregnant women had primary or secondary syphilis, both of which are communicable to sex partners.

Fourteen of the women who delivered babies with congenital syphilis had no prenatal care. Half of those who sought care (seven of 15) made their first visit to a physician after 26 weeks of pregnancy; five of these women waited until 30 or more weeks in their pregnancy to see a doctor. "Had these women sought prenatal care in their first trimester of pregnancy, their infections could have been detected and treated, and infection in their babies could have been prevented," said Diane Matuszak, M.D., M.P.H., Chief of the DHMH Center for Community Epidemiology.

"In the past, syphilis infections, when treated early, were relatively benign. With the onset of AIDS, however, that picture has changed," said Dr. Matuszak. "The open sores which accompany early syphilis infections facilitate transmission of HIV because the virus can pass so easily through the skin and enter the blood stream. Early syphilis infection, then, is a risk factor for not only congenital syphilis, but also for HIV infection — and eventually for AIDS," she added.

Women of child-bearing age and their sex partners are encouraged to use safe sex practices which are effective in preventing pregnancy and sexually transmitted diseases (STD). If these women become pregnant, they are urged to seek prenatal care immediately. "Schools are encouraged to place particular emphasis on STD when they teach the Family Life curriculum. The best tool to use against STD or HIV infection is prevention, and the best prevention tool is education," emphasized Dr. Matuszak.

Sixty percent of the congenital syphilis cases occurred in Prince George's and Montgomery counties (36 percent and 24 percent, respectively).

Prince George's County has hired additional health service specialists and clinical staff members to work with syphilis and HIV patients. Clinical service hours have been extended to 8 p.m. four days a week and to half a day on Saturday.

Montgomery County has also hired supplemental staff to work with both STD and HIV patients. They have also expanded clinical and epidemiologic services to include a Monday clinic in Colesville, Maryland.

The total amount of federal funds allocated for the DHMH Epidemiology and Disease Control Program is $1,061,132. This represents 28 percent of all funds budgeted in FY 1990 for this program. This does not necessarily represent the amount of funding available for any particular grant or division.

George Carlin To Perform At Frostburg State

Standup comedian George Carlin, who recently played character roles in such films as "Outrageous Fortune" and "Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventure," will perform at Frostburg State University's Physical Education Center main arena at 7 p.m., Sunday, April 29.

FSU's Campus Activities Board announced the engagement of Carlin today, noting that tickets sales — $6 for FSU students and $10 for the general public — began at 2 p.m., Monday, April 9, in the Lane Center office. Student and general tickets sales will continue Tuesdays-Fridays from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Lane Center. General public tickets are available at Main Street Book Store, Frostburg; Disc Jockey, Country Club Mall; and the Book Center, Cumberland.

Carlin, who had an extensive television and nightclub career in the second half of the 1960's, has become popular for doing material of a personal and political nature. He released an album, "FM & AM," which won a Grammy award in 1972 and was the first of four successive gold albums Carlin had on Little David Records.

Performing some 100 concerts a year, Carlin has also had wide exposure on cable television. In 1977, he taped "On Location: George Carlin at USC," did "Carlin at Carnegie" in 1982 and is now working on his latest HBO standup show, "Doin' It Again."

State Seeking Public Input On Library Issues

How can libraries give your child a better start in life? What can libraries do to win the war on illiteracy? How can libraries better support the business community?

These are some of the questions that will be discussed at the 1990 Maryland Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services, to be held in the fall. Organizers of the conference want to know what the Maryland library community thinks are the important issues libraries must face in the next decade.

Local persons can submit their suggestions on issue forms available at any Ruth Enlow Library or they can also mail ideas on library issues to Florence S. Brown, Chair, Governor's Conference Resolutions Committee, Extension Division, Enoch Pratt Free Library, 400 Cathedral Street, Baltimore, MD 21201. Suggestions should be limited to one double-spaced page per issue. Persons should sign, date, and include name, address, and phone number.

Issue statements must address the following questions: What is this issue? Why is this an issue? What action should be taken to address the issue? All issues must be received by June 1.

Issues can address the services of Maryland's public, academic, school, special and state institutional libraries, as well as federal and military libraries located in the state.

Common to all these libraries are such issues as providing equal access to information for all citizens and coping with the rising cost of information technology.

Conference delegates will discuss and develop the issues into resolutions. Resolutions will be submitted to Governor William Donald Schaefer and sent to the White House Conference on Libraries and Information Services, scheduled for July in Washington, D.C.

For more information, persons may contact M. Sue (Courson) Baughman, Conference Coordinator, Maryland State Department of Education, Division of Library Development and Services, (301) 333-2317; or Katherine C. Hurrey, Planning Committee Chair, (301) 934-9442 or (301) 843-3634 (D.C. line).

Senior Citizen Community Care Program Explained

The Senior Coordinated Community Care Program is a state funded program offering gap-filling services (when there is no other means to provide a service) to senior citizens (65+) who meet financial and other eligibility criteria enabling them to remain independently in their homes to avoid nursing homes or other institutions, according to the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging. Gap-filling services include, but are not limited to, personal care, chore service, and health care equipment loans.

SCCC services begin with an evaluation of the older person's service needs by Geriatric Evaluation Services staff, according to an AAA spokesman. A case manager is then assigned to locate and arrange appropriate services.

The services may have to be obtained from more than one local agency and the SCCC system makes it easier for the older person to receive them when needed, the spokesman said.

To be eligible a person must be 65 years of age or older; be a resident of Maryland; need assistance with activities of daily living, such as bathing, dressing, preparing meals, cleaning, and/or shopping; and have a medical condition that puts them at risk of having to enter a nursing home or other institution.

Persons who meet these eligibility requirements can receive most SCCC services at little or no cost to them. Services are available free only to those who have limited financial resources.

SCCC is managed through a cooperative agreement between local aging, social services and health agencies. The 29-May 6, 1990.
supervises the state-wide activity in conjunction with the state interagency Committee on Aging Services.

Referrals to SCCC may be made by family, friends, physicians or other interested persons concerned with the well-being of an at risk senior.

For more information about receiving SCCC services, persons may contact the local SCCC office at 334-9431 or 334-5856.

FSU Theatre Slates Statewide Play Premiere

The Frostburg State University Theatre closes out its 1989-1990 season with the Maryland premiere of Dan Rustin's new work, "The Middle Passage," featuring Equity actress Kyra Hider. The University Theatre will present this drama April 19-21, in FSU's Compton Auditorium with an 8:15 p.m. curtain time.

Tickets for the show are now available at the Compton box office weekdays from 2-3 p.m. Reservations may also be made by contacting the University Theatre weekdays from 1-4:30 p.m. at 689-4145.

Hider created the roles of Young Phillis and Desdemonia in the premiere production of "The Middle Passage" at Bristol Riverside Theatre in Bristol, Pa. She was most recently seen as Ivy in "Playboy of the West Indies" at Crossroads Theatre in New Jersey and has appeared in the New York area as Curly in Peter Pan at E.S.I.P.A. in Albany. Further credits include Joice Heth in Barnum at Bucks County Playhouse. Actress No. 1 in "A . . . My Name is Alice" at the Group Theatre and Crystal in "Little Shop of Horrors" at A.C.T.

The FSU production is being directed by Dr. David Press and designed by Robert Lewis Smith, both faculty members of the University's communication and theatre arts department.

This drama focuses on the black writer Phillis Wheatly, who was the first woman writer to have her works published in Colonial America. Her poetic works, her extraordinary wit and her intellect made her an international celebrity. As a young child, she had been rescued from the auction block by the Wheatleys of Boston. Recognizing the child's genius, the Wheatleys suffered ostracism and near ruin when they dared to educate the slave girl and bring her genius to the attention of the world.

Sheep & Wool Festival To Feature Thirty Breeds, Crafts, Displays

The Seventeenth Annual Maryland Sheep & Wool Festival will be held May 5 and 6 at the Howard County Fairgrounds. The festival promotes the sheep industry and the many related products. The purpose is to bring the producer and the consumer together, giving each a unique opportunity in today's world — no middle man!

More than 600 sheep, especially bred for wool production, will be entered in competition. A showcase of about 30 different breeds will be exhibited in the Sheep Breeds Display Barn. Sheep breeders and producers often use the festival as an opportunity to make private treaty sales of their fine breeding stock and young animals.

Feeder lamb producers bring their young animals for competition and for auction to buyers who will use them in their summer lamb projects and competition at fairs and livestock shows. The idea is that 4-H children need quality lambs available at reasonable prices.

The Fleece Show and Sale will be located in the Main Exhibition Hall where hundreds of fleeces will be displayed for competition and for sale.

Over 200 craft and supply booths will be present in the buildings, barns and outside, where visitors can browse and choose from beautiful, useful, and many one-of-a-kind items not found anywhere else.

Last year, and for several years, visitors and exhibitors have come from all over the nation. The attendance, last year, was estimated at over 20,000, and the event is considered to be the largest event of its kind in the nation.

This year the focus is on "Lamb as a Food Product." Visitors in the Food Building may taste samples of prepared lamb and lamb dishes, watch the cooks at work with the Maryland Grand Lamb Cookoff, and stop by the Lamb Vendors' booths where new and old recipes are available. Tables are available in the Food Tent for visitors to sit and enjoy their meal.

Admission to the festival and parking are free. All buildings are accessible at ground level, permitting use of wheelchairs and strollers. Events scheduled include sheep shearing, spinning, weaving, sheep dogs working, gourmet lamb cooking, and demonstrations concerning other facets of the sheep industry. Other activities will be the music of Maggie Sansome, square dancers and Scottish dancers.

TO BE CERTAIN!

Have you ever noticed that there are no guarantees in life? Just when you think something is certain to happen, it doesn't. The popular expression "The only thing for certain is that there will always be change" seems to sum it all up pretty well, doesn't it?

Selling your home can be one of those times when you would like some certain answers to important questions. Those questions might include: "How soon will my home sell?" or "What price is the right price?" Answers to those questions can be critical yet, like real life, the answers may be elusive. Here's why.

Once you decide to sell your home, buyers will make their decision to purchase your home based on comparisons they make against other homes currently for sale. Measuring such things as space, condition, location, and age of the home against the price being asked, they will then make a value judgment based on their own value system, not yours. That decision is based partially on facts, figures and logic, and partially on emotion.

When selling your home, your first question should be "How can we market our home so as to present the most positive impression possible to buyers?" The answer can be readily provided by the REALTOR® you choose to represent you. Backed by both experience and training, your REALTOR® can help position your home to offer real value to buyers and to sell with a reasonable degree of certainty. Make a careful choice and you will enjoy the benefits of professional representation: an early sale at the best possible price.

Understanding real estate dilemmas and their solutions is our business, and we'll happily share our knowledge with you. Why not give us a call at 387-5303 or drop by our office at McHenry Plaza.

Farming In Maryland ..... Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

Congress Is Advised: Allow Agriculture To Continue To Prosper

The task before Congress is to take current farm legislation "and improve it in such a way that agriculture can continue to prosper in the 1990s," the American Farm Bureau Federation told members of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry.

"The next farm bill must be flexible enough to permit farmers to adjust to an uncertain future," stressed AFBF President Dean Kleckner.

Such major factors as "the changing global environment for economic development and trade, rapid changes in technology, increased competitiveness and awareness of environmental issues" will impact agriculture into the next decade, the head of the nation's largest general farm organization said.

Kleckner pointed out American agriculture is in better shape today than it was five years ago, and urged Congress "to continue to pursue many of the basic policy objectives that have contributed to the improvement. In addition, we will support modifications to farm policy that will enhance the structure and effectiveness of farm programs," he said.

The AFBF leader reiterated Farm Bureau's main objectives for the 1990 farm bill: that it reaffirms U.S. commitment to competitiveness; assures the opportunity for an adequate level of farm income; and, maximizes freedom for farmers to respond to market conditions.

Kleckner called for target prices in the farm legislation to not be reduced below their 1990 levels. "Target prices have been reduced approximately 10 percent over the past five years, and additional reductions would result in an unacceptable lowering of farm income," he said.

To "ensure competitive pricing," Kleckner recommended that loan rates continue to be tied to a percentage of the average price of the commodity over the past several years. Such provisions as the Findley adjustment or the marketing loan for cotton and rice "should be continued to assure that our products remain competitive in world markets."

Farm Bureau supports the concept of an income support program for soybeans based upon the previous statutory loan minimum of $5.02 per bushel, according to Kleckner. "This policy would allow us to support a target price or marketing loan program that used $5.02 as the support level," he said.

Kleckner said changes are needed "to respond to the appropriate soybean price incentives and stem the trend of declining soybean acreage in the United States."

In the area of acreage flexibility, Farm Bureau is "particularly concerned that programs are fair and equitable to producers of various commodities; program crops, nonprogram crops and livestock," Kleckner said. "We firmly believe benefits extended to producers of certain commodities must not come at the expense of other producers."

He added that the Farm Bureau plan is more equitable than the current USDA proposal, which "could be characterized as a form of decoupling," which AFBF opposes.

"Our organization has developed its farm bill policies in consideration of the many commodity and regional perspectives encompassed in our membership," Kleckner concluded. "We know writing a comprehensive farm bill will require much the same exercise within the Congress."

Kleckner is a corn, soybean and hog producer from Rudd, Iowa.

Managed Pastures Provide More Feed For Livestock

Garrett District Conservationist Garry Morfoot, of the Soil Conservation Service, asks farmers if they are taking their pasture for granted. He answers that a closer look at the grazing management on farms can result in more feed for livestock from pasture acres.

Traditionally, pasture grasses have been assigned a low priority on many Maryland farms, when it comes to managing for increased yield and improvement of quality. "And when pasture improvement is considered," Morfoot says, "it is usually in the form of more fertilizer or the use of mechanical equipment to fix it fast, which reflects our experiences with cultivated annual crops."

The concept of managing the foraging animal is the basic key to improving long term pasture quality and yields. The need for grazing management should be considered as equally important to a pasture system as the need for the application of additional plant food, Morfoot stresses.

How can a farmer begin to put together a grazing system that will improve forage quality and yield? "First, layout a straight forward plan that addresses grazing management and the need for lime," says Morfoot. He offers the following guidelines for planning pasture improvement:

1. Don't turn animals out too soon. Allowing livestock to graze all of the pasture acreage during spring green-up will result in weak plants, a reduction of desirable grasses and less legumes. Holding livestock on a small percentage of pasture during April will allow the plants on the majority of the pastureland to get a good start.

2. Set up a rotational grazing system. If one large pasture field is being continually grazed, consider some low cost division fencing. Pasture rotation systems in Garrett County range from as few as three fields to as many as 20 fields in an intensive system. While intensive systems, which require moving livestock every day or two, does not fit into every farmer's plans, a basic system of three or more fields would improve the pasture on most farms.

3. Take a soil sample and check the pH. When it comes to applying plant nutrients to the soil, lime should be number one on the list. Keep pasture soil pH above 6.0 and use dolomite lime if magnesium is needed. Do not routinely apply a complete fertilizer without knowing the nutrient level in the soil.

4. Once a system is in place, manage it. Grazing management is an on-going effort. Adjustmants might have to be made from year to year, sometimes because of variables beyond a farmer's control such as drought. Change the rotation schedule each year so that no pasture field is grazed the same time of the year for two consecutive years.

"Don't take your pastures for granted," Morfoot says. "Put a plan together with emphases on grazing management."

Fescue Toxicity Found In Horses On Farms In Md.

The Maryland Department of Agriculture has found fescue grass toxicity occurring in horses on two Maryland standardbred horse breeding farms.

"On both of these farms, mares have had a prolonged gestation period, as long as two weeks in excess of normal. In addition, a number of foals born from these mares have been stillborn. On both farms the culprit was mares grazing in pastures containing fescue grass," said Dr. Stauffer Miller, veterinarian with the department's Animal Health Laboratory in Frederick.

"Symptoms of fescue grass toxicity may include prolonged gestation, birth of stillborn and/or weak foals, thickened edematous placentas, and lack of mammary development in mares," Miller said.

Miller urges all horse breeders to check their pastures for fescue grass and to remove all mares from fields where it is found.

For more information on fescue grass toxicity, persons may contact private veterinarians, livestock extension agents or the Maryland Department of Agriculture's Office of Animal Health and Consumer Services, 50 Harry S Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD, 21401, 301-841-5810.

Largest Crowd Ever For MDA Open House

A crowd of over 2,500 turned out for the Maryland Department of Agriculture's Open House held to commemorate "National Agriculture Week." It was the largest attendance in the three year history of the event.

Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley, Jr. said, "we are pleased that thousands of people came to take part in the fun and festivities to help us showcase Maryland agriculture. Everyone seemed to have a good time and we thank the public for its wonderful response."

One scholarship will be offered for an agricultural curriculum major. The two remaining scholarships will be offered to members or members' children in their chosen major of study. Selection will be made by a committee designated by the Maryland Farm Bureau Board of Directors.

Interested candidates should complete an application and write an anonymous essay comprised of the following topics: agricultural background, Farm Bureau/agricultural organizational involvement, school and extra curricular activities, future career plans, and employment history.

Compositions should be limited to two pages. Each essay will be evaluated anonymously by the selection committee to ensure impartiality.

Scholarships will be awarded at the Maryland Farm Bureau Convention, to be held December 2-5, 1990. The deadline for all applications is September 1, 1990. Scholarship recipients will be notified prior to the convention and should plan to attend a recognition banquet on December 4, 1990.

Md. Year-End Report For Jerseys Shows 5 County Herds In Top 20

Dr. Lee Majeskie, Extension Dairy specialist at the University of Maryland, recently released the Maryland Jersey Association's 1989 DHI Summary. This year-end report of the Jersey herds in Maryland is based on Energy Corrected Milk (ECM). According to Majeskie, this method of reporting production data should help to identify cows that produce high volumes of milk solids. Also, by recognizing the top three animals in each of the different age groups, recognition can be given to more animals and possibly, more breeders.

The following are the top 20 herds in the state with 10 or more cows, listed by the herd owner and address, the number of cows in the herd, and the herd average ECM.

1. The herd of Paul & Naomi Petersheim of Oakland, 25 cows with 19,018 ECM.
2. The herd of Homer & Sadie Kinsinger, Oakland, 41 cows with 16,171 ECM.
3. Middle Ground Farm of Earleville, 15 cows with 16,139 ECM.
4. Gaywinds Farm, Keymar, 43 cows with 15,798 ECM.
5. The herd of P. Thomas Mason of Chestertown, 12 cows with 15,320 ECM.
6. The Richard Pue & Son herd of Highland, 37 cows with 14,988 ECM.
7. The Nathan Stiles herd of Boonesboro, 65 cows with 14,616 ECM.
8. The herd of Michael Forsythe of Hagerstown, 10 cows with 14,247 ECM.
9. The herd of Eli Swartzentruber of Oakland, 31 cows with 14,223 ECM.
10. The Acorn Acres herd of Howard & Mike Kepple of Oakland, 29 cows with 14,121 ECM.
11. Maryland Sunset View of Westminister, 72 cows with 13,408 ECM.
12. Windy Knoll Farm of Rockville, 54 cows with 13,365 ECM.
13. The Bona-King Farm of Centreville, 31 cows with 12,599 ECM.
14. The herd of Wayne Fender of Keymar, 32 cows with 12,562 ECM.
15. Queen Acres Jerseys of Keymar, 70 cows with 12,538 ECM.
16. John Stiles & Sons of Westminister, 72 cows with 11,532 ECM.
17. Crazey Acres Jerseys of Boyes, 33 cows with 11,446 ECM.
18. Jersey Lane Dairy Farm of Grantsville, 33 cows with 11,435 ECM.
19. The herd of Charles DeGroft of Westminister, 26 cows with 10,711 ECM.
20. Flag Valley Farm, Gaithersburg, 39 cows with 10,215 ECM.

Several Garrett County herds received high individual records for cows in different age groups.

Homer & Sadie Kinsinger of Oakland had the state's highest senior two-year-old, the third highest three-year-old, the second highest four-year-old, the second highest five-year-old, and is the owner of the state's highest living Jersey production leader in 1989 — Halem Baronet Jup with 11 lactations, 133,100 lbs. milk and 5,263 lbs. fat.

Eli Swartzentruber of Oakland had the state's second highest senior two-year-old.

Paul & Naomi Petersheim of Oakland had the state's highest three-year-old, the highest and the third highest four-year-olds, the highest five-year-old, and the highest and second highest six-year-olds.

The 1989 State Somatic Cell Count Herd winner was Michael Forsythe of Hagerstown, with 92.1 percent SCC in the low group.

The 1989 State Herd Management Award, developed to help recognize herds that are doing a good job in many different management areas, was earned by Ned Davis, Middle Ground Farm, Earleville, with 227 points.

Seed Company Loses Permits

The Maryland Department of Agriculture has suspended the wholesale seedsman permits issued to Pennington Seed, Inc. of Virginia and Pennington Seed, Inc. of Greenfield (MO). The permits are suspended, effective April 1, for inaccurate seed labeling in violation of the Maryland Seed Law and Regulations. The action came as a result of a settlement agreement signed by Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley, Jr., and Brooks Pennington, III, vice president of Pennington Enterprises, Inc.

"I applaud the efforts of the Maryland Department of Agriculture in protecting Maryland seed users from inaccurately labeled or misrepresented seed lots," said Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer.

Under terms of the suspensions, the corporations will not be permitted to sell wholesale seed lots of any kind of seed in Maryland from April 1, 1990, until January 1, 1991. At that time, they may resume business subject to a six-months probation. Three other Pennington firms — Pennington Seed, Inc. of Callman (AL), Pennington Seed, Inc. of Columbia (SC), and Seed Production, Inc. (GA) — are placed on probation for one month, beginning April 1.

The Maryland Seed Law is a truth-in-labeling law. It requires the testing and correct labeling of all seed sold in the state.

To insure compliance with this law, Maryland Department of Agriculture staff collect samples of seed offered for sale within the state and the seed is tested at the Department laboratories in Annapolis. Seed lots found to be incorrectly labeled are taken off the market until such time as they are brought into compliance with the law. Firms found to have offered seed for sale in violation of the law are subject to legal and administrative actions.

A Special Thanks

I want to thank my family, friends and neighbors for their prayers, cards, and flowers during my stay in the Cumberland Memorial Hospital. Also, my thanks to the visiting ministers. Your love and kindness was much appreciated.

God bless you all.

Beef Management Tips

Creep Feeding Beef Calves: Beef producers may want to consider providing some supplemental, palatable, high energy grain (creep feed) to nursing calves this spring. Expected strong calf prices coupled with reasonably priced grains can provide an opportunity to improve the net return on weaned calves later this year.

Creep feeding calves helps reduce the energy demand on the cow herd and should result in cows that cycle and rebreed sooner. As well, creep feeding can be expected to result in calves that are 25-50 lbs. heavier at weaning. Some caution is necessary when creep feeding is used with smaller framed calves and heifer calves that may be selected later for herd replacements as these two groups of calves may gain excess fat and have lowered lifetime productivity. This problem can be overcome in large part by adjusting the make-up of the creep feed to provide a controlled energy level.

Creep rations usually consist of some combination of oats, corn and barley. As the oats are increased, the energy level is decreased. A mixture of 50% whole oats and 50% shelled corn may be a good starting point. Expect the average feed consumption to be about ½ lb/day for calves 1-2 months of age and as high as 4-5 lbs/day for calves 4-6 months of age.

One additional method of creep feeding that should be mentioned is "creep grazing." When cows and calves go to spring pasture and grazing is controlled, it is possible to construct small calf gates or adjust the cross-wire heights to let the young calves graze the lush new grass ahead of the cows. This method of creep feeding is inexpensive and highly successful.

Spring Grazing Cautions: Several cases of grass tetany have been reported in Maryland already this spring. Be sure you have a mixture containing magnesium available for cattle.

Minerals for the Breeding Herd: Producers should consider providing a high phosphorus mineral mix to the cow herd during the breeding season. The role of phosphorus on reproductive performance is well documented. A free-choice mineral mixture containing 33% trace mineral salt and 67% dicalcium phosphate is recommended during the breeding season. This would provide approximately 18% calcium and 13% phosphorus. Before and after breeding, a mix of 50% trace mineral salt and 50% dicalcium phosphate would be adequate (13.5% CA, 9.5% P).

Parasite Control: Do not forget a deworming program is important to beef animals going on pastures.

Attention to these few management tips will help to ensure a productive, healthy and profitable beef cow enterprise.

Meat, Milk, Egg Statistics Noted

CATTLE

Inventories of cattle on Maryland farms amounted to 315,000 head on January 1, 1990. This number is down four percent from the number of cattle on farms a year earlier. Steers weighing 500 pounds or more were the only class exhibiting an increase from a year earlier. Nationally, cattle numbers increased slightly during 1989.

MILK

Maryland dairy farms produced 1.4 billion pounds of milk in 1989, down five percent from the 1988 output. Both the average number of cows and the average output per cow were below year earlier levels. There were 2,000 operations in Maryland with milk cows in 1989, unchanged from the previous year.

SHEEP

Sheep numbers on Maryland farms declined during 1989. On January 1, 1990 there were 32,000 head in the inventory, down by 3,000 head from year earlier levels. Both the breeding herd and the number of lambs were down. The lamb crop in 1989 amounted to 23,000 head, a five percent increase from 1988. Nationally, sheep numbers at the first of 1990 were up fractionally from a year earlier.

EGGS

Egg production in Maryland during 1989 totaled 965 million eggs. This output is four percent greater than the 1988 output in the state. The number of hens in laying flocks was up by 203,000 but this increase was partially offset by fewer eggs per layer. Nationally, 67.1 billion eggs were produced in 1989, down four percent from the previous year.

once. Any good, therefore that I can do, or any kindness that I can show to any fellow creature, let me do it now.'

"Scott devoted his life to improving the quality of life for both his fellow man and his animal friends. Many areas of his life contributed to instilling this feeling of responsibility for others, with 4-H being one of the major influences of his growing years. Four-H offered him an opportunity to learn responsibility and compassion in caring for animals, growth in expressing himself in both written and spoken words, and offered him some of his first adventures into the world outside of Garrett County, with both its wonders and needs."

The award will be presented each year to a senior-level 4-H member, and a member may receive the award only once. The criteria considers service to family, club and community.

Every year, the leaders of each 4-H Club will be asked to nominate a member of their club for the award and to complete a form by a specific date. The commitee what will make the final selection each year will include one representative from the Glotfelty family, one from the Extension Service and one from the community.

REVERSE MORTGAGE PROGRAMS IN MARYLAND

Using equity in your home to finance education, home repairs, vacation and other expenses is not new. The loan (Line-Of-Credit) can be secured through your bank and must be paid back in monthly installments. Should you default on your payments, you risk your home.

How is a reverse equity mortgage different? Two important points everyone should know who considers utilizing equity in a home REM (Reverse Equity Mortgage) is that it does not have to be paid back until the borrower(s) no longer need the home and you do not risk your home.

If that sounds too good to be true, make sure you read ALL the fine print and understand all the restrictions.

A REM program is offered by the Government through the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development and by two private corporations: American Homestead Mortgage Corp. offers IRMA (Individual Reverse Mortgage Account) and Capital Holding Corporation offers the Home Income Security Plan. All three are suitable for older individuals on a restricted income. The private corporations do not place a limit on income, but one requires the home value to be at least $75,000.

All REM's have specific things in common: they are rising debt loans, owed amount grows larger over time. They are non-recourse loans. The lender cannot ask back more than the value of the home, personal income and assets are protected. Costs of setting up the loan (for taxes and insurance) can be financed.

Reverse equity mortgages differ in requirements for eligibility, the type and amount of loan advances available, the interest charged and restrictions on the use of the loan.

The funds received are tax-free because it is a loan. Interest can be deducted from income when the loan is paid back (at maturity). This extra income may affect other financial assistance received. The loan can be repaid early without penalty. Only the equity of the home is used to pay off the loan.

Loan comes due when last borrower dies or no longer needs the home.

Some causes for default can be failure to pay taxes or insurance; neglect of property and misrepresentation on the application.

The loan can be used to pay medical bills, repair or adapt home for special uses (wheelchair), on-going housing expenses, utilities, adult day care, prescription medicine, un-reimbursable health and long-term care. Private programs may have more options. You may also contact HUD and the Federal Housing Administration which offers loan insurance.

Other states may offer similar additional programs. For more information, please contact Irmgard R. Koscielniak, Extension Agent, Home Economics, 202 S. Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550; phone (301) 334-1990.

The students there will also be giving donations of up to $1 to purchase shrubbery for the school grounds as part of a landscaping project. The students will also wear green on April 23.

Of the secondary school programs, Northern Middle School will conduct tree plantings to establish an arboretum with a wide variety of native Garrett County trees. The students will also plant a memorial garden for Michael Vitez.

Southern Middle School also plans to develop an arboretum on the school grounds. Students will produce skits, songs and poems with environmental themes and will design T-shirts with an Earth Day theme.

SMS will also travel to a local park for an Earth Day birthday party and will hold a picnic with a waste analysis of the picnic's trash. Green pledges will also be taken.

Agencies Sponsor Non-Smoking Ed. Class In Schools

For the second year, Garrett County public schools have joined with Garrett County Cancer Society, the American Heart Association (Western Maryland Division), and the American Lung Association to provide special educational classes to the "Smokeless Class of the Year 2000."

According to Dr. Charleen Evans-Thomas, director of Early Childhood/Elementary Education for the Garrett County Board of Education, these classes are taught voluntarily by elementary teachers to this year's second grade students, the graduating class of the year 2000.

By a lottery-type drawing, Kitzmiller School's second grade class was chosen to represent the Garrett County Schools' Class of 2000. Blue Cross/Blue Shield provided special shirts to each student for the occasion. Attending the presentation ceremony held recently at Garrett County Board of Education office were: Lucy Burnett, president of Garrett County Cancer Society; Ann Heselbach, volunteer for American Lung Association; Glenda Appel, supervisor of Cumberland office of Blue Cross/Blue Shield; Frankie Griese, division director of American Heart Association (Western Maryland Division); Dr. Brenda McCartney, teaching principal at Kitzmiller School; and Dr. Evans-Thomas.

THE CLASS OF 2,000 from Kitzmiller Elementary School was selected to represent Garrett County's second graders this year in a non-smoking educational program sponsored by the Cancer Society, Heart Association, and Lung Association. The goal of the program is to make the high school class of the year 2,000 the first "Smokeless Class." Kitzmiller students pictured left to right above are: Jason Berg, Debbie Fike, Brandy DeWitt, Tim Kisner, Rita Ervin, Loanna Lyons, Heather Whitacre, and Jessica Berg. In the second row, same order, are Miranda Brady, Mary Evans, Lewis Welch, Dustin Guthrie, Kelly Selders, and Amy Sherwood. In the back row, same order, are Dr. Brenda McCartney, Dr. Charleen Evans-Thomas, Frankie Griese, Glenda Appel, Ann Heselbach, and Lucy Burnett (see story for titles).

Among Honor Society Initiates At Hood College

Twenty-five students of Hood College, including one from Garrett County, were inducted into Phi Kappa Phi interdisciplinary honor society at Hood College in recent ceremonies.

Founded in 1897, Phi Kappa Phi recognizes and encourages superior scholarship in all fields of study. Academic excellence and good character are essential factors in electing members. The Hood College Chapter, established in 1975, is the 175th chapter to be formed nationwide.

Among the undergraduate students honored was Leigh Knotts, the daughter of Charles and Dorothy Knotts, Kitzmiller, and a 1987 graduate of Southern Garrett High School. She is a junior at Hood.

Jazz Concert Slated At WVU

Students selected for the West Virginia University High School Honor Jazz Ensemble will perform in concert with the WVU Jazz Ensembles April 17 at 8:15 p.m. in the Creative Arts Center Concert Theater.

WVU Jazz faculty members selected 19 students from West Virginia and one student from Pennsylvania to comprise the Honor Ensemble after listening to audition tapes sent in from area high schools.

As well as performing in concert, Honor Ensemble members will observe WVU Jazz performers and attend lectures, jam sessions, clinics and rehearsals during their two-day visit.

At the concert, WVU Jazz faculty member David Hastings will direct the Honor Ensemble. The group will perform "Us" by Thad Jones, "Outrageous Mother" by Phil Wilson and "Front Burner" by Sammy Nestico.

Curtis Johnson, another Jazz faculty member, will direct WVU Jazz Ensemble II through a performance of Nestico's "Basie Straight Ahead," a Rob McConnell arrangement of Horace Silver's "Ecaroh," Mike Tomaro's "Sweet Sorrow" and a song made famous by Maynard Ferguson, "Give it One."

Johnson will also direct WVU Jazz Ensemble I through "Tickle Toe" by Lester Young, "Decoupage" by Hank Levy, "Bones Alone" by Don Menza, "Here's that Rainy Day" arranged by Dee Barton, a Charlie Young arrangement of "Easy to Love" by Cole Porter and "Greetings and Salutations" by Thad Jones.

March Of Dimes Walk Scheduled In Cumberland

The Allegany/Garrett County March of Dimes joins all divisions of the national March of Dimes in celebrating 20th Anniversary WalkAmerica. This largest annual fundraiser will be held Saturday, April 28, beginning at 8:30 a.m. at Town Center on the downtown Cumberland Mall. Registration and Pre-Walk festivities begin at 7 a.m. and teams' tables will be set up for teams with 10 or more walkers. Reservations must be made in advance by team captains by calling the local March of Dimes office at (301) 722-5818.

Currently, there are over 250 walkers and 25 teams registered to walk.

WalkAmerica 1990 chairman is Warren Bendix, a retired resource and planning manager at CSX Railroad and current president of the Western Allegany Kiwanis Club. Other committee members include Willard Kitzmiller, Bev Shaffer, Gene Davis, Jim Kreiling, Ernie Kesner, Jim Robey and Trish Morgan.

Pre-Walk festivities include celebrities, guest speakers, clowns and balloons, coffee and doughnuts, Pepsi, music and an aerobic dance presentation by "Aeroflex." On the Walk route, volunteers from American Red Cross, Friends Aware, Cumberland Auxiliary Police, 129th Signal Battalion, Western Allegany Kiwanis Club, WCBC Radio Station, Allegany County Future Business Leaders of America, Civil Air Patrol, Cumberland City Police, Maryland National Guard, Mountain Radio Amatuer Club, National Park Service, Fidelity Bank, Wendy's, United Commercial Travelers, Sheetz, and Pepsi will help the Walk progress smoothly. The Walk begins on the Cumberland Mall and progresses down the C&O Canal to Mexico Farms. Walkers may walk as many or as few of the 20 kilometers as they desire and a Victory Van will be available to carry weary walkers.

To register for the Walk, persons should call the March of Dimes office at the number above. Team, school and individual registrations may be taken over the telephone. Goals for the 1990 Walk are as follows: to have at least 600 registered by Walk Day, to have at least 40 teams registered by Walk Day, and to raise at least $25,500 for the March of Dimes Campaign for Healthier Babies.

Local Student To Embark On European Tour

Tracy Ann Teats, daughter of Gary D. Teats and Geraldine L. Glass-Teats, has been accepted into the internationally acclaimed Spirit of America Marching Band.

Miss Teats, a junior at Northern High School and a percussionist in the band, is only the third student from Northern to be accepted into S.O.A. over the past 13 years.

The S.O.A. Marching Band originates in Kingsport, Tenn. They will begin their European tour on June 30, after spending a week of band camp at Glassboro State College in Glassboro, New Jersey. While in Europe, the band will be traveling and performing in Luxembourg, Liechtenstein, Belgium, Switzerland, Austria, Germany and Holland.

On July 4 the band is scheduled to perform in Geneva, Switzerland, before government officials from many countries, including the United States. They will also be visiting the Neuschwanstein Castle, which inspired Walt Disney to build his "Cinderella's Castle." After two full weeks of performing, the band will return to the United States on July 13.

Persons or businesses wishing to help defray the considerable expense of Teats' international tour by making financial contributions are urged to consider becoming a sponsor. Interested persons may call Tracy at (301) 826-8596, Monday through Friday after 6 p.m., or Saturday and Sunday between 10 a.m. and 8 p.m.

APRIL IS CHILD ABUSE PREVENTION MONTH

12 alternatives to lashing out at your kid.

The next time everyday pressures build up to the point where you feel like lashing out—STOP! And try any of these simple alternatives.

You'll feel better . . . and so will your child.

1. Take a deep breath. And another. Then remember you are the adult . . .
2. Close your eyes and imagine you're hearing what your child is about to hear.
3. Press your lips together and count to 10. Or better yet, to 20.
4. Put your child in a time-out chair. (Remember the rule: one time-out minute for each year of age.)
5. Put yourself in a time-out chair. Think about why you are angry: Is it your child, or is your child simply a convenient target for your anger?
6. Phone a friend.
7. If someone can watch the children, go outside and take a walk.
8. Take a hot bath or splash cold water on your face.
9. Hug a pillow.
10. Turn on some music. Maybe even sing along.
11. Pick up a pencil and write down as many helpful words as you can think of. Save the list.
12. Write for prevention information: National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse, Box 2866L, Chicago, IL 60690.

Stop using words that hurt. Start using words that help.

1989 Is Called A Banner Year For Savage River State Forest

by Warren E. Groves, Forest Manager

Many people are aware of the impact of the 1989 World's Whitewater Canoe and Kayak Championship Races which were held on the Savage River during June of 1989 and staged primarily on the Whitewater Primitive Camping Area of Savage River State Forest. This International Event not only increased the tourist visitation to our area by nearly 50,000 race spectators and officials, but also showcased the area's natural resources and people to the world.

What may not be as well known is that, while this very significant World Event was being held, other activities were occurring on State Forest Land which were also outstanding.

During Fiscal Year 1989, which ran from July 1, 1988, to June 30, 1989, an all-time high for timber sales was set on the Forest, both in volume and dollar revenue. Some 5,495,000 board feet of sawtimber and 6,131 cords of pulpwood and firewood were sold for the forest for just over $922,000. This was 66 percent higher than the previous record year in 1985 in which $554,000 worth of timber was sold.

Twenty-five percent of all revenues collected on Savage River State Forest are returned to Garrett County government in lieu of property taxes, thus, during the 1989 year Garrett County received over $230,000 for timber sales.

The economic impact of the World Whitewater Races has been estimated at nearly three million dollars and State Forest timber sales likewise have had a very important impact on the State and local economies.

State and U.S. Forest Service studies have shown that for every dollar's worth of standing timber sold, 11 dollars are generated into the local and state economies. Thus, the timber sold on Savage River in 1989 had over a 10 million dollar economic impact on the area. The value of this timber is even more impressive when we consider that at present, even in the best timber sale year, Savage River is cutting less than two-thirds of what is believed to be the current annual growth of over nine million board feet and over 15 thousand cords per year. Thus, the forest is still growing more timber annually than is being cut. However, the natural mortality presently being caused by gypsy moth may severely change the annual growth rate of the forest in the near future.

In addition to timber sales, recreational use of the Forest also showed significant increases during the year. Visitor use estimates collected by ranger patrols estimated that over 194,000 people visited Savage River State Forest in 1989. The biggest recreational use of State Forest continues to be sightseeing, with fishing and hunting being the second and third biggest recreational use. Boaters including kayaking and canoeing showed the biggest increase in use during the year and snowmobiling and skiing the biggest declines in use. Other significant recreational uses on the Forest are primitive camping, hiking, off-road vehicles and gathering primarily of wild berries and firewood. Recreational use of the forest also has a significant impact on the economy, but no adequate method of accessing its dollar value has yet been developed on the forest.

Wildlife, both game and non-game, also appears to be flourishing on State Forest land. In Savage River State Forest, which contains eight percent of total land in Garrett County and 18 percent of the total Forest Land in the County, 22 percent of the County's legal reported deer kill and 40 percent of the total turkey kill was in Savage River State Forest, according to the Maryland Wildlife Service. A total of 785 deer and 167 turkey were reported killed in Savage River State Forest.

Other not so common animals, such as black bear, bobcat, and fisher are being more frequently seen in Savage River State Forest. The Maryland Wildlife Service and local sportsmen also tried to restore the snowshoe hare to the forest by releases made in 1989.

In many areas of the forest, wildlife habitat improvement efforts were made during the year. These included seedling and mowing of roads and food patches, apple tree releases and planting of wildlife shrubs and trees. The Maryland Natural Heritage Program has also located several species of threatened and endangered plants and animals in Savage River State Forest and steps have been taken to protect these unique resources.

The protection of the waters flowing through the Forest has always been considered one of its most important functions. The forested watershed on Savage River offers the ultimate in protection to the waters which flow through it. A study of native trout streams by the Maryland Fisheries Administration in 1989 showed that Savage River Forest has the most productive naturally producing brook trout streams in the state. Also, during 1989, the town of Grantsville expanded its water system on Savage River State Forest and now gets most of its water directly from the Forest. The Forest provides watersheds to both the Potomac and the Youghiogheny River Systems, so many people benefit from the clean, unpolluted water originating in Savage River State Forest.

There are many other benefits: environmental, such as clean air, moderation of temperature, and increases in relative humidity; social, such as local employment, emergency response services, and the benefits of adequate open space; and aesthetic, such as mountain scenery and fall colors which a large area of land like Savage River State Forest can provide. With adequate support and involvement from all the citizens of Maryland, we should be able to continue to have banner years on Savage River State Forest.

Green Shores Buffer Incentatives Are Announced

Trees planted in buffer strips along waterways remove sediment, excess nutrients and other pollutants found in runoff and subsurface groundwater, according to a release from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. Buffers provide many other benefits as well by serving as protected corridors for wildlife and by enhancing aquatic habitats. As Marylanders welcome April's celebrations of trees, the DNR encourages landowners to participate in the Green Shores Private Land Buffer Incentive Program (BIP).

DNR's Forest, Park and Wildlife Service (FPWS) will pay private landowners $200 per acre to plant and maintain forested buffers around the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries. Grant money will be paid to the landowner one year following the tree plantings, after inspection by a FPWS forester to ensure that there is an adequate survival rate of plantings, and that measures for protection and maintenance of the trees are being taken as needed. BIP will help defray the costs of successfully establishing and maintaining forest buffers.

To be eligible to participate in BIP, a property owner must plant at least one acre and no more than 50 acres within 300 feet of a stream, river, pond, wetland or other open water. Other eligible land would be within the 100-year flood plain. The landowner must agree to plant and maintain the buffer for ten years and follow the recommendations of plan prepared by a FPWS forester.

This incentive program does not apply to reforesting of recently harvested or recently cleared forest land, orchards, Christmas trees, or trees required to be planted by law.

Applications will be accepted by DNR's Forest, Park and Wildlife Service, Tawes State Office Building, 580 Taylor Avenue, Annapolis, MD 21401. Applications will be approved on a first-come, first-serve basis.

To receive guidelines about the Green Shores BIP or to receive an application and a grant agreement, persons may contact their FPWS forester as listed in the blue pages of the local telephone directory or call the forestry headquarters office in Annapolis at (301) 974-3776.

QUICK THINKING AND QUICK ACTION by 10-year-old J.J. Tusing early last Friday morning probably saved both his mother and himself from serious injury or possibly death. J.J.'s mother, Donna, was driving to work at Bausch & Lomb at about 6:45 a.m. when she experienced an epileptic seisure, causing her to lose consciousness and control of the car. J.J., who was riding in the front seat, immediately grabbed the steering wheel, turned off the ignition, and maneuvered the car into a field, avoiding road signs and fence posts along the way. See story.

Local 10-Year-Old Takes Charge In Life-Threatening Situation

While Friday the 13th is superstitiously considered a day of bad luck, the quick actions of a local 10-year-old boy averted what indeed could have been a disaster for him and his mother.

Donna Tusing, Deer Park, who has epilepsy, was driving to work at Bausch & Lomb early Friday morning when she had a seizure and lost control of her Plymouth Caravelle on Kings Run Road. Her son, Jack, better known as J.J., was riding in the front seat at the time and, upon seeing his mother in distress, he immediately grabbed the steering wheel. However, Mrs. Tusing's foot was still on the accelerator and J.J. could not get his foot on the brake. So he quickly turned off the ignition as the car left the road and went toward a road sign and a fence. J.J. steered the car between two fence posts and the car came to rest in a field.

Mrs. Tusing was still unconscious after the car stopped and J.J. got out of the car to go for help. The time was approximately 6:45 a.m.

There was no answer at a nearby house so J.J. went back to the roadway to flag down a passing motorist. Just by chance, Maryland State Trooper Wayne Dixon happened to be passing by and he stopped to assist.

Mrs. Tusing, still in a semi-conscious state, got out of the car at one point, but fell back against the vehicle and sustained a gash on her head. Trooper Dixon called for an ambulance and the Southern Rescue Squad transported Mrs. Tusing to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

"I was so proud of J.J.," stated Mrs. Tusing, "When I asked him what he did right after the car stopped, he said he hugged me and told me I'd be all right. I remember trying to get out of the car and him telling me to just stay in the car and wait for help."

Mrs. Tusing also noted the "kindness, patience, and understanding" of Trooper Dixon and expressed her appreciation to the rescue squad crew and two other men who stopped to help.

J.J., a student at Broad Ford Elementary School and the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tusing, said that he was prepared to repond the way he did under the circumstances.

"Over the years my dad always told me that if Mom ever had a seizure when she was driving, I should grab the steering wheel, turn off the key, and try to steer the car toward the side of the road," he said. "I just did what he told me to do."

Trooper Dixon could not be reached for comment, but it seemed obvious that two lives may have been spared because a 10-year-old remembered, without hesitation, to follow his father's instructions during a true emergency.

DNR Police Officer Saves Capsize Victims

Two people were rescued from Deep Creek Lake's icy waters Saturday by a Department of Natural Resources Police officer, after their canoe capsized, according to a spokesperson for the DNR Police.

Kimberly Bateman, 23, Dayton, and William Burch, 23, Randallstown, were pulled from the frigid water by DNR Police Officer Walter May shortly after noon, approximately 10 minutes after their canoe capsized in Four Hoop Hole, a southern portion of the lake.

Officer May was patrolling the lake in a DNR 16-foot Boston Whaler when he noticed the yellow canoe and the bright orange life jackets. He reached the victims and pulled Bateman into his craft. Burch was able to pull himself to safety unassisted.

According to May, both victims were suffering from hypothermia.

The couple were taken to shore, but refused medical treatment.

The accident was witnessed by Bateman's parents and sister, who stood on shore watching helplessly until the rescue took place.

Water temperature at the time of the accident was reportedly in the low to mid forties.

Grantsville Man Arrested For Child Abuse

A Grantsville man was arrested on eleven separate charges, including two child abuse charges, according to a report from the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

George William Talbot, 42, Grantsville, was arrested April 11 on five counts of assault, three counts of battery, two counts of child abuse and one count of reckless endangerment.

According to reports Talbot allegedly struck several children, one of whom was treated at Garrett County Memorial Hospital for head injuries. During the incident he allegedly pointed a gun at five children. According to reports Talbot allegedly battered the mother of the five children as well.

According to the arresting officer, Deputy D.C. Welch, Talbot was housed in the Garrett County Jail. He was later released on his own recognizance by a district court commissioner.

In an unrelated case, Scott Cardinell, 26, was arrested April 10 on two bench warrants and one arrest warrant. The latter charged him with the distribution of cocaine. The two bench warrants charged him with failure to appear in court September 13, 1989, to answer charges of driving while intoxicated and driving with a suspended license.

Deputy C.P. Nolan served the arrest warrants.

Cardinell is currently incar-

Mtn. Lake Park Woman Dies After Accident

An 86-year-old Mountain Lake Park woman died following a vehicle accident yesterday at the intersection of Third and Center streets in Oakland.

According to Chief John Sines, Oakland City Police Department, Alice Marie Fitzwater, 86, was traveling north on Third Street in a 1973 Chevrolet Nova when she struck a 1989 Chevrolet S-10 pickup truck headed west on Center Street, glancing off the front bumper. The Fitzwater car then reportedly crossed the center lane and headed into a 1984 International furniture delivery truck that was stopped at the traffic light, heading south on Third Street. The driver of the pick-up truck was Mark S. Tucci, McHenry. The furniture truck was being operated by James F. Kifer, Moorefield, W.Va.

Fitzwater was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad where she was pronounced dead by Dr. Herbert Leighton, deputy medical examiner for Garrett

Mettiki Miner Died As Result Of Roof Fall

Preliminary findings of the investigation into last week's fatal accident at Mettiki Coal Corporation's A-Mine indicate that the miner died as the result of a roof fall.

Randall Lee Shaffer, 33, of Hutton, died after he was apparently pinned against a piece of machinery by a slab of rock that has been estimated at six by 12 feet in size.

According to witnesses, Shaffer had drilled a roof support hole and was attempting to insert a roof support bolt when the rock fell from the roof.

Inspectors from the U.S. Department of Labor, along with various Mettiki officials, a sheriff's deputy, and a Maryland Bureau of Mines inspector, conducted the initial investigation.

According to David Leslie, a spokesman for Mapco, Inc., Mettiki's parent company based in Tulsa, Okla., the investigation is being completed by U.S. Department of Labor officials from the Mine Safety and Health Administration to determine the exact cause of the accident.

The last fatal accident at Mettiki's deep mines reportedly occurred in February 1989.

Experimental Trout Rearing In Place At Bloomington Dam

The Garrett County Commissioners this week announced the development by local Department of Natural Resource officials of an experimental trout-rearing station located at Jennings Randolph Lake near Bloomington.

Commissioner Elwood L. Groves II stated they met with Gary Yoder, Mike Dean and Ken Pavol at the site for a demonstration of the apparatus, which consists of a netting, dock and pipe system. As Groves stated, "This is an experimental unit, relatively inexpensive to construct, situated right below the Bloomington Dam in the spillway. Because of the way the water functions in the spillway, water tends to stay cooler during the summer and warmer in winter, making it ideal conditions for trout."

Stanton Named Chairman Of Board And President Of First United Corp.

Richard G. Stanton has been elected chairman of the Board and president of First United Corporation by the corporation's Board of Directors. He was elected to this position yesterday, April 18, the same date he marked his 30th anniversary with First United.

Stanton will serve in this position for both the Corporation and its primary banking subsidiary, First United National Bank & Trust.

Stanton is filling the position of chairman of the Board, vacated by Courtney R. Tusing on April 17. Tusing retired as chairman after serving in that position for a decade.

Stanton has served as president and chief executive officer for the Corporation and the Bank since 1987. During his presidency, the Corporation made the first interstate banking acquisition into West Virginia, by merging the First National Bank of Piedmont into First United Corporation. Plus, the Corporation has been recognized repeatedly for its outstanding performance by two rating organizations: IDC Financial Publishing and the banking consulting firm, Sheshunoff & Company.

Born and reared in Garrett County, Stanton began his banking career at the National Bank of Fairfax, Va., in 1958, where he served as a commercial teller for two years. In 1960, he joined the First National Bank of Oakland as assistant manager of the Friendsville office. He was named manager of that office in 1963.

Stanton moved to the bank's main office in Oakland in 1967 with the title of assistant cashier. In 1970 he was named vice president and cashier, acting as chief operations officer, personnel officer, and loan officer. He was named secretary to the Board of Directors in 1971, and elected to the Board of Directors in 1973. He became executive vice president in 1974, and in 1983 he was named as a member of the bank's Cumberland Regional Executive Committee, following the merger of First National Bank of Oakland and Cumberland Savings Bank.

A graduate of Northern High School, Stanton attended Catherman's Business School, has completed numerous banking courses through the American Institute of Banking, and is a graduate of the three-year Maryland-Virginia School of Bank Management at the University of Virginia. He has also attended many special

A "SHOCKING" LETTER might be received in this unusual mailbox located along Alder Street in Oakland; however, its owner has informed the U.S. Postal Service that the mailman is in no danger when he deposits mail into what used to be a power line transformer. Of course, a bit of voltage in the box on occasion might be a good deterrent to junk mail. The box was created and is owned by Eugene Helbig, a retired employee of (who else?) Potomac Edison Company.

A SPECIAL WELCOME — The Yough Valley Indians 4-H Club issued a special welcome to new Friendsville physician, Dr. John T. Turski III, by organizing and hosting a reception at the Friendsville Elementary School. Some 150 persons were in attendance, including various elected officials, to welcome Dr. Turski and his family, who assumed the medical practice of Dr. Lawrence Rentschler. Door prizes, donated by area merchants, were given away and donations by businesses and individuals covered the costs of the event. Pictured above with Dr. and Mrs. Turski and their three children, Seth, Rachel, and Aaron, are the members and leaders of the Yough Valley Club. In the second row, left to right, are Danielle Rodeheaver, Angie House, and Stephanie Evans. In the third row, same order, are Luke Selby, club photographer; Brian Sines, and Amanda House. In the fourth row, same order, are Stephanie Bennett, secretary; Christina Umbel, reporter; Brandi Frazee, and Dawn Umbel, treasurer. In the back row, same order, are Jack Teats, leader; William Nedrow, vice president; and David Bennett, president. Not present for the photo was Terri Rodeheaver, activity leader. Jack Teats, club leader, said he was proud of the club members for the "fine job" they did on the reception and Dr. Turski responded by voicing his appreciation to the club and adding "I'm glad to be practicing medicine in Friendsville."

High School Art Winners Named In GCC Event

Winners have been selected in the Third Annual Juried High School Art Exhibition now on display in the Bausch and Lomb Art Gallery of Garrett Community College. A total of 75 art works from four area high schools were judged in four categories: painting, drawing, sculpture, and mixed media, according to Ron Skidmore, GCC assistant professor of art and coordinator of the event.

Best of Show award went to Jarrod Sechlor of Northern High School for his work "Ole Tom." In the painting category, Larry Reid of East Preston High won first place for his "Orange Disection," and second place went to Venessa Holliday of Turkeyfoot for an untitled work. Three honorable mention awards went to Chad Fike of Northern, Bobby Orr of East Preston, and Heather Halfhill of Turkeyfoot High School.

Bev Myers of Southern High School won first place for her drawing "Personal Touch," with Stephanie Berry of East Preston winning second place in that category for her work titled "Harmony." Honorable mention awards for drawing went to Brad Cartwright and Dee Wolfe, both of East Preston.

In the sculpture category, Naomi Bowser of Northern won first place for "Medusa," with David Lipscomb of Southern taking second place for his work, "Stairway." Vickie Karlstrand of Southern received honorable mention.

In the mixed media category, Lynne Brenneman of Northern won first place for her mask "The Lost Warrior," and Bev Myers of Southern won second place for her box construction "Anti-Heroes." Honorable mention went to Sean Phillipi and Stacy Clary, both of Southern.

A painting by Christine Kasecamp of Southern titled "Brutus" was purchased for the permanent collection of the college.

Jurors for the exhibit were Dr. Steve Herman, president of GCC; Edna Bender, local artist; Clint Englander and Charles Coleman, members of the GCC Art Group; and Skidmore. Persons may view the exhibit during gallery hours: Monday and Wednesday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and Tuesday and Thursday, 1 to 9 p.m.

ONE VEHICLE ACCIDENT — A Meyersdale, Pa., woman was seriously injured following a one-vehicle accident which occurred Saturday around 2 a.m. on U.S. Rt. 40 near Finzel, in which the driver was charged with driving while intoxicated. In the above photo, Melanie Sue Gnagey, 21, is surrounded by rescue squad members following the accident. Gnagey was flown to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, by Medevac helicopter, where she was admitted to the intensive care unit and is now listed in fair condition. Gnagey was the passenger in a vehicle being operated by Michael Eugene Lane, 22, Garrett, Pa., who was treated and released at Memorial Hospital. Lane was apparently driving west on Rt. 40, when his vehicle traveled off the right side of the roadway, where it struck a ditch, a culvert and a traffic sign before skidding back across the road. He was charged with driving while intoxicated, negligent driving and a seatbelt violation. Photo by Craig Speicher.

Maryland To Host Nation's Largest Earth Day 1990 Clean-Up Effort

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced recently that Maryland's GIVE A DAY FOR THE BAY event is the largest, hands-on cleanup activity planned for Earth Day in the nation, according to the California Earth Day headquarters. GIVE A DAY FOR THE BAY is a one day, statewide cleanup to celebrate Earth Day, Saturday, April 21.

"More than 30,000 citizens throughout the state will be participating in 1,000 cleanup activities," Governor Schaefer said. "This enthusiastic army of volunteers will be taking to Maryland's shorelines, streams, highways and dump sites with shovels, seedlings, and trash bags in hand — all in an effort to clean up our most valuable and prized natural resource, the Chesapeake Bay."

Volunteers including Boy and Girl Scouts, fraternal organizations, churches, schools, community and environmental associations, and more will join together to GIVE A DAY FOR THE BAY. They will be planting trees and marsh grasses; removing trash and debris from highways, streams and shorelines, painting the words "Don't Dump, Chesapeake Bay Drainage" on storm drains, testing water conditions, and starting neighborhood recycling projects.

All Maryland residents are encouraged to GIVE A DAY FOR THE BAY in and around their own homes by picking up litter, planting trees and shrubs, recycling cans, bottles and newspapers, walking or biking instead of driving, and wearing something green to show their support.

GIVE A DAY FOR THE BAY is one of the many Earth Day activities occurring in conjunction with the Maryland Earth Day 1990 Committee, designed to focus citizen support on reclaiming the Chesapeake Bay. GIVE A DAY FOR THE BAY is sponsored by the Governor's Chesapeake Bay Communications Office, the PEPSI Company, and WMAR-TV's Project Environment.

1990 Assembly Emotional One Says Edwards

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards this week stated that the 1990 Maryland General Assembly was a particularly "draining and emotional" one, attributing this assessment not only to the abortion issue but the the fact that this is an election year.

Edwards stated that during an election year, legislators "try to do more than they normally would" in non-election years. This, he said, makes for more tension and anxiety during the legislative process.

The abortion issue, which found itself in an eight-day filibuster, not only consumed more of the legislators' time and energy near the end of the 90-day session, but was also a highly-charged emotional issue, he noted.

Edwards did, however, state that one very positive and bright outcome of the legislative session was the success of the open space and agricultural land bills, of which he was a primary sponsor. The passage of the open space bill, the prime intent of which was to lift the cap placed on spending to acquire and develop parkland, was not only a personal victory for Edwards, but of major significance to Garrett County and the entire state of Maryland as well.

The bill, which Edwards stated is scheduled to be signed by Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer sometime next week, will result eventually in at least a doubling of the funds currently available for the program.

In recalling other events of the session, Edwards relayed a heated debate regarding the reforestation bill, one of many environmentally-related bills introduced in 1990.

The bill, which was killed, would have required developers to replant any trees they had removed to make way for construction, and was one that pitted rural legislators against urban and suburban legislators, he said.

As Edwards explained, an attempt was made by rural legislators to amend the bill, thus making it more practical as well as palatable to their subdivisions.

"We were trying to make it a more acceptable bill," he said, explaining that with the wetlands, wildlands, and other critical areas proposals at hand, some counties could see up to 90 percent of their land tied up and the development process virtually stymied.

He also noted that some factors in rural areas were not given reasonable consideration during the debate over the reforestation bill. For example, he said, Garrett County is one of two counties that has significantly increased the amount of acreage set aside as forest and parkland since 1965. He added that, in many cases, property owners and developers voluntarily replace trees and even plant more than they initially removed.

"Hopefully, he concluded, "cooler heads will prevail" as the measure is examined in the interum.

FEUDIN' TIME IS NEAR — Rob Michael-State Farm Insurance is one of seven teams that will attempt to de-throne the team representing the Greater Oakland Business Association team, two-time champion of the Community Feud slated for this Friday. The eighth annual feud will be held at Dennett Road Elementary School, beginning at 7 p.m., and is sponsored by the Junior Woman's Civic Club. In the photo above, GOBA president Jack Jones, left, takes a pre-feudal shot from Rob Michael, while Debbie Friend, also of the Michael team, is apparently aghast.

New Postmaster Appointed To Accident Branch

A new postmaster was recently appointed to the Accident branch of the U.S. Post Office.

Wilma J. Rodeheaver received word of her new position March 24 from the U.S. Postal Service's regional office in Baltimore.

Rodeheaver succeeds Earleena Tressler, who served as postmaster for 10 years prior to her retirement last September.

Upon Tressler's retirement, Mary Suter, Friendsville, acted as officer in charge until Rodeheaver's appointment in March.

Rodeheaver has been employed by the U.S. Postal Service since July 1970. She resides in Accident with her husband, Dale. They are the parents of three children and the grandparents of three.

Groves To File For Re-Election As Commissioner

Elwood L. Groves II, Republican County Commissioner, District 1, has announced his candidacy for re-election to his current position.

In making his announcement, Groves stated, "Upon first seeking this position, one of my primary objectives was to restore fiscal responsibility to county government and to reduce the county's record-high tax rate of $3.22. With a commitment to sound fiscal management, economic growth, and the expansion of the tax base, I have consistently supported the current Board's efforts to maintain a downward pressure on the tax rate which has resulted in an unprecedented 94-cent reduction during our term of office. The county's fiscal strength is reflected not only in the reduced tax rate, but also in our ability to increase financial support for those most basic government services (such as roads, schools, law enforcement, rescue squads, etc.), as well as in our ability to fund major capital improvements, roads equipment purchases, and other major enhancements without creating new debt to burden the taxpayers in the years to come. As a result, Garrett County is now free of any significant, primary long-term debt."

"The county's strong financial position has also greatly contributed to a healthy business climate and a growing economy," he added. "Our economic development efforts have helped many local businesses expand, thereby reducing unemployment figures to the lowest level in over a decade. If re-elected, I will continue to support all responsible efforts to strengthen and expand our economic base in order to provide our citizens with even greater employment opportunities in the future."

In closing, Commissioner Groves concluded, "During the past eight years, I have gained invaluable experience as I faithfully fulfilled the duties of this office. It is my sincere desire to continue using this experience to address the many new challenges which will confront our county in the 1990s. We must be ready to meet these challenges with a well-balanced county government that is both responsive to the needs of our people as well as responsible in its demands upon the taxpayers. I remain firmly committed to serving in the best interests of the taxpayers and property owners of Garrett County."

During his tenure, Commissioner Groves has served on many boards and commissions and in various capacities including chairman of the Youghiogheny River Local Advisory Board, vice chairman of the Garrett County Planning Commission, vice chairman of the Garrett County Development Corporation, Board of Directors of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and the Governing Board of the Western Maryland Health Planning Agency. He has also represented the Board of County Commissioners on the Legislative Committee of the Maryland Association of Counties in Annapolis, the Maryland Scenic and Wild Rivers Review Board, the Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board, and the Allegany Front Regional Development Corporation.

A life-long resident of Garrett County, Commissioner Groves received his education at Southern High School, Garrett Community College, and Frostburg State University, where he earned his degree in political science in 1978. Prior to being elected to office, he was employed for four years as a teacher and administrator in primary and secondary education. Commissioner Groves resides in his hometown of Loch Lynn with his wife, Ann, and their two children, Elwood III, and Sarah. He is a member of the Knights of Pythias Garrett Lodge No. 113, Southern Garrett Athletic Association, National Rifle Association, Christian Family Fellowship, and the Garrett County Historical Society, in which he serves as managing editor of their quarterly magazine, The Glades Star.

Bureau Says It's Not Too Late To Answer Census

Though Census Day, April 1, has passed, state officials are urging Maryland residents who have not yet returned their census forms by mail to do so at the earliest possible time.

Marylanders not returning a questionnaire by April 25 will be visited by a census taker sometime during May or June. Approximately 3,000 census takers around the state will be making phone calls and canvassing neighborhoods in May and June to collect the necessary information.

Information collected by the census is used to make decisions for improving communities, such as where to locate schools, day care centers, hospitals, health clinics, job training centers and many other services.

All responses to a questionnaire or a census taker are held in confidentiality, according to law.

For questionnaire assistance, persons may call 1-800-999-1990 (9 a.m. to 9 p.m. through April 22), or the district offices. Collect calls will be accepted. The district office number for Western Maryland is 739-8520.

A Serious Imbalance . . .

There are some areas of our law enforcement procedures in Garrett County that have us concerned. Frankly, we are astounded at the apparent inconsistency in the posting of bonds for accused persons and we are wondering why there is so much disparity in the amounts of those bonds in relationship to the alleged crime.

In recent weeks we have been reporting numerous charges of DWI (driving while intoxicated) for which the alleged offender receives bond amounts of $200 to $300. During a recent string of marijuana and narcotics arrests, bonds were set at several thousand dollars in most cases.

Yet when it comes to cases of child and/or spouse abuse, bonds are often set at $100 and, in some cases, there is no bond whatsoever. A perfect example of this appears on page one of this newspaper in a story about a man who was charged with five counts of assault, three counts of battery, two counts of child abuse, and one count of reckless endangerment. The man allegedly struck several children, one of whom had to be treated at the hospital. He allegedly battered the mother of the children and pointed a gun at the children. The man was released on his own recognizance by the district court commissioner. The story of a similar crime appeared in last week's paper and the accused was released on $100 bond.

What kind of a message is this sending to the public and, more importantly, to potential child/spouse abusers? In our opinion, such a light slap on the wrist during the arrest procedures indicates that the physical abuse of other family members is really not such a terrible crime. It says to us that, while it is against the law to pound on one's wife and brutally beat children, such activity is viewed as a rather minor infraction.

It is true that driving while intoxicated or under the influence remains a serious problem on our highways, resulting in the deaths of innocent people daily. It is also true that the war on drugs must continue and those persons responsible for dispensing illegal drugs should be dealt with in a firm manner. However, we believe that a $300 bond posted for a first-time DWI offender and a multi-thousand dollar bond posted for someone who smokes marijuana, in comparison with allowing an alleged child abuser to walk out on his own recognizance, indicates a serious imbalance in our system.

To the Editor:

There is an epidemic sweeping the state of Maryland that too often goes unnoticed. The epidemic is teen pregnancy and, as citizens and taxpayers, we all carry its burden.

Maryland's rate of pregnancy among unmarried teens is fourth highest in the nation. While the cost to taxpayers exceeds $454 million annually, the cost to the teenagers and our society is even greater. Ninety percent of pregnant ninth graders drop out of school. Teen mothers go on to earn half the lifetime wages of adult mothers.

By proclaiming 1990 the "Year of the Infant," Governor Schaefer proves his commitment to providing a brighter future for our children and the state of Maryland. Part of providing a brighter future means we must address the teen pregnancy problem we have today. The challenge is to reach children before they become sexually active through programs which help them develop self-esteem, confidence, and a positive image of abstinence as a choice for a happy and productive life.

Combatting teen pregnancy requires increased responsibility and sensitivity, an understanding public, and initiative from parents, educators, clergy and legislators. Large sums of money are not required. Instead, we must rethink our priorities, the management of our institutions and the allocation of our budgets.

The time has come for us all to get involved. Let's begin by focusing our efforts where the problem starts and where our future lies — with our children.

Sincerely,
Hal Donofrio

To the Editor:

If, as they say, the last refuge of a scoundrel is to wrap himself in the flag, the last refuge of a bureaucrat must be to bray to the world at large his driving ambition to "serve" the public in all things, especially in matters where safety is a principal concern. If the truth has to be "massaged" a little to make it fit the circumstances, well, after all, it's for the public's own good — right?

A case in point might be the masterful bureaucratic handling of the destruction of the Shallmar water supply system. For some time now, the silly residents of Shallmar have been thinking that bureaucratic "Big Brother" didn't want them to have access to free water when he is offering excessively expensive water for their use on an exclusive basic — always there to "serve." Now they realize, after reading accounts of "Big Brother's" noble motives in several newspapers, that his only concern is their "safety," AND the safety of others the silly residents of Shallmar may inadvertently put at risk through their infamous, "alleged," cross-connections of the two systems.

Allow me to advise you of the "un-massaged" truth of the matter. First, the residents of Shallmar are not silly. And neither are they wealthy. Cross-connections, if they exist, cannot possibly contaminate the Kitzmiller water system. Lower pressure Short Run water would have to flow backward through the new system's meter, through a pressure relief valve, both of which are designed to impede such an occurrence, then through a check valve specifically designed to "prevent" any possibility of such a flow. So much for "Big Brother's" major "concern." Now, do I believe certain people in positions of authority are lying? No. Based on the way they run their operations, they probably don't know any better than to believe their own propaganda.

"O ye who lead,
Take heed!
Blindness we may forgive,
but baseness we will smite."

Respectfully,

To the Editor:

The town of Bloomington voted to turn the water system over to the Garrett County Sanitary Commission and at this time nothing is final as the Bloomington Improvement Association is responsible for all debts and the Sanitary Commission runs the plant. At the time it was voted on, I felt the Sanitary Commission was under the county commissioners, but with the action taken on the Shallmar water system, taken prior to the county commissioners being informed, I feel the county commissioners have no control over the Sanitary Commission. I now ask, is the Sanitary Commission in Allegany County responsible to their county commissioners and if so, why not Garrett County?

I believe in our system of county government and feel no one person or agency should be allowed to act on their own or be so powerful.

Sincerely yours,

To the Editor:

I agree with the letter Mr. Kenneth Bray had in The Republican last week. The McIntyre family lived in Shallmar for over fifty years. My brother, sister and I graduated from the then Kitzmiller High School.

If my father had lived four more days he would have been 100 years old. The water in Shallmar could be bottled and sold, with these things in mind, also he was very active up to the day he died.

This is just a note of support for the people in Shallmar.

To the Editor:

"Mountain water makes the difference!" Remember that tag line from the old, Old Export Beer ads — the local beer they use to make in Cumberland? Old Export got run over by time, but time has not changed the truth olf their old slogan.

A bunch of nasty bureaucrats from Baltimore, who don't know mountain water from dip, "ran over" Shallmar's old water system, "supposedly" because they were afraid that after more than a hundred years of constant use, someone might get sick drinking untreated water from Short Run. Never mind that no one ever has — what's a hundred years prove to a bureaucrat with his own agenda? You know how such people think . . ." "What if" this, and "What if" that. "Maybe we should'a . . . would'a . . . could'a," and so on, and on. And yes, I said over a hundred years. The old mining town of Dotson, that preceded Shallmar, piped "untreated" water in wooden pipes from Short Run to the company owned homes of their miners before the turn of the century.

My father drank Short Run water most of his life before passing on at 95. My brothers, sister and I grew up on it with no ill effect. My children drank it and, until the bureaucrats "sneaked" into town a couple weeks ago, my grandchildren were thriving on it.

Anyone with any sense at all, who doesn't read too many books, knows it's some of the best natural water in the whole darn state. A natural spring fed stream, loaded with native trout. It begins with a high mountain spring from which people from all over the county come to fill their trunk load of plastic jugs to use as drinking water. It then tumbles down the mountain side, cleaning itself nature's way, as it goes on to join the Potomac River, just above Shallmar. And you know, it has NEVER gone dry as Wolf Den Run has, the dead, polluted stream, requiring heavy treatment that furnishes the water to the Kitzmiller system, and forced on the Shallmar residents with no consent requested, and none ever given.

I personally believe the destruction of the Shallmar water line, that, by the way, belonged to the people of the town — they bought and paid for the material, they spent the sweat of their brows to install it in the rocky mountain side and they maintained it . . . not the county, not the state and certainly not the Baltimore bureaucrats who forced its destruction — has little or nothing to do with ANYONE'S concern for the safety of the people of Shallmar and everything to do with the fact that the water management people in Baltimore, and the County Sanitary District could not squeeze money fast enough out of the depressed town of Shallmar with the old water system still in place.

If, as they say, nature cannot abide a vacuum, a bureaucrat is scared to death of even the thought of people getting free, as the old water system was, that which they have no control over, or are not actually "doling out" on a "client" basis.

And while we're talking about these kind and "caring" people, maybe someone should ask them why they spent $360,000 of the taxpayers money, forcing Shallmar on to the Kitzmiller system, when the townspeople of Shallmar had a plan in the works that would have cost one tenth that amount, and could have benefited both Kitzmiller and Shallmar if the plan had been allowed to go forward.

More later.

Respectfully,
James C. Brady

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to the recent meeting held at the Grantsville American Legion regarding whether to allow youngsters from the Salisbury, Pennsylvania area to participate in the Grantsville Pony League. Salisbury is unable to form its own team, because there is not enough young people of this age group. In previous years, when there was no Pony League available in Grantsville, I was welcomed, along with several of my friends, to play on the Salisbury team. Concerned parents from that area went so far as to provide transportation for the Grantsville players. Stan Thomas (Chief) was the coach of the Salisbury League at that time, and there were no negative reactions from anyone, as we were welcomed to play on their team.

To the best of my knowledge, the vote taken at the American Legion meeting decided that youngsters from the Salisbury area will not be able to play on

GIVE A DAY FOR THE BAY
TO MARK EARTH DAY ANNIVERSARY

by Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer

The month of April is always a wonderful time in Maryland. The whole state seems to come alive again with flowers and trees budding out, birds coming back from wherever they go in the winter and the grass turning green.

The Chesapeake Bay also comes alive again. If you walk along the shoreline or poke around in a marshy area you can see little fish and other things swimming around. I remember as a child how fascinated I was at this time of year to see all the changes and to watch things grow.

Mother Nature puts on a great show in Maryland each spring. That's why it is good at this time of year to remind ourselves how important it is to take care of what we have.

During the month of April, Marylanders will join with people all over the world to mark the 20th anniversary of Earth Day. But in Maryland, the Earth Day celebration will be something special. We have already organized the largest program in the nation to mark this important day.

More than 30,000 Marylanders have signed up to "Give a Day for the Bay" on April 21 as part of the Earth Day observance on April 22. These volunteers will be involved in over 1,000 projects to improve the environment and the quality of life in Maryland.

They will be planting trees and marsh grasses, working on roadside parks and marina areas, cleaning up beaches, stream beds, roadways and school yards, and encouraging their friends and neighbors to recycle waste.

All of this is being done to preserve and protect Maryland's most valuable and prized natural resource, the Chesapeake Bay.

How can you join this army of Earth Day volunteers? You can take part in a number of ways — and in some cases you don't even have to leave home.

You can help clean up trash and debris from areas that drain into the bay. Litter is a constant problem and it's something that we all can be more careful about. You can look for and correct other sources of pollution. You can plant trees, grass, and shrubs to help stop soil erosion into the bay. You can remind the members of your family to recycle bottles, cans and newspapers.

You can also help by walking or riding a bike on Earth Day rather than driving your car on short trips. And you can show your support for those who are trying to do something positive to protect and improve our environment by wearing something green.

Earth Day is a time when we all should think about the choices we have. We can ignore the environment, and in a very short time there will be fewer fish in the bay, more problems with air and water quality, and more trash and litter. Or we can all get serious about protecting our environment and make the 1990s a decade of change.

When we all pledge to do that, then each year we can look forward to a spring like this one when all the wonders of nature make the season so enjoyable.

I plan to celebrate Earth Day by planting a tree. I hope people all over Maryland join with me to plant more trees. Trees help clean our air and stop erosion that pollutes the bay. We are making progress in our effort to improve Maryland's environment and to clean up and protect the Chesapeake Bay. We have more Rockfish in the bay this year and there are other signs that all our efforts to improve conditions are paying off.

If you Give a Day for the Bay, I would like to hear about what you did. Please write to me, Governor William Donald Schaefer, The State House, Annapolis, MD 21401.

The Mind Wanders

by Sherry Frantz

After being privy to and part of several discussions and meetings concerning the proposed logging at Garrett State Forest (which houses some very popular hiking and cross-country ski trails), I find myself with some inconclusive thoughts.

To offer some background, the tract of land, designated as state forest land and maintained by the state of Maryland under the auspices of the Department of Natural Resources Forest, Park and Wildlife Service, is scheduled for the selective cutting (as I understand it) of all those trees 22 inches in diameter and over, and a thinning of certain other trees as deemed necessary by DNR. The total amount to be cut, I am told, is one out of every three or four.

If you subscribe to the philosphy of the forest manager, you would agree that the thinning process is long overdue to the health and vitality of the stand.

If you listen to the environmentalist, the stand should be left to its own devices of nature with no interference from mankind.

In order to look at this issue, one must first define the terms being tossed back and forth (sometimes with an unhealthy dose of hostility). First of all, what is an environmentalist? To paraphrase Webster, it is one who is concerned about the human environment.

Notwithstanding the fact that any of us would be hard-pressed to find too many people who are not concerned with the environment in which he lives, the word connotes something good, something positive. This connotation puts all those who do not label themselves as an environmentalist at an immediate disadvantage.

This may be perceived as a petty concern when dealing with environmental issues, but I believe I have witnessed a setting apart, a distancing, by "environmentalists" from, let's say "forest managers," based not only on the actions of members from either of those groups, but by the labeling process itself.

So it is at least important as a first step in this long struggle.

Technically and theoretically, both groups of people fall into the broad category of environmentalists. In the particular case of the Garrett State Forest logging issue, it might be helpful to refer to the group of people opposed to that logging as preservationists. After all, several spokespersons from that group have maintained that they were not opposed to logging practices in general but were interested in preserving the tract of land used for recreational purposes in that section of Garrett State Forest.

Having spoken at length with several forest managers, I could not help but be convinced that they were also quite concerned with the environment.

I am certain that some loggers, some forest managers and some of those involved in other aspects of the timber industry hold, as their prime concern, renumeration. I am also quite certain that some of those same people have tinkered with the trees to the point of destruction of and ill-reward to the surrounding areas.

But I have also observed that at least a percentage of forest managers hold nature, in all its wonder, in high regard. As it happens, however, their experience and study of the forest has led them to certain conclusions and beliefs concerning man's involvement and interaction with the environment.

Unfortunately, it has also lead some of them to look at this heightened awareness of environmental issues as a form of fanaticism. Hopefully, those who don't understand will soon come to know that this perceived "panic" has a reasonable and sound foundation.

To the preservationist, "logging" is an ugly word, producing ugly results. To the forest manager, the concept of never cutting trees is absurd. While I like neither the sight nor the sound of "logging" as it has sometimes been carried out, I cannot say with certainty that, in the long run, the land is made better by this action or no action. The "purest" of us have surely, at some time, in some way, manipulated the land to suit our purposes.

At any rate, my study of this issue will continue and, hopefully, I will open-mindedly and objectively record my discoveries in this newspaper in an effort to help us all reach a more knowledgable conclusion.

As we observe Earth Week, it is fitting that the examination, the re-evaluation and the awareness be heightened now. This occasion could mark an impetus to begin and a reason to learn and investigate. Hopefully, Earth Day will not lose itself in the translation if and when it becomes a "holiday."

Education Board Accepts Bid For Asbestos Removal

The Garrett County Board of Education unanimously accepted a contractor's bid for the removal of asbestos at Southern High School at its regularly scheduled meeting held last Thursday. According to Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintentent of Garrett County Schools, this is the first contract awarded for the forthcoming renovation of Southern High School.

The contractor, Bricko Environmental, Inc., is slated to begin work June 1, the first day the school will be completely vacated for the summer holiday. The last day of school this year for students is May 30 and for teachers, May 31.

Ryscavage stated that the contractor had done asbestos removal work for the school system in the past.

According to Ryscavage, the school board will soon be releasing bid documents to general contractors, who will then work up estimates and submit bids to the board.

John Morris, assistant superintendent of administration, stated that he is hoping to have the bid information out in two weeks.

The school board is currently waiting for the state to approve the renovation plans so that it can move into this next phase. Once the state grants official approval of the plans, the school board will announce the release of the bid documents and will stage a pre-bid meeting. At this meeting the prospective bidders will have an opportunity to go over the plans with the architect and ask any pertinent questions.

If the state grants its approval within the next two weeks, the school board hopes to make an award on a general contract by the latter part of May.

Sheriff's Dept. Investigates $10,000 Theft

A local building supply concern reported the recent theft of a vehicle valued at $10,000, according to reports from the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

A spokesperson from Piper Building Supply, Rosedale, reported the theft which occurred April 10 or 11. According to Det./Sgt. D.W. Tucker, the missing vehicle is a 1978 Ford F-350 roll-back truck, with five nylon tie-down straps, and blue tarp. The truck was red with "Piper Building Supplies" painted on both doors, silver letters on a black background.

Tucker is conducting an investigation.

In a separate case, Lester Bradford Loughry, Deer Park, reported the thefts of two jacks from his residence located on White Church-Steyer Rd. The thefts reportedly occurred two to three weeks ago.

Missing are a Buda 20-ton hydraulic jack and a Blackhawk 40-ton Porta-Power jack. The total loss from the theft was estimated at $570. Deputy R.P. Shaffer is conducting an investigation.

Joseph Eugene Gilpin, 37, Swanton, reported the theft of his miniature dachsund from his O'Brien Rd. residence.

According to the investigating officer, Deputy J.D. Murphy, an intruder(s) apparently entered the residence through an unlocked door and removed the pet. The missing dog is described as brown and tan and weighs approximately 15 pounds.

Brenda Lou Snyder, Swanton, reported the recent theft of a diamond engagement ring and matching wedding ring from Hair-n-Phernalia.

According to Corporal L.E. Gnegy, Snyder removed her rings prior to entering a tanning booth and placed her rings outside the booth. She later left the establishment forgetting to retrieve the rings. A search was later initiated, but the rings could not be found.

Ronald Oliver Kisner, Deer Park, reported a theft that occurred April 9 or 10 at a building site located along King Wildesen Rd, where a house is currently under construction.

According to Kisner, a person or persons removed a yellow Sears transit and a 10-foot aluminum extension ladder from the location. The transit was owned by Eli Yoder and Sons Excavating.

Deputy R.P. Shaffer is conducting an investigation.

cerated in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $27,000 bond.

In a separate case, Terry Wayne Sharpless, 29, Deer Park, was arrested Monday and charged with felony nighttime breaking and entering, misdemeanor breaking and entering, theft and destruction of property. According to Deputy Welch, Sharpless allegedly entered the Gortner residence of Tobie Kinsinger by breaking a window. Sharpless is currently being housed in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $5,000 cash bond.

Donald Ray Filsinger, 32, Oakland, was arrested Monday on a total of four bench warrants and an additional arrest warrant. Three of the bench warrants charge him with failure to appear in the District Court of Maryland on August 25, 1988, to answer charges of driving while intoxicated, failure to remain at the scene of an accident involving property damage, and driving with a suspended license.

An additional bench warrant charged him with failure to pay deferred payments from March 5, 1987.

A separate arrest warrant, issued August 22, 1988, charged him with unlawful use of the telephone.

Filsinger was picked up in Fairfax, Va., and waived extradition. He was served the five arrest warrants Monday by Deputy R.P. Shaffer.

Filsinger is currently being housed in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $1,500 cash bond.

Thomas James Dillon II, 19, Kingwood, W.Va., was arrested Friday on various traffic violations following a high speed chase involving a deputy sheriff.

Deputy C.P. Nolan attempted to stop Dillon for a traffic violation when Dillon reportedly ignored the signal and proceeded to lead the law officer on a high speed chase that ended in West Virginia.

Dillon was charged with eluding a uniformed police officer, failure to display a license, operating a vehicle without a driver's license, reckless driving, and driving at a speed greater than reasonable.

He was later released from police custody on $300 bond.

the Grantsville team.

With the rising concerns of our youth, I would think that our citizens would encourage our young people to be involved in community activities, regardless of any situation. I fear that this decision made by a few might hamper future relations between these two communities.

I remember how good I felt when I was able to play on Salisbury's team when there was not a team available in Grantsville.

What was the basis of this decision? Let us remember why Pony Leagues were formed in the first place . . . for the kids!

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in rebuttal to the letter written in the April 12 edition of The Republican by Mr. Wilt.

I, too, reside at the apartment building in question, and I do not feel anybody's constitutional rights have been violated. I have no issue with Mr. Wilt's rights to curse in his own apartment; however, when obscenities are screamed so loud in his apartment that we can clearly hear them in ours he is infringing on our rights.

Mr. Wilt, when our forefathers wrote the Constitution, I believe that they did not intend for it to include you screaming obscenities into a play yard filled with young, impressionable children. In many instances you have scared my children. And I have had to answer too many questions from my three-year-old about what certain "swear" words mean.

I doubt that you being asked to move has anything to do with the prejudice of the landlord; in fact, I am surprised you lasted so long.

In my opinion you need to reevaluate yourself as I suspect that this could happen again in another apartment, with another group of tenants, and different landlords.

Sincerely yours,
Patricia York

To the Editor:

In response to a letter in The Republican supposedly written by Tilden Wilt? (4-12-90):

First off, Mr. Wilt, if you are going to tell the story of the existing problems at the five-apartment dwelling located in the town of Friendsville, tell the truth, the whole truth, and get your facts straight.

The apartment house is governed under Section 8 housing. Each tennant is evaluated each year for renewal of another year's lease. It is my understanding the landlord has the final say if true facts are given to HUD to qualify the extension of the lease. This would mean money made from odd jobs such as mowing grass, cleaning, putting out trash, or picking Princess Pine during the season and selling it to other people who re-sell it after making decorations. Or working as a carpenter's helper just this spring. Maybe this income isn't counted as income for Mr. Wilt.

You are right, HUD is a government-funded program for disabled or households on a fixed and low income. If people who can work would get a full-time job, then income wouldn't be so fixed.

I have been classified as being totally disabled. Do you, Mr. Wilt, have any documents stating your disability? If so, how are you able to do odd jobs around town and out of town, walk miles during deer hunting season, carrying a deer across your shoulders for some 3-4 miles, and walk the rivers fishing?

Do you know what it is like to tell the truth and only get enough income to exist, Mr. Wilt, — not live, just exist?

Also, Mr. Wilt, you should be totally ashamed about your accusation that the landlord was showing favoritism and discrimination towards anyone in the apartment house. Furthermore, there are many others who know the landlords go out of their way to help the tennants. And I am sure that our landlords know the laws on discrimination. This phrase, Mr. Wilt, could possibly be grounds of a liable suit against you.

Trout Rearing

He added, "Traditionally, trout, like many other game fisheries, has been a capital-intensive process where you go in and build cement fisheries. This new system has the potential to outproduce the traditional fish hatcheries with relatively low cost of operation because of the natural phenomenon created in the spillway."

Commissioner Ernest J. Gregg Jr. stated, "This is an innovative project where the mortality rate of the trout is astronomically low. The system is also relatively unobtrusive to the whole scenario at Bloomington Dam — it is not unsightly and does not interrupt anything."

Reportedly, the number of fish to be produced this year is somewhere between 16 and 18,000, the majority of which will be used to stock Garrett County waters. Groves noted that the station has shown "tremendous success" so far this year, and that officials hope to expand production next year to, hopefully, 100,000 trout.

Groves explained, "At this point, most of the fish used for stocking comes from somewhere east of here. The opportunity now exists to produce more than we could ever use here. In fact, we will be supplying counties east of here in the future if the program proves successful."

Gregg stated that the program will have a "long-range economic impact on the county, attracting more fishermen here."

A feature story is scheduled to appear in next week's issue of The Republican to further highlight the trout operation.

Gypsy Moth Program Update

The commissioners also met this week with members of the Gypsy Moth Task Force to hear an update on this year's suppression program.

Commissioner Groves stated that the Garrett County Extension office recently completed taking applications for the cost-share plan and submitted final figures to the commissioners this week.

As of April 16, the total acreage to be covered in Garrett County by the local voluntary cost-share program is 60,861. Groves noted that the goal was 60,000 acres, "based on our financial constraints."

State lands to be sprayed with either Dimilin or B.t. total 33,779. Groves cautioned that this figure is "not set in concrete," and applies only if the state program goes full speed ahead as planned.

The total cost of the local cost-share program is $603,597.65, with the landowner's share totalling $308,467.45. A total of 773 applications have been received and the towns of Accident, Kitzmiller, Loch Lynn, Mountain Lake Park, and Oakland are scheduled to be sprayed as well.

FY '91 Budget Of Promotion Council Proposed

Members of the Board of Directors of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council met with the Garrett County Commissioners on Tuesday to present the Promotion Council's proposed budget for the upcoming fiscal year 1991.

The Council presented an overview of the proposed budget, noting that anticipated operating income is projected at $173,900.00; this income is comprised of sales of advertisements in the Vacation Guide, brochure mailings for Council members, sales items, administration of the Youghiogheny Overlook Information Center and its accompanying maintenance contract, and income from membership listings on the Garrett County map. Proposed non-operating income is projected as $142,939, comprised of $112,000 from the accommodations tax, $20,500 in matching grant funds from the State of Maryland, and $10,439 from county funding at large. The total projected income is $316,839. The Council also requested $48,000 in capital expenditures for the ongoing construction of a year-round Information Center at Deep Creek Lake. This is the second year that request has been made, with the same amount being funded in fiscal year 1990.

Projected expenses for the 1991 fiscal year are anticipated to meet projected income of $316,839. In its reported expenses, the Council reported an increase in advertising and postage, and modest increases in other budget areas. The Council plans to expand its advertising into the Cincinnati, Cleveland, and Columbus, Ohio, market, as well as to enhance and expand its current market.

Municipality Update

Grantsville

The Mayor and Town Council of Grantsville met Monday evening with the Garrett County Commissioners, as part of the commissioners' annual visit to the county's municipalities.

The town voted not to ask for a tax differential for fiscal year 1990-91.

The budget for fiscal year 1990-91 was given to the town council for review and a budget hearing will be held at the next meeting, scheduled for May 7 at 7 p.m.

The sewage treatment plant is now 54 percent complete.

Street work will be done within Grantsville on streets that need repairs. The work should begin within the next several weeks and will continue for over a period of several months.

Friendsville

The Mayor and Town Council met Tuesday evening for a discussion of the sewage and water rates.

The town has received notice that it will be receiving a $340,000 grant from the Farmers' Home Administration for upgrading the water department. The town will have to apply for a loan of $17,100 to complete requirements for the grant. Work should begin on the upgrading of the plants within the next several months.

In order to meet criteria of the grant applications, the treatment plants must be self-supporting. The plants up to this date have operated at a deficit. The town has only been able to identify one alternative to fulfill the requirements of the grant, which is to raise the rates of water and sewage.

The Mayor and Town Council has proposed a rate increase for water usage from $7.15 for 3,000 gallons to $8.25 for 3,000 gallons. For each additional 1,000 gallons used, the rate will be raised from $.75 to $1.25.

The sewer user's fee will be raised from the flat rate of $1.50 to $2.25, flat fee. For each 1,000 gallons of water used for the sewer system, the rate will be raised from $.75 to $1.00.

No action has yet been taken on the proposal. Another meeting will be scheduled for the public to issue comments on the increase of the water rates.

Comprehensive Development Plan

A public hearing for the proposed comprehensive development plan has been changed from May 9 to May 10. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Friendsville Community Volunteer Fire Department.

Taxes

The tax rate has been set for fiscal year 1990-91. The rate is set at $.61 per $100 value of land.

Tax bills for the upcoming fiscal year will be mailed out in July. All persons with delinquent accounts should attempt to settle the account prior to the new tax year, which will begin on July 1, 1990. Any questions regarding taxes should be directed to the town clerk/treasurer at 746-5919.

Community Park

Phase II development at the Friendsville Community Park is scheduled to begin this spring. Due to the anticipated grant from Maryland's Program Open Space, the construction of two ballfields, two pavilions, blacktopping of the access road and parking lot and installation off the playground equipment will take place.

In June, Company C, Engineering Battalion of the Maryland National Guard, will be donating a weekend of its time and use of National Guard equipment for construction at the park. Through a waterways improvement grant, restroom facilities will also be constructed.

Any group or individual interested in volunteering time and/or donating materials for park development is asked to contact the mayor or any member of the council.

Clean-Up, Paint-Up

Friendsville's annual Clean-Up, Paint-Up Week is being sponsored by the Mayor and Town Council. The week is scheduled for May 7 to 12.

Discarded appliances, debris and other items will be collected on a designated day by the town's trash disposal contractor.

"All residents are encouraged to help beautify the community by cleaning up their property," said Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle.

The next meeting of the Mayor and Town Council is scheduled for May 7.

Correction Noted

In a photo caption that appeared in last week's issue of The Republican concerning the winners of a drawing held by the Dennett Road Head Start program, Rachel Paugh was identified as a Head Start student. It should have stated that Rachel was the winner of two cases of motor oil donated by Ringer Petroleum, and not a Head Start student. The error is regretted.

SHS Students Tour Garrett National Bank

A number of students from Southern High School's Business, Marketing, and Business Practice classes recently took a tour and had a program at the Garrett National Bank in Oakland.

The group spent the morning hearing and seeing "The Business of Banking," as explained by officers of Garrett National.

They viewed a videotape, "You Can Bank On It," heard what employers look for from a potential employee, saw in operation the teller line, new accounts desk, loan department, bookkeeping, accounting, proof department, the computers in action, mortgage department, and central file.

Most agreed, though, that the more interesting part of the tour was the Automatic Teller Machine (ATM), demonstrated by Mrs. Sharon Stoner, and the vault shown by Dale Rodeheaver.

"The classes have been arranged in cooperation with the Board of Education and Garrett National Bank to further the knowledge in banking of our students and teachers and to instill an interest in some of our county students to enter Banking as a career," said Milford Beckman, GNB president. "We look forward to working with more of the young people of Garrett County so hopefully more of them will stay or return to their local community."

"HARD-WORKING, DEDICATED PROFESSIONALS, who have a very important role in the overall healthcare picture" is how Tom Prince MT(ASCP), director of Laboratory Services at Garrett County Memorial Hospital describes his staff. National Laboratory Week was observed last week, April 8-14, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where the laboratory plays a major role in the medical diagnosis and treatment of thousands of patients each year.

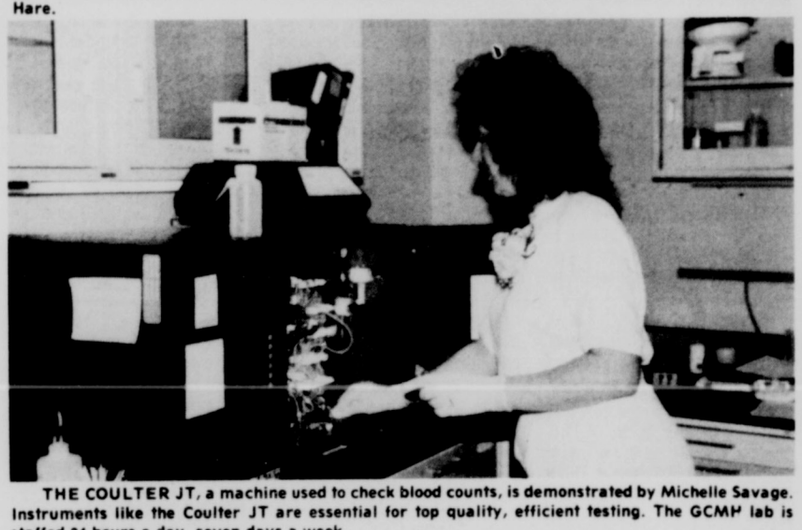
THE ABOTT IMX, used for thyroid testing, is the most recent addition to the technology available at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital laboratory. Some 95 percent of all laboratory tests ordered by physicians are performed at the GCMH lab. Pictured with the Abott IMX is Shirley Hare.

OVER 30,000 SPECIMENS obtained from patients at Garrett County Memorial Hospital were tested in the hospital laboratory last year. In the photo above, Tina Devine charts results of microbiology testing, or cultures, to determine infection.

OVER 30 PERCENT GROWTH in testing volumes in the last four years has been experienced in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital laboratory during the past four years, and to keep up with that growth, a machine known as the IL Monarch was recently upgraded. This piece of equipment, being used in the above photo by Lois Dennis, does routine chemistry measurements such as blood sugar, potassium, and cholesterol.



THE COULTER JT, a machine used to check blood counts, is demonstrated by Michelle Savage. Instruments like the Coulter JT are essential for top quality, efficient testing. The GCMH lab is staffed 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Lakers Flatten Wesleyan Jayvees Twice Before Bombing Cecil, 13-2

The Garrett Community College Lakers upped their record to 18-12 this past week by mashing the West Virginia Wesleyan junior varsity in both ends of a doubleheader on Friday, 14-3 and 12-2, rolling over host Cecil Community College Saturday afternoon, 13-2, and picking up two forfeits.

The Lakers' record is expected to jump to 20-12 tomorrow when two more forfeits are awarded from a cancelled twinbill with Harford Community College that was to have been played last week.

The Lakers are slated to play another doubleheader against the Wesleyan jayvees in Buckhannon this Friday and will then host powerful Catonsville in a doubleheader on Sunday, beginning at 1 p.m., which will be GCC's home opener. Catonsville currently has a record of 29-3, with one of their losses coming at the hands of the Lakers in Florida last month.

Garrett will host Prince Georges Community College in a doubleheader on Tuesday, which will be another key conference match-up.

In the first game against Wesleyan last Friday in Westernport, the Lakers found themselves down 3-0 after giving up two runs in the first inning and another in the second. But the game virtually ended in the third inning when Garrett scored 12 runs. They added two more in the fourth and the game officially ended after the fifth inning because of the 10-run rule.

Leading the offensive attack for the Lakers were Cajetan Stepanic, who scored three times and recorded an RBI, and D.G. Largent, who knocked home five runs on three hits. Scooter Browning added a single and a double for two RBI, Mick Bayle finished with three RBI, and Eric Chapman and Pat Staley each sent a runner home.

Scott Lohr, a Southern High graduate, went the distance, giving up five hits, striking out four, and walking two. It was his second win in three starts.

Bayle's first-inning, three-run homer over the rightfield fence started things off strongly for the Lakers in the second game as they scored six runs in the first and six more in the fourth frame.

Stepanic and Joe Zosky each smacked two-run singles in the fourth inning.

Bayle, who was the sixth ranked hitter in the nation last week with a .481 batting average, went three-for-three, smacking a double and a single to go with his home run, while Stepanic recorded three RBI on two singles. Chris Miller finished with a pair of hits and an RBI, while Staley and Dwayne Woodring each sent runs home.

Mark Rohrbaugh recorded the win on the mound, his third in as many starts.

Largent and Buddy Leichliter powered the Laker offense Saturday against Cecil, as each finished with three hits, while Carmen Moon struck out 10 batters over seven innings and teamed up with Mike Berlin for a five-hitter.

Leichliter and Largent each stroked a double and two singles to pace the Lakers' 14-hit effort. Woodring added a double and a single, while Bayle and Ujcic each smacked two singles.

After two scoreless innings, Garrett took a 1-0 lead in the third when Miller walked, pinch runner Zosky went to third on a single by Woodring, and then came home on a grounder by Stepanic.

GCC added another run in the fourth when Staley walked, stole second, and scored on a single by Ujcic.

They made it 4-0 in the fifth when Bayle and Largent singled and then both came home on a single by Mike Harbaugh.

Cecil's only runs came in the bottom of the fifth, but the Lakers put the game out of reach with five runs in the sixth inning.

Stepanic walked and moved to third on a single by Leichliter, Bayle followed with an RBI single, and Largent rapped a two-run double. An infield error and a wild pitch resulted in the fourth and fifth runs of that inning to make the score 8-2.

Another infield error in the seventh resulted in a score by Stepanic, who had drawn a walk, Largent followed with a sacrifice fly and Staley added an RBI single.

The final run of the game was scored in the top of the ninth when Leichliter came home on a wild pitch, a score that was objected to by the Cecil players and coaches. Cecil's catcher was ejected from the game and the contest was called after the Lakers batted in the ninth.

D.G. Largent is currently connecting with the ball at a .409 rate with 18 hits in 44 at bats, while Tony Warner is close behind with a .408 average with 31 hits in 76 attempts.

Rams Now 6-2 With Easy Wins Over Central Preston, Tucker County

After a rather shakey start in the 1990 season, the Southern High varsity baseball team had a week of great success this past week, easily winning four games and improving their record to 6-2. The victories included a 20-4 whipping of Tucker County and a doubleheader sweep of Central Preston, 12-2 and 8-1, all on Saturday, plus another 15-2 pounding of Tucker County yesterday. All four contests were on the road, as the Rams are slated to play their home opener this Friday against Petersburg. They will then travel to Berkeley Springs for a doubleheader on Saturday.

The first contest against Tucker County was plagued by errors on both sides, with the Mountain Lions committing seven and the Rams six; however the Southern offense recorded 14 hits in the rout. Kevin Green led Southern's hitting, going four-for-four recording nine RBI. One of his hits was a grand slam.

Bobby Evans went the distance on the mound and gave up only four hits, while starter Shawn Cutwright took the loss for the Lions.

John Fansler hit a home run for Tucker.

Brett Rice not only fired a five-hitter in going the distance in the opener against Central Preston, but aided his own cause with three singles and a pair of RBI. Britten Martin added a two-run homer and Dave Uphole finished with a double and a single good for two RBI. Southern recorded 14 hits against Central pitchers Steve Reeves and Bobby Wilson.

Rice's bat was just as active in the second game, as he smacked a grand slam and a single for five RBI, while John Stem chipped in with a homer in the seven-hit attack.

Green gained the win on the mound as he allowed only four hits in going the distance, while Central starter Eugene Smith was tagged with the loss.

Yesterday's return match against the Lions was close until the seventh inning when the Rams erupted for 11 runs. The Rams were on top by just two runs, 4-2, going into the seventh but then proceeded to send 15 hitters to the plate in that inning.

The Rams took a 2-0 lead in the second inning when Garth Glotfelty, Upole, and Mike Fulmer all walked and Charlie Plauger followed with a two-run single.

Southern added a run in the third when Martin singled, stole second, and came home on a two-out single by Stem.

The Lions responded with a run in the bottom of the third before the Rams took a 4-1 lead in the fourth, as Fulmer singled, advanced to second on a wild pitch, and scored on a single by Plauger.

Tucker made it 4-2 in the bottom of the fourth to conclude their scoring.

In the seventh inning scoring spree, Fulmer doubled home the first run, Plauger followed with a double to score two more, and Tucker County relief pitcher Bobby Lansbury then walked the next three batters.

Plauger finished with a double, two singles, and five RBI. Fulmer also rapped a double and a pair of singles, good for three runs batted in.

Green tossed all seven innings for the Rams, allowing just four hits, to record another win. Tucker starter John Gilmore was the losing pitcher.

ASK YOUR CHILD WHAT A STRANGER LOOKS LIKE

Chances are good that if you ask your child what a stranger looks like, he or she is likely to describe a person like the one pictured here.

So when you tell your child not to talk to strangers, it's important to make sure that your child understands who a stranger really is.

Simply put, a stranger is anyone your child does not know, be it the "nice lady" with the dog or the kindly old man in the park.

One good idea is to establish a code word known only by yourself, your child and any adult authorized to escort or care for your child. If the stranger doesn't know the "magic" word, your child is not to go anyplace with that person. It's as simple as that.

While the movies make it easy to tell the good guys from the bad, real life unfortunately is not so simple.

So take a moment to help safeguard your child today.

Child Safety. It's a matter of show and tell.

APRIL IS CHILD ABUSE PREVENTION MONTH

Young Husky Team Hammered By East Preston And Mount Savage

It has been a long week for the Northern High Huskies on the baseball diamond, as Coach Phil Carr's squad was hammered, 16-3, by East Preston on Monday in Terra Alta and was then mashed by Mount Savage yesterday, 17-2, on the Indians' field. The losses dropped the Huskies to 1-4.

The first inning of Monday's game set the stage for the rest of the week for the Huskies, as East Preston recorded nine runs.

Northern came back for one score in the second, but East added three more runs in the bottom of the inning.

Dave Yoder rapped a two-run single in the top of the third to make it 12-3 and Northern added two more runs in the fourth on singles by Paul Edwards and Harrison Foy.

But the Eagles scored three more runs in the fourth and one in the fifth, after which the game was called because of the 10-run rule.

Jon Houser accounted for Northern's final run in the fifth with an RBI double.

Kevin Stemple, who went the distance for the win, aided his own cause with a three-run homer in the first inning.

Three Northern tossers were tagged for 14 hits and four errors also cost the young Husky team.

It was the sixth win in seven games for East Preston.

Mt. Savage also improved to 6-1 at the expense of the Huskies on Wednesday, taking charge of the contest early and ending it after five innings.

Mark Logsdon smacked a grand slam and Rick Burley and Elwood Lashley each recorded two-run homers for the Indians, while Dennis Skidmore gave up just four hits, four walks, and recorded 11 strikeouts.

The Indians scored two runs in the first inning on a single by Scott DeHaven and an error. They made it 4-0 in the second on Burley's two-run shot following a walk.

Mt. Savage sealed the Huskies fate in the third by scoring 11 runs, as 15 batters went to the plate. The inning included Logsdon's grand slam, a two-run double by DeHaven, and a two-run single by Burley.

Lashley recorded his two-run homer in the fourth to conclude the Indians' scoring.

Northern's two runs were both scored in the top of the fourth when Yoder and Houser walked, advanced on a passed ball, and Paul Edwards and Chad Anderson followed with RBI singles.

Six of Northern's starting nine players are sophomores.

The Huskies will attempt to get back on the winning track Monday when they host Westmar.

The Southern 1,600 relay team captured a second place.

In the boys' results, Southern's Jon Hegeman won the 1,600 and 3,200 runs with times of 5:08 and 11:32, respectively.

Winning seconds were Brian White in the high hurdles and 300 intermediate hurdles, Dave Eiswert in the 400 run, Jim Pysell in the long jump and triple jump, and Mike Freyman in the high jump.

Third places were recorded by Freyman in the 800 run, Brett Glotfelty in the shotput, Dave Wildesen in the long jump, and White in the triple jump.

Placing fourth were Todd Fearer in the 1,600 and 3,200 runs, Mike Stewart in the shot-put, and White in the high jump.

The Rams will be hosting a meet this afternoon.

Cancer Society, Saddle Club Set Horse-A-Thon

Plans are under way for the 10-Year Reunion Horse-A-Thon of the Garrett County Chapter of the American Cancer Society. The ride will be held on Sunday, May 6, and is sponsored for the fourth time by the Mountain Top Saddle Club, Inc.

The fundraiser will be held for the third time at Herrington Manor State Park under the direction of Roger Riley, park manager.

Registration will be at 10 a.m. with the ride beginning at 11 a.m., rain or shine. There will be a rest stop with soft drinks donated by the Mountain Top Saddle Club and fruit donated by Farmers' Market, Oakland. Shumaker Chair Of East/West Football Classic

Ronald L. Cross, Chief Rabban of Ali Ghan Temple, Cumberland, has announced the appointment of W. Larry Shumaker, Hagerstown, as the game chairman for the 18th annual Shrine East/West Classic.

This annual event will be played Saturday, July 21, at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland.

Shumaker is an 1965 graduate of Frostburg State University and is presently a member of the faculty of Smithsburg High School, Smithsburg, where he teaches math and serves as athletic director and activities coordinator. He is a veteran high school football coach, having assisted at Beall, Southern, Williamsport and Smithsburg high schools, and was a player/coach with the Waynesboro Tigers of the semi-pro Interstate Football League.

Shumaker is a member of Ali Ghan Temple and is a past president of the Hagerstown Shrine Club. He takes over the game chairmanship position after serving the East/West Classic as defensive coordinator in 1987 and head coach for the East team five years, from 1985 to 1989. In addition, in January this year, he traveled to Palo Alto, Calif., and was on the side lines of the Shrine East/West Game at Stanford Stadium and met with officials of Shrine Charity High School Games across the country.

Ali Ghan's East/West Classic is played annually with the entire proceeds of the game being donated to the Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children and the Shriner's Burns Institute. These games have generated donations to the hospital fund of over $100,000.

Players for these games consist of high school senior all-stars. The West team is made up of players from Allegany and Garrett counties in Maryland and Mineral, Hampshire, Hardy and Grant counties in West Virginia. The East team is composed of players from Washington and Frederick counties in Maryland and Jefferson, Berkeley and Morgan counties in West Virginia.

Ali Ghan's Shrine Classic originated in 1973 as a North/South game in Allegany County and was expanded in 1980 to its present East/West format. The West teams hold a 6-4 advantage, having won the 1989 contest at School Stadium in Hagerstown, 18-7.

Any current high school football player who desires to play in the 1990 game is advised to contact his football coach for additional information.

Young Men Are Given Opportunity To Turn Life Around At Youth Center

by Sandra Cusack
Photos by Craig Phillips

No fences surround the small cluster of gray, rather shabby buildings. In spite of the lack of fences, the aura of a detention center is prevalent and is worsened by the dreariness of a typical Garrett County day.

But even with the first dreary impression in mind, as one enters the buildings, hears the occasional laugh of a youth and talks to the adults in charge, one begins to understand that appearances can be deceiving.

The Backbone Mt. Youth Center: a center for young men who have had problems that local authorities have attempted to deal with in the community. When the local authorities fail, the youth are sent to one of the youth centers.

The centers attempts to provide youth with the opportunity to turn their lives around and lead a productive life. The staff at the center stress three words: help, care and concern. As one tours the center and talks to staff members, it quickly becomes obvious that even though the buildings may be shabby, they are clean and the staff makes up in warmness what the buildings may lack.

The Backbone Mt. Youth Center is one of five such centers in Garrett and Allegany counties for adjudicated delinquent youths.

Each of the five centers in the two counties houses 35 youths, with the exception of Meadow Mtn., which houses 30 youths, for a capacity of 170 youths at any one time. The youths are aged between 14 and a half to 18-years-old.

Youth are generally sent to the center after they have committed a crime that would be considered adult, or if they have a history of several years of minor crimes. The crimes may include breaking and entering, possession of drugs or theft. The youth is generally first dealt with in the community and if that attempt fails, the youth is then sent to the appropriate center. Emotionally disturbed youth are not accepted at any of the centers.

Approximately 70 percent of the youth involved in the program are from the metropolitan corridor: the area of Baltimore, Prince George's and Washington counties.

The youths are placed in a center based on how aggresive they are and their size. The Savage Mtn. Center houses the larger, more physically aggressive youths.

The youths have to spend at least six months in the program, with most staying an average of seven to eight months.

Youth are then exposed to a variety of experiences, including counseling, drug and alcohol therapy, school and work, as well as time spent in the outdoors, learning canoeing and camping skills and other outdoor activities.

Upon being admitted to a center, the youths are submitted to a battery of tests and then an individualized treatment plan is worked out. By law, a specialized program is worked out for those students needing special education.

The data obtained from the tests is used to determine the youth's scholastic abilities and needs. The educational program is three pronged in approach and is geared for each individual.

The three programs include: one for youth who have the ability and/or desire to achieve their high school equivalency (GED); for youth planning to return to the public school system where emphasis is placed on attainment of educational concepts and skills necessary for them to function successfully in the appropriate grade; and for those youth who neither wish to work toward a high school equivalency nor plan to return to the public school system, a functional curriculum is established that allows them to take advantage of specific vocational training following release or simply to function more successfully in life.

The program also includes a pre-vocational evaluation exploratory center which provides testing, occupational exploration and practical work skill experiences for all youth.

This evaluation provides information necessary for establishing an academic curriculum that is relevant to the youth's interests and needs. It also provides assistance in developing valid and realistic occupational plans for after-care planning.

A small percentage of the youth do go back to school after they leave the center. Most of the youth go on to vocational training or to a job upon leaving the center.

Approximately 75 out of every 100 youth involved in the program receive their high school equivalency.

The Backbone Mt. Center has a full time teacher, a teaching assistant and a special education teacher. The overall program is staffed by a principal, 11 teachers, six teacher aides/assistants, a reading specialist, a diagnostic-prescriptive teacher, a media specialist, a vocational evaluator and a secretary.

The youth spend three and a half hours attending classes each day during the week. Charles Coffman, known as "Big Teach," has spent 17 years teaching at the Backbone Mt. Youth Center.

"Students advance three months for every one month they are here in their schooling - sometimes they advance six and even eight months for every month they are here," Coffman said.

"Students not doing well in other parts of the program do well in this program. In all my years here I can recall students sneaking out on only two occasions. For the most part, the students don't seem to leave this part of the program," he said. "It's exciting teaching the students. I really enjoy it. The kids see we really care and we see that they learn things they can use. In my opinion, this is the best part of the program."

Coffman has devised a program that rewards students for progressing in their studies. A student receives a point for each advancement and after attaining 25 points a small reward is given, such as a sticker or button, then after 50 points are attained, another reward is given, like a pencil or key ring, and after 100 points are attained, which is generally a rare occurrence, a larger reward is given, such as a cassette.

Youth spend half the day in school, and the other half in a work program. The group is split into two smaller groups and one group attends school in the morning and works in the afternoon and the other group spends the morning working and the afternoon in school.

Work projects include forestry conservation, community improvement, cutting and selling of firewood, harvesting of apples and peaches in local orchards, assisting with potato harvesting on a local farm and working on a Christmas tree farm trimming and packing trees. Youth are paid for these work projects.

Youth also have certain duties that they must complete at the center. These include grass cutting, leaf raking, snow removal, assistance with food preparation and laundry. There are also custodial duties, such as cleaning restrooms and showers, as well as cleaning the kitchen after each meal.

In addition to providing spending money for the youth, the work program is designed to meet seven individual needs: develop the ability to follow instructions and to work with others; learn to accept responsibility for the quality of work performance; to achieve pride in work; develop the ability to accept supervision; learn good work habits; and learn proper safety habits.

The youth are given $1 each per week from the center to provide them with spending money, in addition to whatever money they have earned from the work projects.

The youth then have a couple of hours of free time each evening. Parts of some evenings are spent in group counseling sessions, but during free time, youth are able to play ping-pong, read, watch television or movies on the VCR, or just chat with their friends.

Weekends are also a period of "free" time for the youth. Field trips, outdoor activities, athletic events and other outings are organized for the youth. Although "chores," such as cleaning up after meals, must also be done, school is not attended.

The youth are taken on regular shopping trips, approximately once each week, to provide them with an opportunity to buy personal products.

They are also given many opportunities to interact on a social level by attending movies, athletic contests and church. Occassionally, the youth provide some volunteer services to the community, such as cutting grass and general cleanups at local state and community owned parks, assisting with distribution at federal surplus food programs and involvement with the Toys for Tots campaign and other charitable organizations.

A volunteer coordinator organizes picnics, parties, field trips and outings to various activities, including professional baseball, hockey and basketball games, as well as trips to places of historical interest, such as the C&O Canal and Fort Frederick.

The youth are also introduced to outdoor activities, such as canoeing and camping.

This provides a special experience for the youth from the city who have never been exposed to the outdoors. Many of them have never seen deer or bears and living at one of the centers provides them with an opportunity to view animals in the wild and learn survival skills.

For those who wish, a weekly visit to a Methodist church is arranged. On a regular basis, seven to 12 of the youth at the Backbone Center attend the church. If one boy has a certain religion he wishes to practice, it is arranged for someone to come in to the center to talk with him. There are ministers or priests from four denominations who currently visit the center regularly.

Christmas is a holiday which can be a rough time for the youth at the centers. As it can be a depressing time for the youth to be away from their families, more activities are scheduled and the youth have less free time.

Most of the youth are not able to go home for the holiday. Local churches do bring in gifts and the center will buy each youth a small item that is needed, such as gloves. Some volunteer groups provide dinners for the youth. Trips to Pizza Hut and to the movie theatre are also taken.

Involvement by the family is encouraged by the centers. Although brothers, sisters and VISITORS THIS WAY — The sign above points the way for visitors to the Backbone Mt. Youth Center. While the outside of the building gives less than a positive first impression, one must keep in mind that the center is a place for youth who have committed crimes that would be considered adult. After visiting the center and talking to staff members, one realizes that the center is staffed with caring individuals who do their best to help the youth learn to care and have concern for other people.

WHAT COULD BE A TYPICAL DORM ROOM at a boy's camp is actually sleeping quarters for youth at the Backbone Mt. Youth Center. Each boy is provided with a bed, table and place to hang his clothes. If a youth needs clothing, the center will provide it, although most of the youth bring their own clothes with them. The youth are responsible for cleaning the dorm-style room, bathrooms and kitchen after meals. The neatness of the room above typifies all the buildings at the center.

BIG TEACH — Charles Coffman, or "Big Teach," as he is known to the youth at the Backbone Mt. Youth Center, is pictured above left discussing a school project with a student. Coffman has been at the center for 17 years and "really enjoys" working with the youth. "The kids see we really care and we see they learn things they can use," he said. Each youth is given an array of tests and an individualized treatment plan is set up for each student. Out of every 100 youth at the center, 75 achieve their high school equivalency before leaving the center.

friends are not permitted to visit, parents are urged to visit. Letter writing and general encouragement and support is welcomed by family members.

Most of the youth stay at the center between six and nine months. A very few will stay for as long as 14 to 15 months, but this is the exception. It is basically up to the individual how long he stays in the program.

Just as in the individualized education plan, there is an individualized treatment plan developed for each youth upon their arrival at the center. There is also a "levels system" by which the youth are measured.

The levels system has three tiers which are intended to enhance and accomplish the following goals: to allow the individual to progress through various phases of the program from admission to release; to provide the individual with incentives to earn additional responsibility, trust and privileges through advancement; to monitor closely each youth's progress in concert with the basic treatment modality of the program; to enable each youth to gain a thorough awareness of his strengths as well as his weaknesses and to build on those strengths and correct his weaknesses; to provide comprehensive planning through a more comprehensive use of individualized service treatment plans and periodic planning reviews; and to allow the individual to accept responsibility for his progress and to gain valuable insight through goal planning and performance appraisals.

Upon completion of the program, it is expected that each youth will be able to take more effective control of his life following the youth center experience.

After arriving at the center, each youth is assigned to a treatment group. Each treatment group's membership consists of combinations of youth from each of the three levels. Youth are expected to progress through the three levels of the program from their admission to release. The youth center's staff will determine how each youth is progressing through each level with periodic planning reviews.

Level One is the admission phase, or orientation. A youth will be in this level for a minimum period of 30 days from the time of his arrival in the program or until he meets the minimum criteria for advancement to the next level.

Preliminary evaluations, educational assessments and treatment planning will begin during this phase.

Each youth will progress through the orientation level by meeting specific criteria with the support of individual and group counseling. For example, he must abide by rules of the center, attend school as required, perform satisfactorily on daily work assignments and help his peers with their adjustment.

During Level Two, the intermediate phase, the youth will become more intensely involved in both individualized and group counseling. Particular attention will be focused on his problem areas, their relationship to his current and past behavior, his ability to accept responsibility for his own behavior, ability to make responsible choices and the ultimate resolution of his major problems.

Specific conditions and expectations must be met before a youth can advance to the next higher level.

The difference between the intermediate and the orientation level is that the youth focus on problem areas and their relationship to current and past behavior. Additionally, youths at this level must abide by the expectations of the previous level; they must identify and achieve short-term goals; identify long-term goals and demonstrate positive effort and progress towards achieving them and have no major rule infractions.

At Level Three, the responsible stage, youth will be considered capable of making sound, responsible choices and will consistently demonstrate this through their daily behavior.

At this point, they will be planning on their release from the Youth Centers and will be finalizing aftercare placements and plans in order to ensure a smooth and supportive transition into the community.

Both group and individualized counseling will continue. In addition, home visits will be used as one of various means of evaluating a youth's readiness. Such visits will contribute substantially to the reintegration process of the youth's return to his home community. Home visits will be coordinated with the appropriate aftercare counselors.

Youth are involved in approximately 11 hours of counseling sessions, both group and individual, each week.

On a purely voluntary basis, alcohol and drug counselors visit to discuss the abuse of alcohol and drugs. Approximately one-third of the youth attend the meetings.

As each youth reaches a level, he finds himself being granted more privileges. Youth are not permitted to be by themselves at any time and must always travel in a group. As a youth proves that he can be trusted, he is occassionally allowed to be by himself.

One youth from level three is given the privilege of doing laundry for the youths. While this may not seem like a privilege, it is, because the youth is being trusted with the belongings of every youth at the center and he is also permitted to be by himself.

Other youths from level three are also given the greater privilege of operating the vending machines. The youths are responsible for loading the machines and taking the money out of the machines and keeping records of profits.

As each boy reaches level three, visits to their homes are arranged. Home visits will be organized with the after-care workers, who will be involved with the youth's progress after leaving the center.

When the youth leaves the center, he will have a place to live near his former home in case he is unable to return to his home. If unable to return to his home, he will live in a group home, foster home or with relatives.

The Youth Centers' Program has an annual budget of $5 and one-half million. Approximately 130 people are employed in Allegany and Garrett counties by the centers. Currently, the centers are in the process of hiring another 15 employees.

While a budget of more than $5 million may seem excessive, an average of $26,000 is spent on each youth involved in the program. When compared to the $52,000 cost for a youth involved in a more serious crime and having to be cared for in a more secure place, such as the Hickey School in Baltimore, or the $100,000 cost for each person that is sent to prison, $26,000 is a minor sum, especially if the money enables the youth to successfully return to society in a productive manner.

Officials in charge of the centers have no current figures on the success rate of the program, but it has been estimated that a success rate of about 50 percent has been achieved.

So while one may have a negative image upon first glimpsing the Backbone Mt. Youth Center, that image is soon dispelled. Given the resources and caring of the advisors, teachers, counselors and other staff members, and the center's active policy of stressing three words: help, care and concern; one realizes that the only limitations the center faces come from the youth themselves, that each person can only help someone up to the point that the person wishes to be helped.

Information for this article was provided by Mae Bunch and Donald Carter, Department of Juvenile Services, along with interviews with various staff members at the Backbone Mt. Youth Center.

NO SMOKING INSIDE — The structure pictured above was constructed by youth at the Backbone Mt. Youth Center for shelter from the weather. The center follows a strict policy of no smoking inside the buildings, so this pavilion was built by the youth at the center. Future plans call for the sides of the structure to be closed in.

Garrett County Students Awarded Honors At FSU

Two Garrett County residents were among 27 students who were recognized for excellence in their respective fields at the Frostburg State University Honors Convocation held earlier this month.

Selected from honors were James Oester, Grantsville, and Claudia "Sue" Harris, McHenry.

Oester, of Star Route, received departmental honors in history. He graduated in December with an overall GPA of 3.95. He served as treasurer and vice president of Phi Alpha Theta. While at FSU, he was a non-traditional student who switched from full-time to part-time employment in banking to pursue his degree. He plans to continue his education in either seminary or graduate school in history.

Harris, of Route 1, was selected for departmental honors in social work. The mother of six and wife of a clergyman maintains an overall GPA of 3.9 in her studies. She serves as consultant to Lighthouse, a grant program for mentally ill patients, and previously was employed by Garrett Community College as a job placement specialist and recruiter. She has taught continuing education courses of various kinds, including stress management, basic office skills and consumer economics. She will graduate in May.

In all, 20 residents from the local area received departmental honors at FSU.

Food Service Group Meets For Annual Banquet

The Garrett County Food Service meeting, dinner, and installation of officers for 1990-91 were held April 11 at Northern Middle School. Dottie Frazee, president, introduced the special guests: Tim Baker, Bruce Carline, and Gary Yoder, representing Governor William Donald Schaefer; Cynthia Lee, Maryland State FSA president; Wilda Massi, principal of Northern Middle; Elmer Redinger, vice principal; Jack Settle, guidance counselor; Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of schools, and Mrs. Ryscavage; John Morris, assistant superintendent, and Mrs. Morris; Beverly Murphy, Board of Education member; Delegate George Edwards; Garrett County Commissioners John Braskey and Elwood Groves; Richard Buckingham, food service advisor; and local retired cafeteria workers.

Tim Baker presented Mrs. Frazee with a Salute to Excellence award from Governor Schaefer and Richard Buckingham presented her with an engraved gavel for her service as president.

Baker then installed the following officers for next school year: Frances Friend, president; Mary DeWitt, president-elect; Wanda Tabler, secretary; and Mamie Reckart, treasurer. Mrs. Frazee presented the gavel to Mrs. Friend and congratulated each of the new officers. She then presented a glass vase to outgoing secretary Shelba Calhoun and out-going treasurer Winona Lewis. She presented maple syrup from the Bishoff family farm, Hoyes Run Road, to Baker, Carline, and Yoder, and also sent some to Governor Schaefer, along with a t-shirt and hat from S&S Market, mugs from Food Service and Old Mill Grill Restaurant, and cakes from Northern High School and Nellie Staub.

A 50-50 drawing was won by Mary Frantz, while door prize winners included: Cynthia Lee, a flower from the Flower Shop, Accident; Scott Buckingham, a gift certificate for IGA Market, and Janice Fisher, a floral arrangement from the Flower Loft, Grantsville.

The blessing for the meal was given by Winona Lewis. The buffet meal was prepared by local active and retired school cafeteria workers.

CAHEC Plans Programs For Potential Nurses

"Professional Opportunities After the Bachelor of Science in Nursing Degree" is the topic of a series of programs scheduled in the area in late April. Coordinated by the University of Maryland School of Nursing's Outreach and On-Campus Programs, area nurses will be able to explore nursing career options with program representatives.

The University of Maryland, ranked among the nation's top nursing schools, is playing an important role in meeting the increasing demand for nursing leaders, according to a spokesman for the Cumberland Area Health Education Center. The University currently offers both a bachelor of science in nursing (BSN) and a master in science of nursing (MSN) degree as outreach programs in Western Maryland. The BSN program is entering its 14th year of service to the region. The programs allow R.N's. to pursue educational and career options without the difficulty of long distance travel coupled with maintaining professional and personal responsibilities.

Three meetings are scheduled for Monday, April 23: one at the Finan Center, outside the cafeteria, from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., the second at the Frostburg Community Hospital Conference Room from 11:15 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and the last meeting of the day at Allegany Community College beginning at 7 p.m. Tuesday's meetings will be held at 10 a.m. at the Cumberland Area Health Education Center, 11 Columbia Street and at Memorial Hospital, outside the cafeteria, from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Two area nurses, Jane Jenkins, R.N., B.S.N., and Susan McCarty, R.N., B.S., will speak about their unique careers that developed as a result of obtaining a bachelor's degree. Jenkins is affiliated with Memorial Hospital's Weight Management Center as clinical nurse, and McCarty is assistant director of nursing at Memorial Hospital and a part-time instructor in the nursing program at Allegany Community College. Jenkins will speak on nursing opportunities at the 7 p.m. meeting at ACC on April 23 and McCarty will speak at the 11:30 a.m. meeting at CAHEC on April 24.

The University currently is conducting a master's program in nursing in Western Maryland. Classes are offered regionally when there is significant local interest and funds are available. The outreach programs for the bachelor of science and the master of science in nursing degrees are supported in Western Maryland by the Cumberland Area Health Education Center (CAHEC). CAHEC provides office and administrative support for faculty, classroom space, a medical learning resource center for student and faculty use, program publicity and accommodations for visiting faculty.

Nurses interested in pursuing either the BSN or MSN degree program are asked to bring their transcripts to the sessions for evaluation.

For detailed information on the meetings or the outreach programs, persons may call (301) 455-3450.

LETTERS

Constitution have little bearing on the vulgarity that is heard every day from you using the filthiest language that can be heard up to three blocks away. Standing at the edge of a neighbor's yard and cursing him the way you did last fall, yelling for him to come over in the apartment yard, when he was minding his own affairs. You have also been asked by neighbors, other tennants, the landlord, and some law officers several times about this, but you never ceased until recently.

Yes, Mr. Wilt, I did have a small terrier dog with me for about 1½ years. I was given permission by the landlord and the Section 8 Housing official, from August 1985 until May 1987. This was before I moved out of the apartment which you now occupy. I have not had a dog for some three years. I do at times "dog sit" two different dogs, with the knowledge of the landlord, and only on short-term.

You mention "favoritism" towards "one particular person." Do you know what favoritism is?

I have lived here almost 5½ years, taking care of my apartment, and not kicking holes in the doors and walls, cutting into someone else's TV cable and going to District Court for cable cutting, or being served to appear in court on June 5, 1990, for occurences at the apartment house.

I have never had any of these kind of problems. The apartment in which I live is the property of the landlords and I do respect others' belongings and privacy.

But if I were a landlord and had a tennant who takes care of his apartment, and calls to get permission to do or change something; or if something happens, calls a serviceman and lets me know what was wrong and who was called to fix it, I would show some kind of favoritism, because I would want to keep this kind of a person as a tenant as long as possible.

Mr. Wilt, I am sure the majority of the people in Friendsville know whom you are referring to as "one particular person." You, or whoever wrote the letter signed by you, did do right by not printing my name, or there could be possibly two liable suits filed against you.

You also stated, Mr. Wilt, "why is it that the big people get by with what we little people get in trouble for?"

Assuming when you say "little people" you are talking about yourself. Why then are you always getting into trouble?

"One Particular Person"
Fred Baker
Friendsville

To the Editor:

Mr. Beitzel's way of demonstrating his musical version of "Let Freedom Ring" was to destructively pound on the water pipes of the Shallmar water system, then listen to the percussion of the falling pipes and the repercussion of the residents who used it.

How sad that Mr. Beitzel could not wait four days for instruction from his superiors. (I have been waiting for over 500 days for a water tap after submitting a written application). It appears his purpose for existing is in reverse orger, which is to provide pure clean water, not to deny or destroy it.

Rather than face a costly court battle, justice would be better served by replacing him with a citizen from Shallmar to rebuild their water system, using state guidelines.

I commend my nephew, Commissioner Elwood Groves, for respecting and defending the property rights of the good people of Shallmar.

Sincerely,
R. B. Groves

To the Editor:

This coming Sunday is Earth Day and there is considerable promotion of this event. Many people are being associated with it whom we will not hear from again for another 20 years as they go on their ways — the point being that we at the grass roots are the ones who can do most to affect the environment.

Each of us tends to look at a forest as though we are looking in a kaleidoscope; we see a different picture made up of the facts before us. For many who have personal biases and special agendas, if they don't like the way the facts line up, they turn the kaleidoscope to achieve a mix that suits them, be they foresters, wildlife managers, cross-country skiers or bird watchers. The problem with this attitude is that people tend to become polarized and drawn into win-lose situations. Debates about active forestry and nature conservation are not competition with winners and losers.

For the sake of Nature itself, discussion and cooperation at our local level will be the most constructive thing we could do. The forestry debate is thriving in an environment of myths, inadequate knowledge of real conditions, and public anxiety about the environment in general. In order to gain attention, environmentalists tend to "emotionalize" forestry and tree harvesting, but when faced with facts, their positions have a hollow ring.

Another reason for polorazation is, naturally, the way the city-dweller regards Nature. They see it as an attractive area of greenery with a soul of its own. It is a place for peaceful holidays, not a resource which is the very foundation of our prosperity and well-being, to be managed with professional skill.

The forestry debate is also nurtured by people's concern about change and a lack of forestry knowledge. I believe foresters realize that behind the criticism of forestry are a great many people who are sincerely concerned about what is happening and who are keenly interested in Nature. Private and especially public forestry, where so much of the current controversy in Garrett County is, needs to provide more openers and contacts with the public to pass on facts and basic forestry knowledge so that we can earn more confidence in our professional role and competence as foresters.

To the Editor:

In the wake of Garrett County's gypsy moth spray program frenzy, I feel obligated to make a few comments. What to do about this pest is a complicated issue, and I will not pretend to have some utopian solution. However, I feel that many people do not know exactly what it is they are going to have sprayed all across this county. If you think that the chemical being used, Dimilin, is a miracle solution to eradicate gypsy moths, and only gypsy moths, you may be disappointed.

The overwhelming majority of scientific research that has resulted in Dimilin's acceptance as a broadcast insecticide was not done in an outside environmental setting using long-term experiments. This would have allowed the experimenters to test how this chemical might affect the ecological balance of a forest. Instead, most of the research was conducted in the laboratory, or, if conducted outside, was set up to study the chemical's effect on one specific group of living things on a short-term basis.

Even though Dimilin has been approved for use, there is still very much we do not know about this chemical and its effects on the environment. At first, Dimilin was reported to break down rather quickly after introduction into the environment. This conclusion was based on studies mostly conducted or funded by the chemical manufacturing industry. More recently, information from an on-going research project in West Virginia indicates that "Dimilin is more persistent in the environment than previously thought" (I think we've all heard this before). Furthermore, when Dimilin does break down in the environment, it breaks down into other chemicals, the effects of which are very poorly known.

Just exactly what gets killed and what doesn't get killed when Dimilin is sprayed over a forest is not fully known by any stretch of the imagination. What is known is that any invertebrate, or insect-like animal, in an immature stage, that feeds on leaves or any other part of a tree tainted with Dimilin will die. There is also evidence that this chemical makes its way into the leaf litter on the forest floor. The variety and numbers of tiny animals that live in the forest leaf litter is almost beyond comprehension.

Some of these insects that will die may have important functions in the forest. For instance, some may be important pollinators necessary for trees to be fertilized and set seed. Others may be important food sources for different forms of life; like the numerous caterpillars of other kinds of moths that forest birds use heavily to feed their young, many of which are hatching right around spray time. Will it affect invertebrates that live in the leaf litter that are important for breaking down organic material into a form that bacteria and fungi can work on to release nutrients used by trees to grow? Who knows? Certainly the folks who advocate spraying Dimilin don't. The above scenarios are not fantasies. They are real possibilities.

One group of insects that will be seriously affected by widespread Dimilin use are other moths and butterflies. How many people notice fewer butterflies around since gypsy moth spraying commenced in this area several years ago? Another place where Dimilin is very toxic, is in aquatic systems — lakes and streams. It doesn't kill fish directly, but it does kill practically everything they eat.

Well, I just wanted to stimulate a little thinking about this chemical called Dimilin. All the forests of Garrett County are not going to suddenly or gradually disappear because of the gypsy moth. Please make your decision carefully and think twice about where you have this chemical sprayed. And, if you are particularly fond of butterflies, you'd better think more than twice.

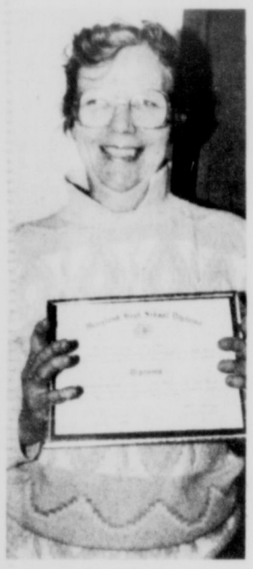
Local Resident Earns GED



Olive Glass, 68, who resides near Deep Creek Lake, recently received her high school diploma through the General Educational Development (GED) program.

Mrs. Glass has been attending Adult Basic Education classes in the continuing education division at Garrett Community College since October, 1988. The program is under the direction of Patricia Baer.

Born in 1922, Olive quit school at the age of 14 to go to work. This was during the depression and, she said, her family could not afford for her to go to high school. She had been out of school for 54 years before she returned to Jeanne Gilbert's class at GCC. Olive stated, "If it hadn't been for Jeanne, I'd never have made it. She was very patient."

A native Garrett Countian, Olive is the mother of five children, nine grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

THIRD IN A SERIES

The following recipes are from the American Cancer Society Cookbook.

VEGETABLES

FOOD lovers look forward to the change in seasons, not because of the weather but for the new vegetables it brings to the table. What could possibly taste better than the first bite of June's tender asparagus, July's juicy tomatoes full of sun-sweetened flavor, or the first feed of locally grown sweet and juicy corn on the cob in August? Why not enjoy the vegetables as much as, if not more than, the meat portion of a meal?

Not only are vegetables delicious, they also play an important role in a healthful diet. Many vegetables are good sources of fiber, vitamins (especially A and C), and minerals, as well as being low in fat and calories. It's the butter, oil, and cream you serve with vegetables that add the fat and calories, not the vegetables themselves.

Eating three or more servings a day of a variety of vegetables will help you meet the American Cancer Society's Diet Guidelines. A daily intake of at least three vegetables will help you meet their recommendations for fiber, vitamin C, and carotene (which is converted to vitamin A in the body). At the same time, as long as you don't add extra butter or other fats, vegetables will help you maintain your ideal weight and restrict your total fat intake to no more than 30 percent of your daily calorie intake.

When planning meals, include both fresh and raw vegetables. (Raw contain more fiber and vitamin C). Make sure you have a pleasing combination of colors, flavors, and textures. For instance, don't serve turnip, cauliflower, and parsnip at the same meal. They're all strongly flavored, similar in texture, and lacking in color contrast. Include bright green, deep yellow, and orange vegetables as much as possible, not only for their visual appeal but for their nutrients.

For the most fiber and vitamins:

- Don't peel vegetables if the skins are edible (eat potatoes, zucchini, cucumber). They contain fiber as well as nutrients.
- Don't discard the seeds if they're edible (eat those in tomatoes and cucumbers). They are excellent sources of fiber.
- Don't overcook vegetables.
- Eat vegetables raw as often as possible.

SCALLOPED CABBAGE au GRATIN

4 cups coarsely shredded cabbage
1 14½-ounce can tomatoes, undrained
2 teaspoons granulated sugar
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon oregano
Salt and freshly ground pepper
½ cup grated Cheddar cheese
1 cup fine fresh bread crumbs

Cook cabbage in boiling water until wilted, about 6 minutes, drain well. Combine tomatoes, sugar, paprika, salt, and oregano, breaking up tomatoes with back of spoon. In greased 6-cup baking dish, place cabbage. Sprinkle with salt and pepper to taste. Cover with tomato mixture, then cheese. Top with crumbs. Bake, uncovered, in 350°F oven for 30 minutes or until heated through. Makes 6 servings.

HERBED GREEN BEANS AND GARLIC

1 pound green beans
2 teaspoons butter or oil
1 small onion, thinly sliced
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1 tablespoon chopped fresh thyme or oregano or ½ teaspoon dried
Salt and freshly ground pepper

Trim beans and cook in rapidly boiling water for 4 to 5 minutes or until tender-crisp, drain. In heavy skillet or saucepan, melt butter, add onion,garlic and cook over medium-low heat, stirring occasionally, until onion is tender. Stir in beans, thyme, salt and pepper to taste. Cook until heated. Makes 4 servings.

GLAZED BRUSSELS SPROUTS WITH PECANS

2 cups small Brussels sprouts
2 teaspoons butter or margarine
2 teaspoons granulated sugar
2 tablespoons coarsely chopped pecans
Salt and freshly ground pepper

Trim base of sprouts and outside leaves. Steam sprouts over boiling water for about 10 minutes or until tender. Drain thoroughly. In skillet, melt butter over medium heat; add sugar and stir until melted. Add sprouts and pecans, stir to coat for 1 to 2 minutes. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Makes 4 servings.

SUPPORT EARTH WEEK

The Earthworks Group says, "Eat low on the food chain."

A FEW FACTS TO CONSIDER:

- According to Diet for a New America, if Americans reduced their meat intake by just 10%, the savings in grains and soybeans could adequately feed 60 million people — the number of people who starve to death, world wide, each year.
- Growing grains, vegetables and fruits uses less than 5% as much raw materials as does meat production.

SIMPLE THINGS TO DO:

- The simplest thing — even if you're a confirmed meat-eater — is to cut down on the amount of beef you eat.
- Experiment with occasional vegetarian meals. There are lots of excellent vegetarian-cuisine cookbooks available.
- Have you tried your hand at edible gardening? Gardening is the No. 1 recreational pursuit in America. You'll be amazed at how much you can grow in even a tiny plot. Herbs, leafy greens, fruits and even corn can be grown quite handily in most urban settings.
- Support local "farmers' markets." Small-scale farmers are less wasteful and more environmentally conscious than most larger farms. They may also rely less on pesticides and other toxic chemicals, their produce is usually fresher, and their prices are almost always better.

TOMATOES FLORENTINE

6 tomatoes
2 teaspoons butter
1 small onion, finely chopped
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1 12-ounce package frozen chopped spinach, thawed and drained
⅓ cup low-fat milk
Salt and freshly ground pepper
Topping:
2 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
2 teaspoons grated Parmesan cheese

Cut a slice from top of each tomato. Scoop out pulp to halfway down tomato and save for sauce or soup. In skillet, melt butter. Stir in onion and garlic, cook over medium heat until tender. Stir in spinach, milk, and salt and pepper to taste. Spoon mixture into tomatoes and arrange in ovenproof serving dish or on baking sheet.

Topping: Combine bread crumbs, parsley, and Parmesan, sprinkle over top of tomatoes. Bake in 400°F oven for 20 minutes or until heated through. Makes 6 servings.

FOIL-STEAMED SPRING VEGETABLES

½ pound fresh pearl onions
¾ pound fresh baby carrots
½ pound asparagus
2 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon butter
1 bay leaf
½ teaspoon salt
Pinch white pepper

In large pot of boiling water, blanch pearl onions for 2 minutes, drain. Cut off root end and gently squeeze to remove skin. In another large pot of boiling water, blanch carrots for 2 minutes, drain, rinse under cold running water, and drain again. Snap tough ends from asparagus. On large piece of heavy-duty foil, arrange vegetables in a single layer. Sprinkle with water, dot with butter, and bay leaf, salt and pepper. Fold foil over vegetables and seal. Bake in 375°F oven for 20 to 30 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Makes 6 servings.

SAUTEED ZUCCHINI WITH YOGURT AND HERBS

1 pound zucchini (about 3 small)
2 teaspoons butter
1 small onion, sliced and separated into rings
6 tablespoons low-fat yogurt or sour cream
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
½ teaspoon crumbled leaf oregano or 2 teaspoons chopped fresh
Salt and freshly ground pepper

Trim ends from zucchini. In food processor or by hand, slice zucchini thin. In heavy skillet, melt butter over medium heat, add onion and cook, stirring, until tender. Add zucchini and cook, stirring often, just until barely tender, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in yogurt, parsley, oregano, and salt and pepper to taste. Stir to coat well and serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

TARRAGON CARROTS

4 large carrots, thinly sliced (2 cups)
2 small onions, thinly sliced
1 teaspoon tarragon
2 tablespoons water
Salt and freshly ground pepper
2 teaspoons butter

Lightly oil a large sheet of foil or a 6-cup microwave dish. On foil or in dish, place carrots and onion, sprinkle with tarragon, water, and pepper to taste. Wrap tightly or cover. Cook in 350° oven for 30 minutes, or microwave on High for 10 to 12 minutes, or until tender. Stir in butter and salt to taste. Makes 4 servings.

ASPARAGUS WITH RED PEPPER PUREE

2 large sweet red peppers
2 teaspoons olive oil
¼ teaspoon dried thyme
Freshly ground pepper
2 pounds asparagus

Roast peppers on a baking sheet in 375°F oven for 18 minutes. Turn and roast on other side for 18 minutes longer until peppers are blistered and soft. Remove from oven and place in a heavy paper or plastic bag. Close bag and let peppers steam for 10 to 15 minutes. Using fingers and a small knife, peel skin from peppers (it should come off easily), seed and cut into strips. In skillet, heat oil over medium heat, when hot, add roasted peppers and thyme. Saute for 2 minutes, season with pepper to taste. Puree in food processor. (Puree can be prepared in advance, covered, and refrigerated for up to one week, reheat gently over low heat before continuing with recipe). Wash and break tough ends off asparagus, cook in large pot of boiling water for 5 to 8 minutes or until tender, drain thoroughly. Spoon hot pepper puree over individual plates. Arrange hot asparagus on top. Makes 6 servings.

Tonight, set your alarm half an hour earlier than usual. When you arise tomorrow morning, take a stroll through God's world.

Enjoy the early spring flowers strewn over a carpet of green. Overhead, wispy white clouds play tag in the clear blue sky. Early birds whistle their cheerful morning serenade.

Just smell that aroma . . . that unmistakable energizing scent of early spring. Poets are inspired by it. Lovers are mesmerized by it.

Touch the rough bark of the tree in front of you. Then stroke a tiny green leaf growing from that same tree. What different textures. Springtime . . . a picnic for the senses!

After your walk, visit God's house. Thank Him for sharing with us all of His wonders of nature, and let us never take them . . . or Him . . . for granted.

GLAUCOMA
High Pressure In The Eyeball

Glaucoma is a disease where there is high pressure inside the eyeball. Sight may be damaged if the pupil of the eye is dilated. It is, therefore, necessary to keep the pupils contracted at all times. Medications such as pilocarpine are effective in achieving this. Atropine and other medications that dilate the pupils are often given prior to surgery and to patients with an abnormal heart beat.

Unless the presence of glaucoma is known to the doctor, such treatment could make the condition worse. Going without the drug even for a day may lead to blindness or other eye damage.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

DO YOU KNOW JESUS?

April 22, 1990

Background Scripture: 1 John 1:1 through 2:17.
Devotional Reading: Colossians 3: 12-17.

Do you know Jesus?

Questions like that always shake me up, and the longer I take before replying, the harder it is to answer unquivocally. Yes, I know Jesus, I am tempted to answer. But the more I ponder the question, the less sure I am about how well I really know him.

Really, how do you know how well you know him? What kind of criteria do you use in answering that question? I know a lot about him: the outline of his brief life, his teachings, his miracles, his death and resurrection. But that is knowing about him and is really quite different from knowing him.

TO "KNOW" JESUS

The writer of I John says there is but one sure way to "know" Jesus: "And by this we may be sure that we know him, if we keep his commandments." This is similar to what Jesus himself said in John 14: "He who has my commandments and keeps them, he it is who loves me; and he who loves me will be loved by my Father, and I will love him and manifest myself to him" (14:21). So if we would "love" and "know" Jesus, we must keep his commandments.

But which commandments? Actually, if you comb through the four gospels you will find hardly anything that could be called a "commandment" from Jesus. Except one: "A new commandment I give to you, that you love one another; even as I have loved you, that you also love one another" (John 13:34). This commandment is both old and new for the Christian: old in its antiquity, but new in its centrality. "He who says he is in the light and hates his brother is in darkness still" (1 John 2:9).

AN "E" IN CONDUCT

So, if we are to "know" Christ, we must keep his commandments and the sum and substance of his commandments is to love one another as he has loved us. That is clear and concise, is it not. But it is also discouraging, because, if that's what being a Christian depends on, we're all in trouble. for no matter how well we do in everything else, that is the one department in which we so consistently fail. We're like the little boy who brought home an "E" in conduct on his reort card. When asked to explain it, he said: "That's just my worst subject!" So it is with many of us.

But there is a way out of this dilemma - because God planned it that way. When we fail to love others as Christ loves us, he will forgive us. "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just, and will forgive our sins and cleanse us of all unrighteousness" (1:9). We must always strive to obey his commandments by loving others as he loves us, but we also know that we will never keep commandment without failure.

All of us fail in his commandment to some degree. None of us ever love others as he has loved us. Therefore, if we really know Christ, we also know that we fall short of complete obedience. There are always some people in our lives - near or far - with whom we fail to maintain a relationship of love. There are always some people we let down, short-change, or betray. "If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us," and we do not know Jesus.

Earth Day puts focus on environment

Specials show Earth's vulnerability

By Aileen Murphy

On April 22, 1970, the modern environmental movement was born with the first Earth Day. More than 20 million people participated in events across the country. As a result of the first Earth Day, the U.S. government established the Environmental Protection Agency. On Sunday, April 22, 1990, Earth Day will happen again. This time more than 100 million people around the globe are expected to participate.

American broadcast and cable television networks are working toward educating people about the problems of pollution and excessive waste in our world. Some programs are focusing on the need to preserve the natural resources of the Earth.

Some of the most prominent celebrities of film, television, sports and music will join together on The Earth Day Special, a television entertainment event devoted to mankind's pressing dilemma: the vulnerability of our planet and the urgent need to preserve it. The Earth Day Special will air Sunday, April 22, on ABC. Headlining the two-hour program are Kevin Costner, Ted Danson, Quincy Jones, Michael Keaton, Bette Midler, Meryl Streep, Barbra Streisand, Robin Williams, Bruce Willis and more.

Through comedy, drama and music, The Earth Day Special is designed to inspire and enlighten. In a unique, entertaining and informative way, the special will illustrate how the Earth's environment has reached a state of crisis and will explore how we all can help to conserve our planet's precious resources.

Public television has long been a major force in raising public awareness of environmental issues. Most PBS science and nature programs on plants, regions, or animals include "risk assessments" of their environments. Sweeping series such as Planet Earth and The Living Planet document the interrelation and fragility of the Earth's ecological systems.

The tradition continues later this year with several new series: Decade Of Destruction, a five-part look at economic and social turmoil in the Amazon (summer 1990); Race To Save The Planet, a 10-part series on conditions worldwide (fall 1990); and Icewalk, a four-part series that features teenage scientists in the Arctic (fall 1990).

The Arts & Entertainment Network presents Challenge Of The Seas, a 26-part series beginning with a one-hour special on Earth Day, April 22. The special kickoff episode examines the role that our oceans and their inhabitants play in the balance of the Earth's ecology. Following this introductory hour, 26 half-hour episodes will air on Saturday evenings, beginning Saturday, April 28. Each program explores a different oceanic creature or habitat and the forces—natural and manmade—which help or hinder their survival. The series is hosted and narrated by Ted Danson.

Bette Midler joins the cast of impressive celebrities appearing on The Earth Day Special, illustrating man's pressing challenge: the urgent need to preserve our planet's precious resources, airing Sunday on ABC.

Timothy Daly is the straight-as-an-arrow, compulsively well-organized brother Joe in Wings, the new NBC comedy series airing on Thursdays.

'Wings' takes off with plenty of proven talent

Actor finds truth in characters

By Mary Ann Townsend

Take a pair of executive producers from Cheers and a director from Taxi, mix liberally, and you drive off with a new NBC comedy about two very different brothers who try to run a fledgling commuter airline on the island of Nantucket.

That's what you get with Wings, produced by Cheers' Emmy-winning trio of Angell, Casey and Lee, and directed by Noam Pitlik, of Taxi and Barney Miller.

Timothy Daly, stars as the compulsively well-organized brother, Joe Hackett, who is exasperated by his free-wheeling sibling, Brian, played by Steven Weber. Daly said the believability of the characters should help carry the show.

"The format isn't unique certainly, it owes a lot to shows like Taxi and Cheers—but it's unique like those shows in that the humor comes out of the truth of the characters and the situations, it's not a comedy where the humor's pasted on."

The ensemble cast also includes David Schramm as the rough-edged owner of a rival airline; Rebecca Schull as a perky ex-stewardess in her sixties, now working behind the ticket counter, Thomas Haden Church as the general maintenance man, and Crystal Bernard as a svelte waitress at the airport's lunch counter.

"In a lot of shows there are just sort of free-floating jokes that land every once in a while," Daly said. "This humor really comes out of these flawed characters that are acting in a believable way. I think that's what makes it truly funny rather than forced."

Academy of Country Music observes 25th anniversary

The Judds host awards ceremony

By Anne Wheeler

The Carter family had it, as did the Louvin Brothers, the Delmores, the Stanleys, the Monroes and the Allmans, and it is carried on today by groups such as the Beach Boys and the Everly Brothers. It is that unspoken family strength that lends itself to success in the music world.

Astounding mother and daughter country western duo Naomi and Wynonna Judd proved they had the same intense, soulful quality when they gained immediate respect in the country music world in 1984. The pair is still commanding the respect they earned early on, and this week are among celebrity co-hosts for some of country's most prestigious awards.

The Judds join Alabama, Tammy Wynette and George Strait to co-host The 25th Annual Academy of Country Music Awards, airing Wednesday on NBC.

More than 30 group and solo country music artists will gather together not only to present and perform for the awards, but also to celebrate the silver anniversary of the Academy of Country Music.

Newcomer Clint Black is tied with Hank Williams Jr. for the most nominations (five). Other multiple nominees include Hank Williams Sr., with four; Alabama, Garth Brooks, Roddy Crowell, Kathy Mattea, Dolly Parton and Randy Travis, with three each; and Reba McEntire (four-time top female vocalist), Shenandoah and George Strait, with two each.

PERSONALITY PORTRAIT

Bob Saget a bit of a whiz at making own home movies

By Shelia Odak

Bob Saget is probably feeling on top of the world these days. Not only is he on two shows, ABC's Full House and America's Funniest Home Videos, but the latter has turned out to be the surprise hit of the season.

Saget himself is a whiz at making home movies. He started showing an interest in entertainment at an early age and began making Super 8 movies when he was 9 years old. This lead to creating student films at Temple University. Before leaving his hometown of Philadelphia for the glitz of Los Angeles, he won a "Student Academy Award" for a documentary titled Through Adam's Eyes, which he wrote, directed and edited.

As host of America's Funniest Home Videos, Saget gets to employ a wealth of one-liners between videos. However, cracking jokes comes very easy to this man, who spent 15 years as a stand-up comedian.

Saget himself knows the allure of home video since he spent a lot of time taping the every move of his first child. He admits that he shot about 20 hours of tape of Aubrey Michelle, but that because of his newfound, phenomenal success, his second daughter has not seen as much of the spotlight. "My other daughter, we have nothing. We have an artist sketch," he said. "There's been no time. She has to do a self-portrait of herself. We feel bad about that."

Valerie Bertinelli plays Sydney Kells in Sydney, a CBS comedy airing Wednesdays.

HOROSCOPE

April 22 through April 28

By A. Murphy

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
You can accept help from others to get where you want to be, but don't forget them once you have arrived. Be sure that you believe in all that you say.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
You don't have to be alone, but make sure you can recognize your own strength. When others are moody and inflexible, don't be intimidated. Show your control under pressure.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
Your heart and your mind together should lead you. Don't let only your emotions guide the way. If unhappy in your job, consider career counseling.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
Remember that real friends will not be dishonest or unfaithful to you. Money problems can easily come between friends. Agree to contracts in writing only.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
Love letters are not just for the young. Have a good time revealing all aspects of yourself to another. Do some reading in your spare time.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
You can clarify any misunderstandings by talking them out. Fresh starts are very cleansing, but they require honesty and responsibility.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
Enjoy the sensual outdoors this week. Modesty is rewarding, but you should allow yourself to show off your beauty and your talents once in a while.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
Your power to touch others, both physically and emotionally, is very strong. Help a family member who needs you. Make use of your creativity.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
When feeling low, make a list of your attributes. Consider how valuable you are to the many areas of your life. Even in bad times, know that you are loved and needed.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
Propose your ideas to others. You have the gift of persuasion, but be sure to use it to the advantage of everyone, not just yourself. Check your direction occasionally.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
Take a risk once in a while to give some color to your life. Avoid danger, but move toward expanding yourself with new places, new people and new ideas.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Telling others about your feelings and ideas clarifies for yourself what you really want and need. Don't work from your prejudices; your insight will increase.

SATURDAY

Ruiz and Percell (Ramon Franco, left, and Tony Becker) return home and are disappointed in the two-hour season finale of Tour of Duty, Saturday on CBS.

Lindsay Wagner has returned to Oregon with her children

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I'm a big fan of Lindsay Wagner and I would like some information on her and where I could write her. Is she married? Does she have any children? How old is she and when is her birthday? —Elaine LaDeauy, Galway, N.Y.

A: Lindsay Wagner was born in Los Angeles, Calif., on June 22, 1949. She attended North Hollywood High School before moving with her family to Portland, Ore., where she graduated from David Douglas High School. She has been married twice. Currently divorced, she makes her home with her two sons, Dorian and Alex, on the Salmon River near Mt. Hood, Ore. I suggest you write to her c/o Ron Sammuels Enterprises, 9720 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 506, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212.

Lindsay Wagner

Q: I recently saw Barbara Eden on television and wondered if you could tell us her age, because I do dream of Jeannie! Could you also tell us if Alan Autry, Bubba on* In The Heat Of The Night, *is Gene Autry's son? —Windy Grisamer, Midland, Texas

A: Barbara Eden was born in Tucson, Ariz., Aug. 23, 1934, making her all of 55. No, Alan Autry is not Gene Autry's son, relative or anything else.

Q: I would like to know how they get TV ratings on how many people are watching that particular program. Are they tuned in somehow to all the programs we watch? I've never been asked to fill out a form stating what program I watch. How can they tell whether they are in first or tenth place without a survey? What is there on our TV sets telling them what station we are watching? —Marion Eldredge, Miles City, Mont.

A: This is a very good question and one that many viewers, like yourself, want to know. Just who does decide what we like to watch? I have received many letters saying a favorite program was canceled without giving viewers a chance to voice an opinion. I am told that approximately 1,200 households across the nation are equipped with Nielsen's "little black box" which automatically transmits a record of what is being viewed on those particular television sets. (Incidentally, you must agree to have this "box" placed on your TV set and are paid to keep a log.) In addition to these monitoring instruments Nielsen sends out requests to 2,300 random households to keep a specific TV log as to what was viewed and by whom, to be used in correspondence with a Recordometer, a device which records the total number of hours the TV set is in use each day. If you would like more information I suggest you write to A.C. Nielsen Co., 6290 Sunset Blvd., Suite 1203, Los Angeles, Calif. 90028.

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Pipeline, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748.

SOAP TALK

'AMC' actor still dancing

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: This past year I viewed the Hollywood musical Kiss Me Kate. In it, Ann Miller danced with two male partners, one of whom looked a lot like a young Palmer Cortlandt of All My Children.

Since many actors start as dancers, I'm wondering if the resemblance was more than mere chance. —Frank Lynch, Lufkin, Texas

Dear Frank: You are correct. Earlier in his career, James Mitchell (Palmer Cortlandt), was an accomplished dancer and starred in several Broadway musicals. He also danced in several of the movies taken from Broadway shows, including Kiss Me Kate.

An interesting note is that for relaxation Mitchell enjoys teaching a movement class to theater arts students.

Dear Candace: Could you tell me everything you know about Melissa Brennan, who plays Jennifer Horton on Days Of Our Lives? Also can you tell me where I can write this fine actress? —Thanks, G. Peterson, Claremont, N.H.

Dear Reader: Brennan was born and raised in Eatontown, N.J. She studied acting at Lee Strasberg Studios and dance at studios in New York City. She has appeared in commercials since age 15 and her television credits include stints on Santa Barbara and Another World. She was also in an HBO film, Somewhere Tomorrow. Write her at Days Of Our Lives, c/o NBC-TV, 3000 West Alameda Avenue, Burbank, Calif. 91523.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748. © TV Listing Inc

Ed Asner enjoyed taking time to do a bit of comedy

By Mary Ann Townsend

USA Network puts a little sting into the week with the premiere of its original miniseries about a conned con artist, Not A Penny More, Not A Penny Less, airing in two parts April 24 and 25.

The miniseries follows the travails of Harvey Metcalfe, one of the world's most successful con artists. Through a series of fraudulent investment schemes hatched on several continents, the phony financier has bilked numerous investors out of millions of dollars.

Always one step ahead of the law, it seems he can do no wrong, until one of his schemes snares a clever American-born professor at England's Oxford University, played by Ed Begley Jr. Enlisting the aid of three other victims (Brian Protheroe, Nicholas Jones and Francois-Eric Gendron), the professor concocts a series of ingenuous scams against Metcalfe to recover their lost money—not a penny more, not a penny less.

I recently spoke with Ed Asner, who stars in the comedy as the conman who gets his due. He said he enjoyed the role not only because of the wonderful shooting locations in England and France, but also because his participation in comedies is few and far between.

"Not often enough," he said of his taking roles in comedies, "but I had a lovely time doing this. It's a sting picture with a happy ending for everyone involved, even the victim."

Perhaps most identified with his Emmy-winning, longtime role as no-nonsense newspaper editor Lou Grant, Asner has had a distinguished acting career in drama, having also received Emmys for his role in Roots and in Rich Man, Poor Man. His dramatic feature roles have included parts in They Call Me Mister Tibbs, Fort Apache—The Bronx and Daniel. Only two comedies are listed among those credits, Skin Game and Moon Over Parador.

Asner's serious tone carries off the screen and into his personal life as well. He said Not A Penny More, Not A Penny Less has been his only TV acting role for a while, but he spoke with enthusiasm about two of his recent trips to countries in turmoil.

"I took a two-week trip to Israel and came back to the States, spent the holidays back in L.A. Went down to Nicaragua for the elections, and, other than various radio work, that's my chief TV offering," he said, noting both an excitement and a sadness about his trip to the elections.

"It was unbelievable. To watch those people and the religious awe with which they regarded their ballot and the process of voting—it was breathtaking, it was wonderful to be a part of, to observe. I was saddened that we've lost that awe and that desire in our own country."

New Day Care Regulations Could Cost Provider

According to The Associated Press, stringent new regulations proposed for child care in private homes could cost providers about $339, and some believe that could discourage people from going into the business.

Experts say the regulations, aimed at the state's 9,670 registered child-care providers, could transform the business of home child care from the kind neighbor who watches children for extra money to a professional who is required to undergo training and keep detailed records on the children being cared for.

The proposed regulations are scheduled for a public hearing April 24. They would require all adults living in a home that provides family day care to be fingerprinted and to undergo local and federal criminal background checks. In addition, homes would be ordered to be equipped with fire extinguishers and other safety equipment.

Day care supervisors would not be allowed to smoke near children and would be required to undergo medical exams and learn cardiopulmonary and resuscitation.

The state estimates the initial costs of meeting the proposed requirements at $339 per provider.

The proposed regulations, which also must be reviewed by a committee of the General Assembly, have government officilas wondering how to regulate the business without discouraging individuals from providing a desperately needed service.

Persons interested in obtaining more information may call the Maryland General Assembly at 1-800-492-7122.

Bicycle Safety Inspection And Rodeo Scheduled

An "International Bicycle Safety Triangle" will be presented to all participants whose bicycles pass inspection during the April 24, "Bicycle Inspection Day." All youth and adult bicycle riders are invited to bring their bicycles for a free inspection between 3 and 8 p.m. Also that day, bikers residing in Oakland or individuals riding bikes in Oakland may purchase (75 cents) their permit card and license tag.

The Bicycle Rodeo will be held at the same location starting at 4 p.m. Bicycles must be inspected prior to participating in the Rodeo. The Rodeo consists of an individual riding his or her bicycle through several marked courses where riding skills and safety are considered.

All school age youth are invited to participate and ribbons will be awarded.

For additional information, persons may contact Oakland Town Hall (334-2100) or the Extension Office at 334-1990.

Case Settled Out Of Court

A case arising from an accident involving one motor vehicle, which was pending in the Garrett County Circuit Court, was recently settled out of court. According to the claimants' attorney, Paul C. Sullian, the claim of Mr. and Mrs. Kevin W. Margroff of Friendsville was settled last week with American States Insurance Company for an undisclosed amount.

According to documents filed in Circuit Court, Margroff was a passenger in a car operated by David Vitez on September 3, 1988. Vitez was traveling west on the Glendale Road, dropped the right front tire off the roadway, and when he tried to reenter the roadway, lost control of his vehilce and ran off the left side of the road, striking concrete steps and several trees before coming to rest against a house. The 1987 Mercury XR-7 he was driving was a total loss.

Margroff was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad, and then by Lifeflight to West Virginia University having suffered head, neck, back and arm injuries. Margroff works as a purchasing agent with Somerset Welding and Steel, Inc. and claimed a permanent impairment to earning capacity for which there was a recovery.

As the case was settled favorably to the claimants, the defendant is required to pay the costs of the proceedings in addition to the settlement amount to the Margroffs. Vitez was represented by Hugh McMullen of Cumberland.

Jackie Hinebaugh, a sophomore at Southern High School, has been chosen as a winner of the National Leadership and Service Award and the United States Cheerleader Achievement Award, which are offered by the United States Achievement Academy.

The academy selects winners upon the recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors and upon the standards of selection set forth by the academy. Criteria for selection include a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, and dependability.

Jackie will join the U.S. Air Force after graduation from high school to study government law. She then hopes to go on to law school.

She is the daughter of Jack and Lou Hinebaugh, Deer Park.

American Cancer Society Salutes Local Volunteers

The Garrett County Unit of the American Cancer Society held its Awards/Crusade Kick-off Dinner recently at The Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake. Helen Stallings, Area Director of Public Education for the Western Area of the Cancer Society, was the guest speaker for the event.

Mrs. Stallings spoke on the topic of the upcoming "Great American Food Fight Against Cancer" to be held in April. Following her speech, Lucy Burnett, local president of the ACS Board of Directors, presented awards to individuals who made extra special efforts as American Cancer Society volunteers during the past year. These individuals were recognized for their commitment to the cause of cancer control in Western Maryland.

Many volunteers received awards this year. Highest honors went to Earl Clark and Pauline Faucett, R.N., both Garrett County residents, who received special recognition for having achieved 25 years of service as volunteers for the American Cancer Society. Clark resides in Red House and is employed at First United National Bank and Trust. He has been the treasurer for the local organizations for 25 years.

Mrs. Faucett resides in Friendsville and is employed by the Garrett County Health Department. She has held several positions within the American Cancer Society and is currently serving as vice president and chairperson of the Patient Service & Rehabilitation Committee.

Also recognized for years of service to the local American Cancer Society were Pauline Parrack and Alana Winters for their efforts as past presidents.

Additionally, the officers for the past year received recognition for their efforts as well. The officers were: Lucy Burnett, president; Paulaine Faucett, vice president; Kitty Stuart, secretary; and Earl Clark, treasurer.

The local unit has active committees in the areas of crusade (fundraising efforts), patient service and rehabilitation, professional education, and public education. Awards were presented to the Outstanding volunteers in each area.

For crusade, the winners were Barb Michaels, who served as Community crusade chairperson and led crusaders in netting almost $6,000. and Connie Margison, who served as Daffodil Days chairperson and raised $3,100 from that event.

In the area of patient service and rehabilitation, Pauline Faucett received the "Quality of Life in Service Pin" and a certificate for her service as Patient Service and Rehabilitation chairperson. She helped in providing assistance to 29 patients in Garrett County the past year.

Another award winner was Judy Wilt, the Reach to Recovery coordinator in Garrett County, who helped to start the Garrett County Post Mastectomy Group several months ago. The group has around 20 members and meets once a month.

Receiving "Lifesaver Awards" in the area of Public Education were Mikal Moomau, and Ann Sherrard, who were recipients for their efforts in getting "Changing The Course" into the Garrett County Schools. Lucy Burnett also received the "Lifesaver Award" for her work as chairperson of the annual Great American Smokeout.

Receiving awards in the area of Professional Education were Dr. Alvin Friend and Lurel Grant, R.N., the committee chairperson.

The American Cancer Society says it is dedicated to the mission of: eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives from cancer, and diminishing suffering from cancer through research, education, and service. The non-profit voluntary health organization is successful due to the dedication and commitment of volunteers who willingly give of their time and talents. Last year in Garrett County, local volunteers educated 2153 adults and 3702 children at community programs; educated 261 physicians, dentists, nurses, and other allied health professionals at professional education programs; assisted 29 local cancer patients; and raised $13,404 for continued support of these programs. Others interested in becoming volunteers are asked to contact the office at (301) 722-2145 or Lucy Burnett at (301) 334-2155, ext. 244, for additional information.

GCC Students Have Low Rate Of Loan Default

In a recent letter from the U.S. Department of Education, Garrett Community College President Dr. Steve Herman was commended because of the institution's low default rate on student loans.

Garrett's default rate for 1988 was stated as 5.8 percent, a rate based on the percentage of the institutions students entering repayment on Stafford Loans (formerly Guaranteed Student Loans) or Supplemental Loans for Students in FY 1988 who defaulted before the end of FY 1989. The record showed that Garrett had 86 borrowers in repayment and only five in default.

GCC CENTER DEDICATED — The First United National Bank Small Business Development Center of Garrett Community College was recently dedicated and named for the institution that was a major contributor in the challenge donor campaign to the GCC Foundation. Following the dedication, a reception was held in the college Board Room. SHA Volunteers To Plant Seedlings Along Md. Highways

State Highway Administration volunteers will be helping to make Maryland highways greener by planting approximately 10,000 pine seedlings along highways across the state on April 23.

The mass planting will follow on the heels of Governor William Donald Schaefer's Give a Day for the Chesapeake Bay/Earth Day activities on April 21. It is part of the Department of Transportation's month-long environmental improvement campaign, from Earth Day, April 22, to May 17, during which employees from DOT's seven modal administrations will be distributing 100,000 tree seedlings at various locations.

"Our volunteers are extremely enthusiastic about the April 23 plantings, because it's a hands-on opportunity for them to help beautify our highways and enhance the environment," said Highway Administrator Hal Kassoff.

The SHA volunteers will be planting white pine seedlings at locations west of the Chesapeake Bay. On the Eastern Shore they will plant loblolly pines, which grow well in that area's sandy soil.

GARRETT COUNSELING OFFERS EATING DISORDERS GROUP
Eating disorders disrupt millions of lives. They are progressive and potentially fatal causing major health problems which affect a person — physically, emotionally, and spiritually. Many who have a problem are of normal weight and may go undetected for years as they are very clever at concealing their abnormal eating patterns.
Contrary to popular belief, will power alone cannot control this unhealthy obsession with food. The first step is to seek help before it is entirely out of control and results in physical problems requiring hospitalization and long-term therapy.
An 8-session Eating Disorders Therapy Group will begin on April 20, 1990 at Garrett Counseling, Inc. If interested please call 334-2281.

Dr. Dona Alvarez Performs First Total Knee Replacement At GCMH

NEW KNEE RECIPIENT — "I probably wouldn't have had the surgery done if I couldn't have had it done in Oakland," commented Laura Friend, hospital employee and recipient of the first total knee replacement at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

A new surgical procedure is now available at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. A replacement was performed there on Tuesday, February 20, by Dr. Dona Alvarez, an orthopedic surgeon who joined the hospital staff during the summer of last year.

A total knee replacement is a surgical procedure for conditions such as rheumatoid arthritis, trauma, or arthritis arising from degenerative joint disease (DJD), a common joint disease. Pain is the primary deciding factor for a joint replacement.

The end result of a prosthetic knee joint is to re-create the function of a natural joint. The Physical Therapy Department of the hospital plays an active role in the recovery of orthopedic patients, as physical therapy helps the patient return to being completely independent.

Before Garrett County Memorial added this type of surgical service, patients had to travel to either Cumberland or Morgantown, W.Va., for this surgery. This travel was often hazardous because of weather conditions. Total knee replacement surgery requires a hospital stay of at least two weeks and local family members often found it difficult, if not impossible, to visit the patient during that time.

"Reconstructive Orthopedics is a newly added service to the community. The addition of Dr. Dona Alvarez to the Hospital Medical Staff enhances the services available to our patients, who will greatly benefit from the availability of her tremendous orthopedic skills," commented Larry M. Beck, hospital president.

Dr. Alvarez specializes in the treatment of injuries and fractures to bones, tendons and ligaments. She attended Potomac State College, obtained a bachelor of arts degree from Western Maryland College, and graduated from Medical School at West Virginia University. She was the first female to be accepted in the orthopedic surgery residency program at West Virginia University. She also spent four months learning the state-of-the-art practice of rehabilitation following orthopedic injury at Rancho Los Amigos Rehabilitation Center in Los Angeles, Calif.

The recipient of the first total knee replacement was Laura Friend, an employee of the Housekeeping Department at Garrett Memorial. Ms. Friend has been employed by the hospital for 20 years.

Dr. Dona Alvarez, orthopedic surgeon, Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

When asked about her recent surgery, Ms. Friend commented, "It's nice to be able to have this type of surgery done in Oakland. My family works in Oakland and can visit often."

Since Ms. Friend, three additional patients have received total knee replacements and one patient has received a total hip replacement.

Arthroscopy, extensive plating of fractures, and the repair of shoulder joint dislocations are among the other orthopedic services now available at Garrett Memorial.

Student Exchange Program Between Southern, Lycee Lesage Renewed

In the winter and spring of 1988, Lowell Leitzel, French teacher at Southern High School, and Madame Janine Busson, English teacher at the Lycee Lesage in Vannes, France, conducted a successful student exchange through the School Partners Abroad Program sponsored by the Council on International Educational Exchange (CIEE). The 1988 exchange had such a positive result that the two teachers decided to renew the link between the two schools this year.

From February 12 to March 5, 1990, Leitzel accompanied five Southern High School students to France for a two-and-one-half week homestay in Vannes and a three day field trip to Paris. Those students were sophomores Dan Cuppett, Caroline Geroski, Heather Lipscomb, and Malyna Swyter, and junior Nick Pope. Upon their arrival in Vannes, a port city of about 50,000 people located on the Gulf of Morbihan on the southern coast of Brittany, they were received by their French host families, who encouraged the students to communicate in the French language. During the first half of the homestay program, the students in Vannes were on their winter break, so Madame Busson and her host families organized a variety of excursions for the American group. These visits included a boat tour of the Gulf of Morbihan and the island of Gavrinis, where the students saw a prehistoric tomb, called a tumulus. The group also visited the Musuem of the French Resistance. One full day was devoted to visiting two castles: Kergehennec, an 18th century castle in whose gardens one can now see a variety of modern sculptures; and Josselin, a medieval fortified castle still owned by a family of French nobility. On this particular day the students, with their hosts, had the opportunity to dine in a typical French crepe restaurant. Another full-day excursion included the salt marshes of Batz-sur-mer, the walled medieval city of Guerande, and the canals of the Briere Regional Park.

At the conclusion of the winter break, students attended classes at the Lycee Lesage, a high school of 2,700 students, and the largest high school in all of the region of Brittany. Leitzel and his students attended various classes as observers and also served as resources to English teachers and their classes. At a reception held at the school in honor of the American visitors, Leitzel presented as gifts the Garrett County flag and a book about Maryland. Each of the students from Southern offered a book of American literature to the school's library.

The trip to France concluded with a three-day stay in Paris at the Hotel Marivaux. The program in Paris included a bus tour of the city; a morning visit to the Louvre Museum; a separate morning visit to the Palace of Versailles; free time to explore the French capital on foot and by metro, including the Latin Quarter, Montmartre and the Church of the Sacred Heart, Beaubourg and the Pompidou Cultural Center, and the Champs-Elysees Avenue; a boat ride on the Seine River; and dinner at one of the Eiffel Tower restaurants.

On April 2, about one month after the American students' return to the States, Madame Busson accompanied a group of 16 students from the Lycee Lesage to Oakland and Garrett County. After settling in with their hosts, the French guests were treated to a welcome banquet on Thursday, April 5, at the Southern High School Cafetorium, with about 150 people in attendance. Before and after the covered dish dinner, representatives of the state, the county, and the school system offered greetings to the visitors from France. Greetings were extended by Mrs. Mary Lou Stemple, representing Delegate George Edwards; Mrs. Pat Vetter, representing the Garrett County Commissioners; Asa McCain, Mayor of Oakland; Mrs. Beverly Sines Murphy and Charles Teets of the Garrett County Board of Education; Miss Henrietta Lease, assistant principal of Southern High School; and Miss Joy McCain, president of the Southern High School Student Council. In welcoming the students and their teacher to Garrett County, Leitzel offered to each guest a bag of gifts donated by various businesses and organizations in Oakland and the surrounding area. The evening's program concluded with Leitzel's presentation of slides from his recent trip to Vannes with his students.

In addition to the welcome banquet, the hosting program has included an all-day field trip to the Smithsonian Museums in Washington, D.C.; a visit to the campus and classes at Frostburg State University; special seminars and demonstrations offered by Southern High School faculty members; visits to other Garrett County public schools; and a farewell party hosted by one of the host families. The French group's stay concludes this Sunday, April 22.

The following French visitors and American hosts (and their families) participated in the three-week exchange experience at Southern High School: Madame Janine Busson/Ms. Charlotte Bock; Stephanie Boulvais/Heather Hamilton; Elen Chalet/Brenda Caldwell; Nathalie Elain/Vicki Karlstrand; Stephanie Husson/Christa Rolf; Yann Lambotin/Nick Pope; Frederique Le Bourhis/Malyna Swyter; Florence Le Hebel/Kim Wampler; Sandrine Le Ray/Alayna Beahm; Stephanie Le Roch/Heather Lipscomb; Sophie Queau/Frances Bachtel; Nathalie Raulo/Tara Wildesen; Soazig Ruaud/Alayna Harkins; Nathalie Savary/Jennifer and Lisa Wolford; Anne Sevin/Ms. Barbara Hogan; Emilie Stenic/Caroline Geroski; and Wanig Tartivel/Dan Cuppett.

FRENCH STUDENTS VISITING — A group of 16 exchange students from Vannes, France, have been spending the past few weeks in Garrett County, hosted by fellow exchange students at Southern High School. Besides attending classes at Southern, the youth have taken a trip to Washington, D.C., have visited Frostburg State University, were guests at a welcome banquet, and have had special seminars and demonstrations by SHS faculty. The French students pictured above include, front row, left to right, Yann Lambotin, Stephanie Bouluais, Anne Sevin, Nathalie Savary, Soazig Ruaud, Stephanie Husson, Nathalie Elain, Emilie Stenic, and Madame Janine Busson, teacher. In the back row, same order, are Wanig Tartivel, Sophie Queau, Frederique Le Bourhis, Sandrine Le Ray, Stephanie Le Roch, Florence Le Hebel, Elen Chalet, and Nathalie Raulo. The Southern High students pictured below, along with their teacher, Lowell Leitzel, recently spent three weeks in Vannes as the first half of the exchange. Pictured left to right are Dan Cuppett, Caroline Geroski, Heather Lipscomb, Malyna Swyter, and Leitzel. Not present for the photo was Nick Pope. The French students will leave for home this Sunday, April 22.

SUPERIOR KNOWLEDGE!

Think back for a moment to your high school or college days. Remember the one individual who always seemed to make high 90's or 100 on every exam. That person rose above the rest of the crowd, and always made straight "A's"! But how did they do it?

There is a phrase which explains those high grades called "possession of superior knowledge". They were able to answer questions correctly because they had prepared by accumulating that "superior knowledge". When you sell your home, it can receive straight "A's" from buyers too, if you are prepared to provide buyers with answers to all their questions.

Before selling your home, do your homework. Locate all records which relate to your home such as utility bills, repair receipts, blueprints and photos of its construction (if available), and major appliance warranty books. Include current photos if they show off special features or attractive landscaping. Be sure to locate a copy of your deed and financing information too. The more detailed the information, the easier it is for buyers to make a decision to purchase your home.

Provide these complete details about your home to your REALTOR®. He or she will then organize the information into a logical, interesting form which can be given to prospective buyers. Because very few homeowners are so prepared to offer "superior knowledge" about their home, yours will become a "standout" among the competition. The impression made with buyers will pay great dividends resulting in a faster sale for you at the best possible price.

If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give us a call at 387-5303 or come by our office located at McHenry Plaza.

Linda Reeves-Cook, art instructor at Southern High School and visual artist, recently had paintings accepted into two juried art exhibitions: the Maryland Federation of Art's national "Works on Paper" at the Gallery on the Circle in Annapolis, and an exhibition featured in the upcoming Three Rivers Art Festival in Pittsburgh.

Ms. Reeves-Cook was selected for the MFA's "Works on Paper" exhibition by Amanda Cruz, assistant curator with the Hirshhorn Museum in Washington, D.C. The show is currently on display through April 22.

The paintings selected for the Three Rivers Arts Festival were juried by Edward Schmidt, painter and instructor at the New York Academy of Art. The "Three Rivers Art Exhibition" will be on display from June 1 to June 17.

Ms. Reeves-Cook's paintings combine landscape images with fragments of maps and geographic place names.

Ruth Chisholm CAC Employee Of The Week

Ruth Chisholm has been named as Employee of the Week for the Garrett Transportation Program of Community Action. Mrs. Chisholm has been employed with the agency since 1982. Her original position was with the Weatherization Program. In 1985 she was engaged as receptionist for Community Action.

When notified of her selection as Employee of the Week, Mrs. Chisholm commented, "I retired from the Bank of Baltimore after 28 years service. Unfortunately, I found I didn't like retirement, so I was pleased to become involved with Community Action. I have worked with the public all my life, therefore I continue to enjoy greeting our clients at the front desk and answering the many calls. On an average there are 75 inquiries a day, just for the transportation department. For the agency as an entire unit, it is not unusual to answer 200 calls to be directed to our various programs and departments for services."

Linda Green, director of Transportation, added, "We are fortunate to have Ruth as the initial director of phone calls and inquiries. She came to us with a wealth of public service experience that is a definite enhancer to our effort. It is good to know that our clients are greeted with courtesy and then ultimately transferred to us for prompt processing. Ruth is a good listener, she is able to hear in a conversation the crux of the need and pass the caller along to the proper source who is able to provide the necessary information. I certainly am glad that Ruth found her first experience with retirement unsuitable and I hope that it is a long time before she makes the second attempt."

Mrs. Chisholm is a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, where she is active and has served in the past as church treasurer. She is the mother of two sons and the grandmother of four. Her leisure time activities include needlework, knitting, and counted cross stitch. She also enjoys reading and possesses an interest in music and the arts. She resides near Gorman with her husband, Jim.

Former Marines Target Of Search

A concerted search is on for former Marines who have served with or been attached to, the Second Marine Division, the division famous for its participation in historically significant engagements such as Guadalcanal, Tarawa, Saipan, Tinian, Okinawa, the Cuban Crisis, Dominican Republic, Lebanon, Grenada, and more recently, Panama.

The Second Marine Division Association is conducting the search for participants in the above, plus those who served with the Division or were attached to the Division at any time, or are currently in the Corps.

The Association is not merely a social organization, according to a spokesman for the organization. It maintains a scholarship program for deserving dependents of both active and former Second Division Marines and is working on the formation of a museum.

The 1990 Association reunion will be held in Portland, Oregon, in early September.

Any person who is in, has ever served with, or been attached to, the Second Marine Division, is urgently requested to contact: Bill Smith, 21500 Lassen St., No. 168, Chatsworth, CA 91311; telephone: (818) 341-0504.

REALTOR® MLS EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

Stark Raven, Fab Twister Sisters Coming To GCC

by Jack DuBose

Music for people without beaches comes to Garrett Community College on Wednesday, April 25, at 8 p.m. when the traditional Appalachian surf music of Stark Raven graces the stage of GCC's auditorium. The concert, sponsored by the college cultural club (The Raiders of the Lost Arts) and the GCC Wildlife Club, is an event not to be missed. Stark Raven takes classical instruments (cello and violin) and electrifies them, then combines them with the traditional rock and roll lineup of guitars, bass, and drums, throws in electric dulcimer and amplified harmonica, and blends it all with crackerjack three-part harmony to create a sound that does more than just hang ten.

This band rides the big waves, like working with a nationally syndicated public radio show that showcases two of its members. American Public Radio's Mountain Stage is the program. Deni Bonett, killer electric violinist and vocalist, and Julie Adams, stunning singer and rhythm guitarist — The Fabulous Twister Sisters — are regulars on the show. John Kessler, Stark Raven's bassist, is the director of the Mountain Stage Band, Stark Raven's alter ego. Week after week, these folks back up some of the greatest musicians and songwriters around. Let's name drop: Lyle Lovett, John Hiatt, Nanci Griffith, Richard Thompson, Maria Muldaur, Bruce Cockburn, Tracey Nelson — get the picture? Stark Raven is the top notch guitar, harmonica and vocals of Ron Sowell, cello and authentic rock and roll dulcimer of Bob Webb, drumming extraordinary by Ammed Solomon, and Bonett, Adams, and Kessler complete the picture. Listening to Stark Raven's second album, Learning to Fly, is a great introduction to the band, but experiencing them live is within reach.

Stark Raven's influences are myriad. One hears the blues, jazz, classical, folk, rock, and funk in the band's sound. Mountain Stage has the group switching musical gears in a heartbeat. Stark Raven's live sound is earmarked by this diversity. No hard sell here. Come see this band. Admission is $6 in advance, $7 at the door. Tickets are available in Frostburg at Main Street Books, in McHenry at Plaza Deli and GCC's library, and in Oakland at Englander's Pharmacy.

STARK RAVEN TO APPEAR AT GCC — A concert sponsored by Garrett Community College's cultural club and the Wildlife Club, to be held Wednesday, April 25, will feature the music of Stark Raven and the Fabulous Twister Sisters. Tickets for the event may be purchased for $6 at Englander's Pharmacy, Oakland, Plaza Deli and GCC's library, McHenry, and Main Street Books Frostburg. GOBA Meets To Discuss Maryland Train Excursions

The Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA) met recently to discuss several items, including a proposal for an excursion train to visit towns and cities in Maryland.

The Maryland Downtown Development Association, Inc., will have a train excursion every Saturday and some Sundays from August 25 to October 14. The train excursion will visit the main streets of towns and cities in Maryland. GOBA will notify the association that they approve the proposal, if Oakland will be included on the excursion list.

For more information on the association, contact Events, Etc., 4117 Aspen Street, Chevy Chase, MD, 20815, Attn: Rita Wilhelm, marketing director.

The Chamber of Commerce has committed between $5,000 and $10,000 for Farm Fresh. The Chamber wishes to filter the money through GOBA. Jack Jones, president of GOBA, said that he would like to see GOBA commit $5,000 to Farm Fresh.

Another building will be added to the miniature village, being sold by GOBA. The new building will be a replica of the Casselman Bridge. Any business interested in selling the miniature village should contact Jack Jones.

Connie Margison, GOBA member, is obtaining more information on the possibility of selling a poster, with an historical interest base, as a fundraiser for GOBA. Margison will be working with Prospective Images on the poster.

The GOBA mascot will appear in Oakland for Memorial Day weekend. GOBA will sponsor a promotion publicizing the mascot's birthday and will coordinate coloring contest. Judy Devlin and Jan Shafer will coordinate the events.

Any business interested in volunteering or making a donation for the Fishing Rodeo, scheduled for June 9 at Broadford Lake, should call 334-1100.

Edgar Harman Announces New Fee Schedule

Edgar H. Harman, director of Environmental Health, has announced that a new fee schedule will become effective on May 1, 1990, for Environmental Health Services of the Garrett County Health Department.

State and county appropriations in the past have made up and continue to make up the vast majority of the fiscal support for these services, Harman said. However, he said it has been determined that it would be more appropriate to increase the costs to the recipients of the services rather than to increase the expenditure of general tax revenues.

The schedule is as follows: Camp Permit, $25; Mobile Home Park Permit, $25; Swimming Pool Permit, $25; Psittacine Bird Permit, $25; Rabies Vaccination, $4; Building Lot Evaluations, $45; Sewage System Final Inspection, $30; Well Permit, $30; Sewage Evaluation For Real Estate Property Transfer, $50; Water Test — Client Collects, $10; Water Test — Health Dept. Collects, $15; Food Service Permit — Permanent, $30; Food Service Permit — Temporary, $10; and Food Service Permit — Temporary if water sample required, $15.

Questions concerning the fee schedule can be directed to the Environmental Health Staff at 334-8980. Offices are maintained in the Garrett County Courthouse.

Bloodmobile Visit To Southern High Nets 84 Pints

The Red Cross Bloodmobile unit from Johnstown visited Southern High School on Friday, April 6, the fourth annual visit sponsored jointly by the Student Council and the Allied Health Class. A total of 84 units of blood were collected from the 97 students and teachers who volunteered to donate. Sixty of these were first-time donors. Over 350 units have been given by the Southern High School staff and students during the four visits. This year the canteen was under the direction of senior Food Service students. The Steering Committee which was composed of Joy McCain, Student Council president; Kathy Moon, Allied Health student; and Tina Skeweris, Food Service student, was headed by Henrietta Lease, assistant principal, and David Mayfield, Student Council advisor.

A representative of the Johnstown unit spoke to all students on April 3 over the age of 17 during an afternoon assembly. He discussed the reasons for the need for blood and described step-by-step what would occur when the students arrived to give blood. A short film was also shown. Students over age 17 who weigh over 110 pounds and are in generally good health were encouraged to register to give blood. Registration was conducted in senior and junior classrooms by steering committee members on April 4 and 5.

IT DOESN'T HURT — Southern High School student Doug Landon receives encouragement from fellow student and volunteer walker, Stacy Beckman, as he donates a pint of blood to the American Red Cross Blood Services program. Doug was one of 84 students and faculty of Southern who each contributed a unit of blood at the recent annual visit of the Bloodmobile to the school.
